"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

BOUND TO BE HEARD.

Silverites Insist Upon Naming a Democratic Temporary Chairman.

Teller's Friends Modestly Present Their Views.

Chicago, July 1.—The committee appointed by the Democratic bimetallic committee to confer with the executive committee of the national Democratic committee, will meet the gentlemen composing this organization at the Palmer House this afternoon. Chairman Harrity is expected to arrive today, and to call the executive committee together soon after his arrival. Other members of the national organization have assured the silver committeemen that they will be received soon after the excutive committee is called together.

Members of the executive committee, with whom the silver men have conferred, assured them that no steps had been taken looking to the selection of temporary officers. This has had the effect of causing the members of the bimetallic organization to feel that possibly their apprehensions were unfounded and to conclude, that probably They will, however, make their call, there will be no effort at snap judgment, and present a statement of the action of the bimetallic committee, and ask that that committee be allowed to suggest the temporary presiding officer.

If this request is not granted, they will report to their full committee, and the full committee will proceed to select a man for the place, and propose plans for his election at the outset of the convention, in the face of a contrary nomination by the national committee. This course will not, however, be adopted without full warning to the national committee, in case such warning appears to be necessary.

Also, in the event that the national committee consents to the suggestion, the silver men will proceed to name a man for the place. It is even possible that they would consent to a compromise that would allow the national committee to make its own selection of a presiding officer, in case they agree to take a silver man and to submit the name to the bimetallic committee before announcing the name.

The silver men are determined upon the point of not being thwarted in this matter, and are giving their entire attention to it. They will tell the national committee very plainly that the only way to avoid a clash in the convention, and for the national committee to avoid being repudiated, is for them to accede to the wishes of the silver men in this matter. They assert that it will have to be made apparent from the beginning that it is to be a silver convention, and that this can be demonstrated in no way so clearly as by the selection of a temporary presiding officer.

The silver men have given very little attention to the question as to who shall be selected to preside, but speculation points freely to Senator Harris of Tennessee. It is sugested that the task may be quite arduous for one of Senator Harris' advanced age, but his great experience and parliamentary ability, as well as his popularity in the party, will render him a formidable candidate if he manifests a desire for the honor. The name of Governor Hogg of Texas is also mentioned in connection with the selection.

Delegates to the convention who have arrived generally appear averse to discussing the probability that Senator Teller will cut any figure in the Democratic convention. The senator has a number of personal friends among the silver delegates who have already arrived, and among them are some who would not be averse to his nomination for president. They feel, however, that the conditions are not yet ripe for the springing of his name, and say that it would be opposed to the interests of both Senator Teller and the silver cause to bring him to the front at this time, if at all.

There are also a number of Senator Teller's silver Republican and Populist friends in the city, who are devoting themselves more to watching the course of events than to any active work. The Populists who are here say openly that Mr. Teller is the only man the Democrats can name that they will endorse. The silver Republicans are not so pronounced. They put the matter less pointedly, by saying that Teller is the only man whose nomination would insure the western states to the Democratic ticket.

It is not the purpose of Senator Teller's friends to have him placed in nomination as others will be. Their plan is not to make an aggressive campaign, but simply to be on the ground to answer questions, and to take advantage of any opportunity that may offer.

Congressman Shafroth of Colorado was asked yesterday to define the claims of the Teller men, and replied: "Senator Teller is not a candidate in the sense of seeking the nomination, as could a member of the Democratic party. The friends of the senator who cannot stand gold monometallism are simply trying to impress upon the Democrats the enormous advantage there would be in uniting upon Teller, who could solidify all the bimetallic forces. There is no question that the one man above all others whose name is a synonym for bimetallism is Teller. His speeches upon the silver question constitute a series of treatises upon political economy, which have given him the rank of the ablest statesman in the United States upon that subject. We believe that bimetallism is the paramount issue, and we believe the convention will so declare. We believe it ought to be willing to make some concessions. Senator Teller is the one man that could solidify all of the conflicting elements, and produce a victory for the bimetallic cause."

The fact that the Illinois delegation yesterday postponed its decision as to what candidate it would support in the convention has created almost as much comment as the decision which the delegation reached looking to the abrogation of the rule requiring presidential candidates to receive the votes of two-thirds of the convention. The only explanation made is that it was considered desirable to look the field over more completely than has yet been possible before taking a position. It is intimated, however, that Governor Altgeld, who is in complete control of the delegation, has plans of his own, which are not yet sufficiently matured to be sprung. Those who have talked with him say that he is especially concerned to secure a candidate on the national ticket who will add strength to the Democracy of Illinois.

Ex-Congressman Williams, who made the suggestion that the delegation should indicate its preference, said that he had introduced the subject because he believed that if the Illinois delegation would take a position at this time it could practically name the candidate, because of the influence it would have upon other doubtful delegations. "I shall renew the suggestion at our meeting to be held next Sunday," he said, "and hope it may not then be too late for the state to make its influence felt; but the sooner we act, the stronger we shall be."

Mr. Williams admitted that, while no name had been mentioned in the meeting, his purpose had been to, if possible, secure instructions for Mr. Bland. "He is the man for us to nominate, if we would not be misunderstood. The people know where Mr. Bland stands on the money question, and, while others may be as reliable for silver, they are not so well understood, for no others have been so thoroughly identified with the cause as he has been. No explanation would be necessary with Mr. Bland as the Democratic candidate." Mr. Williams said also that the Democrats of southern Illinois were practically a unit for Bland, and expressed the opinion that Bland could carry the state on a free coinage platform.

PEFFER HEARD FROM.

Populist Editor Has Always Had a Friendly Feeling Toward Teller.

Topeka, July 1.—Senator Peffer has arrived home from Washington, and yesterday took charge of his paper, The Advocate, it being his intention to conduct it personally during the campaign. In an interview, he denied that he ever said he would oppose the nomination of Senator Teller. He spoke highly of Teller, and said he had always treated Populists kindly.

UNITED STATES SENATOR PEFFER.

"What has been construed into opposition to Senator Teller," said he, "is only my unwillingness to see our party pledged to a particular candidate before the delegates appointed to perform that work have had an opportunity to be heard."

Hustling For Matthews.

Senator Turple of Indiana is among the recent distinguished arrivals. "I am here," he said, "in the interest of Governor Matthews for the presidential nomination, as are all our Indiana delegates. We think him the most available, and, when all things are considered, the most acceptable man, whose name will be presented to the convention. We have nothing to say against other candidates, but we claim for our man that he has always been a Democrat, and that he is absolutely safe on the financial question. We believe he will command greater strength at the polls than will any other aspirant."

The senator expressed the opinion that the convention would declare unequivocally for the free coinage of silver, and would submit to no compromise proposition. On the tariff, he said: "Have you read our Indiana platform? We declare in it that with the free mintage of silver our tariff will produce all the revenue necessary to support the government. We stand by this declaration."

Harrity Losing Hope.

Pittsburg, July 1.—National Chairman Harrity, en route to Chicago for the Democratic convention, last night, said the outlook for a gold standard plank is not as favorable as heretofore, and that the silver men would probably dominate the convention, and put their men in nomination for president. He added that such a result would mean a hard fight in November. Whatever the outcome, the Pennsylvania delegation would not bolt; but abide by the decision of the convention.

He would not say whether Robert E. Pattison's name would be placed before the convention as a candidate for the presidency, but said the ex-governor was certainly the unanimous choice of Pennsylvania.

Christ Church Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Episcopal parish was held Tuesday at "Seven Oaks," the beautiful summer home of Mr. William Amory, which is an ideal place for a picnic, furnishing plenty of boating and bathing. It was a perfect day and the barges which left the church at nine, ten and eleven o'clock were loaded with happy children and their mothers. The tide was not right for sailing until noon and the morning was spent under the trees playing games and getting lunch ready, which was served at twelve o'clock to a hungry crowd. After dinner, sailing was enjoyed by some while those of the boys who stayed on shore had running races and other athletic sports. The ball game was won by Capt. Malcolm's nine. At about three o'clock, Caterer Wales came over with a good supply of ice cream which disappeared rapidly. The first barge started for home at four and by half past six every one had left the grove having had a most enjoyable time.

CHURCH WEDDING.

The Adams-Swan nuptials, that closed the June weddings in fashionable society in our city Tuesday evening, was a charming one. In the old church the pulpit was banked way up with green boughs and elderberry blossoms that made a rather soft effect, while above them high up, stood the many clusters of day lilies, their purity and fragrance making a most beautiful effect. Through the white spaces of the stately lilies the brilliant red of the pulpit shone.

At 7.30 the pastor Rev. E. C. Butler with the groom Mr. W. U. Swan of Dorchester entered from the chapel, while preceded by the ushers W. B. Holden, Geo. B. Dewson, Harry L. and Fred B. Rice, Mr. Swan a brother of the groom and John Talbot. The petite bride simply attired, in cream white satin, with some rare lace, a gift, and pearls for ornaments, slowly advanced with Mr. Joseph Fenno, who gave her away. Mr. Fenno's calm, dignified, bearing was impressive and commented upon by all. Mr. Butler's service was, as always, impressive, and after the observance of giving and receiving the ring and the closing benediction, the newly made couple preceded the ushers between the conventional bridal ribbons and flowers attached to the pew doors.

The friends and families of the couple filled the main aisles of the church and extended into the side aisles. Lovely toilets in muslins, often with colored ribbons, pure white gowns, young married ladies in bridal satins, matrons more soberly dressed, made a brilliant scene.

At the close of the ceremony an innovation was made that crowned this wedding delightfully. The reception was held in the chapel, so called. The large auditorium of the parish home was converted into a drawing room by loving hands. Rugs were laid around; in the middle of the room was a table with delicate vines twined around the supports and the whole piled with ferns, and tinted leaves of light green and white, while the pure day lilies towered in the centre. Tables with lamps, boquets and smaller lots of flowers were placed at intervals. The windows were outlined in green at the bottom; green was placed over pictures and tall slender vases of roses relieved this green. Big palms were set along the platform, while within the ladies' parlor, where refreshments were served by the colored waiters assisted by the gentlemen over the daintily set table and again flowers in the back ground upon the mantel.

The bridal couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Lawton, aunt to the bride, and her cousin Mr. Joseph Fenno, and Mr. and Mrs Swan, parents of the groom. Congratulations were hearty and were received in dignity by the quiet bride, and in cheeriness by the happy groom, and to them are extended the sincere good wishes of their many friends.

The party was made more lively by the very cordial congratulations heaped upon a newly made father and grandmother of the parish, and the newly made uncle showered his wit freely.

There were many couples who will, it is hoped, take their turn in these happy occasions. Mr. Perry Lawton, cousin of the bride, and his lovely young fiance from Newport were there, this being the first occasion of Miss Kenzon's meeting many of the friends assembled. A bunch of lilies of the valley in the waist of an elegantly dressed young lady was most fitly chosen to adorn the wearer. Altogether this wedding made another mark in the calendar of happy events in our social life and in our beloved old church home.

Outside, many people stood in the pleasant June evening to see the people come and go. The galleries were partially filled with people who enjoyed the scene, and a lovelier evening could not be imagined for a wedding.

The couple will take a short trip and make their home in Dorchester, at 1147 Adams street.

The Waterhouse Memorial.

One of the most striking monuments in Mt. Wollaston cemetery is that recently erected by Mr. Israel Waterhouse, on his lot near the Valley street entrance. The monument is sarcophagus in shape and is of Concord granite all fine hammered work. The bottom base is 5x8, and the second base which is richly moulded is 6-8x3-8. On this sets the die which is 5 6x2-6x1-6. There are four sunken moulded panels on the die and on the front panel is the name "Waterhouse" in raised rustic letters. The plinth is elaborately carved on the four sides and the cap which surmounts the whole is moulded. Besides the monument there is on the lot a handsome marker of the same granite, upon which are the inscriptions.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Hartford, July 1.—Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famous author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is dying at her home in this city of congestion of the brain and paralysis. The end is expected within 24 hours.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

Mrs. Stowe was stricken with paralysis Friday, but did not take to her bed until Monday. Yesterday afternoon she became unconscious.

Mrs. Stowe has not been herself mentally for a long time. In her home she has constantly been under the care of a nurse. For months she has not been able to converse at length on any topic. She would sometimes speak of her great book, and sometimes of her brother, Henry Ward Beecher.

Everywhere words of sympathy are expressed for the aged authoress, and telegrams have been pouring in all night. Her relatives have been summoned to her bedside, awaiting the end, which is so near, to watch her life pass peacefully out.

Worked Liquor Dealers.

Hartford, July 1.—The firm of Long Bros., this city, was notified yesterday that a large consignment of liquor at the freight depot awaited removal by them. The liquor had not been ordered by the firm, and an investigation brought to light the fact that a Boston wholesale liquor house had been victimized by a swindler, who represented himself to be a member of the firm of Long Bros., and that in carrying out his deception he made a large consignment of goods to be shipped here. The amount of money secured from the Boston concern it not known.

For Benefit of Taxpayers.

Boston, July 1.—In accordance with a recommendation made by the late Governor Greenhalge, in his last inaugural address, and in accordance with a provision passed by the last legislature, Lieutenant Governor Wolcott yesterday appointed John Lowell, Alva Barrus, A. A. Carleton, T. J. Coolidge and F. W. Taussig to be a commission to investigate and reform, if possible, the taxation laws of the commonwealth.

Who Is to Blame?

Boston, July 1.—The accident at the boat landing in Marine park, which resulted in the drowning of four children, and injuries to several others, is to be officially investigated. The mayor has already forwarded to the park commissioners a request for full information relative to the construction and control of the float, landing and approaches thereto.

Not Yet Free.

Boston, July 1.—The four Syrians who were arrested at Oxford, near Worcester, on the charge of counterfeiting, were yesterday declared not guilty by the United States district court jury. The defendants were not released, however, as there is another indictment pending against them on the charge of having in their possession dies for counterfeiting.

New England Briefs.

July payments of the city of Boston amounted to $1,704,140.

Frank King, aged 20 months, was drowned in Shanty pond, Lawrence, Mass.

Dr. George C. S. Choate, formerly superintendent of the Massachusetts state asylum, died in New York.

Large brush fires are reported from many places north of Nashua, N. H., and up to the Wilton line. Hundreds of acres have been burned over.

General Miles was given a public reception in Bangor (Me.) city hall. Speeches were made by Representative Boutelle, Mayor Beal and General Miles.

Mrs. Abigail Crafts died at Melrose, Mass., aged 92 years. The deceased belonged to the old New Hampshire Webster stock, and was a cousin of Daniel Webster.

The Connecticut state prison directors appointed Rev. Lincoln J. Hall of Canon City, Colo., as chaplain of the state prison at Wethersfield. Mr. Hall is a Methodist.

Cyclers In a Heap.

Galesburg, Ills., July 1.—The national circuit bicycle meet yesterday was witnessed by 5000 people. The real contest was between Tom Cooper and W. C. Sanger, and the struggle between them was of a desperate nature. In the half mile professional Cooper led, and set the pace, but Sanger overtook him, and for the last 10 rods the two went on a dead heat, and the judges so decided it. In the one mile professional, Cooper again gained a slight lead, and kept the advantage. Within five rods of the wire, Sanger was thrown violently to the ground, the handles of his bicycle coming off, and the next instant all those behind him went down. Seven men were in a heap. It will be several days before the men injured can race again.

Loss May Reach a Million.

New York, July 1.—Fire broke out about 12:30 o'clock this morning in George W. Piper's Long Island kindling wood factory, Brooklyn. The flames quickly extended to the extensive lumber yards of E. C. Funeral Services.

The funeral of Richard Williams, was held from his late residence, Cross street, Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives, neighbors, friends and fellow workmen. The floral display was very beautiful. Among the designs was a cross from John Vogel, a pillow with "At Rest," a standing wreath with "Brother," a standing anchor, with "Father," a pillow with "Husband," a standing broken wreath and sickle, from Badger Bros., a standing crescent, from employes of Badger Bros., a mound, from Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., No. 313, and a number of boquets and cut flowers from neighbors and friends. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

—In order to prevent bicycle accidents from slippery pavements, orders have been given to the drivers of street sprinklers in New York to leave a space of three feet unsprinkled on each side near the curb on all streets having asphalt pavements.

☞ Habitually eating soft foods, even soft bread, to the exclusion of everything that is hard or crusty, is not only weakening to the digestive organs, but it leads to rapid decay of the teeth. When these are not used in the mastication of harder foods the teeth become covered with tartar and sometimes loosen in their sockets, or the gum will bleed. The use of hard bread and other substances requiring thorough mastication will do more to preserve the teeth than all other things put together.

Will Be More Fearful Than Famous Gibraltar.

Plans For Construction Already Prepared and Awaiting Endorsement.

New York, July 1.—The Advertiser this morning says: Within a few weeks will be commenced one of the most gigantic operations in the history of the war department. Fortifications more powerful than those existing anywhere in the world will be built at Fort Wadsworth and Sandy Hook, the cost of the work being about $10,000,000. But this is only a beginning, to place New York in a position to defend herself against foreign foes. Construction will be continued from time to time, until the fortifications on elaborate plans have been completed, and when that is done the total cost, it is said, will have been about $50,000,000. The plans have been completed, and Colonel Gillespie went down the harbor yesterday afternoon in a steam launch to make final observations. Upon his return, he attached his signature to the plans and specifications, and today they will be sent by Special messenger to Secretary Lamont.

The principal fort will be built at Sandy Hook. It will be more fearful than England's Gibraltar. It will not have 1000 cannon, but what there are will bark for results, and something dreadful will happen to the fleet of a foreign foe every time they spit fire from their mouths.

There will be dynamite guns and mortars, and a deadly array of quick-firing guns. The siege guns will be 30 in number, and pits with solid masonry 15 feet thick for a protection. The masonry will be protected by heavy banks of sand, in which the explosive balls and solid shot from warships will bury themselves, and explode harmlessly.

During recent years the armament at Fort Wadsworth has been increased, but the work has been done in a desultory manner. The new forts there will extend a mile south from the present barracks, extending almost from Fort Wadsworth to South Beach. In this tract of land will be built a continuous line of forts, mounting 25 guns of huge dimensions in all. The excavations have already been made. The forts will be similar to those at Sandy Hook. The fortress will be kept equipped with new guns. As soon as any of those to be placed there become antiquated they will be replaced by more modern ones. Here also it is intended to build a torpedo station and observatory.

The work at Fort Lafayette will not be so important. Only 15 guns will be mounted there, but they alone would go a long way toward protecting New York from harm.

The Confederate Reunion.

Richmond, July 1.—The sixth annual convention of the Confederate veterans met yesterday in the vast and gaily decorated auditorium erected for the purpose at the exposition grounds in this city. Intermingled with the Confederate colors and battleflags are the northern flags, and just above the presiding officer's seat are two large spangled banners. Around the galleries are the coats-of-arms of all the late Confederate states. The auditorium, which can seat over 10,000 people, was comfortably filled, and presented a handsome appearance, when the arrival of General Gordon, commander-in-chief of the Confederate veterans, was greeted by cheers and the band played "Dixie." He was presented with a gavel made from a tree cut in the battlefield of Chickamauga. He then opened the convention by introducing Chaplain Jones of the Confederate veterans, who made a prayer. Generous ovations were tendered Generals Gordon and Hampton during the day's proceedings.

Heads Whacked.

Cleveland, July 1.—The biggest row which has yet occurred at the Brown hoisting works took place yesterday, when the men quit work. The non-unionists marched out as usual, under police protection. A mob of at least 5000 people were surging around the policemen, who were guarding the workmen, growing more noisy and violent every moment. Finally the police drew their clubs and charged, scattering the strikers right and left, and knocking them down by the dozen. Fully 50 persons were hurt by the police. All the ambulances and all the available police force in the city were called to the scene. The cause of the first charge was a brick thrown by a striker, which hit Policeman Siddell on the head.

Redskins Inviting Trouble.

Helena, Mon., July 1.—The Cheyenne Indians have donned their war paint, and are holding powwows, preparatory to a general uprising. Several troops of the Tenth cavalry have been ordered from Fort Custer to the Cheyenne agency at Lame Deer, Custer county. The Cheyennes have been unusually indolent and ill-tempered this spring, and the depredations upon the cattle and stock of the white settlers have been more extensive than they have been for a number of years, and evidently committed in a spirit of pure maliciousness.

Too Many Newspapers.

City of Mexico, July 1.—It is said that the government has determined, from July 1, to withdraw its aid from a number of small papers hitherto dependent upon it, and there is a flutter in many newspaper offices. There probably will be a journalistic overturn here, and be less papers, but larger and of better quality. There are now 22 daily papers in this city.

Unknown Ship Wrecked.

Washington, July 1.—The United States consul at Port Stanley, Friendly islands, in a report to the state department, says that on the night of June 14, at 8 o'clock, a ship under full sail struck the Billy rocks, within 300 yards of the lighthouse, and went to pieces.

Chicago's Growth.

Chicago, July 1.—According to the school census, the result of which was announced yesterday, the population of Chicago is 1,619,226, a gain of 51,499 over the school census of 1894.

Must Pay the Penalty.

Washington, July 1.—The president has always shown a disposition to deal severely with persons who defraud pensioners, and otherwise violate the pension laws, and this tendency is well exhibited in his action upon three applications for pardons in such cases. These were the cases of Andrew J. Rooks of Georgia, Pal A. Marcellino of New Mexico and Stephen O. W. Brandon of Tennessee, all convicted of offenses against the pension laws. The president denied the application in each case, and his endorsement plainly indicates the repugnance he feels for this class of offenses.

A Deficit of $25,500,000.

Washington, July 1.—The indications now are that the excess of government expenditures for the fiscal year ending yesterday will be about $25,500,000, as compared with a deficit of about $43,000,000 for the fiscal year 1895. The receipts for the present month will exceed the expenditures by about $1,400,000.

Rhodes' Popularity.

Buluwayo, July 1.—The Chambers of Mines and of Commerce are organizing a mass meeting here, to petition the British South Africa company to reinstate Cecil Rhodes, whose resignation was accepted last week.

A GENERAL CLOSING.

New England Textile Mills Have Too Much Stock on Hand.

Suspension Scheduled For July and August.

Means That Millions of Spindles Will Be Idle During That Period.

Boston, July 1.—From present appearances, a majority of the cotton and woolen mills in New England will be closed during July and August, and many others will be running on short time, owing to the general overproduction, and other unsatisfactory conditions. Many mills have already closed, and several will shut down this week, without waiting for the decision of the Arkwright club, an organization in which practically all New England cotton mills are represented, which will meet in this city this week.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the club to circulate a petition among the mill owners and agents, in favor of a shutdown, expect to be able to show signatures representing about 4,000,000 spindles. Among the mills which have decided to close are the York of Saco, Me.; the Everett and the Pacific of Lawrence, three mills at Suncook, N. H.; the Hamilton of Lowell; two mills of the Naumkeag of Salem, Pemberton, Boston Manufacturing company and Waltham bleacheries. The Goddard Bros. of Providence, and other Rhode Island corporations have already begun, or will this week, begin the work of curtailing production. Fall River mills, with 2,000,000 spindles, will also close.

Thus far, T. J. Coolidge, treasurer of the Amoskeag corporation of Manchester, N. H., has declined to sign the Arkwright club agreement. The high water in the Merrimac river last spring did considerable damage to the plant, and since then most of the mills have been obliged to run on short time. Mr. Coolidge believes the corporation can run all summer, as there is not any great accumulation of goods.

Fall River, Mass., July 1.—The Wampanoag mills have posted notices announcing a shutdown next Friday night, until July 20. The Flint mills will close July 11, for two weeks. Messrs. Rounsville and Baker, the committee appointed by the Arkwright club, secured a few more signatures yesterday to the petition looking to a general shutdown. They said that it would be impossible to make a definite statement as to the number of spindles here that would be idle, but thought it would reach 2,000,000.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 1.—Hinsdale Bros., woolen manufacturers, whose plant is located in Hinsdale, have assigned. Dullness in the woolen market is given as the cause. The failure will be seriously felt at Hinsdale, as the mill will be shut down, and it is the only industry of the town. About 200 hands are employed. The firm expects to be able to pay their creditors in full.

WIELDED A RAZOR.

Fall River, Mass., July 1.—John Connolly, a mule spinner, aged 38, cut the throat of James, his 23-month-old son, and then cut his own throat, at his tenement on Orange street last night. A razor was used in both instances, and the neck was severed to the spinal column. Death was instantaneous in both cases. Connolly killed the child in the pantry, after undressing it, apparently, and, carrying the body into the kitchen, cut his own throat, and fell beside the child, the life blood of both mingling in a stream, which ran across the floor. Connolly's fall on the floor was heard by other tenants, but as quarrels were frequent in the tenement, no attention was paid to it. The dead man's wife found the bodies, and ran shrieking from the block. Connolly had been out of work for some time, and up till Sunday had been drinking hard. Then he took the pledge, and became very moody. He threatened to kill himself and child, but his wife paid no attention to the threat. The couple had two children, but the elder, a girl, was with Mrs. Connolly's parents. He had sent his wife out to see if they would take the boy, and during her absence did the bloody deeds.

Shot by a Robber.

Providence, July 1.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of 262 River avenue, was yesterday shot and seriously wounded by an unknown burglar. Mrs. Taylor states that she was asleep in her chamber shortly after noon when she was awakened by the sound of a man rummaging in her bureau. Mrs. Taylor screamed for help, and the man shot her in the face, just below the right nostril. The burglar fled immediately after the shooting. After a period of unconsciousness, Mrs. Taylor rallied, and it is thought she will recover.

Want Lansing to Go.

Boston, July 1.—A meeting of the Park Street church corporation was held last night, and those favorable to the retention of the pastor, Rev. I. J. Lansing, D. D., were again defeated. It was decided, by a vote of 13 to 2, to appoint a committee of three to act as part of a joint committee, which will request Dr. Lansing to appear before a council, to show cause why he should not give way to a successor. The meeting was very spirited at times, but Dr. Lansing's friends were unable to do much to aid his cause.

A Pitiful Case.

Rockville, Conn., July 1.—Mrs. Fred Webber, a widow, with four children, was found on the floor in her home yesterday, bleeding from wounds on her wrists, which had been made by a razor. A physician was summoned, and the woman's life was saved. She was despondent because of lack of work, and attempted suicide.

Having a Good Time.

Concord, N. H., July 1.—Seven hundred legislators and ex-legislators of New Hampshire enjoyed a banquet in the Opera House yesterday. A reception was held at the state house last evening. A ball at White's Opera House ended the festivities of the first day of New Hampshire's first legislative reunion.

LEIGHTON TESTIFIES

That He Performed Marriage Ceremony For "Jason Gould" Many Years Ago.

Tunkhannock, Pa., July 1.—Supreme Court of New York Commissioners Kelly and Smith heard the testimony of Rev. Nathan Leighton and his daughter here yesterday, in the Mrs. Angell case, in which she sued for her dower right in the Gould millions. The plaintiff claims Rev. Mr. Leighton was the minister who performed the marriage ceremony which made her and Jay Gould man and wife, when Jay Gould was a young surveyor. Mr. Leighton is now 85 years of age, and his daughter is in feeble health and blind, and this is the cause of the commissioners coming here to hear the case.

MRS. JOHN ANGELL.

Both sides refused to be interviewed, and the utmost precaution was taken to keep the proceedings quiet. It is known, however, that Rev. Mr. Leighton made an affidavit before a local justice here, in which he testified to the performance of the ceremony, in which the groom is noted as "Jason Gould." He also gave a description of the parties.

Big Strike In Prospect.

New York, July 1.—The Brotherhood of Tailors, and the finishers, basters, cutters and trimmers of the several local unions in affiliation with the United Garment Workers of America, are planning a strike. The claim is that the contractors in the clothing trade have made a 45 per cent reduction in the wage scale, besides compelling men and women to work longer hours. A form of agreement, and the general scope of the campaign will be submitted to a joint meeting of the brotherhood, to be held next Saturday. From this it is inferred that 15,000 men may receive orders to quit work the first of next week.

Against the Mayor.

Baltimore, July 1.—In the superior court yesterday, Judge Ritchie handed down an opinion adverse to Mayor Hooper in the case of Noble H. Creager, the council's appointee as collector of city taxes. The opinion holds that the action of the council in repealing the ordinance giving the mayor the appointive power was legal, and practically leaves the mayor with no powers, other than those of carrying out the dicates of the council. The Creager case is looked upon as a test case, and applies to all city offices formerly filled by the mayor.

BACKACHE.

A Very Significant Indication of Organic Derangement.

The back, "the mainspring of woman's organism," quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in loins, and weight in lower part of body, blues and "all gone" feeling, that nature requires assistance, and at once. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has been the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily removes the cause and effectually restores the organs to a healthy and normal condition. Mrs. Pinkham cheerfully answers all letters from ailing women who require advice, without charge. Thousands of cases like this are recorded.

"I have taken one-half dozen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has relieved me from all pain. I cannot tell you the agony I endured for years; pains in my back (Oh, the backache was dreadful!) and bearing-down pains in the abdomen extending down into my limbs; headache and nausea, and very painful menstruations. I had grown very thin, a mere shadow of my former self. Now I am without a single pain and am gaining in flesh rapidly."—MATTIE GLENN, 1561 Dudley St., Cincinnati.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health. Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Sufferers from kidney troubles find immediate relief when they take P. P. P. as it cures all irregularities and restores to nature her proper functions.

IN OPEN CONVENTION.

Gold Men Showing No Disposition to Yield.

Conference of Silver Men and Executive Committee Not Very Satisfactory.

Chicago, July 2.—The silver delegates are far from satisfied with the result of the conference of their committee with Chairman Harrity and the members of the executive committee of the national Democratic committee yesterday. They had not counted much upon securing positive acquiescence in their demand to be allowed to practically secure the temporary chairman of the convention, but they had hoped to secure a more definite idea of the program of the national committee than they succeeded in obtaining. The result of the conference was almost nil, and the silver men left the committee room feeling that their labors had been practically in vain. They were also displeased with the postponement of the matter until so late a date as next Monday. In the absence of any definite asurance from Mr. Harrity, they are inclined to the opinion that there is a disposition, if not a determination, on the part of the national committee to select an anti-silver man for chairman, and to postpone the announcement of the selection until the very eve of the convention. This, they regard as trifling with them to a degree. They are, therefore, disposed to proceed with their plans pretty much as if Mr. Harrity had assured them that the convention would name a gold chairman, so as to be prepared for the emergency if this should prove to be the plan of the committee. This plan would be as heretofore outlined, to have a silver man agreed upon in advance by the silver forces, and to elect him in open convention over the choice of the committee.

Chairman Harrity insists that they acted in perfect good faith with the silver committee, and that, being only one member of the national committee, he could not give any further assurance than he did give.

The silver people also feel that the assurance, in regard to contests, was very indefinite, and they find that it will be necessary for them to continue their precautions in this respect. They are quite determined that the silver majority shall be deprived of no advantage that justly pertains to the majority.

The distribution of tickets, which has been arranged for, is not altogether to their satisfaction, but they do not see their way clear, as yet, to alter the situation in this respect.

It appears that several states, which will be represented in the convention by silver delegates, have advocates of the gold standard on the national committee. Each national committeeman will receive 59 tickets. This arrangement will, it is claimed, give the gold men an undue advantage in the convention, from those states. The distributing is, however, in accordance with precedents, and there will probably be no effort to disturb it.

Upon the whole, the conference confirms the silver people, in the belief that their early reuniting and provision for co-operation is wise, and that it is necessary to continue their precautions in the interests of the majority.

There has been considerable discussion of the availability of Governor Altgeld as temporary chairman. Governor Altgeld was asked last night whether he would accept the temporary chairmanship of the Democratic convention, in case he should be chosen by the silver forces, and replied that he would not.

"I would not have it under any circumstances," he said. "A presiding officer, if he is an honest man, can be nothing but a figurehead. I want to be where I can do something, and would not surrender my place on the floor for the honor, however great."

Senator Hill and William C. Whitney are expected here tomorrow afternoon, and their coming is looked forward to as the opening of the conflict of the eastern gold advocates against the silver men. Mr. Whitney evidently does not believe that all is over, so far as his movement is concerned, for in coming here he ignores the advice of Washington Hesing, Chicago's postmaster, and the almost solitary chief representative of the gold standard doctrine of President Cleveland now on the ground. Mr. Hesing wrote to Mr. Whitney Saturday, telling him that a fight for gold would be so much wasted energy, and that, in his opinion, the surest way out of the trouble was to let the silver men have absolute control, and then after they had finished their work, the gold standard people could take some action.

Speaking of the matter, Mr. Hesing said: "Mr. Altgeld will control this convention, just as absolutely as he controlled the Peoria convention. Senator Hill was perfectly satisfactory as a candidate for temporary chairman to the silver people. Altgeld said 'No,' and that settled it. Within two days he has said that the two-thirds rule on presidential nominations would be abolished, and it looks as if he would carry his point. I believe that we sound money people can better serve the people's interests by letting the silver people have all the rope they want, without interference. Then let us meet and express our convictions, and the people at the polls will take care of the rest."

The committee on resolutions of the approaching convention is not alone to have to wrestle with the great financial problems, now proving so vexatious, but is to be presented with arguments, pro and con, on the question of suffrage for women, and the question is to be presented in no meagre manner, if the women have their way. The half-hour given the two sides of the argument by the Republican committee in St. Louis is but a fraction of what they will ask here. The suffragists, headed by Lillie Devereaux Blake and Mrs. Clara Foltz, will ask for an extended hearing, at which several speakers of well known suffrage proclivities may be heard. They are still smarting under the defeat of their movement at St. Louis, and have been busy preparing statistics and data, to refute the statement made there by Mrs. W. W. Cranwell of Albany, who spoke for the women anti-suffragists. They hope to be able to convince the silver leaders, who are expected to control the convention, that an endorsement of their movement might gather votes to the silver cause, by the influence the suffragists would bring to bear on the male voter. But the suffragists are not to have the field alone, any more than they did at St. Louis. Mrs. John V. L. Pryor of Albany has telegraphed to the auditorium, asking that rooms be reserved for Mrs. Cranwell of Albany also, and it is safe to presume that Mrs. Cranwell will face the suffragists again, and battle against the conferment of the voting power. Indeed, it is known that Senator Hill, who will be New York's member of the committee on resolutions, has promised that the anti-suffragists shall have a hearing. Mrs. Clara Foltz of New York, it is believed, will argue for the suffragists, and when these two women get warring, it is probable that there will be a scene well worth witnessing.

The Bland men have planned a big street demonstration for Monday evening, to stir up enthusiasm for their candidate. It is expected that 3000 men will be in line, bearing torches. The marching club of St. Louis, 2500 strong, will be here to take part, and other Missouri organizations which will be in line are the Kansas City and Topeka Flambeau clubs. These organizations will arrive in the city Sunday or Monday. It was stated at the headquarters yesterday that by Monday the enthusiasm for Bland would be shown by the presence in the city of at least 7000 persons from his state.

Senator Blackburn of Kentucky is among the recent arrivals. He was in conference during the greater part of yesterday with silver delegates from all parts of the country. The senator declines to discuss the situation, beyond expressing his satisfaction at the prospects of an unquestionable silver majority in the convention. Colonel Phil Thompson, who accompanies Senator Blackburn, says the senator will unquestionably be placed in nomination, but that it is not yet determined by whom the nominating speech will be made.

FOR SECOND PLACE.

WILLIAM A. M'CORKLE.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 2.—Before Governor MacCorkle started for Chicago from Charleston, last night, it was announced that he would be boomed for the vice presidency. It is said he has been promised support by Maryland, Virginia, and other Democratic delegations.

Popular In Colorado.

Denver, July 2.—Senator Teller, on arriving in this city last evening, was met by a great outpouring of people from all parts of the state. The demonstration was non-partisan, and it is doubtful if the scenes of enthusiasm have been paralleled in western history. The explosion of a bomb at the Union depot, at 8 p. m., announced the arrival of the senator's special train in Denver. A carriage was in waiting, and after much efforts the senator reached it. Five hundred young men detached the horses, tied a long rope to the pole, and dragged the vehicle. Along the line of the procession, the senator was accorded a continuous ovation. Senator Teller later reviewed the parade. His remarks to the crowd were brief, and mainly local. "I believe now that all the friends of silver have to do is to get together," he said, "there are friends enough of silver to dominate and control this country, and adopt a monetary system that is an American system, and which it not adopted to suit Great Britain. This country is big enough to take care of itself and its affairs, without the interference of any other nation. When we are united, all other sections of the country will unite with us, and we will have a true, honest and American system of finance."

Clough Renominated.

St. Paul, July 2.—At the Republican convention yesterday, Governor David M. Clough was renominated on the first ballot. For lieutenant governor but one ballot was needed to nominate John L. Gibbs. Secretary of State Albert B. Berg and State Treasurer August T. Koerner were renominated by acclamation. After adopting a platform endorsing the St. Louis platform and endorsing the national candidates as well as the administration of state affairs, the convention adjourned.

BURIED IN HOLE.

An Employe of Water Department Has a Narrow Escape.

Patrick O'Neil, an employe of the Water department, had a narrow escape from a serious accident Wednesday afternoon. He was at work digging a trench for a water main near the West Quincy depot when a large boulder in the bank became loosened and fell onto Mr. O'Neal, throwing him down. In falling he was forced down between two rocks which probably saved his life as it broke the force of the boulder. He however, was partially buried with earth and he was considerable bruised. Dr. Ash was summoned and after an examination ordered his removal to his home on Main street. Fortunately no bones were broken.

The Number of Families, Males and Females Also Shown.

Part 2 of the census of Massachusetts for 1895 is of interest in showing the population of the villages of cities and towns. Some who thought West Quincy was the largest village of Quincy will learn to the contrary. It is true it had more males, but Quincy Centre has more females and more people. Chief Wadlin in explanation says: This presentation shows the number of families, the number of males and females, and the total population of each city and town, and the same facts for the several villages or sections of which each city or town is composed. The population which lies outside of the wel defined limits of the villages or sections is included under the name of the city or town itself which is, of necessity, repeated under its own name in order to present the total population for the town. In those cases where the name of the city or town is simply repeated, it means that no villages or sections were reported separately owing to lack of definite boundaries although each undefined villages or sections are actually located in some cities and towns. The Quincy figures are:

	Number of Families	Males	Females	Population
Atlantic,	461	1,035	1,056	2,091
Houghs Neck,	79	159	146	305
Quincy,	1,137	2,589	2,679	5,268
Quincy Point,	153	306	340	706
South Quincy,	988	2,508	2,212	4,720
West Quincy,	990	2,658	2,306	4,964
Wollaston,	555	1,293	1,365	2,658
The City,	4,373	10,608	10,104	20,712

With the exception of Brookline where the whole town is regarded as one village, Quincy (the centre) is the largest village in Norfolk county.

Established February 22, 1792, from part of Braintree as Quincy, and part of that part of Dorchester called "Squantum and the Farms" annexed. Another part of "Squantum and the Farms" annexed February 10, 1814. Part of Dorchester annexed February 12, 1819. Boundary line between Quincy and Dorchester established, and part of Dorchester annexed February 21, 1820. Part of Dorchester annexed May 2, 1855. Part of Braintree annexed April 24, 1856. Boundary line between Quincy and Milton established and part of each town annexed to the other town April 16, 1885. Quincy incorporated as a city May 17, 1888. Act of incorporation accepted by the town June 11, 1888.

GONE TO EUROPE.

Many People Mourn the Departure of William Kruse, a Trusted Bookkeeper.

New York, July 2.—William Kruse, for 31 years head bookkeeper and confidential man with the big dry goods importing house of C. A. Audfmordt & Co., left for Europe last Friday. When his private safe was opened, securities amounting to many thousands of dollars were missing. Experts have been going over the firm's books ever since. Kruse had been speculating in Wall street, and had lost heavily. When all his own money was gone he borrowed from business men, with whom his firm had dealings, and from his personal friends. Some of the missing securities had been entrusted to his keeping by associates in the office, who had worked with him for years. None of the firm's securities are missing.

Was It Andree's Balloon?

Winnipeg, July 2.—A mysterious balloon, with occupants, passed over Winnipeg at 6 p. m. last exening. It was at a great height, going due west, and traveling so fast that it was soon out of sight. The Hudson bay officers here were asked about a month or so ago by the English government, at the request of the King of Sweden, to notify the chief factors at their various northern posts regarding the North Pole balloon expedition of the Swedish explorer, Andree. This notification was published in this locality, and the appearance of the mysterious balloon last night caused people to wonder if it is Andree's balloon.

The Twin Shaft Disaster.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 2.—The situation at the Twin shaft remains unchanged. The work of timbering every inch as the rescuers advance must be done with the utmost caution, and is necessarily slow. The inevitable conclusion is, therefore, that it will be weeks before the bodies are recovered, if at all. The officials have abandoned the idea of tunneling, as the men would have to travel 2500 feet, to reach the point where the victims are thought to have been when the cave-in occurred, and this route is much further than the one the rescuers are now working on.

Navy Yards Will Be Busy.

Washington, July 2.—Under the various appropriation bills, which went into effect yesterday, work in nearly all the navy yards, which has been partly suspended, owing to lack of funds, will begin at once. The navy yard at Mare Island, California, will get a large share of the work, and matters there will be busy for some time. At Norfolk, the Texas will get needed repairs. The naval ordnance bureau will also have considerable work under the appropriations available for about 100 guns for secondary batteries.

Quintuple Hanging.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 2.—Rufus Buck, Louis Davis, Lucky Davis, Maomi July and Sam Sampson, comprising what is known as the Buck gang, were executed here yesterday. The Buck gang, composed of five members, were convicted of murder and criminal assault, Sept. 23, 1895, and sentenced to hang on Oct. 31. An appeal to the supreme court acted as a stay, but the appeal was in vain, the higher court refusing to interfere.

Disquieting News.

Cape Town, July 2.—Massacres of white people in Matabeleland continue. Powerful chiefs are joining the insurgents. An attack on Buluwayo is expected the next new moon, July 10. The supply of provisions there is short. The mounted infantry of the Colonial volunteers has left here for Matabeleland. Premier Spriggs predicts a rising of natives in the colony.

Took Big Chances.

Niagara Falls, July 2.—J. E. Hardy of Toronto made a daring trip across the gorge on a three-quarter-inch wire rope yesterday. The wire was strung just south of the railway suspension bridge, and was about 160 feet above the water. Hardy walked, and then ran across the wire, occasionally lying down and doing high kicking acts. Thousands of people lined the bridge and the two banks.

THE HARBOR EXCURSION.

A Delightful Trip With Several Incidents to Make Interesting.

About 125 members of the Unitarian Sunday School formed a merry party on the steamer Martha Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being the annual outing of the school. Cars were taken at the church at 1.30 and at two o'clock the boat left the wharf. After going near enough to Boston Light to give the children the sensation of being rocked in the cradle of the deep, the boat was put about and went through the Narrows, past Fort Warren and the Quarantine station, to the upper harbor. On the way, the Warren Line steamer Victorian, the largest vessel sailing from the port of Boston, passed out within a stone's throw of the excursionists. Even the older ones were interested in such a near view of this monster, and the exclamations of wonder on the part of the children were numerous.

Off City Point the Martha went slowly to enable the children to see the yacht race. Here all were treated to a genuine sensation. A large yacht sailing in the race was being watched with admiration, when her balloon-jib broke loose and slowly she heeled over and capsized, leaving her crew of five men struggling to climb up on the overturned hull. Full speed was put on the Martha and she went quickly to the rescue, but another boat was nearer and picked up the last of the men just before the steamer reached the scene.

On the homeward trip ice cream and confectionery, furnished by the ever generous Mr. Faxon, were served. The fact that the spoons had been left on the wharf and that cream had to be eaten with strips of pasteboard made much merriment. Shortly after five a landing was made, and the excursion was voted the "best yet."

The charming "Reminiscences of a Flower Painter," by Ellen Robbins, which were begun in the last number of the magazine, are concluded in the present issue. There are several interesting stories and an unusual amount of good poetry in the number.

STONE CUTTERS DESPERATE.

A dispatch from West View, Ohio, to the Boston Journal, tells of hot times yesterday in the Berea stone quarries. Over 100 shots were exchanged by deputy sheriffs and strikers. No one was killed, so far as known now.

One of the strikers had his leg broken in two places, and many have sore heads as the result of a hand-to-hand conflict. The strikers approached the quarries with the avowed intention of driving out the non-union men at work. They were met by the sheriff and forty deputies, who commanded them to stop. For an answer the strikers began firing, and the fight then became general. For a few moments the strikers were repulsed and fell back to the woods. The men in the quarries are quitting from fear and the importunities of their wives. It is believed the strikers will shortly make another dash for the quarries and if such should occur, serious trouble will follow.

Sheriff Leek telegraphed Gov. Bushnell, at Columbus, that he was unable to hold in check the striking stone quarrymen at Berea, and asked that four companies of militia be ordered to his assistance at once.

While the strikers were at West View, the women in overwhelming numbers took the quarry at Berea by storm, and drove out the workmen with clubs.

The sheriff was at West View with all but a handful of his deputies, and in consequence the women had full sway. When the news reached them that some of the strikers had been injured at West View, the women were beside themselves with rage, and were only kept in check by the large number of citizens that were hastily summoned from the village. The strikers are rapidly returning from West View, and have been calling in their pickets for the purpose of arming them.

Sheriff Leek finds that they scatter and slip across lots at such a lively rate that he cannot keep all points guarded with his men. The strikers would not allow any one inside of their line after the fight, so it was not possible to learn how many of their number had been injured. Two of the sheriff's party were hurt.

The strikers now claim that Deputy Sheriff Smith did the first shooting, and in consequence they are more bitter than ever. The stone company is determined to keep its works running, and will insist on the utmost protection. Four companies of the Fifth Regiment have been requested to aid the Sheriff.

In response to Sheriff Leek's request for militia Gov. Bushnell responded that the sheriff must use his own judgment and if unable to cope with the strikers himself to call out what militia he wanted in the county. Everything is quiet at Berea and West View at night. The sheriff has 150 deputies under arms, fifty with Winchester rifles. Company D. O. N. G., at Berea, is under arms and Company K of this city has ordered to stand in readiness to move.

Four of the Polish Strikers were wounded in the melee at West View. Vicent Maschinski is shot through the lungs and will die. He is 38 years old, and has a wife and four children. Martin Roekowski was wounded in the chin and Joseph Wawzonski and Anton Potok were slightly wounded in the legs. The strikers have sworn out warrants for the arrest of Deputy Sheriff Smith and other deputies, charging them with shooting to kill.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Against Two Boston Merchants Who Dealt Mainly In Tobacco.

Alleged Compact to Defraud by Bad Notes.

Boston, July 2.—The news of the arrest of two of the partners of the H. A. Davis company, charged with a conspiracy to defraud creditors, has caused no little surprise to the numerous houses holding paper of the defendant firm.

On June 16, a hearing before Judge McKim in the Suffolk insolvency court resulted in the firm going into insolvency. At this hearing it came out in the evidence that the H. A. Davis company had, until the September previous, been known as H. A. Davis & Co., cigar dealers, doing business at 140 Water street. Davis took Lindsey N. Oliver in partnership with him, and employed as salesman Isaac Hildebrand, who had been with the original firm of H. A. Davis & Co.

Hildebrand, having been sworn testified that a compact was made with the new company and a large outside tobacco house, the proprietor of which is now being looked for by the police, to endorse each other's notes. Hildebrand claimed that he was to go to Pennsylvania and order tobacco to be shipped immediately, and make payment for the weed in notes. These amounted to $12,000. He was to be paid a small sum in money for his expenses, but his real salary was to be 25 per cent of what was made out of the deal.

He claims that he was ready to start, and was staying at the Savoy, when, in the early part of April, he received a note telling him that "the game was up," as the influential backer had gone into insolvncy.

Nothing was offered in rebuttal to this testimony, and a decision was rendered. Since that time rumors have been current to which the attention of the police were brought. Inspectors Kelly and Robinson were detailed to work it up, and yesterday Inspector Robinson arrested Lindsey N. Oliver, and Inspector Kelly took Henry A. Davis in charge.

Opinions differ as to the methods of the firm. It is stated that the firm sold goods, getting what they could for them, and let the creditors wait for their pay. Some of the principal creditors say that they do not believe that the firm has done anything wrong. They believe that Mr. Davis and his partner are simply the victims of business depression.

"One claim against the house is nearly $5000," said Emory Bemis, of Emory Bemis & Co., leaf tobacco exporters, "but I don't believe they intended to swindle anyone. I have sold them considerable stock, and before this occasion have allowed them considerable credit. They are in insolvency, and may have mismanaged, but I refuse to think wrong was intended."

Tobacco was not the only thing the firm dealt in. They were, in fact, general merchants, and handled almost anything they found salable. The amount charged to have thus been taken is over $500,000. Oliver is a tobacco manufacturer, and is given in the latest directory as having an office at 298 State street. His residence is at Hyannis. Davis did business at 140 Water street, and lives in Malden.

Amesbury, Mass., July 2.—H. A. Davis & Co. are the partners in the Boston business of the H. C. Hathaway carriage firm, who recently failed at New Bedford. The Amesbury carriage manufacturers are creditors of the Hathaway concern to the extent of $12,000, and have appointed C. F. Worthen and R. E. Briggs, to represent them in the litigation proceedings.

Turks' Usual Bluff.

Washington, July 2.—The Turkish legation has received from the sublime porte the following telegram: "The news published lately about the so-called cruelties of the Mussulmans and the imperial troops in Crete are absolutely false. The truth is, on the contrary, that the Christians themselves burned the houses and olive trees of the Mussulmans and committed sacrilegious acts in the mosques. The Mussulmans burned, in return and from a spirit of vengeance, a few Christian houses. But the imperial troops are doing their best to protect all property, without distinction."

Not Entitled to Copyright.

Chicago, July 2.—Judge Jenkins, in the federal court, handed down an opinion, in which he denies any property rights of the heirs of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes to the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." The opinion was in the suit brought by O. W. Holmes, Jr., for an injunction to restrain Donohue, Henneberry & Co., Chicago, from publishing an edition of the work. The "Autocrat" sketches originally ran in The Atlantic Monthly, concluding with the October number of 1858. The title was not filed for copyright protection until November, 1858, one month after the completion of the sketches.

The Rush After Poachers.

Victoria, B. C., July 2.—Steamer Topeka, from the north, brings details of the first seal seizure of the season. Officers of the Rush boarded the sealing schooner Sitka, and confiscated 15 skins, for failure to produce a special sealing license.

European Records Shattered.

London, July 2.—J. S. Johnson, the American bicyclist, riding on the Catford track, went a quarter of a mile, with a flying start, in 24 1-5 seconds, and a third of a mile in 32 3-5 seconds, both being new European records.

Struck a Reef.

Suakim, July 2.—The Red Star packet boat Rahmanieh, bound from Suakim for Suez, broke her shaft, and drifted upon a reef, where she foundered. Sixty persons were drowned. The most of them were Greeks.

Little Nations In Cahoot.

Vienna, July 2.—An agreement has been concluded between Servia and Montenegro, providing for common action against Turkey and Austria, in regard to all national and religious questions.

Quincy Cyclists at Rockland.

The Quincy Triangle Wheelmen visited the Rockland Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening and were royally entertained. They left Quincy at 7.15 P. M. and reached Rockland at about 8.30. They were met by the local club and escorted to the Association rooms where there was a very inviting lunch awaiting them which consisted of sandwiches, cake, ice cream and lemonade. After partaking of refreshments there were speeches and singing by the different members of the cycle clubs and at 9.50 the Quincy club left for home. Everyone of the fellows pronounced it a bang up time and were strong in their praise of the hospitality of the Rockland Association. The club is in a flourishing condition and bids fair to be the most popular club in the city. The intervisitation of cycle clubs is a strong feature with the Quincy Triangle Wheelmen, and many pleasant times may be looked forward to in the near future.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DEATH OF MRS. STOWE.

Three Paralytic Shocks Hastened the End of the Author.

Eighty-Five Years of Life Were Well Spent.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Made Her Famous Throughout the World.

Hartford, July 2.—Mrs. Stowe died at noon yesterday, at her home here, without regaining consciousness. Up to Friday of last week her physical condition was about the same as it has been for the last two or three years, and the attack of paralysis on that day was wholly unexpected. The second followed on Sunday, and on Monday evening the third, which left her wholly helpless, and with no chance of living. She passed peacefully away, as though into a deep sleep. By her bedside at the time were her son, Rev. Charles E. Stowe of Simsbury, her two daughters, Eliza and Harriet, her sister, Mrs. Isabel Beecher Hooker, and other relatives.

Mrs. Stowe's funeral will be held at her home at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Her body will be taken to Andover, Mass. The burial will be in the cemetary connected with the Andover Theological seminary, where Mrs. Stowe's husband, Professor Calvin E. Stowe and her son Henry, are buried.

Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Beecher Stowe, daughter of Lyman Beecher, was born at Litchfield on June 15, 1811. She was but four years old when her mother died. At an early age she manifested a great eagerness for books, and read the prosy theological works of her father's library with an eagerness only excelled by that with which the pages of a stray volume of the "Arabian Nights" or "Don Quixote" were devoured. As she grew older, she was known as an absent-minded and moody young lady, odd in her manners and habits, but a fine scholar, excelling especially in composition writing. On Jan. 5, 1836, she married Rev. Calvin Stowe, D. D., professor of biblical history in Lane seminary, over which her father presided.

In the earlier part of her married life, Mrs. Stowe wrote for the magazine several tales and sketches, which were afterward collected under the title of "The May Flower." During her intervals of leisure amidst family cares, she continued to contribute to the periodicals sketches and short stories; but, apart from one or two Sunday school books, she attempted nothing of more importance until 1850, when she contributed to The National Era, an anti-slavery paper, published at Washington, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as a serial. When the story was completed, she long and vainly sought a publisher for it, until a young Boston publisher finally consented to bring it out in 1852. It met with unequalled success; 313,000 copies were sold in the United States within 3½ years, and in all, over 500,000 copies, including a German edition, prepared there. In Great Britain its sale was enormous. It was translated into 20 different languages, including Welsh, Russian, Armenian, Arabic, Chinese and Japanese; there were 14 different German and four different French versions; and it was dramatized in various forms. In her subsequent works, Mrs. Stowe delineated the quaint old domestic life of New England 50 or 100 years ago. Mrs. Stowe was also for some time one of the editors of Hearth and Home.

In 1852, her husband was appointed to fill the chair of sacred literature at Andover (Mass.) seminary, and she resided there until 1864, when, owing to failing health, he resigned and removed to Hartford, where he died, Aug. 22, 1886. Mrs. Stowe has, since her husband's death, resided in Hartford, occasionally passing her winters in Florida, where she owned an extensive orange grove.

[Mrs. Stowe's poems were few in number. This is the only one included in the anthologies.]

THE OTHER WORLD.

It lies around us like a cloud,
The world we do not see;
Yet the sweet closing of an eye
May bring us there to be.

Its gentle breezes fan our cheek
Amid our worldly cares;
Its gentle voices whisper love,
And mingle with our prayers.

Sweet hearts around us throb and beat,
Sweet helping hands are stirred,
And palpitates the veil between,
With breathings almost heard.

The silence, awful, sweet, and calm,
They have no power to break;
For mortal words are not for them
To utter or partake.

So thin, so soft, so sweet they glide,
So near to press they seem,
They lull us gently to our rest,
They melt into our dream.

And, in the hush of rest they bring,
'Tis easy now to see,
How lovely and how sweet a pass
The hour of death may be;—

To close the eye and close the ear,
Wrapped in a trance of bliss,
And, gently drawn in loving arms,
To swoon from that to this:—

Scarce knowing if we wake or sleep,
Scarce asking where we are,
To feel all evil sink away,
All sorrow and all care!

Sweet souls around us, watch us still,
Press nearer to our side;
Into our thoughts, into our prayers,
With gentle helping glide.

Let death between us be as naught,
A dried and vanished stream;
Your joy be the reality,
Our suffering life the dream.

London, July 2.—The English papers, this morning, all have a kindly comment on the death of Harriet Beecher Stowe at Hartford yesterday.

A Lively Caucus.

Saco, Me., July 2.—The Republican caucus yesterday afternoon to elect delegates to the county convention at Alfred, July 29, proved not only one of the most exciting, but one of the most disgraceful ever held in York county. A thousand men smashed settees to kindling wood, trampled and fought each other, each yelling for his own side. The police were needed to restore order. Two factions strove to get control of the caucus, which were called the Hurd and anti-Hurd factions, and only when the latter gave way was quiet restored. In balloting for chairman, Deputy Sheriff Small had a personal encounter with John B. Stowe, whom he tried to remove from the vicinity of the ballot box. It was during this contest that the anti-Hurd men left the hall, and selected a county delegation. The caucus chose delegates, and the convention will be called upon to seat one or the other delegation.

Embezzlement Charged.

Lynn, Mass., July 2.—Two Boston inspectors yesterday arrested Isaac P. T. Edmonds, treasurer of the Canton Manufacturing and Bleachery company of Boston, and Albert W. McKinney of Winthrop. The men were arrested for the Lynn police, and are charged with the embezzlement of $7350 from J. B. Moors & Co., Boston bankers. Both men are in the leather business, and last April they got 35 barrels of goat skins here, said to have been owned by Moors & Co. They were to sell these skins for the firm, but Moors & Co. charge that they have received no returns. McKinney is treasurer of the Melton Leather company.

Four Still Out.

Fall River, Mass., July 2.—All but four corporations are reported to have entered the agreement to shut down. The exact number will not be given by the committee, and will not be known until reported to the Arkwright club. C. D. Borden has made no statement concerning his intentions on the running time at the Fall River iron works, but it is belived he will shut down. Fall River has pledged 4,000,000 spindles to the curtailment movement, and it looks as if all the plain goods mills will be ready to close on Friday.

A Pathetic Service.

Boston, July 2.—The funerals of four of the victime of the drowning accident at Sharon on Monday—Masters Benjamin Gibbs, Thomas Parker, W. C. Fatkins and Harry Lecker—were held at Charlestown yesterday. One service was read at St. John's Episcopal church by Pastor Sprague. The four caskets were placed in the center aisle, and all were heavily banked with flowers. The seats which the boys occupied every Sunday in the choir were draped in white, and were left vacant.

Banana Ports Still Open.

Boston, July 2.—There was much anxiety among the fruit merchants of this city yesterday, caused by the news that the Cuban ports of Sama and Banes were to be closed against further shipment of bananas, by order of General Weyler. But last evening a cablegram was received from Habana, which stated that, owing to the pressure brought to bear on the captain general, the edict had been rescinded, and steamers will be permitted to land at these ports until further notice.

Tried to Kill His Wife.

Bristol, R. I., July 2.—Michaele Tailelo, an Italian, aged 50 years, met his wife Maria in the street yesterday afternoon, and, without a word of warning, stabbed her five times in the back with a stiletto. When she fell to the ground Tailelo started off on a run, and was chased by a crowd for nearly an hour before he was captured. No cause is assigned for the attempted murder. The woman will very likely die.

Two Suicides.

Windsor, Vt., July 2.—Rev. William H. Rugg, aged 50, a Baptist minister of Perkinsville, committed suicide by hanging. He had been in poor health some years, but preached at Amsden last Sunday. He was clerk of the Woodstock Baptist association. Myron Lawrence of Rockingham also committed suicide in Rockingham, a neighboring town, at the same hour and in the same manner.

Five-Year-Old Girl Assaulted.

Providence, July 2.—An unknown man, last night, enticed Ethel Wade, the 5-year-old daughter of a laboring man, into a lumber yard on Harris avenue, and brutally assaulted her. He first filled her mouth with tobacco, so that she could make no outcry. The child was taken to the Rhode Island hospital, where it was found that her condition is critical.

Serious Runaway Accident.

Winthrop, Mass., July 2.—Four persons were injured in a runaway accident on Main street yesterday, and one, Mrs. Callahan, of Charlestown, will probably die. The horse Mrs. Callahan was driving ran into two trees, the carriage upsetting. Richard Dowd, and one of Mrs. Callahan's children, who were in the carriage, were bruised and cut.

At His Summer Home.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 2.—President Cleveland found charming weather to greet him on arrival at Gray Gables yesterday, and the day proved one of the best so far this season. He did not go fishing, although the report was sent up to his home that bluefish were quite plenty down the bay. There are several guests at Gray Gables.

Pitcher For a Weapon.

Belfast, Me., July 2.—E. D. Mahoney struck Dr. John Pease of Bangor on the head with a water pitcher yesterday. Mahoney was held on the charge of assault with intent to kill, and put under $5000 bonds. Pease is in a very bad condition.

Moore Gets New Bondsmen.

Manchester, N. H., July 2.—Dr. J. C. Moore was released from jail yesterday, bondsmen having been secured. Dr. Moore had been confined since last Thursday, in default of the required $5000 extra bail ordered by the supreme court.

New England Briefs.

New Bedford (Mass.) mills will not be closed.

The city of Boston has appropriated $12,000 for celebrating the Fourth of July.

The cornerstone of the new Methodist Episcopal church at North Jay, Me., was laid, with appropriate exercises.

Gustave Weil was arrested in Boston on a charge of being a fugitive from New York, where it is alleged he stole $1175 worth of jewelry.

The Keene (N. H.) Guaranty Savings bank has declared a second payment to depositors of 10 per cent, making 35 per cent paid since the injunction was issued, 18 months ago.

SAVAGES have healthy children. So-called uncivilized women have no trouble in the bearing of children. They have practically no sickness and comparatively little pain at that time. It is because they live natural lives. It is certainly unnatural that there should be pain and danger attending the greatest and most wonderful function of which a human being is capable. Civilized women are the ones whose lives and training seem to unfit them for the performance of the duties of wifehood and motherhood. However, if they are kept in a perfectly strong and healthy condition during the period of gestation, there is no reason why the coming of baby should be dreaded. Perhaps the greatest usefulness of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is in preparing women for this ordeal. It acts directly on the organs distinctly feminine and makes them strong and healthy. It insures the well-being of both mother and child. Thousands of letters similar to the following have been received:

"I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as being far ahead of any other medicine for a woman raising a family. I have three children; for the first two I suffered each time for twelve hours. Before my last child was born, I took 'Favorite Prescription' using only three bottles of it, and when I was confined, I suffered very little, and was in labor only a very short time." Mrs. Nancy J. Porter, of Rodney, Monona Co., Iowa.

Every woman in America ought to have Doctor Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is a handsomely illustrated volume of a thousand and eight pages, containing several chapters devoted entirely to the reproductive physiology of women. It will be sent, paper-bound, absolutely free on receipt of 21 cents in one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If handsome French cloth binding is desired, ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all, should be sent.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from exercise and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

RHEUMATISM

THE EXPERIENCE OF A COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

BULLET FOR BALDWIN.

Millionaire Turfman Had a Very Narrow Escape From Death.

Sensational Scene In a San Francisco Courtroom.

At One Time It Looked as Though There Would Be Double Murder.

San Francisco, July 3.—Emma E. Ashley, the sister of Lillian Ashley, who is suing E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin for $75,000 damages for breach of promise, deliberately shot at the millionaire turfman in the superior court yesterday. The bullet passed through Baldwin's hair, inflicting a slight scalp wound.

Emma Ashley was arrested on a charge of attempted murder. "I did it because he ruined my sister," she said. She was calm throughout.

When the case was called, a picture, alleged to be a portrait of Lillian Ashley, was introduced in evidence. It was that of a woman, with whom a former witness, John Osborne claimed to have been intimate in Boston. Miss Ashley denied that it was a picture of hers. Henry Highton, for the defense, insisted that it was. Miss Ashley threw up her hands, exclaiming piteously: "It is not mine at all. Really it is not, I never wore a dress like that."

LUCKY BALDWIN.

Emma Ashley had been sitting calmly on a bench at the rear of the courtroom. Baldwin sat in his usual place behind his attorneys, with his head resting against the back of the jury box. H. A. Unrun, his manager, sat on his left. As the piteous wail left Lillian Ashley's lips there was a flash and a report. When the smoke cleared away, Emma Ashley was seen standing over the rail, within a few feet of Baldwin's head, with a smoking pistol clutched firmly in both hands. Baldwin clapped his hands to his head and jumped from his seat, and Judge Slack sprang from his chair. Unrun, who was nearest the woman, made a grab for the pistol, and got it after a short struggle.

Emma Ashley then ran to the further end of the room, nearest the windows, as if to escape from Unrun's vengeance. As she did so Baldwin ran outside the rail, seized her around the waist, and, despite her struggle, held her until Bailiff Martin placed her under arrest. Baldwin was white with rage and fear. "I'll kill you, you, you ——," he roared as he grappled with the woman. He apparently thought she had another weapon handy. But she had not, and the struggle was brief. Emma collapsed, and was led to prison without difficulty.

While this was going on there was another exciting scene being enacted within the rail in front of the judge's desk. As Unrun stood there, with the smoking pistol in his hand, he was confronted by James Crittendon, attorney for Lillian Ashley, who shouted: "Damn you, let that woman alone."

Unrun turned the pistol he had wrested from Emma on Crittendon. The latter promptly drew his revolver and leaped toward Unrun. Clerk James McElroy sprang between them and seized Unrun's weapon. Others disarmed the combatants.

When order was restored, Judge Slack cited the lawyers for contempt of court, and ordered a continuance of the case.

Lillian Ashley was in hysterics.

Baldwin was badly frightened when it was all over.

A Difference of Opinion.

San Francisco, July 3.—The San Francisco board of health is prepared to defy the federal government. At a meeting of the board, a letter was dictated to Dr. Wyman, in charge of the marine hospital service at Washington, declaring that the United States statutes give the federal government no authority to establish quarantine regulations over San Francisco bay, while the California statutes particularly established the position of the quarantine officer. The board has announced its intention of standing by its authority.

Off For the Frozen North.

Ithaca, N. Y., July 3.—A Cornell party of six left here yesterday for Greenland exploration, under Lieutenant Perry. Professors Tarr and Gill of the geological department are in charge, Messrs. Kindle, Watson, Bonsteel and Martin accompanying. A party from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will join them. They will leave Sidney, C. B., on July 14, for Melville bay, Greenland. The purpose of the expedition is to study the geological formations and to make natural history collections.

Ungallant Remarks.

Habana, July 3.—General Bradley T. Johnson, commenting on the news of the death of Harriet Beecher Stowe, said: "I am glad of it. Although there was some truth in what she wrote, there was much that was false. For instance, while it is true that there were isolated cases of ill treatment of slaves, it is not true that such treatment was general throughout the south."

Bad For Whites.

Buluwayo, July 3.—Spies arriving here report that Nyamanda, son of the late Lobengula, king of the Matabeles, went to the Matoppo hills, at the request of a council of chiefs, and was installed in three different tribes, with great ceremony, as king of the Matabeles. This union may prove very formidable.

"RUM CAUSES HARD TIMES."

Levering Expects to Get Over a Million Votes Next November.

JOSHUA LEVERING.

Baltimore, July 3.—Joshua Levering, the Prohibition candidate for president, left Baltimore today for the National Prohibition park, Staten Island, N. Y., where he will address a large mass meeting on the fourth, and open the campaign for 1896. In speaking of the outlook for his party this year, Mr. Levering said: "In the dissolution of party ties, which seems likely to take place this year, I believe the cause of prohibition will largely gain, and I shall not be surprised to see our ticket poll over 1,000,000 votes in November. In my opinion—and I am sure I am right—the chief cause of the hard times is the vast amount of money that is spent every day for intoxicating drinks."

To Be Inquired Into.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 3.—The men at work in the Twin shaft mine at Pittston made fair progress yesterday, according to the official report. Governor Hastings has written to Mine Inspectors Roderick of Stockton, Stein of Shenandoah and Brannon of Shamokin, suggesting that they meet at the Twin shaft mine next Monday, to investigate the cause of the recent disaster. The inspectors are asked to report in writing to the governor what, in their opinion, was the cause of the accident, whether any precaution was omitted which would have tended to prevent it, and what legislation would, in their judgment, secure miners of the state immunity from risks of this class.

Spain and Cuba.

Madrid, July 3.—In the senate yesterday, Senator Aburzuza, ex-minister of the colonies, eulogized Marshal Campos' conduct in Cuba, and severely criticised the policy of Captain General Weyler. Senor Castellanos, minister of the colonies, declared that a complete scheme of reforms had been prepared for Cuba, and would be put into execution at an opportune time. Senor Giron, a Liberal, renewed his former attitude of harsh criticism of the United States. He inveighed at great length against the attitude of the United States and against the weakness displayed by Spain in face of it.

Big Opinion of Himself.

Berlin, July 3.—In a speech at the banquet which followed the launching of the new German battleship Kaiser Friedrich III. at Wilhelmshaven, the emperor, referring to the construction of the ship, said: "I wish to express to you all, officials and officers connected with the building of the vessel, my thanks for your acceptance of the hints which I, as a practical naval officer, believe myself able to give you. I hope that the officers will strive to surround the ship with a nimbus of respect and awe, and, when necessary, terror."

Murderer Gentry Very Sick.

Philadelphia, July 3.—The argument on the motion for a new trial in the case of James B. Gentry, convicted on Saturday of the murder of Margaret W. Drysdale, was to have been made yesterday, before Judge Yerkes, but was postponed. Gentry is seriously sick. Lawyer Munce said: "I do not think he will last more than 10 or 15 days, if he continues to fail as rapidly as he has during the last week."

Not Wrecked.

Cairo, July 3.—A steamer, believed to be the Egyptian government packet Rahminich, from Suakim for Suez, was sighted on June 27 in tow, 55 miles north of Suakim. This is the vessel which was reported here to have broken her shaft, and to have been wrecked on a reef, and it was added that it was feared 60 persons were drowned.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 5. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—What we owe our country.—Ps. cxxii, 1-9. (A patriotic service.)

Jerusalem was both the civil and religious capital of the Jewish nation. It was the "city of David" and also "the city of God," because to the Jew the political and religious importance of the city were identified, for church and state were one to the chosen people of God.

The expressions of love and of praise given vent to in this psalm are called forth in connection with the religious side of the city, and yet it could not but be that even under such circumstances a true and loyal Jew would give expression to a high and lofty spirit of patriotism, such as every true citizen owes to his country.

This spirit of patriotism was called forth by the remembrance of the past history of Jerusalem, that it was the city whither the tribes had gone up to worship God, because here the thrones of the house of David were established. The memory of the past history of Jerusalem was sufficient indeed to call forth an outbrust of patriotism from a devout Jew. The same is true of our own country. Who can recall, particularly at this time of the year, when we have just celebrated the birthday of our nation, the glorious past without feeling a flood of patriotism sweep in upon his soul that will fill him with a desire for the future peace, prosperity and well being of his country.

This spirit of patriotism manifested itself in an earnest call for prayer for the peace of the nation and an uttered petition both for the peace and prosperity of Jerusalem. The war fever seems to be rampant the world over today, and has expressed itself in no uncertain tones in our own country upon more than one occasion. This fact behooves all Christian patriots to pray for and to seek national peace. War is a calamity always to be abhored and dreaded and never to be hastily or recklessly engaged in. Christianity stands for peace, and all Christian Endeavorers should stand for peace. The true lover of his country is not he who blatantly cries for war upon every occasion of difference with other nations, but he who studies and prays for and seeks the peace, prosperity and happiness of the nation. Let us stand for peace. Let us pray for peace.

This spirit of patriotism was noble and lofty because it was purely unselfish. It was for his brethren's and friend's sake, for the sake of God and the temple, the psalmist desired the good of Jerusalem. For the sake of our countrymen, for the sake of humanity at large, for the sake of Christianity we should desire the peace and prosperity of America, the foremost Christian nation of the world.

Bible Readings.—Ezra vi, 8-10; Neh. ii, 1-5; Ps. xxxiii, 12; li, 18; cxlvii, 20; Prov. xiv, 34; Jer. xxix, 7; Math. xvii, 24-27; xxii, 15-21; xxiii, 37; Mark xii, 17; Luke xiii, 34; Rom. xiii, 7; I Tim. ii, 1-3; Heb. xi, 8-16.

Church Etiquette.

A lack of reverence is often observable in the conduct of people in the house of God. Loud conversation before and after service and sometimes whispering even during the time of public worship is indulged. This is accounted for in measure by the fact that the church is often used for other purposes than those of worship, and when children have been allowed to romp and play in a place they find it difficult to realize the special sacredness of any exercise in that place. In most cases, however, the lack is more on the part of adults than with the children. If parents whisper in public worship and sit upright with open eyes in prayer time, the children will be apt to learn the lesson of irreverence quickly. We may well imitate the conduct of devout Catholics in the house of worship, coupling with their outward forms the inner spirit of reverence, remembering that we are in the house sacred to the worship of God, and that we owe to the Divine One proper attitude of body and soul. "The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him."

Worked and Prayed.

Christian Endeavor is a society of great undertakings. A characteristic Christian Endeavor sentence is this one, taken from the report of the secretary of the Birkenhead (England) District union: "I shall never forget with what misgivings we took the largest and finest hall in the town for the first annual meeting of our union, being afraid that our failure would be a ridiculous one. But we worked, and, above all, prayed, with the result that the meeting was successful above our most sanguine anticipations."—Golden Rule.

Obliging Others.

A man was once asked why he took so much pains to oblige others in trifles. His answer was, in substance: "I have neither the wealth, nor the intellect, nor the learning, nor the position to do big things for God or man, and so I take delight in doing any little thing to promote another's interest or enjoyment. In this way I may add to the sum of human happiness, and also recommend my Saviour to the attention of those who know Him not."—Christian Intelligencer.

Suffer, if You Must.

Suffer, if you must. Do not quarrel with the dear Lord's appointments for you. Only try, if you are to suffer, to do it splendidly. That's the only way to take up a pleasure or a pain!—Phillips Brooks.

Outlook For the Canadian Meeting.

The largest gathering of Christians ever held in Canada is prophesied for the interprovincial Christian Endeavor convention, which meets in Ottawa next October.

Unassailable.

It is not alone in fairy stories that beautiful maidens emerge from the slimy scales of serpents and dragons. In the fairy stories the beautiful maiden is condemned to the life of a reptile because of some carelessness, or the vindictiveness of the fairy. In real life, disease condemns women to loathsomeness because they have been careless or unfortunate, and because they do not take the proper steps to free themselves. Impure blood and sluggish circulation is the cause of the most distressing skin diseases, eczema, pimples, blotches, watery and mucous eruptions. If the blood is purified and enriched, the "skin" disease disappears. Many a woman has freed herself from embarrassing and disfiguring diseases of this kind by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It not only purifies the blood completely, thereby cleansing and brightening the skin, but it fills the blood with life-giving properties, and builds up the whole system. It rounds out the hollows, thereby rubbing out wrinkles, makes the flesh firm and solid, brightens the eyes, reddens the lips, and gives the lustre of health to the hair. In makes beauty by making health. It makes a woman attractive by making her wholesome.

Whenever there is a clogged condition of the liver and bowels, Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best things to use. They start the healthy, natural action of the digestive organs, and assist Nature in removing poisonous and effete matter. They may be absolutely depended upon to cure constipation, and so to cure biliousness, sick and bilious headaches, sour stomach, foul breath, heart-burn, palpitation of the heart. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. It takes forty of them to fill a little vial.

SCROFULA AND ERYSIPELAS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly,
W. P. HUNTER.

We All Know Him.

Dost know a man who always kicks, no matter what you do,
Who kicks with most prodigious ease the whole long season through,
Who kicks if anything goes wrong and kicks if all goes right,
Who kicks because he likes to kick, and kicks with all his might?
We know some awful kickers on this wicked mundane sphere
Who came on earth by accident and kick because they're here
To make themselves uncomfortable and other people sick;
They drive their friends to suicide, and still they always kick.
We know a man who kicks and kicks the blessed livelong day,
And if there's naught to kick about he's kicking anyway.
At times when things are going right and other men would smile
He kicks on general principles and kicketh all the while.

What Does It Profit?

Worry and fret, worry and fret—
That is the burden of living, my pet.
Never a moment to rest or forget,
Never a moment to falter, and yet
What does it profit this wearing away,
Filling our summer with dust and decay?
What does it profit to struggle and save,
Heaping up gold on the brink of the grave?
What does it profit to parry and thrust,
Conquer and trample our foe in the dust?
What does it profit to worry and fret?

Worry and fret, worry and fret—
Life is not more than half over yet.
Drudgery, death and dishonor and debt
Glare at us out of the darkness and wet,
Watching and eagerly waiting to find
One of us lagging a little behind,
Eagerly thirsting to drink up our blood,
Eager to trample the soul in the mud.
Why should we keep in the feverish chase,
Sure to be beaten at last in the race?
Let us be poorer and happier, pet.
What does it profit to worry and fret?
—Albert Bigelow Paine.

The Mistake.

"You will fall in love," they said. In affright
I fled from each chasm to peaks above.
And when I attained the heavenmost height
I found they were wrong—I had climbed to love.

The reddening scars remain and make

Lost innocence returns no more:

—Longfellow.

Assert thyself, rise up to thy full height,
Shake from thy soul these dreams effeminate,
These passions born of indolence and ease.
Resolve and thou art free. But breathe the air

Will lift thee to the level of themselves.

The progress of the century will be illustrated by a group of pictures. No paper will be printed on Saturday, the Fourth of July, the office being closed.

Quincy Temperature at Noon.

It started in early this morning to be a scorching hot day, and as the morning hours wore away the heat became very oppressive, shortly after 10 o'clock the wind suddenly changed and a refreshing breeze cooled the atmosphere so that at noon it was nice and cool, the temperature at that hour being 75 degrees.

And the Smile Went Round.

It was on the new line of electrics between Braintree and Randolph and the car was in charge of a brand new conductor and the brass buttons on his shiny new coat shown like gold dollars. He felt the full importance of his position and when the car suddenly came to a stop the passengers were made aware that the power for some reason had been shut off. There was nothing to do but to quietly wait for the power but as the moments sped rapidly by and there was no sign of the returning power, the passengers became uneasy and to move about in their seats. Even the motorman, who under the most trying circumstances, is always cool, began to get nervous and warm, and after trying hard to keep quiet he finally got off of the car, apparently to view the scenery, and began looking about. In the course of time his eyes wandered to the top of the car, when a change came over him, and quietly approaching the conductor he said "Put your trolley on and we'll go on to Randolph." The car then went peacefully along on its journey, and the smile went round.

The Berea Strike.

The striking quarrymen at Berea, Ohio, have quieted down somewhat. Wednesday night some of them tore up some water pipe at Quarry No. 6, crippling it. Thursday workmen tried to repair it, but were beset by a crowd of Polish women with clubs and stones, who compelled them to seek refuge in a shed. Two special officers went to their rescue, and only succeeded in dispersing the women by drawing their revolvers and threatening to shoot.

LAID IN THE GRAVE.

Funeral of Harriet Beecher Stowe Was of a Simple Character.

Hartford, July 3.—The closing chapter in the earthly career of Harriet Beecher Stowe was enacted at her late home yesterday afternoon, when, with all the beauty and impressiveness of the full Episcopal ritual, the funeral services were solemnized. Rev. Francis Goodwin officiated. In accordance with the oft-expressed wish of Mrs. Stowe, everything in connection with the funeral was devoid of ostentation, and instead of the customary crape at the door, the only token of the presence of death was a wreath of white flowers on an ivy background. Only relatives and close friends of the distinguished authoress were present. Previous to the services, the public was allowed to view the remains, and a large number of colored people were present.

Williams a Bolter.

Boston, July 3.—A local paper states that George Fred Williams, delegate-at-large to the national Democratic convention at Chicago, will favor the free coinage of silver. Mr. Williams is quoted as making the following statement of his position: "The time has come for a great popular uprising, and I propose to be in it. In taking this step of supporting a silver Democrat, I realize that I am doomed, politically, in Massachusetts, and that I shall never be forgiven by men who claim to be Democrats. I realize, also, that these men can punish me socially and financially, but I invite the persecution with a conscientious feeling that I am doing right by voicing the sentiments of an outraged public."

Two Thirds Will Be Idle.

Boston, July 3.—The committee appointed by the Arkwright club to secure signatures of the management of the various Fall River mills to an agreement to shut down for four weeks during July and August, reported at a secret meeting held yesterday. Nothing was made public, but it was announced that a statement is being drawn up which will be given out later. It was learned that signatures for 2,800,000 out of the 4,000,000 spindles, operated in the territory included in the agreement, have been secured.

Starting Out Anew.

Lowell, Mass., July 3.—The First Congregational society members, or those opposed to Rev. Mr. Kenngott, the pastor, whose supporters have been incorporated as the First Unitarian society, held a meeting last night, when officers to fill offices vacated by members who had gone into the other body were chosen. The meeting was harmonious, and all vacancies were treated as if the officers had died in office. The claim was made that the action of the Kenngott people was in every respect illegal.

Baby Farmer Arrested.

Norwalk, Conn., July 3.—Mrs. Anna Anderson, who has been conducting a baby farm, was arrested yesterday, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of the child of Jennie Smith. Coroner Doten of Bridgeport claims that an autopsy shows that the child has been starved and wilfully neglected. The Anderson woman has several babies under her care, and when her house was visited they were found partly naked, dirty and in a shameful state of neglect.

Suspected of Evil Doing.

Lowell, Mass., July 3.—The police arrested Mrs. Hattie F. Hall last night, on suspicion of malpractice, and for violation of the law which provides that persons practicing medicine or surgery must register. At Mrs. Hall's office a number of instruments, believed to have been used in criminal operations, were taken as evidence. Mrs. Hall has been in public notice before, for cruelty to a child, in which, it is alleged, she tied the latter to a gravestone one night.

No Money Will Be Lost.

Manchester, N. H., July 3.—The suspended Bank of New England will pay depositors in its savings department another dividend of 20 to 25 per cent within the next 30 days. This will make a total payment of 65 to 70 per cent. The check depositors in the banking department have been paid in full. The bank's officers state that all depositors will be paid in full, and that stockholders will get 100 cents on the dollar.

Pacific Mills to Close.

Lawrence, Mass., July 3.—This afternoon the entire cotton department of the Pacific mills will close for two weeks. This action on the part of the corporation will throw 2500 hands out of employment. Agent Parker states that the shutdown is caused by the extraordinary poor business in cotton goods. After the shutdown, work will be resumed on full time.

Rope Gave Way.

Boston, July 3.—Three colored men, named Joseph Duncan, John Clark and George Willis, were moving furniture at 27 Eliot street yesterday, and in lowering a bureau from a third-story window, a rope gave way. The bureau fell, and struck Edna Collins, 11 years old, causing a fracture of the skull, from which she died. The police charge manslaughter.

Charges Unfounded.

Billerica, Mass., July 3.—The First Baptist church yesterday gave the pastor, Rev. F. B. Anderson, a vote of confidence, as the outcome of charges preferred by a young woman of the parish against him. The charges were the subject of inquiry recently.

Electrics to Hingham.

The Weymouth Selectmen gave a hearing Thursday to the Quincy & Boston street railway on the location of tracks from Sea street to the bridge over Back river, to connect with the Hingham street railway. The company was first granted a location on the south side of the street by state highway commission. Then the selectmen had the location changed to the north side and the railway company had laid about two-thirds of its tracks on that location when notice was received that the location must be changed, and the company suspended operations pending he settlement of the matter. The question was taken under consideration.

GOLD MEN DICKERING.

At Least That Is a Rumor Which Gained Currency at Chicago.

Pennoyer Being Boomed as a Compromise Candidate.

Politics Getting Hotter and Hotter as Day of Convention Approaches.

Chicago, July 3.—The approach of the eastern gold standard men seems to give considerable uneasiness. A fact that seems to weigh with the silver leaders is that Senator Hill, ex-Secretary Whitney, ex-Governor Russell, William F. Harrity and Senator Smith form a political combination, that for shrewdness and knowledge of the way of managing a seemingly lost cause, cannot be excelled. It was perhaps because of lack of knowledge of the absolute plans of these politicians that some credence was given to a rumor that the easterners had selected the Boies boom and its supporters as a means of a combine to effect the downfall of the absolute silver men. Instead of losing caste at the poohs-poohs of the leaders, and the denials of the Boies people, it gained strength. It was to the effect that the easterners had sent commissioners into the Boies camp, with the offers of assistance to that candidate, if, in return, the Boies people would modify, in some way, the financial plank, so that, while declaring for bimelallism, it should not be so outspoken for silver. The Boies supporters are highly indignant over the rumor, and deny it strenuously. They say that they never expected any support from the east for their candidate, and that the rumor was started by the friends of other candidates, for the purpose of bursting the Boies boom. They further assert that their candidate is just as good a silver candidate as any other mentioned, and they know for a fact that, were he to get a full gold standard vote from the east, he would, nevertheless, be true to the silver plank in the platform. There are no easterners here at present to either deny or affirm the story.

Headquarters of the gold standard men have been opened at the Palmer House, one of the largest parlors being set apart for that purpose. A counterfeit presentment of President Grover Cleveland partially hides the large mirror, before which the dusky but attractive Queen Liliuokalani performed her morning toilet while in Chicago. The smiling face of Roswell P. Flower, in crayon, looks down from the top of the dresser, and the royal coat-of-arms on the high mahogany bed is hidden by an immense placard, announcing that on Saturday night there will be a mass meeting of "sound money advocates." The room is the same one occupied by the New Yorkers in 1888, when Cleveland was nominated. "There," said Sergeant-at-Arms Leon Wager, as he placed a picture of Senator Hill and one of Senator Murphy each side of the president, "that is the only picture of Mr. Cleveland that you will find in any of the headquarters," and the statement proved true. There is a great dearth of Cleveland's pictures here.

The gold standard men seem to be quite confident that Senator Hill will be accepted by the silver men for temporary chairman, the argument they use being that the many silver senators who will be so prominent in the convention and who are at the head of the silver movement will not want to turn down a fellow senator. But so far, it is only a surmise on the part of the gold standard men who are now on the ground.

The movement to make Senator Hill temporary chairman has received a decided impetus, and there is good reason for believing that the executive committee of the national committee would be pleased to suggest his name, if they felt that it would be accepted by the silver men. Members of the committee profess to believe that Hill will be acceptable to the silver people, because he is not regarded as an administration man, though ranked with the gold forces. Many impartial observers express the opinion that Senator Hill will be ultimately accepted by all factions, in order to make smooth sailing at the beginning of the convention. The silver leaders hold out stiffly, however, for a man of pronounced silver proclivities for presiding officer.

Stone Speaks For Bland.

Governor Stone of Missouri was asked yesterday if he had noted the report that the eastern gold standard delegates were tending toward Governor Boies. He answered that he had seen such a report in the newspapers, and had heard such talk in the lobbies, but knew nothing as to its truth. Continuing, the governor said that Mr. Bland and his friends had not expected, and do not expect, any support from that source. He said: "Mr. Bland's stand is the personification of the free coinage idea. It is utterly impossible, in the very nature of things, that there should be any alliance between him and the gold standard people. If he is nominated, he will be nominated by the votes of delegates elected as free silver coinage men. I am sure Mr. Bland's nomination will be opposed to the utmost, and his defeat sought by every means possible by the gold power. One thing more, the states reported here by the gold standard delegations will not probably cast a single electoral vote for the nominee of this convention. If Mr. Bland is nominated, he will be nominated by the delegates from the states whose electoral votes must be relied upon for success at the polls."

The governor was asked if he was aware that two or three gentlemen, prominent in labor organizations, were not partial to Mr. Bland's nomination, on the ground that he has not been the active friend of labor.

"That is a strange objection to make to Mr. Bland," was the reply. "His whole life has been identified with the industrial and producing classes of the country. He has not played to the galleries for mere effect, but his whole career has been one long battle in favor of the people—of the great masses."

The Pennoyer Boom.

L. P. Mullin and John Welch, delegates from Oregon, have opened headquarters at the Palmer House, and are booming Hon. Sylvester Pennoyer as a compromise candidate. They are handing out cards, with the picture of Pennoyer on one side and his record on the other. The record shows that he has always been successful before the people of Oregon, and while the state has always gone Republican, Pennoyer, as a Democratic candidate for governor, has always carried it. His latest success was in being elected mayor of Portland in a very hotly contested race. He is also given the credit of being a very strong state's rights man. At present, Mullin and Welch are confining themselves to working upon the western delegates as they arrive, and are well satisfied with their success. They say that in case the Democrats should nominate Pennoyer, there would not be the least question as to his being endorsed by the Populists and silver men. They say that the idea of a Pacific coast candidate is popular, and that in going west, distance should not count, if Teller is to be considered a possibility. Pennoyer has always been elected as a Democrat, but he repudiated the party as represented by Cleveland, and was inclined to cast his lot with the Populists of Oregon.

Hustling For Matthews.

Governor Matthews of Indiana is not a candidate for the vice presidency, and will not allow his name to be considered for second place on the ticket. An authoritative statement to this effect was made last night by Senator Turpie, the senior delegate-at-large of the Indiana delegation, in order to put at rest reports of a combination by which Governor Matthews would secure the vice presidency. The committee members of the delegation in the city held a meeting at their headquarters and named committees to prosecute Governor Matthews' candidacy for the presidency. The vice presidential rumors were disavowed, and it was deemed advisable to have Senator Turpie make a formal statement of the attitude of the Indiana candidate. Mr. Turpie's statement is as follows: "The candidacy of Governor Matthews has developed a very considerable and unexpected strength. He is likely to become the center of support by all conservative men who are in sympathy with the doctrine of the restoration of silver to free coinage, and with the other principles of the Democratic party as declared in former platforms, and which will be reaffirmed in this. The delegation from Indiana desires it to be stated in the most positive terms that Governor Matthews is not a candidate for the vice presidency, and he will not allow his name to be considered for that position. These declarations are made for the purpose of preventing misconstruction by unauthorized rumors and reports that Governor Matthews, under certain circumstances, would be a candidate for vice president. He is a candidate for the presidency, and for no other position."

Aside from this formal statement, the Indiana delegates express much confidence that the geographical, as well as political considerations will steadily advance the interests of their candidate. The delegation is under instructions to vote for him "first, last and all the time."

While the great majority of the delegation are for silver, three are counted for gold, but under the instructions of the state convention to vote as a unit on platform and candidates. The delegation is united for Governor Matthews, and equally united, it is said, for silver. Senator Turpie will make the speech placing the name of Governor Matthews in nomination before the convention.

Silverites In Contro'.

It being understood that the territories are to be allowed six votes each, and that the District of Columbia is to have six votes also, the total number of votes in the convention is 918. Then 460 would be a majority, and 612 a two-thirds majority. Of these figures the silver men today claim these states:

Alabama, 22; Arkansas, 16; California, 18; Colorado, 8; Florida, 5; Georgia, 26; Idaho, 6; Illinois, 48; Indiana, 30; Iowa, 26; Kansas, 20; Kentucky, 26; Louisiana, 16; Maine, 5; Minnesota, 7; Mississippi, 18; Missouri, 34; Montana, 6; Nebraska, 16; Nevada, 6; North Carolina, 22; North Dakota, 6; Ohio, 38; Oregon, 8; South Carolina, 18; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 30; Utah, 6; Virginia, 24; Washington, 8; West Virginia, 12; Wyoming, 6; Alaska, 6; Arizona, 6; District of Columbia, 6; Indian Territory, 6—a total of 596 votes.

The gold people are left, on this basis, only these states, with the accompanying vote: Connecticut, 12; Delaware, 6; Florida, 3; Maine, 7; Maryland, 16; Massachusetts, 30; Michigan, 28; Minnesota, 11; New Hampshire, 8; New Jersey, 20; New York, 72; Ohio, 8; Pennsylvania, 64; Rhode Island, 8; South Dakota, 8; Vermont, 8; Wisconsin, 24—a total of 334.

In connection with these figures, it will be noticed that the silver men lack but 16 votes of having the necessary two-thirds limit, but they claim that the eight votes counted for gold in Ohio will come to them after temporary organization, while Michigan votes are also expected. It will further be noticed that Nebraska is figured in the silver column, and this is because, while there is contest, the silver men say that they will see that the gold standard men are not seated.

Republican Bolters In Minnesota.

Minneapolis, July 3.—Silver Republicans of the state have issued a manifesto, announcing that they can no longer stand by the party, on account of its single standard platform. Bimetallism is pointed out as the fundamental principle of Republicanism, and the dire results feared from a monometallic financial basis are dilated upon. Among the signers are Congressman Towne, ex-Congressman Lind, County Attorney Nye, John Dainsmith and John B. Sanborn. All these have been very prominent in state politics.

The McLean Boom.

The friends of John R. McLean of Ohio are talking very confidently of the showing they will make for him as a presidential candidate in the convention. He will, they say, have from the beginning, not only the support of his own delegation, but also the assistance of many delegates from other quarters. They think that his availability will cause him to grow upon the convention from the beginning, and claim for him that his selection would make Ohio, Indiana and Illinois surely Democratic at the polls.

Wyoming's Position.

J. E. Osborne, the only Democrat ever elected governor of Wyoming, and chairman of the Wyoming delegation, arrived yesterday. He says that all political issues in that state are neutralized by the financial question, leaving that the only matter of controversy. He says Wyoming will cast its electoral vote for any man nominated on a free silver platform by the Chicago convention.

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

Guards Used Bayonets to Clear the Streets of Cleveland.

Student Assaulted by Mob of Angry Strikers.

One of the Latter Was Killed and a Lynching Was Proposed.

Cleveland, July 3.—Death has at last been the result of the quarrel between the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machine company and its employes. William Rettger, one of the locked out men, was shot and instantly killed last evening by A. G. Saunders. This was the climax to the most eventful day of the trouble.

When the non-union men left the works at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, there was rioting. Two hundred and fifty policemen emerged from the gates, guarding 53 workmen. An immense crowd had gathered a block away, but the police took a new route and eluded them for the moment. The strikers set up a yell, and ran, soon overtaking the marching column, hooting and yelling. A huge moving van was in the rear, filled with strikers, and with it a small wagon laden with empty beer bottles. The police suspected that the bottles were intended for missiles, and compelled the driver of the wagon to turn back.

At Wilson avenue and Euclid avenue, a railroad train blocked the way, and an effort was made to drive the van through the guard of police. The officers dragged to the ground the driver, Fred W. Hearn, and the man on the seat beside him, J. O'Neil. These men resisted, and the police used their clubs on them with such effect that their heads were swollen masses of cuts. O'Neil's ankle was broken. The strikers in the van jumped out, and the police charged the crowd, using their clubs on all the heads within reach. Frank Coopenheiker, a machinist, returning from work, and not a striker, was caught in the crowd and severely clubbed on the head. Hearn was arrested and locked up. The strikers dispersed before the onslaught of the police, and the non-union men were sent home.

Meanwhile a tragedy had taken place at the Brown works. Albert G. Saunders, a young student at Case School of Applied Science, has been working for the Brown company during vacation, for the practical knowledge it would give him. He did not leave with the non-union men under police guard, but mounted his bicycle and sought to reach home alone. As he turned into Hamilton street a knot of strikers saw him, and shouted to him to stop. He did not obey, and they began to throw stones and bricks at him. A brick struck him on the head and knocked him off his wheel, and, he claims that after he was down, they continued to stone him. Rising to his knees, he drew his revolver and fired. The ball missed his assailants, sped across a vacant lot and buried itself in the breast of William Rettger, one of the strikers, who was walking through an alley with several companions. Rottger was sent to a hospital, where he died in a few minutes. He was a single man, 25 years old, boarding on Hoadley street, and was a brother of Pitcher Rettger of the Milwaukee Baseball club.

Patrolman Gibbons heard the shot fired and rushed up, seized young Saunders and hurried him into the office of the Bishop-Babcock company. In a wonderfully short space of time a furious crowd, which packed the streets as far as the eye could reach, surged against the front of the office, demanding that Saunders be delivered to them. Some one brought a rope, and a cry of lynching was raised. They began to pry at the windows of the office, when Patrolman Gibbons, who was once a union workman, addressed the mob, and partly quieted it. Two patrol wagon loads of police arrived, and a guard was posted in front of the building.

Long before this, Mayor McKisson, Police Director Abbott, Lieutenant Colonel Whitney, of the Fifth regiment, and others, were gathered for consultation in the city hall. Word of the critical condition of affairs was telephoned to them from the Bishop-Babcock office, and a request made for militia. The mayor responded by ordering the Cleveland City Guards and company F to the scene of the riot. The Guards arrived first, just as the mob were preparing for another effort to capture Saunders. As the soldiers came down the street, the mob shrieked and howled, and the Guards were compelled to open a way for themselves with bayonets. Several men and boys were wounded slightly by the soldiers.

The Guards formed in front of the office, and just then company F was seen coming. Amid a frenzy of excitement, on the part of the dense crowd, a patrol wagon was backed to the door of the office, and Saunders was jerked into it and made to lie on the bottom. The Guards formed around it, with bayonets at "charge," and they forced their way down Hamilton street, part of the howling mob surging along with them. To heighten the excitement, Detective Sprosty, as a warning, stood up in the patrol wagon and shot his revolver into the air. The wagon and soldiers proceeded rapidly until the crowd in front had thinned, when the Guards opened ranks, and the wagon sped on to the central police station at a run.

Saunders, whose head is badly cut up, and his body a mass of bruises, is a prisoner, charged with the killing of Rettger.

Company F, in command of Major Liebich, marched to the center of the crowd that remained behind. The soldiers were menaced and jeered. Major Liebich halted his men, drew his revolver, and declared that upon the slightest attempt at violence, he would give the command to fire. After that the noise ceased and the crowd scattered, the company returning to quarters.

The mayor caused a proclamation, declaring the riot act to be in force, to be posted in the neighborhood of the Brown works this morning.

"You see, we don't know anybody, and I suppose we didn't take that into account. Well, I suppose it's like this: they thought it would be easy to get acquainted in the hotel, and commence having a good time right away. . . . But I swear I don't know how to go about it. I can't seem to make up my mouth to speak to folks first; and then you can't tell whether a man ain't a gambler, or on for the horse races anyway. BUY
Of Boston Branch Grocery.
WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

STARS AND STRIPES.

HOW THEY WERE RAISED IN HAVANA JULY 4.

The Unusual Spectacle Attracted Crowds and Came Near Causing Trouble—The Days the Cubans Celebrate—Patriotic Sentiments—A Heartfelt Wish.

When I last visited the capital of Cuba, it was in a semidiplomatic capacity that authorized me to carry and raise the American flag in whatever town or city I made my headquarters. There was no alternative in my instructions, for they were made out by a Washington diplomat who knew little and cared less about the laws and customs of our friends of the West Indies and South America. "Hoist your flag wherever you are and let the people see the stars and stripes." This was the order, and I didn't dare to disobey it. Hence, after I had found a lodging place in a great boarding house on the Prado, I reconnoitered the situation with a view to hoisting my flag in a conspicuous place. The proprietor of the house, one Don Antonio Guzman de Castillo, a little smoke dried Spaniard of the mercantile type, assisted me to the extent of his ability and told me that there was a flagstaff on the top of the roof which I could use if I chose. But at the same time he shrugged his shoulders most significantly and remarked quietly as he rolled a cigarette, "Of course, senor, you are acquainted with the customs of the country, and you engage to relieve me from all blame if any inquiries are instituted by the captain general."

I assured him that I would assume all responsibility, also that I was aware that there were some customs in Cuba not practiced in the United States, but that my orders were imperative, and the flag must go up, whether it was according to custom or not. So, with another shrug and deprecatory wave of his hands, he ordered his servant, Miguel, to obey my instructions, and then left the matter to me. Miguel went with me to the "azotea," or flat roof top, which was surrounded by a parapet, and there we discovered the flagstaff. But when I ordered him to fasten the flag to the halyards he spread his hands wide apart and said in Spanish, "But, senor, this is not a feast day."

"That may be," I said, "but it answers to the American feast day. It is the Fourth of July."

"The Fourth of July—El Cuatro de Julio? And, pray, what is that, sir?"

I then explained to him that the Cuatro de Julio—pronounced "hoolio"—was the sacred day of American independence, not to observe which would be a grave breach of respect to our ancestors, not to mention our duty to the present and rising generation, etc.

"Well," he returned, shaking his head dubiously, "I suppose it may be all right; but that day is not in the calendar of saints' days, and we never celebrate it here, sir."

"Then we will make a beginning right now. Run up that flag, and be quick about it." Then I turned on my heel and went below, leaving the man to attend to the flag. It may have been an hour later, and I was in the reception room of one of the large hotels conversing with some fellow countrymen when one of the old American residents came in hurriedly and made directly for me.

"Look here," he said excitedly, "do you live at that boarding house, No. 27?"

"I do at present," I replied.

"Well, then, perhaps you are the responsible party. Do you know there is an American flag hoisted there?"

"Mine," I answered, proudly placing my hand on my heart. "This is the Fourth of July, don't you know—the day we celebrate."

"Well, that may be all right, old man. But we don't celebrate it by hoisting the stars and stripes Union down, do we?"

I looked at him a second and then rushed out into the street, whence I could get a glimpse of the flag. There it was, sure enough, with the stars where the stripes ought to be and fluttering bravely, while Miguel's brown face was peering over the parapet, grinning with triumph at his achievement. I darted to the roof top and soon had Old Glory righted, giving Miguel instructions for further use and a warning against again hanging out a signal of distress.

But this was not the end of my troubles, only the beginning. The unusual spectacle of a foreign flag waving freely above the main pleasure thoroughfare of the Cuban capital attracted crowds of spectators. They came and went during the greater part of the day, and I had the pleasure then, if no one has had it since, of seeing our flag the cynosure of all eyes. The comments of the people were not often complimentary, since I had violated the city and national ordinance, written or unwritten, of flying a flag on a day not celebrated in the Catholic calendar. But they all admired its stripes and stars, just the same, and contrasted it with the red and yellow banner of Spain, to the former's credit and complete triumph. "Cielo, but it is a pretty banner!" lisped a charming Cuban lady. "Yes," replied another, her companion, "and wouldn't it be an advantage to Cuba if it could replace the blood and jaundiced thing of old Spain? Ah, but then we might have freedom, we might have relief from these crushing taxes. Our sons and fathers might live with us, and our beautiful island be safe to travel in, instead of being given up to be the spoil of foreign banditti."

This was before the recent outbreak in Cuba, but the same sentiments pervaded the Cuban masses then as now. It may have been from fear that the appearance of the flag of the free flying from a prominent point in the city held by Cuba's enemies would excite such adverse sentiment that the captain general took a hand in the proceedings. At all events, there came to me an orderly from that dignitary, with a request, couched in most courteous Spanish phrases, that the "distinguished American visitor" would kindly refrain from attracting a crowd by continuing the flag of his country in such a conspicuous position," etc.

It was a gentle hint that by persisting in this course I might become possibly persona non grata at the palace, and as I had important services yet to perform for my own government, I took counsel with prudence and hauled the flag down at sunset. But at the American dinner that night it was voted that whether or not the act was one of discretion, at least the sight of Old Glory had done our hearts good, and if ever occasion presented we would again fling the flag of freedom to the breeze.

FELIX IMRAY.

For Nobody but Teller.

St. Louis, July 2.—Hon. H. E. Taubeneck, chairman of the People's party national executive committee, will entertain no proposition for a compromise with the Democratic party which does not include Senator Teller for president. Taubeneck denied that he had ever stated, as printed in a Chicago paper, June 30, that Mr. Bland would be acceptable to the Populists.

In a Bad State.

St. Petersburg, July 2.—Advices received here from Shanghai show that disorders are rampant in different parts of China. The Mussulman rebellion in the northwestern district of Kan-Su has reached the gravest proportions. The secret societies in the country are again exciting the natives against the Europeans. Famine and plague are also reported to be raging in the southern provinces of China.

General Lawton Seriously Sick.

Clifton Springs, N. Y., July 2.—General Alexander R. Lawton of Savannah is in a very precarious condition here. General Lawton was prominent in the Confederate army, and under President Cleveland's first administration was minister to Austria.

THE REPUBLIC'S BIRTH.

Tradition's Story About the Action of the Old Bellman.

Recorded facts tell us one thing and tradition another regarding the closing hours of July 4, 1776, in Philadelphia. The historian says it was not until July 8 that the printed form of the Declaration of Independence was publicly given out, and that there was no expectant crowd outside when the congress was in session. But tradition tells a more stirring story. It is that it was late on the afternoon of the Fourth when the final decision was reached. Amid profound silence was the announcement received. It was first broken by Franklin, who remarked, "Gentlemen, we must now all hang together or we shall hang separately." At this heavy and rotund Harrison remarked to slender Elbridge Gerry that in that event Gerry would be kicking in the air long after his own fate would be settled. "There," said Hancock when he had by his signature consummated his act, "John Bull may read my signature without spectacles."

Thousands of anxious citizens, continues tradition, had gathered in the streets of Philadelphia, for it was known that the final vote would be taken that day. From the hour when congress met in the morning the old bellman had been in the steeple. He had placed a lad at the door below to give him notice when the announcement should be made. As hour succeeded hour the old man shook his head and said: "They will never do it! They will never do it!" Suddenly a loud shout came from below, and there stood the little blue eyed boy, clapping his hands and shouting, "Ring, grandfather, ring!" Grasping the iron tongue of the old bell, backward and forward he hurled it a hundred times, its voice proclaiming that those united colonies were and of right ought to be free and independent states.

His Only Explanation.

"I see you charge me 11 pence for mutton, Mr. Barton. Why is it Mr. Read in High street lets me have it for 10 pence?"

"I'm sure, m'm, I couldn't say, unless it's he's taken a fancy to you, m'm!"—Punch.

CUBA'S WOMAN COLONEL.

Commands a Regiment of Insurgents While Her Husband Fights For Spain.

Near the town of Vuelta Abajo, in the province of Matanzas, in Cuba, Adele Asiny de Pilotro lives on the estate that has been the heritage of her family for a number of generations.

Two years ago she lived a prosaic enough life as the wife of a colonel in the Spanish army. Now she bears the title of colonel herself; but, while her husband leads a flying column of royal-ist soldiers, Senora Pilotro commands a regiment of 200 men who are fighting in the army of the Cuban republic.

Husband and wife are operating in the same district. They are likely at any time to face each other as enemies at the heads of their respective commands.

Senora Pilotro is the only woman fighting for Cuban liberty who holds a commission as an officer. The honor was conferred upon her by Commander In Chief Gomez because she organized and equipped the troop which she commands.

The Spanish colonel, her husband, has known for years of her separate ideas, but that never disturbed their loving relations.

The Pilotro estate is famed for its mineral springs. There are caves all over the property, in which the patriots secreted arms and munitions of war in preparation for the uprising that resulted in the present war.

Senora Pilotro has not engaged in a battle, but she has managed to keep the district to which she is assigned well cleared of Spanish troops.—Boston Globe.

The Barefoot Boy.

"May I go barefooted, mamma?" This has been the cry of the small boy—yes, and the girl, too—for several weeks. Who does not remember the joy and sense of freedom when this permission was granted in the spring. The feet and legs were soon browned, the toes stubbed a little, and sometimes tied up for a day or two, but what mattered this so long as there were no shoes or stockings to worry about? Then there was a suggestive limp, but it was not long until the feet became hardened and accustomed to the bare ground and sharp stones. Healthy? Look at the village boy, bounding and leaping, swimming and running. Why, certainly it is healthy. There is an old farmer who lives not far from this city—a man of the old school—who says in the most emphatic terms that children cannot grow if they wear their shoes in the summer. How can they grow, says he, unless they touch the ground? No more than cabbage and corn.—Louisville Commercial.

Double Veils For Summer Girls.

Eastern girls all last summer at Newport wore a regulation veil the color of the sailor, and tied it neatly in the back to keep stray hairs in place and give it a general finish and touch of the becoming. A second veil of brown chiffon was worn loosely over this, like a valance, to protect the skin, and was pinned in the back so that the ends could fall over the hair almost to the nape of the neck. This will undoubtedly be the fashion again, as there is a cause for it; but, of course, it is too early in the season to assert it positively, as sailors have scarcely made their appearance except in the shops. In order to have a pinkish complexion some women wear a veil of pink tulle under the regular veil, which certainly gives the desired result, without being visible through the outer veil.—New York Advertiser.

What She May Be.

Speaking not of manual work, but the higher lines of business and of the professions, the American girl of 1896 can be an executor and administrator of estates, a trustee of property, a college president or professor, an expert accountant, a cashier, a druggist, a telegraph or telephone operator, a stenographer and typewriter, a typesetter, proofreader or newspaper reporter or editor, a dentist or doctor, a minister, a lawyer, a lecturer, a painter or artist, an architect, a sculptor, an author.

All these she can be and equal her brightest brother and beat the average. If she handles other people's money, she unconsciously enrolls herself as a member of the "Never Steals," and the cardinal rule of the organization has yet to be broken.—New York Press.

Ribbon as a Trimming.

Next to lace, ribbon is seen in quantities upon many of the newest gowns. It is such a graceful mode of decoration and is so very adaptable that even the uninitiated may use it with success, provided they are not skimpy with it. A ribbon trimming with skimpy little bows is ruinous to the loveliest gown. The making of a bow is no little art, and if one has not a leaning that way it is better to use some other form of trimming or have them made by the milliner. Rosettes are much simpler and easier to manage and in many cases are quite as smart as the bow would be.

MELANCHOLY WOMEN.

Always Afraid Something Dreadful is Going to Happen.

How a Little Baby Girl Rolled the Clouds Away.

Of course a woman will naturally see the dark side of everything when tortured by some form of female disease, which her doctor cannot or does not relieve. No wonder she is melancholy when head and back ache, pains run through the whole body and loins, nerves are weak, stomach out of order, digestion poor, sense of fullness and bearing-down, poor sleep and appetite, always weak and tired, irregular menstruation, whites, etc.

She probably is not so fortunate as to know that all female ailments are indicated by these never failing symptoms, and are controlled by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; all female weaknesses quickly disappear by its use. It has been the thinking woman's safeguard for twenty years, and all druggists sell large quantities of it because it can be relied upon.

Still another woman speaks:

"I wish you would publish my name with your testimonials. I want every one to know that your Vegetable Compound has made me well and strong. I sing its praises all the time. When I was first married I was very weak and had female troubles badly; Oh, I was so weary, sick and melancholy, but the Vegetable Compound built me up, and now I have a dear baby girl, and I am so happy. No home is complete without a dear little baby and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to roll the clouds away."—MRS. GEO. CLAUS, 35 Danforth St., Buffalo, N. Y.

COVERNMENT IMPROVEMENTS.

Congressman Atwood Doing Well for the City of Quincy—The Town River Work.

The plans and documents in connection with the improvements of Town river by the Federal Government were forwarded to the War Department on the 20th of June, and in accordance with the best information obtainable, immediately upon the return of the documents, proposals for the work will be asked by the engineers in charge at Boston. The law calls for 30 days for these proposals to be submitted and in all probability actual work will be commenced about the first of September. To the energy and perseverance of Congressman Atwood, the City of Quincy is indebted for this beneficial improvement.

Had Congress passed any bills whatever for public buildings the city would be now considering plans for a new post office, as a bill submitted by the Congressman, asking for an appropriation of $150,000, is now before the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

The New Union Station.

Work has been commenced for the magnificent union station to be erected at foot of Summer street. At a meeting July 1, it was found that the capital stock of $500,000 had been paid in, and the directors then proceeded to get the preliminary work under way. Notice was served upon the New York & New England railroad officials to vacate their property as soon as possible. Inside of half an hour two tracks near the Summer street extension were vacated and a gang of men were put to work removing the ties and rails. This work will be kept up until all tracks are removed, but the station will not be abandoned until after July 4.

Mr. John C. Sanborn, superintendent of the Plymouth Division of the Old Colony system of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, has been appointed General Manager of the new Boston Terminal Company and he will enter upon his new duties at once.

The work of building the new Union Station will come directly under his care, and for the purpose of getting the best ideas possible to be obtained, the new general manager will inspect the best railroad stations in the world.

During the coming month he will cross the Atlantic and inspect all the great railroad facilities in England and on the Continent. He will be accompanied by the three civil engineers of the three railroad companies interested. After returning from abroad, the tour of inspection will be continued through this country.

Mr. Sanborn was born in Northfield, N. H., Sept. 13, 1843, and has been railroading all his life. At the age of 16 he received his first appointment with the Old Colony Railroad as assistant at the South Braintree Station.

After six months' service there he was made a brakeman and baggage master. When the first call for 75,000 troops was issued he enlisted in Company C, Fourth Regiment. He rose to a Lieutenant afterward in Company B, Forty-third Tiger Regiment. He was later on commissioned by Gov. John A. Andrew as Captain in the Massachusetts Volunteers.

After the close of the war he was appointed a conductor and ran a train between Boston and Newport. In 1868 he was appointed station agent at Boston. He rose to passenger transportation master, and in 1889 was appointed general train master. He had charge of the Boston station and yards, passenger and freight conductors and brakemen, also the distribution of all passenger, baggage, construction and caboose cars, which numbered over 600, on the whole system of 600 miles or more. When the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad leased the Old Colony Railroad. Mr. Sanborn was appointed to the position of Division Superintendent.

—Miss Edith Randall of Quincy, gave a second of two European talks in Abington Tuesday afternoon. Miss Randall's year in Europe was profitably passed not only in sight-seeing, but also in careful study. Her vivacious manner, good memory and sympathetic spirit make her an excellent story teller. These talks are further made interesting by photographs. Her first one was upon Westminster one of the worlds' great show places and the shrine of at least the English speaking world. The second one was upon Venice, the magical city in the sea. These were given at the residence of Mrs. G. W. Richardson.

—The changes that went into effect on the Consolidated road this week are based on a "system," according to the railroad officials. It is a system that deprives Pawtucket of several express trains, and ought not to be in force but a short time. This deprivation of train service is not relished at all.—Pawtucket Gazette. The citizens of Quincy are suffering likewise. Several of our express trains have been taken off. A little two-penny station that has but a few passengers, gets the same accommodations as Quincy with two to three thousands.

—A golden-bronze statue of Ben. Franklin has been erected in Lincoln Park, Chicago, the gift of Joseph Medill of political and newspaper fame. It is said to be the finest statue of this philosopher, statesman and father of the newspaper press in this country. There are only two other bronze statues of Franklin, one in Boston and one in New York. A third is being constructed in Philadelphia. The Chicago statue is the work of the noted sculptor, R. H. Park. — Boston Home Journal.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE GOSPEL TRUTH.

D. A. Strong Will Be Able to Preach.

HIS EXPERIENCE ONE OF UNUSUAL INTEREST.

For the good of humanity and the praise of God, Mr. D. A. Strong, of South Manchester, Conn., tells his remarkable experience. He is a native of Connecticut, and had been preaching the gospel and teaching throughout that State for thirty years, until about six years ago, when his health became so poor that he had to give up both. He was advised to try outdoor work, and went to live on a little farm in South Manchester. He says: "A few weeks ago I had no faith in any medicine or in any doctor. My trouble was said to be epilepsy, but I have always thought that indigestion, together with constipation, were the causes of all my suffering, for in my family there has never been a case of epilepsy or fits of any kind.

"About five years ago, while eating breakfast, I was suddenly taken with a faintness. My head fell back, and I was carried unconscious to my room and put to bed. This continued at intervals, until I had about given up hope. I tried everything, at least everything that was recommended to me, and aside from the kind dealings of a loving Heavenly Father, received no help. I even tried electricity, but in spite of it all I was not able to leave the house, and it seemed as though I must give up entirely.

"One day, my wife, noticing the Puritana advertisement, called my attention to it. As it seemed to meet my case, I concluded to try it. I did so, and firmly believe that God sent me Puritana, for it has performed wonders.

"To-day I am working in the field, and can eat and sleep as of old. I am convinced that in a short time I shall be able once more to preach God's word, which has been my desire ever since my affliction.

"I wish to add that there is no medicine in the world that I would take to-day outside of Puritana."

"THE NIGHT BEFORE."

The Police Made Several Arrests for Malicious Mischief.

The "Night Before the Fourth" was not as noisy as usual this year and not much damage was done by "Young America," as the forty special and the nine regular officers on duty throughout the city rather put a damper upon the enthusiasm. Officers were ordered to arrest anyone caught in any act of deviltry and as a result some well known citizens were locked up on the charge of malicious mischief.

Up to midnight things were rather quiet, save for the occasional explosion of a cannon cracker or the little excitement occasioned by the fire alarms and the rush of the fire department.

In Atlantic, the only ward to celebrate many of the boys remained out all night, but not many acts of deviltry were committed, the principal being the smashing of the fire alarm box at Norfolk Downs.

At Wollaston the night before was celebrated in an unusually boisterous manner. Young America was out in full force with crackers and horns mixed with plenty of deviltry. There were eight officers on duty,—Connolly, Seelye, Barry, Sparrow, Loud, Seeley, Porter and Smith. But with all this formidable array the hoodlum element kicked up some outrageous pranks and destroyed property. With a few exceptions all of it being located opposite the depot.

Here is the list:—

E. M. Chandler, Brook street;—house set on fire in two places, shrubbery and a large number of plants destroyed.

John H. Roberts, Brook street—plants torn up and destroyed.

A. G. Olney, Newport avenue, sign torn down and hung up on tell-tale post near depot.

N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.—barrels and miscellaneous objects hung up on tell-tale posts and strewed about the grounds.

Boynton & Russell—long ice shoot taken and placed directly across Newport avenue so as to form a fence, blocking up that thoroughfare.

W. D. Ross—roof of store covered with old lumber and boxes.

Francis W. Burnham—forward wheels from wagon.

An officer—coat, badge and billy.

He Was Forgotten.

A tramp who put up at the hotel under City Hall Friday night will probably give Quincy a wide birth hereafter. When he applied for lodging he was given a bed in one of the cells and locked in. Early Saturday morning the officers went off, the prisoners having been bailed out and the poor tramp who was sleeping, as only tramps know how to sleep, was entirely forgotten in their haste. It so happened that the officer on duty in the centre did not have occasion to go into the station all the morning and meanwhile his trampship, who had awakened and begun to feel the pangs of hunger, was wondering what the trouble was. About noon time the officers came back and then it was that the fellow was released, and sent on his way rejoicing.

Squibs and Crackers.

The decorations were more general this year than last, and few were the residences that did not make some display.

Most of the prominent citizens kept open house all day and entertained many friends from out of town; the LEDGER representatives regrets that they were unable to accept all the hospitalities extended.

Everybody was happy and worked in harmony and everything went off like clock work.

The city should be ashamed to own such a foul damp place as the lockup under the engine house. Better none at all than such a place as that.

The regular police under Chief Hayden who did escort duty for the parade, made a fine appearance. They were a noble looking body of men.

TELLER IS OUT OF IT.

Stands No Show of Receiving Democratic Presidential Nomination.

Bland and Boies Appear to "Have the Call."

Gold Men Want Hill For Temporary Chairman. Silverites Want Daniel.

Chicago, July 6.—This is to be one of the most remarkable conventions in the history of American politics. It is so hedged about by conditions that little can be foreseen as to candidates. The feature of the past 24 hours has been the seeming utter collapse of the Teller boom. The talk of the existence of the senatorial cabal plotting to secure Teller's nomination has aroused among many of the incoming delegates a feeling of the most bitter and passionate resentment, and the cry is heard everywhere that the nominee must be a Democrat. It is considered almost treason to suggest Teller. This strong revolt against what is deemed an attempt at senatorial dictation seems to have checkmated the cabal. As the free silver Republicans and the Populist leaders realize that the game is slipping away from them, they are inclined to grow ugly in their desperation. The former have begun to predict defeat if a Democrat is nominated, on the ground that no matter how disposed they might be to support a Democrat on a free silver platform, their friends in the western states would not follow them bag and baggage into the Democratic party. The Populists could with difficulty be restrained from issuing an address, saying that they could not support a Democrat, but were met with the argument that if their professions of devotion to the silver cause were not hollow pretences they must join hands with the Democrats in an attempt to elect a candidate on the issue. So far as the silver Republican bolters were concerned, it was argued that if they walk out of the St. Louis convention because of their convictions, they must choose, if the Populists carried out their threats, between the nominee of a party that controlled well nigh half the votes in the country, and the nominee of a Populistic convention in St. Louis. The Teller interview from Denver, saying he would support the nominee of this convention, completed their discomfiture. It exposed their bluff. Although the possibility of Teller's selection now seems to have vanished, the Democratic silver leaders, who still believe that he is the most available candidate, though they may for the present have been driven out into the open and forced to publicly espouse the cause of some other candidate, are powerful men and skilled and trained political generals, and the plot to nominate Teller must, until a nomination is actually made, be reckoned with as a deadfall into which the convention may be precipitated by shrewd manipulation, if opportunity offers.

The revolt against the cabal has unquestionably had the effect of hastening declarations by arriving delegates in favor of the two leading candidates, Bland and Boies, and both claim large acquisitions. The boomers of both also began arriving in force yesterday, and their headquarters were besieged by marching clubs, headed by brass bands, and the countless thousands of shouters who tumbled along in their wake. The Iowa candidate's managers have received many assurances of support from the south and west, and although Bland is still hailed and heralded as the logical candidate, and is undoubtedly gaining ground, he has some weak points in the present arraignment of his lines. The legitimate character of the declaration of the Illinois delegation for the Missouri candidate ,which was to carry with it the influence of Governor Altgeld, is questioned. The declaration, based on an alleged poll of the delegation, was engineered by Secretary of State Hinrichsen, after he had secured a statement from Altgeld that the latter would abide by the will of the majority. The Altgeld men now challenge the accuracy of the poll, and throw out intimations that sharp practices were resorted to. It is believed, however, by Altgeld's close friends that, as between the two candidates, he would be for Bland rather than Boies, on account of the former's defense of his action during the Chicago riots and the latter's endorsement of the course of the administration. One of Altgeld's pet purposes is to secure the adoption of a plank in the platform, condemning federal troops interference in the local affairs of the state. The doubt cast on Altgeld's attitude furnishes a cause for anxiety in the Bland camp. The withdrawal of the Illinois delegation after the flourish of trumpets, with which its arrival was announced, might prove disastrous.

The Matthews boom seems to have been shattered by the row in the Indiana delegation between the gold and silver delegates over the question of Retiring National Committeeman Sheerin. It is evident that Governor Matthews made, perhaps, a fatal blunder in insisting that several of his personal friends, who were for gold, should go on the delegation.

The Blackburn boom does not seem to be progressing, but John R. McLean, the proprietor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, is developing into power in the convention. He is surrounded by trained politicians, whose touch is felt everywhere. Although they are quietly urging him for first place on the ticket, it is well understood that his aim is to secure the nomination for the vice presidency. His corporate interests are militating against him, but his power is evident, and there is a prevailing feeling that he can secure second place on the ticket. It is said that the Bland managers have tried to make a combination with him, despite the fact that it is pretty well known that Mr. McLean himself believes that Teller would be the strongest man to nominate.

Considerable Discord Is Developing

among the silver men over the rivalries naturally created by the candidates, and there is also dissension over the platform. Many of the leaders are strongly in favor of a single declaration for free silver and the practical ignoring of all other questions. The tariff question, especially, they desire to be handled gingerly, lest it drive them from the free silver Republicans of the west, who are moderate protectionists. Others, on the other hand, think there should be a regular Democratic platform, covering all the pending issues of the day. Some even favor a very radical tariff plank. All this bodes ill for the prophets of a short convention. The gold men, led by Whitney, profess to be encouraged by the outlook. Their plans seems to be based on future contingencies. Having failed to make an impression on the solid phalanxes of silver, their purpose seems to be to stir up strife and take advantage of such dissensions as may be developed in the opposition. The great advantage which they possess, always the strength of a hopeless minority, is their compactness.

They tell silver leaders that, if a Democrat is placed on a silver platform, the silver Republicans of the west will abandon them and the eastern Democracy will be destroyed, and they will be left high and dry with only the silver Democratic support, and without the sinews of war either from the east or west. They tell them, therefore, that they are confronted with the alternative of nominating a Republican, to get the support and aid of the silver mine owners, or yielding to the demand for a compromise from the east, in which latter event they argue to keep the Democracy intact and furnish all the campaign fund that is needed. These advances are met with firm, but courteous refusal by some of the silver leaders, who simply reply that there can be no compromise of the issue. The more radical, however, receive it sneeringly. In some quarters the silver men not only meet the suggestion of a gold bolt with indifference, but some of them openly declare that it would strengthen their position, and they would welcome it. The fear that the gold men, with almost, if not quite, one-third of the delegates, could plump their votes about at random, and cause all sorts of mischief and the further difficulty of making a nomination without the practical unanimous vote of all the silver men, has revived the talk of a silver caucus.

The secret fear of Teller has also had its influence in favor of a caucus to decide the question of a candidate. There will be no attempt to hold such a caucus, however, until the convention has assembled, and the difficulty of selecting a nominee in convention has been demonstrated. Then it will be argued that no candidate who is for silver can refuse to submit his claim to those who are to make the nomination.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

At midnight a boom was started for Stevenson for president, which, his friends say, will carry the Illinois delegation and break the Bland boom, Stevenson, being now quoted as for free coinage and a dark horse, being likely to win.

The Temporary Chairmanship.

The members of the Democratic national committee, who are silver men, held a second meeting last night to agree on a candidate for temporary chairman of the convention, and decided to recommend Senator John W. Daniel of Virginia. Senator Daniel's name may be presented to the full committee for temporary chairman by the silver members. If the gold committee, who are a majority, insist upon presenting the name of Senator Hill, or some other gold man, to the convention, the silver contingent will nominate Daniel. It is possible that Daniel's name will be brought before the convention by a minority report from the national committee.

Senator Hill is the undoubted choice of the national committee. He is also the one man from the east of national prominence who is willing to test his popularity before the convention. It has been claimed by the gold men that the silver friends of Senator Hill, in both house and senate, many of whom are delegates to the convention, would have sufficient strength, and would use their influence to secure his election as temporary chairman, if he should be named.

Many silver men, who are friends of Hill, called upon him yesterday, and urged him not to allow his name to be used by the national committee, and not to place himself in a position where he might be humiliated by being defeated. Senator Hill has advised all those who have called upon him to pursue a conservative course. He has expressed the belief that if the convention adopts a silver platform, that there will surely be a bolt, and he thinks that if conservatism is showed, that the bolt will be much reduced. It is understood that Senator Hill believes that, in case the convention should sustain the national committee in the selection of himself for temporary chairman, that the bolt from New York state, and possibly some other sections of the east, will be greatly minimized. The silver men feel assured that Senator Hill will not bolt, but under the instructions of the Democratic state convention of New York the delegation acts as a unit, and if a majority should decide to bolt, or to take no further part in the convention after the adoption of the silver platform, Senator Hill, who has endorsed this unit rule, would be compelled to abide by the results.

While Senator Hill is constantly advising conservatism on the part of the silver men, he has given no pledges that he would make a conservative speech if elected to preside over the convention. W. F. Sheehan, member of the national committee from New York, and one of the closest personal friends of the senator in that state, was asked if Hill was selected for temporary chairman if he would make a conservative speech, and not one which would be obnoxious to the silver men, Mr. Sheehan replied: "Senator Hill, if selected temporary chairman of the convention, will make a 'gold' speech."

Mr. Sheehan was asked how he regarded Hill's chances for the place, and he declared he did not believe the silver men would turn him down if he was selected by the national committee.

Senator Hill is very much under the impression that he will be elected if selected by the national committee, although every delegation from the south and west who arrived yesterday joined in the declaration previously made by the silver men on the ground, that they would not accept anybody but a silver man for temporary chairman.

The plea of the senatorial friends of Hill, asking him not to place them in the position of voting against him has been almost pathetic. Nearly every silver Democratic senator is here as a delegate from his state. It was known during the tariff fight that some ill-feeling grew out of a scene in the senate between Hill and Joe Blackburn, still near the close of the last session of congress Hill made a vigorous speech in the senate, supporting Carlisle on the bond issues, but took occasion to severely criticise Carlisle and the friends of Carlisle in Kentucky because they did not support Blackburn for senator after he had received a caucus nomination. In that speech Hill said that there were greater issues than the currency question, and that the Democratic party should not divide on the question of silver and currency. The silver men appreciated that speech, and they do not expect that Hill will bolt when a 16 to 1 platform is adopted.

Hill maintains, in his conversation with the silver delegations who have called upon him, that they are not following the lines of his argument used in the senate on that occasion, because they are subordinating every other issue to the silver question solely. The silver leaders who are here feel that even if they were disposed to stand by Senator Hill as temporary chairman, it would be impossible to control the delegations from their states, who are determined that none but a 16 to 1 man shall preside. That the selection of a silver man for temporary chairman is assured there seems to be no question of doubt.

But in the selection of such a man is where the silver men are at sea. They want a man who will control the convention and will make himself felt, but there is some difficulty in making a selection. Senator White of California, who is a member of the delegation from that state, is one of the best presiding officers that can be found, but he will not allow himself to be put up for the purpose of defeating, and, as he expresses it, humiliating Hill. He will not allow his name to be used as a candidate for temporary chairmar if the national committee should name Hill for the place. It is quite possible, however, that he may be selected for permanent chairman.

There are quite a number of silver men who are earnestly in favor of Congressman Richardson of Tennessee for temporary chairman. If Richardson should be selected for temporary chairman, a Tennessee man could not be made permanent chairman.

The silver men are constantly disturbed over this situation of affairs, and scarcely know which way to turn to get out of the dilemma. Ex-Congressman Bryan of Nebraska has been generally spoken of, but the fact that his delegation is contested makes his selection as temporary chairmar one of doubtful expediency. Yet, it is quite possible that the convention may decide that it will make no difference whether a man was a delegate or not in the selection of a temporary presiding officer, because members of the national committee hold that the committee has the right to go outside of the convention for a temporary officer. The silver men say that between now and the time when the convention is called to order the differences will be adjusted, and some man agreed upon for temporary chairman.

Williams In the Swim.

The Massachusetts delegation arrived last night, and joined Governor Russell and ex-Congressman John E. Russell, who came with Mr. Whitney and the New York gold leaders. Judge Corcoran, one of the delegates-at-large, says the delegation comes prepared to make a determined fight against silver. When asked if there was any disposition in the delegation to bolt, he replied that it was folly to talk of bolting before the convention had acted. He said they proposed to make the fight as if they could win. Much interest is attached to the arrival of the delegation, because of the announcement that six of the 30 delegates were for free silver. Judge Corcoran said there were but three—George F. Williams, J. T. O'Sullivan and John O'Gara. Mr. Williams, whose announcement of his conversion to the cause of the white metal earned for him the praises of the silver men, said that he did not know exactly how many silver men there were in the delegation.

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS.

There is an openly expressed desire on the part of the silver men to force the fight from the beginning upon the temporary chairmanship, and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, one of the latest claimed accessions to the silver ranks, is spoken of as a desirable eastern man to be put forward in antagonism to Senator Hill. The sound money men are willing and Senator Hill is even said to be eager to have the fight opened upon this issue.

The Boies Boom.

The managers of the Boies campaign say they are very much encouraged by the reports received from their scouts and skirmishers, who have been canvassing the incoming delegations. They declare that Boies has developed a great deal of unexpected strength, and that he is the second choice of two-thirds of the silver delegates. They are sensible of the rise in Bland stock, but they say that Bland will never be able to secure two-thirds of the convention, indicating that the Boies men will not favor the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. The Boies men think that the prejudice against the selection of a southern man will operate against Mr. Bland, and prevent his nomination.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1896.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physician said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

Tomorrow.

"Tomorrow," I said, "I will cleanly live,"
But I spoke with a drunken mind.
"Tomorrow," I cried, "to the poor I'll give,"
As I scattered my wealth to the wind.

But tomorrow came, and her smiles were sweet.
And the wine was sparkling and red,
And my riches were rolled in a winding sheet,
And the poor had to beg his bread.

"Tomorrow," I cried, "I will go to Christ,
For Tophet's too hot today,"
But tomorrow came, and the Styx was iced,
And the devil there was to pay.

And all my good is in after now,
And the present is always here,
And I know how the voice of my present vow
Will sound in tomorrow's ear.

For tomorrow will ever a prospect be,
Unborn, in the future's womb,
Till I see it stand in God's chancery,
My judge at the crack of doom.

Armenia.

Do you hear a nation crying, oh, my brothers
Lying prostrate there upon the ensanguined sod?
Slaughtered children, wives and babes at breaste of mothers—
Hear their woeful cries ascending up to God.

Do you see the fires burning, oh, my brothers,
And the sites of pillaged villages left bare?
Do you see the Moslem hate no mercy smothers?
Do you hear it—hark!—Armenia's dying prayer?

Do you hear her wailing, wailing, oh, my brother?
Shall we not rise to save her if we can?
Is not the sin 'gainst God above all other
Man's undying inhumanity to man?

God in heaven! Art thou sleeping in thy heaven
That such deeds are still committed in thy name;
That thine anger as from out a stormcloud riven
Leaps not down in quick annihilating flame?

In her days of doom and death and desolation
She is crying, she is wailing there afar.
Surely such a dirge and death song of a nation
Might awaken pity even in a star.

God of heaven! Art thou sleeping in thy heaven
While battling creeds such misery gave birth?
Seest thou, O heart of Christ, by pity riven,
In thy world that sore and wounded spot of earth?

There thy cross amid the Turks for generations
Has been held within her faithful hands alone.
Shall she cry in vain unto the Christian nations?
Shall they heed her, shall they listen to her moan?

Is there lost within our hearts all sense of feeling?
Like a sister, she comes knocking at our gate,
Outraged, bleeding—hear her agonized appealing:
"Ye are waiting! I am dying while ye wait!"

Do you see the crescent waving, oh, my brother,
O'er the trampled cross there where her red blood runs?
Shall not God awake and justice mercy smother
And the nations speak with their protesting guns?

Passed Away.

A beautiful and bright young life went out from our midst, in the passing away of John Duncan Buckingham, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Buckingham of Alleyne Terrace.

Although among us for only a few short months, he wore the hearts of all who met him by his sweetness, purity and strength of character, his gentle dignity and charm of manner, together with the uncomplaining patience and courage with which months of illness were borne. Possessing a bright and gifted mind, a love of study, and fine musical temperament, he gave promise of a useful and brilliant manhood.

The funeral services on Tuesday last were very impressive. The quartette, among other selections rendered very beautifully his favorite hymn, "How gentle God's Commands!"

Divorced Wife Gets $20,000.

The will of George M. Rice of Hyde Park was filed at Dedham last week. Hon. William B. Rice of Quincy, brother of the testator, is executor, and his cousin, Harry L. Rice, is guardian of the three children. H. L. Rice and F. N. Tirrell are made trustees of the property, whose value is estimated at $75,000.

The bulk of this goes to the children, and $20,000 to the widow, who on June 27, just a week after her husband's funeral, was married in Boston to Mr. Maitlock of New York.

Mr. Rice died on June 16, having on May 28, received a divorce from his wife. As the decree would not have become absolute until the expiration of six months the bequest of $20,000 will probably hold good.

Braintree Races.

The bicycle race at South Braintree on the Fourth drew a large crowd. The five mile handicap was won by Ernest Lord, who also won the first time prize. His time was thirteen minutes and thirty-nine seconds. Jones of Wollaston won second prize, George Revere second time prize and Jacobs of Wollaston third prize. In the boys' race Daniel Hickey of Hingham won first prize and Willie Littlewood of Quincy second prize. In the girls' race the first prize was won by Miss Dickey of East Braintree; second prize by Miss Wilbur of Randolph and third prize by Miss Maybury of East Braintree.

At the Greenleaf.

Guests at dinner at the Greenleaf yesterday admired the artistic flowers. A dish of ferns alone was placed at one bracket, another tall slender vase with gypsophillum (baby's breath) with small pink roses was upon one table, while one basket with deep red hybicus, white roses and a spray of deep green English ivy was beautiful. There were also passion flowers and roses, and other equally well selected flowers adorned the pretty dinner tables. Comparatively few who love flowers seem to get perfect effects. The flowers at the Greenleaf are arranged by the wife of the proprietor, for whom we are told, flowers always blossom.

Unclaimed Baggage.

In today's LEDGER will be found a long advertisement giving a list of trunks, carpet bags, valises, etc., etc., uncalled for on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Wollaston.

Saturday afternoon a crowd of over a hundred French Canadians became involved in a row at the corner of South Walnut and Sumner streets and the blows came thick and fast. John Harkins a special officer doing duty in that district jumped into the crowd and attempted to quell the disturbance, and as a result he was handled rather roughly and was quite badly used up before he got out of his perilous position. No arrests have been made as yet.

The cairn on Penn's hill is an object of interest to everybody and hardly a day passes without a visitor. It seems a great pity however that these visitors cannot have the decency to respect the pile of stones and not scratch their initials on the stones. The Adams Chapter are having a large sign painted and are to offer $25 reward for the apprehension of any one caught defacing the cairn.

There was some great bowling on the Duck's Nest alleys on the Fourth by Howard W. Battison and Charles M. Bryant. Bryant captured the candle pin cup with the second highest three-string total ever bowled on those alleys,—301. OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

Actor Malone and a Shakespearean Revival—Erastus Wiman's Troubles—McKinley Stories.

[Special Correspondence.]

John Malone, a very good, though not startlingly brilliant actor of the old school, has set the tongues of the Rialto to wagging through the medium of an interview recently published in a dramatic sheet and extensively copied in the daily press. The replies to two questions are responsible for the tempest in a teapot. Here they are:

"Do you see any signs of a revival of Shakespeare as an acted dramatist?"

"Yes, many and hopeful signs. The return of Shakespeare to the boards is a possibility of tomorrow. When the time for such a revival comes, it will come suddenly, like a whirlwind. The theater of today is in precisely the same transitory state as at the close of the seventeenth century. The return to Shakespeare came like a thunderclap. And there was a Dryden, a Cibber and a Garrick to make the revival a power in the land. I am confident that there will soon be a repetition of this condition of things. History repeats itself, and the theater of today is fundamentally the theater of Charles II. We must look to Shakespeare for the remedy."

The Drama's Salvation.

"Do you regard the actor-manager as a necessity?"

"Yes, he is the salvation and health of the drama. When the speculator has become powerless through the very causes that give him power, the owners of theatrical property will come to the actor and say, 'Take possession of my playhouse.' Then will ensue the Shakespearean revival."

Most actors are opposed to the actor-manager plan, and not without reason, for the fortunate individual is certain never to accept plays which do not contain dominating parts for himself. Thus his people have a hard time of it in the effort to rise from the ranks. A prominent actor who has also tried management voiced the opinion of the Rialtoites when he said to me:

"Malone is theorizing, and that, too, without the vestige of a basis for his peculiar ideas. When the time comes that the owner of theatrical property will say to the actor, 'Take possession of my playhouse,' the asylums will be obliged to build annexes for the accommodation of these confiding individuals. I have been a star. Some of my tours were notable for the success attending them, and more of them were notable for the absence of success. But absolute disaster was never my lot until I became an actor-manager. Then everything went to the dogs. The business of the enterprise was never porperly attended to, and the worry of it all kept me from doing on the stage the best work of which I am capable, and that has always been the experience in this country. In London the peculiar conditions existing make success possible and even probable. As to Shakespeare, his plays are now subordinate to the actor. Let another Booth arise, and the bard of Avon will be as popular as ever when interpreted by that particular actor. Shakespeare is often butchered now, but seldom played properly. That is the cause which is responsible for the present alleged deplorable condition of the classic drama."

The Troubles of Erastus Wiman.

Erastus Wiman is having a mighty hard row to hoe in his effort to rehabilitate himself. Everybody remembers his trial and conviction for forgery after having done so much to build up the mercantile agency business of R. G. Dun & Co. Those were dark days for the Staten Island magnate until the reversal of his conviction came. Then he determined to make a fresh start in life.

His troubles have again been brought to light by the suit of Edward E. Huber, on an assigned judgment of Eberhard Faber for $10,061, to set aside the general assignment made by Wiman to David Bennett King on May 16, 1893. The liabilities were put at $900,000 and the assets at $21,645. Assignee King says that he realized in fact only $500.

Plaintiff alleged that the assignment was made in fraud of creditors, and that Wiman had not assigned all his property to King. The property he had not assigned, it was alleged, was a supposed interest in the firm of R. G. Dun & Co. and five acres of land at Clifton, N. Y. Mr. Wiman testified that the assignment was made in good faith, and that he intended to transfer all his property. The claim of Dun & Co. was put in the schedule at $375,000, but Mr. Wiman testified that on the criminal trial against him this claim had been reduced to $178,000. He testified that the assignment was made to placate Mr. Dun, and that he had hoped to get $1,000 a month the rest of his days from the Dun company. He had also expected to pay all the claims in full.

McKinley Anecdotes.

These are the days when the fellows who have at some time or other had something or other to do in some way or other for or with Presidential Candidate McKinley, are coming to the front. One young man graphically describes how the major acted while he was having a patent leather shine put on his shoes by the loquacious knight of the blacking brush. Another worthy tells of McKinley's method of holding his head while submitting to the operation of being shaved, and the champion yarn spinner of all has just appeared in the person of a street car conductor who explains how he once collected, without protest from the victim, two fares from the then governor of Ohio, and how, having discovered his mistake, he promptly and honestly returned the extra 5 cents, which, of course, he had to pay out of his own pocket—perhaps.

The thing that surprises most people is that newspapers will print such stuff, which, outside of its triviality, carries on its face convincing evidence of the fact that it is either unadulterated fabrication or gross exaggeration.

HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Two Electric Cars Come Together in the Fog—A Motorman Hurt.

Two cars of the Quincy & Boston street railway came together in a head-on collision early Saturday morning on Washington street in front of the residence of Albert Keating. The car for Quincy Point in charge of motorman Richard D. Forrest was the regular car and the car to Quincy, a special, was in charge of motorman Batson.

The upward car should have waited at the turnout near Graham's old factory, but did not. As the cars rounded the curve both motorman saw the danger and tried to avert it without avail and the two cars came together with a crash. The platforms and the seats in one car were badly smashed and the few passengers badly shaken up, although fortunately none were injured.

Motorman Forrest however was not so fortunate, as he was yanked between the cars and quite severely injured. He was placed on a passing team and carried to the office of Dr. Gilbert where his injuries were attended to and he was then removed to his home on Hancock street.

What Will History Say?

One sultry summer's day I wandered into the woods. It was a beautiful day and the birds sang sweet carols above my head. Growing weary I sat down beneath a tree. As I sat there listening to the songs of the birds I became drowsy and soon fell into a deep revery. My thoughts turned to the future of my classmates and I pondered deeply wondering if I should ever see them all again and what their lot in life would be, whether I should find them in the busy thoroughfares winning golden honors and making the world ring with their names or whether I should find them happy and contented in some narrower sphere.

As I sat there dreaming the grass and flowers seemed to fade away and I found myself in a beautiful foreign cathedral with its vaulted arches and stained glass windows. Soon I heard strains of music growing more and more beautiful, echoing among the rafters and filling the whole building with melody. The spell of the music was upon me, and I looked around endeavoring to find whence came this wondrous music.

At last my eyes fell on the organist on whose dark hair the sun was shining through the colored windows and filling the whole building with a ruddy glow. As I looked the face and figure became familiar and lo! I recognized in the author of this beautiful music my old friend and schoolmate Josie. She had taken for her motto "Nil Desperandum," and had become one of the world's greatest musicians.

Gradually the vision became more and more indistinct until it faded entirely away, and I found myself near a cozy cottage in the sunny south. It was evening and I could hear a faint breeze rustling among the leaves of the magnolia trees that shade the cottage. Through the tiny curtained windows I looked into a daintily furnished room arranged by a tasteful and loving hand.

As I looked more closely I perceived a young woman sitting near the tiny cots with two little golden-haired, white robed children at her knees saying their evening prayers. In the mistress of this happy home I recognized Lizzie, whose lot in life was this. Living in the sunny South with its ever-blooming flowers and sweet bird songs she was happy and contented.

That picture disappeared and I seemed to be on one of the pleasant farms of Acadia, land of Evangeline, home of the happy. There I found Roulston. To the home of his childhood he had returned where the people are free from that

"Fear that reigns with the tyrant and envy
the vice of republics,
Where they have neither locks to their doors nor bars to their windows,
Where their dwellings are open as day as the hearts of their owners,
There at peace with God and the world this
Acadian farmer
Lived on his sunny farm and kindly governed his household."

The scene changed and I found myself in a grand lecture room filled with an audience so large that the room was filled to overflowing. Before them self-possessed and talking eloquently stood a young woman. It was Alice and as the state president of the W. C. T. U. she was addressing a meeting; greatly loved and respected by all who knew her. Miss Hayden was a worthy successor to Mrs. Fessendere and far and wide could be heard her praises for the wonderful amount of good work she was doing.

Next I seemed to be on one of the broad ranches of Mexico and I could see a gathering of ranchmen, busily engaged in rounding up the immense numbers of horses and cattle. One of the ranchers I felt sure was the owner. He was a strong muscular man dressed in cowboy style, sombero and all. Suddenly he turned around and lo! I recognized Fisher. Yes, Arthur had fulfilled the prophecy of his youth and had become a Buffalo Bill in real earnest.

That picture disappeared and I seemed to be in a grand drawing-room of a richly furhished home of a great city. The room was filled with people and among them as hostess I recognized my old friend and schoolmate Mabel. She was somewhat changed from the Mabel E. I had known long ago, in our school days, but as I looked I perceived that she had the same kindly smile, shedding its brightness all around her, as she passed to and fro among her guests. She was now one of the society leaders of the great city and her home the favorite resort of many people of literary and artistic tastes.

The scene changed and I could see the interior of a large class-room. Standing before her pupils and talking in some unknown language was Fredericka. She was now the favorite instructor of one of the greatest select seminaries for young ladies, justly celebrated for the faultless education received by its members. She was greatly loved by her pupils who knew that if in need of help they would be kindly received by their instructor.

Next I found myself on one of the busy thoroughfares of the great and bustling city of New York. As I looked at the numberless buildings I perceived an enormous sign on which was printed in blazing letters, George D. Finnegan, Banker.

This sturdy young man had climbed the ladder of fame until at last he had nearly reached the topmost round and had become one of the most celebrated bankers in the country. And if you, my hearers in the near future should chance to visit the city of New York don't fail to visit the handsomely furnished business office of George D. Finnegan, Banker. You are sure to be most heartily welcomed by Finnegan's ever ready smile as old friends whom he knew when his now flourishing business was only a rose colored dream.

Gradually that picture disappeared and I seemed to be in the interior of one of the great hospitals of the city. There I found Mary. Those whom fate placed under her care learned to love Miss Roulston, and no doubt if this beautiful country should ever engage in war it would be Mary who would go to her suffering countrymen. And if ever the brave members of '93 having answered their country's call should be wounded in battle, most fortunate would they consider themselves to fall under her care.

That picture disappeared and I seemed to be among the mountains in the far West. All around me were rocks and steep precipices. As I looked I perceived a narrow footpath winding thread-like up the mountain side. Suddenly coming from behind a jutting rock I saw a weary pedestrian, a scientific, green spectacled figure in black, bearing a heavy hammer with which he did great damage to the precipices and put the fragments in his knapsack.

What! could it be? Yes it certainly was Plumer and I vaguely wondered what strange freak had called him to this lonely place. Suddenly I remembered how fond Herbert used to be of collecting odd stones, curious pebbles and all sorts of queer things and treasuring them up. Yes, it was Plumer who had become the greatest geologist of the age, and he was now prospecting out here in the wild West hoping to discover in some unlooked for crevice some new gem to add to his collection.

Gradually my vision faded away and the grass and flowers reappeared, and I was suddenly called to reality by the voice of a bird in the branches above my head. The last rays of the setting sun cast its slanting shadows around me. In the distance I heard the faint lowing of the cattle. I arose and slowly wended my homeward way, pondering as I went the future of my classmates.

Year after year we have toiled onward, gaining in patience and perseverance until at last we stand here tonight ready to bid goodbye to our schooldays. And as daily the tides of life are ever ebbing and flowing may our future lot be as bright as my afternoon in the forest had revealed it to be. Though it had decreed that we shall all be separated, yet one's thoughts will oft return to our schooldays, where we spent so many happy hours.

Missionary Work.

We're not going to allow ourselves to get into a groove.

On the contrary, our belief is that a "live" retailer ought to be constantly on the alert for something new, with which to interest his old customers and attract new ones.

Then, again, he must perform a certain amount of labor in educating his patrons up to an appreciation of the best in his line.

In other words he must be a missionary, to a marked extent.

We've done considerable missionary work, of late, in pushing

HOUGHS NECK.

A Quiet, Orderly Fourth at our Summer Resort.

The Amusement Property Sold at Auction at Low Prices.

Threatening weather on the Fourth, a heavy fog and rain on Sunday, and continued dubious weather dampened the ardor of the most enterprising ones at the beach, and some are more or less discouraged. The "night before" was the most quiet one for years and everyone was permitted to get a full night's sleep. The young men in one of Pierce's annexes were wicked, however, early Sunday morning to discharge cannon crackers and awaken the tired children who needed sleep after the Fourth. Yachting, a base ball game and the auctions were the diversions on the Fourth and there was considerable life in spite of the weather.

On Sunday afternoon the chapel on Bay View avenue was opened for the season with services conducted by the Rev. E. N. Hardy of the Quincy Congregational church. About fifty were in attendance, and Miss Jessie Johnson presided at the piano. Mr. Hardy's text was from Revelations 3:20—"Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." The preacher noted the fact that scientists were coming to the same standpoint as the theologian and Christian had long held in the power of God. He maintained that we cannot have a full rich life without religion. As he came down on the car and on other occasions he had studied the faces of those who were trying to have a good time. Especially at a place like this where there is so much for the body do we need to think of the spirit. The religious men get the most enjoyment out of life. We should be not only hearers of the wee small voice within but doers. Word comes to us all to lead a better truer life.

The Wendell Phillips club of South Boston has been to Houghs Neck before and know where to have a good time. They have also found Pierces Hotel very desirable headquarters. They come again on the Fourth of July and were the jolliest tally ho party of the season. In the party were: Edward C. Baldwin, Charles L. Hunter, John Durand, Charles O'Donnell, Walter Mitchell, James Baldwin, Charles Bamburg, John Thornton, Hiram Chase, Henry Mitchell, James Fennon, Miss Nellie Hunter, Miss Carrie Pritchard, Miss Lillian Baldwin, Miss May Baldwin, Miss Nellie Baldwin, Miss Mary Durand, Miss Edith Chase, Miss Abbie Kearns, Miss May Murphy, Miss Abbie Murphy, Miss Flossie Howard, Mrs. Henry Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Bamburg, Miss Lena Kelliher. Among the sports was a game of ball with a local nine, in which they won 15 to 14.

A serious and painful accident happened on the morning of the Fourth to the driver of Eaton's ice team. He was putting ice into a chest when a tonic bottle burst and a piece of glass cut a gash above his mouth which required seven stitches. He pluckily stuck to his cart after the accident.

Mrs. Taber and Miss Taber entertained on the Fourth at the Taber cottage, Mr. George W. Bailey and family of Wollaston, Mr. W. C. Thompson, Miss Hicok and Mr. Mudget.

The beach received a visit the Fourth of July from the renowned Way Back farmer, Edmond S. Torrance. Many have seen him in his travels over the continent, and he made great sport for the boys and amused others. He had a long-haired red wig and small chin whiskers of the same color. He wore a broad-brimmed straw hat, a stripped seersucker vest, a red shirt front and high standing white dickey, a long gray duster, and one leg of his trousers was in his cow hide boot while the other was out side. He carried a typical old carpet bag labelled, "I have just come from the Linden House," and also an old umbrella. Torrance has been engaged as an attraction by one of Brockton's enterprising business men, and for the next month can be seen at Ryder's market. He will probably be exhibited as a freak at the Brockton fair in the fall.

The auction sales on the Fourth of July must have been a disappointment to the owners of the property, especially as it sold considerably below the taxable value. The Quincy & Boston street railway offered its amusement property, and the dance hall building with a store in front and chambers above, together with 8845 feet of land, and was purchased by J. J. Day for an even $1000. The large Linden stable and 7440 feet of land was sold to Charles Galligan of Canton for $750, and he also purchased the lot of 2,925 feet in the rear for $237. The bowling pavilion and 16,179 feet of land caused more spirited bidding but sold for $1875 to John R. Graham. The lot of land on the right of 5613 feet was sold to W. H. Cavanagh for 7 cents, and John R. Graham purchased the lot of 5203 feet on the left for 6 cents.

Before and after the above sale, Auctioneer Macy sold house lots and cottages. Lot 57 on Sea street, at the head of Bell street' containing 6,582 feet, was sold to Peter Fallon for 5½ cents. Lot 33 on Rogers street, of 4050 feet, went to W. H. Cavanagh for 6 cents, and he also purchased lot 88 on Bird street at 7½ cents. Lot 89 on Bird street of 4500 feet went to W. F. Macy at 7½ cents.

The Moondyne cottage on Crosby street of six rooms and 3945 feet was not in great demand, and was bid in at $450. The adjoining lot of 3118 feet was sold to Arthur L. Cady of Brockton for $125.

A petition for a street lighting system for Houghs Neck during the summer months has been circulated and will probably be presented to the City Council this evening.

Rev. Preston Gurney, of the Wollaston Baptist church, will conduct the services at the chapel next Sunday at 3.30.

MANY FIRE ALARMS

Six Rung in the Night Before the Fourth, and Some Still Ones.

Friday night was a busy one for the firemen and they were kept almost constantly on the move from 10.30 until morning, six bell alarms being sounded, although there was but one fire:

The first alarm was from Box 441 which was rung in at 10.40 for a fire in the office and blacksmith shops of C. H. Hardwick & Co. It was the work of an incendiary, both buildings being destroyed; causing a loss of $300.

While the firemen were at work Box 41 came in at 11 o'clock for a brush fire off Granite street.

At 1.15 A. M. Box 39 was sounded, which was followed about 2 o'clock by Box 45, Box 152 at 3.30 o'clock and Box 45 again at 3.35 o'clock, all these being needless.

At Box 152, so anxious were the hoodlums to get the apparatus out, that the box was smashed with a rock.

Besides the bell alarms there were several still alarms at Atlantic which were extinguished by the police, the first being at midnight in a barn back of the engine house; then an out building on Newbury avenue at 3.30, and a shed on the Atlantic Land Co.'s property at 3 o'clock.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

How to Learn to Swim—Safe Daylight Fireworks For the Little Folks. St. Paul's Cathedral.

Every boy and girl ought to know how to swim, and those who propose learning this summer will find help in the accompanying suggestions from The Standard Designer:

A beginner should first get accustomed to the shock of water, and the best way to do this is to wade into a smooth, shallow place, and, standing with the face to the shore, duck under the water so that the head and body are both wet, holding the breath while under the water and snorting on reaching the surface. The inclination to inhale or breathe in will be almost irresistible at first, but it must not be yielded to.

Next select a spot with a smooth bottom and only a foot or two of water and stretch out in it full length. Keep your finger tips on the bottom and raise your body. You will be surprised to see how easily you can do it. Back out slowly to where the water is deeper, and you will find the weight grow less and less as the support under the body becomes greater.

Swimming is easier with the legs and hands well under the water, the head thrown back so as to be as nearly as possible over the lungs. A good plan when learning to swim is to begin by keeping the tips of the fingers on the bottom and swimming with the feet only. Then, little by little, almost unconsciously, one begins paddling with the hands until some day one suddenly realizes that one is swimming. The best plan is to swim always toward the shore until comparatively a master of the art of swimming.

There is no better fun than diving, always provided that one knows how to do it. In India one of the pastimes of the people is diving into jumping wells, where they indulge in a swim. Their method of diving is a very peculiar one. As they jump they spread and bend their arms and legs until they look like the frame of a windmill, but just before touching the water they straighten out, join their hands above their heads, put their toes close together and drop into the pool feet first like an arrow.

In the western world a diametrically opposite plan is followed. The head being the heaviest part of the body, it is used as a plummet, and one must go into the water head first and straight or the result will be a terrible bruising, such as was received by a youth who came up from a dive with his skull well nigh crushed in, only to learn from his grinning audience that there wasn't less than 30 feet of water anywhere thereabout.

Daylight Fireworks.

Fireworks in the hands of very little folks are apt to prove dangerous. So, as The Delineator tells, "daylight fireworks" have been invented for their benefit. These do not need powder to make them go off and are therefore harmless, yet they are great fun. You may send off these fireworks from your own window or veranda and watch them as you do the fire balloons or hissing rockets, only your fireworks will not flash out like the others.

A parachute, you know, is something made to drop from a balloon. Here is a parachute, however, which will sometimes rise like a balloon. Tissue paper of any bright color cut 8 to 12 inches square is used. Each corner of the square is twisted and to it is fastened a bit of thread about a foot long. Then bring the four strings evenly together and tie them in a knot, to which secure a very light bit of stick.

When completed, toss out your little parachute from an upper window of the house. If properly made, it is as light as a kite and will often sail ever so high. After learning just how heavy to make them you can construct any number of parachutes and you will find it great sport watching them dance away in the breeze.

For a whirligig use either writing or wrapping paper, first cutting it into circles 3 or 4 inches across and then into spiral form. In the center of the spiral paste a tiny bit of wood or pasteboard. When the spirals are made—and the more you make of them the merrier—they may be dropped from an upper window like the parachutes. The weight of the wood will open them, and their shape will cause them to rapidly rotate as they descend, making them seem to writhe and wriggle like a serpent.

Collectors' Fads.

Most people have a craze for collecting, and when the collection is of things of beauty or interest nothing is more delightful than to be shown such results of careful searching. But among the most extraordinary of hobbies, that of collecting historic doors seems to be the least satisfactory, and certainly the most inconvenient, seeing that they must need considerable space in which to be kept. Among other odd fads is the collection of chairs and the hats and bonnets of eminent people. Umbrellas, too, that have been used by great persons are eagerly sought for by some collectors, and it is said that the Prince of Wales has for years made a collection of walking sticks, of which he has now a sufficient number to stock several shops.

St. Paul's Cathedral.

Every one who has been to London knows St. Paul's cathedral. Its mighty dome and the golden cross above it look out over miles of smoky streets. The present St. Paul's was built by Sir Christopher Wren, who designed so many London churches. It was begun in 1675 and was not finished till 1711. It is 365 feet high, just as many feet as there are days in the year. In it are the tombs of many of England's greatest heroes, including those of Lord Nelson and the Duke of Wellington. Sir Christopher himself is buried there

GREATER THAN PARTY.

Country Should Be Placed Above Everything, Says Teller.

Willing to Follow Democratic Band Wagon

If Chicago Convention Will Only Declare For Free Coinage of Silver.

Denver, July 6.—Henry M. Teller, at the dedication of the national Eisteddfod auditorium Saturday night, expressed a preference for free trade as an alternative to the gold standard, and formally placed himself in the Democratic ranks if a free silver platform should be adopted at Chicago. In the course of his remarks he said:

If somebody tells you that you want a bigger tariff, let me tell you that you have a bigger tariff now than you had under the Republican tariff of 1883. You have not got now a Democratic tariff; you have a tariff for protection, and not for revenue. You all know it is not a question of tariff. It is a question of the monetary system. It is the question whether we shall make use in this country of both of the great money metals, or whether we shall make use of but one.

When we used both, we had a reasonable degree of prosperity, and from the hour that we began to discredit one, we may date the decadence, the retrograde movement, the depression, the discontent and the uneasiness that exist in every portion of this God-favored land.

This country, like all other free countries, is divided into political organization essential to the maintenance of certain principles, which the great political party announces for its doctrine and bring to the people who believe the principles so announced. Those who disagree range themselves on the other side.

The great danger in a republic is that for a time the people forget that they have organized themselves into this great political organization to define and maintain certain principles, and they begin to think that, after all, there is in that party an association and a name, and when the party does not change its principles you will find men rushing in, still proclaiming fealty to the organization and party name.

I know what it cost to sever connections of a lifetime. I know what it cost to turn your back upon a party with which you have been identified, whose banner you have carried and in whose defense you have been heard. But after all my country is greater than any party; it is dearer than any association—no sacrifice is too great to be made for it.

Hope of Rescue.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 6.—There is a possibility that some of the men entombed in the Twin shaft at Pittston may be taken out alive. The rescuing party reported that they heard rappings on the rails of the gangway road, which may have been caused by some of the entombed men. The rappings were clear and distinct. The supposed signal was answered by the rescuers. After a short silence the answer came clear and distinct. The sound seemed to come a distance of some 300 feet from where the rescuers were at work. The shifts have been increased from 20 men to 35, who are relieved every half hour. They are still cutting through the rock and progressing more rapidly than at any time heretofore.

Yale's Chances.

London, July 6.—The Standard thinks that the Yale crew has improved so much that the result of the race for the grand challenge cup is an open question. In its comment upon the Henley regatta, Sporting Life says: "It is a great pity that Yale and Leander were drawn together for the first heat. It will rob the regatta of a deal of interest, and it means that the Americans will probably be defeated in the first round." The Sportsman expresses similar regrets over the drawing.

Crew Narrowly Escaped.

Oswego, N. Y., July 6.—While in the middle of Lake Ontario yesterday, the steamer Samuel N. Hodge, with 600 tons of wire, caught fire. Steamer St. Joseph was soon beside her. To avoid being burned to death those on board the Hodge jumped into the lake. All were picked up by the St. Joseph's crew. The fire originated near the boiler during Fireman Deeley's trick, and he is supposed to have been cremated. The Hodge was valued at $25,000.

Denied by Diplomats.

London, July 6.—At the Persian embassy here the officials in charge have issued a denial of the report that an attempt was recently made to assassinate the new shah.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

ALMANAC, MONDAY, JULY 6.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Silverites will run the Democratic convention.

There was a riot at a Russian picnic on Long Island.

Free silver Republican clubs are to be organized in Kansas.

There has been 27 cases of cholera, with nine deaths from it, among the Egyptian troops at Wady-Halfa.

The Earl of Ashburnham has decided to sell the famous library of printed books and manuscripts formed by the late earl.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Juvenile cycling experts are more numerous this year than ever before. They blossom out everywhere. Philadelphia has two young wheeling prodigies of which it may well be proud. They are the 7 and 9 year old Walters brothers, Paul and Leslie, who have lately sprung into prominence. The most remarkable feature of the boys' success is the fact that they have had little or no regular training, the father never having considered it worth while to put them through any regular regimen until his attention was called to the fact that his sons were a pair of exceptionally speedy youngsters who would well repay any trouble to which he might go in order to develop their wheeling ability. They are now in the hands of a thoroughly practical and experienced trainer, and under his careful supervision they are exercised several times a week and are put through the same course as to diet, hours and other regulations to which the professional racer is subject. The boys take to their training as great sport and eagerly look forward to the hour when they must do their mile, followed by the tingling rubbing down. Under this course of training the boys are hardening up wonderfully, their wind and staying powers are greatly increased, and they are simply courting challenges.

Not the least interesting feature of the get up of these young racing midgets is the wheels they ride. They weigh respectively 12 and 14 pounds. They are so diminutive in appearance as to resemble toys, but under their stanch little riders they respond instantly to the slightest touch, and the delicacy and perfection of their construction have been no unimportant factor in winning their riders' laurels.

Old Turf Favorites.

The stock farm of the veteran horseman, Robert Bonner, at Tarrytown, N. Y., is interesting in many ways. One feature of the place is the horse graveyard. The graves of such famous horses as Pocahontas, Rarus, Nutbourne, Edward Everett, Startle, Peerless and Grafton are within sight of Mr. Bonner's training track, and conspicuous among the brood mares in the pasture are Maud S and her full sister Russella. Edwin Forrest, who at one time challenged the attention of the country, threatening the track supremacy of St. Julian and even Maud S, is now a common laborer on the farm. He has trotted a mile to high wheel sulky in 2:11¾, but in July, 1895, in the twenty-fourth year of his age, I saw him patiently toiling in front of a mowing machine. It is better for some horses, as it is for some men, to wear out than rust out.—Scribner's Magazine.

A Wonderful Markswoman.

There is a lady in Chicago who is one of the best shots in America. This is Dr. Beatrice Schultz. She is young and pretty and a widow, as well as an excellent markswoman. At target work she can hit the bullseye ten times in succession at 100 feet, can throw a tin can in the air and send five bullets through it ere it reaches the ground and shoot holes in a dime at ten paces distance. She can take a revolver in each hand and send two bullets simultaneously inside the center ring of a target at 30 paces. She can break glass balls and shoot birds on the wing, only she says she doesn't like to kill the birds. And once, she says, she frightened a flying footpad nearly out of his wits by sending a few bullets through his garments after he had made a dismal failure of an attempt to hold her up.—Chicago Chronicle.

For Bulging Cycle Tires.

When a bulge is noticed in a tire, great caution should be exercised in pumping it up, and if possible the air pressure should not be increased until the tire has been opened and the cause of the bulge ascertained. If, as will very probably be the case, the wet has got through a cut in the outer rubber and rotted the fabric, a burst may occur if the tire is pumped hard. In the event of the tire bursting, temporary repairs can be made by patching the air tube. Lay a piece of rag between the air tube and the cover and another on the inside, and bind round with two layers of tape. The repair will stand for some time.

A Queen Convert to Cycling.

One of the latest royal converts to cycling is the queen of Italy, who rides daily except when the weather is bad. Gossip says that the still handsome "Pearl of Savoy" has taken to wheeling chiefly in order to check a tendency toward embonpoint. But, be this so or not, Queen Margherita is now a devoted admirer of the universal cycle.

A Novel Contest.

That was a somewhat novel contest which took place in New York state recently. It was a race between a cyclist and a revenue cutter, and the course was from New York city to West Point. The wheelman beat the cutter by miles and stood on the dock awaiting the arrival of the boat.

Sporting Notes.

Frank Moran, who managed John L. Sullivan in the latter's palmy days, says that the fighting game is dead.

Mme. Scalchi, the famous singer, has joined the L. A. W. She is officially known as Sofia Scalchi, and her address is Ponte Barre, Italy.

It is said now that the Colonia sailed without a compass in her recent race with the Emerald.

Joe Butler of Philadelphia is to go under the management of Howie Hodgkins. Hodgkins wants to match Butler against "Kid" McCoy or Dan Creedon.

For the next fortnight "Kid" Lavigne's lot will not be a pleasant one—that is, as far as dodging challenges from aspiring opponents is concerned.

BUY ·TEA· Of Boston Branch Grocery. WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

Alexander Casinori Killed by a Fellow Workman and Neighbor.

Fatal Ending of an Outing In Which Beer Played an Important Part.

Tremont, Mass., July 6.—Enrico Galerani shot and fatally wounded Alexander Casinori, while the latter, it is claimed, was in a quarrel with Primo Galerani, the former's brother, Saturday night. These men, with others, were in the woods near the North primary schoolhouse, and they had a keg of beer as a feature of their celebration of the Fourth. Casinori and Primo Galerani got into trouble which finally brought about a clinch, during which both men fell. Casinori got Calerani's hand in his mouth and began to chew it. The latter called for help, and Enrico Galerani came, and fired a shot from a 38-calibre revolver at Casinori. The ball struck Casinori in the forehead and passed out near the crown. Casinori remained unconscious nearly all night, and died at 10:05 yesterday morning.

Galerani came home, but shortly after took to the woods, in the direction of Plymouth, in which place he was seen at 2 a. m. by a police officer, and was shortly afterward arrested. He was brought here and placed in the lockup. Galerani said he threw the revolver in the well at his house, but after the well was pumped out it was not found. The prisoner claims that the shooting was an accident; that when his brother called he ran toward the men with a revolver in his hand. This he waved in the air to frighten Casinori, who was on top of his brother, and it was while doing this that the shot was fired. He further explains that just as the weapon was discharged, Casinori straightened up and got hit on the head. Some of the witnesses of the affair tell stories contrary to the prisoner's statement.

Both the prisoner and his victim were employes of the Tremont Nail company. They were neighbors and friends, and are well spoken of by fellow workmen, as being steady and reliable. The dead man leaves a wife and one child. Galerani has a wife and two children.

Two Were Killed.

Bridgewater, Vt., July 6. — While a party of young men were using an anvil for a cannon on Saturday, it burst, instantly killing Charles Miner, aged 30, who leaves a wife and three children, and seriously hurt Willie Cowdrey, aged 19, Thomas Hadley, Bert Woodward and Robert Southgate. Twelve others were slightly hurt. Hadley has since died.

Sickness Was Short.

North Adams, Mass., July 6.—Giovani Mancuso, an Italian, aged 22, died last night from the effects of eating canned food. He was taken sick in the street, and went into a house on Eagle street, where he died two hours later. A physician was summoned, but was unable to help Mancuso.

Lives to Regret It.

North Leeds, Me., July 6.—James Ramsay tried to shoot his wife, his stepfather, Elmer Taylor, and then his sister-in-law, but not succeeding, with five shots, put two into himself, with suicidal intent. He was not dangerously wounded, and was locked up.

Failed to Pass.

Boston, July 6.—A resolution, favoring the free coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, which was forwarded to the Central Labor union by the American Federation of Labor for adoption, was yesterday laid on the table.

New England Briefs.

Sheldon of Yale won the all-round athletic championship.

Urquhart won three gold medals in the city of Boston's bicycle races.

P. A. Goettell of Meriden, Conn., shot himself in the heart at Hartford. Goettell is a newspaper man, and has until recently been employed in Boston.

Horace Williams, aged 21, was instantly killed by the explosion of a cannon at North Grosvenordale, Conn. None of his companions were hurt.

During a storm at Fall River, Mass., lightning struck the tower of the B. M. C. Durfee high school, and then skipped to three dwelling houses near by. No one was injured.

At Cambridge, Mass., Nat and Tom Butler made a new world's tandem record for a mile competition, their time being 1:59 1-5. They also smashed the world's paced mile record and established a new one of 1:45 3-5 seconds.

Edwin Prescott, aged 55 years, was burned to death in his hut at Wentworth Beach, Me. There are suspicions that he became involved in a row with tramps, who were in the vicinity, and was killed, the hut being fired to hide the crime.

Further Evidence of Friendship.

London, July 6.—The London papers, this morning, devote an unusual amount of space to full reports of all the Fourth of July celebrations which took place at different points in Europe on Saturday, including a meeting in this city, at which the speakers favored the unity of the English-speaking world. The newspapers also contain editorials of congratulation at the existing amity.

Kick Against "Big Six."

New York, July 6.—The Central Labor union suspended Typographical union No. 6 yesterday. The union is known as "Big Six," and is one of the largest unions connected with the Central Labor union. Delegate Warner of the International Machinists' union complained of "Big Six." He said the machinists who take care of typesetting machines would not belong to the International Machinists' union and seceded. Then Warner asked "Big Six" to compel these machinists to join his union, but they did not. That was Warner's complaint, and his motion to suspend Typographical union, No. 6, was carried. John Bogert, the representative of "Big Six," came in after this action was taken and protested against the suspension before a fair hearing had been given to the "Big Six" delegates. Nothing further was done, however.

Liquor to Blame.

Philadelphia, July 6. — Two murders were committed within a few hours of each other and at places only a few squares apart late Saturday. Bartholomew Chambley, aged 28 years, received a fatal blow during a drunken brawl, and died yesterday morning. Joseph Kennedy, 24 years old, is under arrest for the crime. Liquor was also the cause of the second murder. James London, aged 23, was shot through the heart by Jacob Chare, aged 23, who is at large. Both the latter men are colored.

A Deadly Duel.

Russellville, Ky., July 6.—Doc Younger went to Adairville, drunk, yesterday, and as he rode out of town he fired his pistol. H. H. Harmon, the town marshal, jumped on a horse and started after Younger. An hour later both men were found dead about a mile from town. Both had been shot through the heart, and only one chamber in each revolver had been discharged. There were no witnesses. Harmon was the only man the town of Adairville has had for years who could keep order.

Cadets Pummel Each Other.

West Point, N. Y., July 6.—Cadet Stuart Heintzleman of New York and Cadet Michael Lucey of Illinois, fought to a finish under the Queensberry rules Saturday. In the seventh round Lucey failed to come to time, and is now in the post hospital with a battered face. The fight was the outgrowth of an attack made by Lucey, as alleged, on Cadet Rea of the yearling class, and Heintzleman had been selected, by lot, to fight Lucey in behalf of the yearling class.

Besant Sees Colonies as Republics.

London, July 6.—Speaking at a meeting in support of the unity of the English-speaking world, Sir Walter Besant declared that he did not believe that Canada, Australia and the other great colonies would continue the fiction of dependence upon Great Britain for any great length of time. "They will go their way," said he, "with the best wishes of Englishmen, and become republics with the friendliest feelings toward England."

Peace In Guatemala.

Guatemala, July 6. — All the troops have returned from the frontier and absolute quiet now prevails throughout the country. The general army review was one of the grandest sights seen here, and President Barrios was enthusiastically cheered by the populace. The preliminary work of the coming exposition is fast being finished, and the general interest taken in it is on the increase. The banks are in a flourishing condition.

Not Offensive.

Rome, July 6.—Ex-Premier Crispi has telegraphed to The Reforma from Naples an explanation of the triple alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy. He says that the alliance is a defensive, and not offensive one, and that the three powers, which are parties to it, mutually guarantee the maintenance of the territorial status quo.

Crazed by Cigarettes.

New York, July 6.—Mrs. ("Del") DeForest of the variety team known as the whirlwind dancers was sent to the insane asylum on Blackwell island yesterday. Mrs. DeForest's insanity is ascribed to the excessive use of cigarets, which she was smoking constantly. Little hope of her recovery is entertained by the physicians.

Pews Were Vacant.

Williamstown, Mass., July 6.—The parishioners of St. Patrick's church, yesterday, refrained from attending services, in accordance with an agreement made among themselves over some matter at issue with the pastor. Besides this, a large number relinquished their sittings in the church until pastoral relations are adjusted.

Satolli's Probable Successor.

Rome, July 6.—According to a newspaper, Bishop Falconio of Acerenza will replace Cardinal Satolli as papal ablegate in the United States. Bishop Falconio was once engaged at Bonaventure college, Allegheny, Pa.

THE BLUES.

A Graphic Description of the Dreadful Feeling.

What Is Meant by This Form of Acute Misery—Where Doctors Make Mistakes.

It is usually this way:—

She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached, and back also; has slept poorly; been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart has beat very fast; then that bearing-down feeling. Her doctor says, "cheer up, you have dyspepsia; you'll be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right." She grows worse day by day, till all at once she realizes that a distressing female complaint is established.

Her doctor has made a mistake.

She has lost faith in him; hope vanishes; then comes the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES. Her doctor, if he knew, should have told her and cured her, but he did not, and she was allowed to suffer. By chance she came across one of Mrs. Pinkham's books, and in it she found her very symptoms described and an explanation of what they meant. Then she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, feeling that she was telling her troubles to a woman. Speedy relief followed, and vigorous health returned.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the story recited above is the true experience of hundreds of women, whose letters of gratitude are to be found on file in Mrs. Pinkham's library.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A Hustling Chicago Woman—Jewels on Gloves—Consideration For Shopwomen. Mrs. Stanton on Wheel Dress—Fads and Fancies of the Season.

In the New South church of Boston recently the Rev. Leslie W. Sprague was installed as pastor, and at the same time and by the same services his wife, the Rev. Lita Frost Sprague, was installed as assistant pastor. It is so uncommon for a woman to be installed in the pastorate of a New England church, particularly in Boston, that an elaborate service was arranged. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and palms, and the venerable Dr. Edward Everett Hale delivered a sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprague have been together in the ministry for seven years. They were graduated together from the Theological seminary at Meadville, Pa., and in 1889 were married. The following year they were ordained in All Souls' church in Chicago and soon afterward were called to a church in Munroe, Wis. From there they went to Pomona, Cal., where they succeeded in building a church in the roughest part of the town. Their success in Pomona was such that they were called to the pastorate of the Second Unitarian church in San Francisco. That was two years ago. They went to Boston to the New South church in January of this year.

Mrs. Sprague is the founder of the woman's parliament of southern California and is also greatly interested in the woman's congress in San Francisco. She is slight in stature and unassuming in manner, but she has a way of winning confidence and sympathy which has made her very successful. She has great ability, and her sermons are strong and interesting.

A Hustling Chicago Woman.

One young woman, who makes her appearance daily in the little group which gathers about the close of the market at the north end of the board of trade corridor, has selected an unusual calling. She is the representative of a cooperage concern and sells and buys staves and headings. What is more, she does it well and has demonstrated in the course of the last five or six months that a woman can sell lard tierces as well as she can do talking if she is of the right sort. The group of which she forms a part each day is interesting in its way. It is composed of about a dozen dealers in cooperage, most of them "boss coopers" running shops employing from 10 to 40 men each. This little group meets to establish prices and make sales at the foot of the stairs running up to the exchange floor.

The young woman who makes a livelihood by selling cooperage got into the business through a peculiar chain of circumstances. She was a stenographer in the office of a Keokuk cooper. He decided to branch out and established an agency here and put a partner in charge. The partner made a bad job of it, and after a reorganization another partner came on and did as badly as his predecessor. The stenographer at the Keokuk office in the meantime had come on to Chicago and had become familiar both with the marketing of the product of the Iowa factory and with the commission business. She was promoted to the management on the failure of the second partner to make a success of the business and has been managing it ever since. Her position is no sinecure, and her appearance in the board of trade corridor is the least part of her duties.

She has had a light little ladder made, to enable her to climb into the cars and inspect stock. She superintends the tallying out of staves and headings, carries on the correspondence of the company and has charge of the banking done here. Her associates at the board of trade meetings are good, substantial, bushy whiskered old men, who are inclined to give her fair play at every point, but they are unanimous in the opinion that, so far as selling cooperage is concerned, she is as good a man as any of them.—Chicago Tribune.

Jewels on Gloves.

The latest fad in the way of eccentric dress is the wearing of jewels upon various articles of clothing. This extravagance originated in gay Paris, where the jewelers are falling over one another in their attempts to find some new use to which to put gems.

There are now on the market, as a unique result of this attempt to find or devise something new, gloves in the backs of which are set precious stones, diamonds, rubies, pearls and emeralds, and, in fact, any gem whose natural color harmonizes or makes a pleasing contrast to the color of the glove. Diamonds seem to be the favorite gems used for this purpose.

The jewels are set in the back of the glove along the seam and are held in place by means of a small nut attachment. Thus far only a few of the more advanced women of the ultra fashionable set have taken to wearing the diamond ornamented gloves, but the fad is slowly but surely spreading, and no man can tell to what extent it may be carried.

Like every other fashion which originates in Paris, the fad of wearing diamond backed gloves has crossed the English channel, and a few of the more daring English leaders of fashion have promptly had jewels set in the backs of their gloves. Following the invariable order of such things, the fad will reach this country during the present season.

American girls will doubtless combine this fad with the other one of wearing the stones appropriate to the month of their birth. Then those who believe in planetary influence upon the human disposition will have only to glance at the glove to know the character of the girl.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Consideration For Shopwomen.

Every conscientious woman should put into practice in her shopping the principles observed by the 1,500 women who are members of the Consumers' league. The women belonging to this league pay no dues, have no meetings and get no benefits except those of an approving conscience. Their names are not even known to the public, only to the officers of the league, whose objects they approve. These objects are to induce women to shop at reasonable hours, to be considerate of those who serve them in the shops and to patronize whenever possible only those stores that are on a so called "white list," which are known as "fair shops." A fair house, according to the requirements of the league, is one in which equal pay is given for equal work regardless of sex and in which the minimum wages are $6 a week for those who are inexperienced; those in which wages are paid by the week and in which the fines if imposed are paid into a fund for the benefit of those employed.

The minimum wages for cashgirls are $2 a week. As to hours, a fair house is expected to make the time from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. a working day and to allow 45 minutes for lunch, with a half holiday once a week during the summer months, one week's vacation with continued pay and a compensation for work done after business hours. Other requirements that must be observed by houses placed upon the "white list" are that sanitary laws shall be observed; that employees shall be provided with seats in accordance with law, and that fidelity and length of service shall meet with consideration.—New York Letter.

Mrs. Stanton on Wheel Dress.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton ridicules the idea that a woman doesn't look well on a bicycle. "No woman could look worse on a wheel than a man bent at an angle of 45 degrees and with coattails flying," she declares. As for dress, she does not doubt that in time women will look pretty and graceful in long stockings, knickerbockers, tight fitting sacks and military caps.

"I like a trim vessel in a storm, with all sails reefed. They will, as an object lesson, illustrate a great natural law—that woman is a bifurcated animal and does not run, as she seems to the ordinary observer, like a churn on casters, a pyramid in shape from waist downward; a being with two legs, for free motion must of necessity have bifurcated garments. This revelation of legs has been a great shock to some sensitive souls, and the debates on the question of what women should wear have been as hysterical as on the first point—should she be permitted to ride at all?

"As she decided the first for herself and defiantly rode off in the face of her opponents, she will decide the second point and wear what she pleases, gradually making changes in dress and wheels as added comfort and convenience demand, and popular prejudices must yield her undisputed sway in this new field of activity, just as they have other strongholds from time to time in the past."

The Latest Imported Fad.

A wholesale firm in New York has imported a number of ladies' canes. These canes come from London and are the fad among fashionable English women. They furnish another example of the homage which is still paid to royalty in that extremely limited monarchy on the other side. The queen has become so old and infirm that she cannot walk without the support of a cane, and in order that their beloved sovereign may not be conspicuous in her infirmity the English ladies have made the cane a fad. It is not the elderly lady who carries it, however, for that would reflect still more upon her majesty's advancing years. Nor is it the new woman who "sports" this attribute of masculinity. The young and frivolous society girl is the one who twirls her stick on the boulevard and promenades at fashionable watering places. The custom began late last summer and has increased in favor until it has boiled over, as it were, into this country.

The canes which have been brought over are selling for $2 apiece, but these are only plain and carved wood without any gold or silver ornamentation, such as English girls boast upon their walking sticks.

India Mull Gowns.

India mulls of exquisite texture and sheer white linen lawns and organdies are made up in simple, charming styles this season, with skirts finished with a very deep hem and one row of lace insertion above, the sleeves close to the arm from the wrist to three inches or so above the elbow, the forearm nearly covered with diagonal rows of lace insertion, says a New York fashion writer. The full, short puff, or three graduated ruffles, set in one above the other, are of the dress fabric, bordered with the insertion, or they are formed merely of 4 or 5 inch wide tucks, which give great fullness to the ruffles. In this case the entire bodice, or else the yoke of the bodice, is formed of the tucked goods, the tucks, as a rule, running horizontally across the figure. In other cases the seamless waist or the yoke alone is made of all over embroidery over a white or tinted lining. A pretty little French gown of cream white india mull is trimmed on the bodice, skirt edge and sleeves, with small frills of the mull bordered with two rows of cream white satin ribbon of the narrowest width that is made. The effect is dainty and girlish.

She Managed the Throttle.

Miss Mary Houston, the daughter of President Houston of the Thompsonville (Conn.) Carpet company and ex-state senator, was at the throttle of the locomotive that drew the Hartford express over one of the roads out of Boston the other evening.

Miss Houston has studied engineering in this county and Europe and knows what she is about. The passengers did not know that the hand of a young woman guided the flying train, which ran steadily as a grandfather's clock and made the run on schedule time.

The regular engineer and one of the officials of the road were in the cab, to be prepared for any emergency, but it never came. Miss Houston handled the engine and the brakes like a veteran, blew the whistle at the proper places, made all the stops, eased up around the curves and steamed valiantly up the grades and coasted cautiously down hill all the way to Hartford.

The officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, the New England and the Boston and Albany railroads all said today that they knew nothing of any such feminine feat, but Miss Houston did run the train, and ran it well.—Philadelphia Times.

Humane and Nervy.

The monstrosity now being erected on the site of the late Tremont House—of blessed memory—causes much heavy teaming to be done up the steep grade of the lower part of Beacon street and affords a test of the nature of the drivers of the heavily laden construction drays.

Not long since one of them, with four horses hitched thereto, was trying to turn the sharp curve of Tremont place when the panting horses stopped to breathe after their hard "collar work" up the hill. The brutal driver began to beat them and had given one of the horses several blows when a lady stepped from the pave and remonstrated, seizing his whip and breaking it into several pieces with her delicately gloved hands in spite of the curses and harsh words which came from the man's lips. She spoke kindly to and petted the poor horses, and amid the cheers of the bystanders told the astonished driver how to manage and use his willing team and saw them start afresh and nobly do their work.—Boston Transcript.

An Advanced Organization.

The Pioneer club, a London organization composed of women, is more advanced than any other similar associated body of women in the country. Started four years ago by 20 women, the membership now counts over 500. It is conducted on the lines of a man's club, with sleeping rooms for members in its clubhouse, a restaurant, where once a week a club dinner is served, and a smoking room sacred to members only, where as yet nothing stronger than the cigarette is in use. Mrs. Massingberd is the founder of the club and is its first and still acting president. Some well known members of the club are Lady Henry Somerset, Olive Schreiner, Lady Florence Dixie, Sarah Grand, Lady Hatherton and other famous women. The motto of the club is perhaps its best exponent, "They say—what say they—let them say."

Tone Handkerchiefs.

Every one in Paris is going wild over the tone handkerchiefs just now. The linen thread is dyed in fast colors before it is woven, and it is marvelous to see what delicate tones are obtained. The pale grays, blues and greens and dainty shades of rose, lavender and yellow are most in demand. Some of the handkerchiefs are perfectly plain, with the narrow hem; some are edged with real lace, while others are embroidered. One of the prettiest has a true lovers' knot in delicate tracery; another, of pale rose, has a bowknot in one corner and garlands of forgetmenots in the other corners. They vary in price from $3 to $6 each and look like cobwebs. They are all of exquisite texture and yet stand more real wear and tear than a coarser linen.

Sleeves.

There is a decided dwindling of the sleeves on the most correct of Parisian tailor gowns, but for evening and dressy afternoon toilets there is a full single puff. On demidress gowns the wrinkled portion of the sleeve is encroaching upward on the region of the puff, which indignantly asserts itself in a little compact globe about the shoulders or gives way with good grace to the single, double or triple frill. If only we are able to be kept from going to extremes in the matter of frills, it will prove a pretty change of fashion.—New York Post.

If the face becomes badly burned through wheeling in a high wind, rub it with olive oil and vaseline or cover the face with cloths dipped in warm water containing bicarbonate of soda, which is both healing and cooling.

A convenience designed for country houses where no ice is to be had is a large covered pail lined with charcoal. In this pail, if kept in a cool place, water is said to remain as fresh and cool as if just taken from the well.

Miss May Abraham, the new English superintendent of factory inspectors, is a beautiful woman of the Semitic type. She began her career as Lady Dilke's private secretary.

When dry mustard is used to season a salad, measure it exactly and mix it with the salt used. This will prevent it from lumping, as it has a tendency to do when added alone.

Milk keeps from souring longer in a shallow pan than in a milk pitcher.

SILVER, 16 TO 1,

The Slogan of the Democratic Convention.

HEAD OF THE TICKET

May Be Chosen From Among the Dark Horses.

Everything at Present Is In a Decidedly Chaotic Condition.

Chicago, July 7.—On the day of the Democratic national convention all is confusion. Only one thing looms up like a searchlight in the fog that hangs over the situation and obscures the vision of the wisest and most farseeing of the leaders. That is the convention will be for silver at 16 to 1. As for candidates the convention is still groping in the dark. The din of the Bland and Boles boomers is deafening and so infectious at times that it almost carries the public off its feet. Bland is unquestionably in the lead so far as actual votes are concerned, his strength approximating 250, a liberal estimate, with Boles moving along at his heels with about 200, but neither is able to demonstrate as yet how he can win. In this chaotic condition of affairs, gossip and speculation casts about for dark horses. William J. Bryan, the boy orator of the Platte, Vice-President A. E. Stevenson, John R. McLean, the Ohio journalist; Senator Joe Blackburn of Kentucky, Senator White of California, all share the distinction of being canvassed. Even Senator Hill is talked of, and his famous Elmira speech of 1893 is recalled as an evidence that he is a bimetallist and would make a strong compromise candidate. The name of ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio is also heard. The Pennoyer boom from Oregon was formally launched yesterday, and ex-Congressman Joe Sibley of Pennsylvania announced his candidacy. At work in the background is the senatorial movement for Teller, with the free silver Republicans and their allies, the Populist, leaders straining every nerve to impress on the convention the advisability of nominating the Colorado man. With all these silver forces struggling against each other, with the gold men solid and compact, ready to obey orders, it is a shrewd political prophet who can point the way out. It will require at least another day for the fog to lift.

CHICAGO COLISEUM.

The silver leaders now reluctantly admit that their two-thirds majority is an undisciplined mass, running hither and thither, possibly to be stampeded in the end. They started out with the announced intention of getting together and arranging a program to be put through by the sheer force of their majority. They were to abrogate the two-thirds rule, and select their candidate in a caucus of silver. Both these projects were put aside, and they are now at the door of the convention with the question of a candidate open, and a deadlock inevitable. It will require every silver vote in the convention to nominate, and the friends of any one candidate can, if the gold men do not plump their votes to a silver man who may be formidable, but not the choice of the majority, prevent an early nomination. This would play into the hands of those who are maneuvering to bring forward Teller at the opportune time, or if the sentiment of the convention refused to yield to the leader of the St. Louis bolters, into the hands of the managers of a dark horse.

Buck Hinrichsen's poll of the Illinois delegation, showing a majority for Bland, was confirmed when the delegation voted, 47 to 1, to support the Missourian. Kansas and Texas also fell in line for Bland, and these acquisitions made "Silver Dick's" followers very confident, but Boles' boom also grew apace. Iowa's ex-Governor's managers received assurances of support from the south, which buoyed up their hopes. The Iowa candidate at present has the support of many eastern gold men, who expect to bow to the will of the majority. Bland, they urge, is a man of single idea. In the end, the situation seems to possibly point to an outsider, as the termination of this political strife.

The silver men go into the convention with nothing decided as to the platform, and there promises to be a ruction, and perhaps bad blood over the matter. A very considerable number, with their eyes on the votes of the silver Republicans, desire to completely ignore the tariff question, while others are in favor of a moderate declaration for a tariff which will raise sufficient revenue to run the government. On the other hand, there are radicals who want an absolute free trade plank in the platform. The Nebraska delegation yesterday elected a member of the committee on resolutions who wants a free trade declaration.

Governor Altgeld and Senator Tillman are fighting for a condemnation of the president by name, while others insist there shall be a denunciation of the administration's bond issue, they would forego any mention of Mr. Cleveland. The friends of the administration are very anxious to forestall any reflection upon the president, and the cooler heads among the silver leaders are disposed to acquiesce. They will make every effort to avoid the disruption of their party consistent with the firm maintenance of their opposing views on the single issue.

The gold men had control of the national committee, despite every effort of the silver men to wrest it from their grasp, and they used it in a way that cannot but inflame the silver men. By a vote of 27 to 23, they placed the Nebraska 16 gold delegates on the temporary roll. They elected Senator Hill for temporary chairman by the same vote. Mr. Hill himself was appealed to by his friends among the silver leaders, like Senator White of California and Cockrell of Missouri, not to accept. They explained to him how distasteful it would be for many of the senator's silver friends among the delegates, who admired and respected him, to be obliged to oppose his installation, but Mr. Hill would not consent.

The result is that the silver men will suggest Senator Daniel and Senator Hill may be humiliated by defeat. It is said that if elected, Senator Hill will, perhaps, greatly surprise those who elected him by making a speech, which, while it would oppose free coinage, would advocate submission to the will of the majority as one of the cardinal principles of the Democratic faith. But on this point the silver men have their teeth set.

There was some talk of some sort of high handed parliamentary procedure on Chairman Harrity's part by which Mr. Hill would be installed over the protest of the convention, but good parliamentarians declare that this is impossible. "The name offered by the national committee must be immediately submitted to the convention," said Senator White of California, who was temporary chairman at St. Louis in 1888. "It will then be in order to offer a substitute, and Senator Daniel's name will be presented. Much as we regret personally the turning down of Mr. Hill, it will be done. In my opinion the action of the national committee accomplishes nothing, and will only result in intensifying the bitterness at the outset."

If Mr. Hill is cut off his friends say that he will find a way to make the convention hear him, even if he is obliged to rise to a question of personal privilege. The Nebraska gold delegation will undoubtedly be promptly ousted.

Since the action of the national committee in selecting Senator Hill for temporary chairman, there has started a canvass for him for president, and this boom assumed a formidable shape last night, although the silver men are as confident as ever that Bland or Boles and Editor McLean of Ohio will lead the ticket.

The Hill movement, coming unexpectedly, has set the silver men thinking. The city is crowded with Democratic shouters. The Bland men had a parade last night, and 2000 strong excited considerable enthusiasm. The silver men still apparently hold the strong hand and are soliciting votes for Bland and Boles for the presidency.

The Massachusetts delegation met at the Palmer House, and without friction decided upon John E. Russell for resolutions, John C. Crosby for credentials, George F. Maxwell for permanent organization, James Donovan for notification, and Judge Corcoran for member of the national committee. An effort was made to substitute John F. O'Brien for Maxwell, and it failed by a vote of 14 to 10.

The Oklahoma delegation, at their meeting last night, decided that it would be unwise to join in any general silver caucus. Although Oklahoma is a 16 to 1 silver state, instructed for Bland, the six delegates are strongly inclined to join with the gold people in supporting Senator Hill for temporary chairman.

Silver Men's Program.

Pushing their pet theory to its furthest limit, the free coinage men now propose to add a plank amending legislation which shall forbid discrimination against silver in the making of private contracts. This information comes from the best of authority.

Free silver coinage, at the ratio of 16 to 1, without reference to any other nation, will be amended. Silver is to be given full legal tender power for all debts, public and private, and to give the fullest effect to it is the intention, if the silverites' ideas prevail, to prevent a man from contracting to pay a debt in gold or in any other particular kind of money. In other words, all debts shall be payable only in legal tender money—gold, silver or paper, as the debtor chooses.

What Governor Altgeld, who is credited with having a gold clause in all his real estate mortgages, says to this proposal is not known. Of course, such legislation should not be made retroactive, and could affect only such contracts as were made after its passage.

This silverite proposition, which it is stated with great assurance will be part of the platform, shows how determined the white metal men are to "go the whole hog," and provide everything necessary to put their favorite coin on top of the heap.

"No compromise — 16 to 1" is their slogan, and the mere suggestion of their meeting the eastern Democrats — not half way, but an inch from their chosen ground—is like waving a red flag before a bull.

President Cleveland will not be mentioned in the platform, but what one of the leaders was pleased to call "Clevelandism" is to be condemned in unsparing terms. This means that the selling of bonds to keep gold in the treasury will be anathematized along with the other features of the Democratic administration.

There will be one part of the president's policy that will not be thus condemned. That relating to Venezuela will escape. The foreign plank at this writing is not definitely settled, but will probably simmer down to a declaration in favor of a vigorous support of the Monroe doctrine. There is likely to be

ON THE OTHER SIDE.

Ancients' Journey Across the Pond Was a Most Pleasant One.

The Glorious Fourth Was Fittingly Celebrated.

Ladies With the Party to Be Received by the Princess of Wales.

Queenstown, July 7.—The first stage in the Ancient and Honorables' journey from home was completed late last night, when the steamer Servia, from Boston, touched this port. The trip thus far has been for the most part over summer seas and under cloudless skies, and all the party declare they are having a most delightful time.

A member of the London Honorable Artillery company met the party here, and accompanied them on the Servia to Liverpool, where they arrived today and took a train for London.

During the trip across Yankee enthusiasm, which had been somewhat subdued since the second day, commenced to bubble right merrily as the ever glorious Fourth approached. Those of the party who had necessarily sought the seclusion which their cabins granted almost from the start, came on deck, and as the sun went down Friday evening it was apparent that "Old Glory" was to have a solid and substantial anniversary, and that the attending constituency would number about every one of the party enlisted on the historic rolls of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company.

This was to be an old remembrance of the glorious Fourth. At sea, on the deck of a British steamer, under the fiery cross of England, an American military organization was to hold forth in remembrance of Independence day.

The evening passed quietly, although there was here and there admonition that the committee on celebration was completing its arrangements, and that those who were to take active part were getting in shape for the duties of the morrow. Everybody retired with pleasant anticipations of the coming day.

Sunrise was noted by the ship's chronometer, and then a very brave national salute from the Ancient's cannon of small calibre, but of pronounced talking abilities, brought everybody on deck. The parade of the antiques and horribles was a funny feature, and the "Ancients' elixir," carried by Sergeant Bensemoil, and sampled by all who would, greased the ways for a day of patriotic enjoyment.

The dinner at noon was the grand affair, and was attended by every Ancient, each wearing the full dress uniform of the corps.

Colonel Walker, following the discussion of the substantial dinner, made a very handsome address of welcome, and was followed by Hon. Harrison Hume of Maine, a member of the company, who delivered an oration full of patriotic fire, and brimming with eloquent words and loyal sentiments. The dinner closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Bayard, wife of the United States ambassador, will accompany the ladies who have come to England with the Honorable Artillery company of Boston, to Windsor tomorrow, upon the occasion of the queen's inspection of the Boston company. At their special request, she will introduce these ladies to the Princess of Wales at the Marlborough House on Friday. The Prince of Wales has issued a number of special invitations to well-known people for the inspection of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, at the Marlborough House. The Princess of Wales will receive the ladies of the party.

MacVeagh's Prediction.

London, July 7. — The Paris correspondent of The Times refers again this morning to the official report of Wayne MacVeagh's speech at the Fourth of July celebration of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris, in which he declared that there was no serious danger whatever that America would ever consent to abandon the standard of values of the civilized world for that of semi-civilized nations. This utterance of Mr. MacVeagh's has attracted widespread attention, and is apparently regarded as deeply significant.

Wiborg Goes to Jail.

Philadelphia, July 7.—J. H. S. Wiborg, late captain of the steamer Horsa, whose conviction for engaging in an alleged filibustering expedition was affirmed by the United States supreme court, surrendered himself in the federal district court yesterday to complete his sentence of one year and four months. He was taken to the Eastern penitentiary.

KILLED ON RAILROAD.

The Young Man Was a Former Resident of Quincy.

Stephen Morse, Jr., a son of Stephen Morse of this city was killed on the Boston & Maine railroad on Monday. The Boston Globe gives the following report of the fatality:

Stephen Morse, Jr., of Wellington, was struck and almost instantly killed by a train at the Boston & Maine railroad station at that place Monday afternoon.

He had taken the train leaving Boston at 5.06 P. M. arriving at Wellington at 5.15. He stepped from the train as it stopped at the station and had barely placed one foot on the nearest rail of the middle track when a south-bound express struck him, throwing him several feet. From the injuries he died in a few minutes without regaining consciousness.

A number of other passengers had a narrow escape and owe their lives to being a little behind him.

Mr. Morse was 38 years old and carried on an extensive trucking business in Somerville. He was very popular in Wellington, where he had lived for many years.

He was married, but had no children.

Good Weather Coming.

A young lady, who keeps the record every year of the weather for twelve days commencing with Christmas day, says the weather for the past six months has been much like the six days which are supposed to govern the months.

Her predictions for July are stormy and disagreeable the first of the month, followed by pleasant and almost perfect weather the rest of the month.

For August she predicts a perfect month with fine weather, so it will be safe to plan for vacations.

September is to start off well but toward the middle of the month will be stormy with fair weather the last of the month.

October will not be a very pleasant month, as there will be considerable cloudy and stormy weather with a few bright pleasant days and the last week of the month pleasant.

November and December promise to be pleasant and cold.

BOSTON'S BLUFF.

Pretends Not to be Satisfied with Best End of Bargain.

It is said Boston does not intend to give up the city's water system to the State without making a determined and stubborn fight in the courts That the city is accumulating evidence and has engaged Engineer Allen as an expert, so that when the Metropolitan water board takes the next installment everything will be in readiness for the legal battle. The state board has until 1898 to take the water system of Boston and they intend to pay the city only $6,000,000 for the system which cost it $26,000,000.

Boston has had everything its own way on this Metropolitan water system from the start and the bill was practically drafted by its corporation counsel. The idea of the large water system was conceived wholly for the benefit of Boston, and the suburban towns were roped in without asking whether they desired to be or not, to pay a good part of the expense. The bill provides that Boston shall receive a large rebate for its system, but Quincy is obliged to abandon hers, and what does she receive? Nothing! If Quincy was to receive about 25 per cent. of the cost of her water works she might kick, but we don't think she would. As it is Quincy's assessment will be a burden for a few years, while the income in Boston will more than meet the yearly assessment and expenses including interest.

For the Ledger.

A Dangerous Corner.

The sharp turn at the corner of Washington and Coddington streets is very dangerous, as a team can hardly see an approaching car until it may hear the warning bell. Then the street is very narrow and if two teams meet, and perhaps a car is due, the wagon from the grain store may still more complicate matters. The poor pedestrian must take care of himself.

We are told by the ex-President of the street railway that a lantern used to be hung at night upon the post there. The place to put a lantern in, is still on the post. Should not a danger signal be placed there even in the daytime, and a lantern lighted there at night? No accident occurs, but the situation is a very poor one.

The travel down Coddington street is very great; cars, teams and countless wheels constantly passing until within a few day, there was no sprinkling by the city. Two at least of our residents are heavy taxpayers, and more estates are well represented by taxes.

An enterprizing lady resident, Mrs. Nash, went around with a petition for the city to sprinkle, Mr. Morton and Mr. H. H. Faxon refused on principle to sign it. The authories told her if she could raise twenty-five dollars by subscription they would put on the carts, and this was done through her energy and patience, so now there is relief from the clouds of dust. The wagon loading and unloading grain crosses the sidewalk so often that people walking are placed in a disagreeable, not to say sometimes dangerous, position. Altogether this corner is a nuisance to citizens. F.

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. COUNTY BILLS.

Counsel Well Paid for Appearing Before Legislature.

Exasperating Rumors of Future Expenses by Commissioners.

Talk of Printing Mr. Morse's Speech in Memorial Volume.

Those who do not see the necessity of county commissioners appearing before the committee on counties to secure county appropriation, will feel more indignant when they learn the fees paid. These items are not for services at the investigation but before; the returns having just been made to the office of the Secretary of State:

Norfolk County Commissioners to Counsel Fred Joy, $250; to Counsel T. E. Grover, $300, for appearances before the committee on counties; to T. E. Grover, $100, for appearance before Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

"If the Norfolk County Commissioners keep up their present tactics, the people of the county, instead of applying for an injunction to restrain the commissioners from paying out the funds of the county for illegitimate purposes, will have to go to the Probate Court and ask for the appointment of a guardian over one or two of the men who are at present holding the position.

"The latest scheme of the commissioners, and it is fortunate that as yet it is nothing more than a scheme, is to have the proceedings in connection with the dedication of the Dedham Court House, as well as the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the county, printed in book form, each copy being embellished by numerous cuts of the court house, and its magnificent furnishings and the pictures of the three commissioners.

"Outside the matter of expense, the issue of such a book by the county would perhaps be justified, provided also the evidence against the commissioners in connection with the building of the court house could be overlooked, but the commissioners have gone farther, for longside of the historical address of Judge Ely, the speech of Chief Justice Mason of the Superior Court and the other numerous addresses on the occasion of the dedication a year ago, the commissioners desire to print in full the $2,500 address delivered before another gathering in connection with the court house, by Hon. Robert M. Morse.

"One or two of the commissioners are much enamored with Mr. Morse's speech on that memorable occasion, at the close of the investigation at the State House, and it said, that after reading the stenographic report of the eminent lawyer's remarks, they have forgotten that they ever used anything but the most honorable methods in conducting the affairs of the county.

It is also the intention of the commissioners to print in the volume as much of the testimony as justifies their side of the case, just as the commissioners had Judge Grover's statement of the expenditures of the county for the past five years printed in the Dedham Transcript, during the hearing before the legislative committee on Counties, and omitted to give the inhabitants of the county any further knowledge as to what happened after Judge Grover's remarks had been completed.

A volume containing the history of Norfolk county, from the able pen of Judge Ely, the laudatory address of Chief Justice Mason, the magnificent defence of Robert M. Morse, together with a copy of his receipted bill for the same, a number of half-tones of the cathedral chairs, and a photograph of the registry of probate room, with its nine big windows, lighted by four electric lights and six big chandeliers, bound in full morocco and gilt, with a striking likeness of Chairman Melville P. Morrell as a frontispiece, would make a work which posterity would look upon as unique.

The people of the county have certainly borne enough of the tom-foolery of the commissioners, and such a proceeding as the publication of this volume would be stopped at the outset. That the commissioners are really desirous of putting the scheme through is well known in different parts of the county, and two Hyde Park gentlemen have been asked not only to take charge of the books, but have been requested to figure in the cost of printing Mr. Morse's speech.

an end of the matter, without any attempt to define what Democracy considers the Monroe doctrine.

A resolution favoring Cuban liberty will probably be introduced separately, for the free coinage men are endeavoring to keep as much as possible out of the platform proper, in order to emphasize the coinage plank.

There will be an immigration plank, declaring that the best way to protect American labor is to prevent the admission of foreign paupers to this country to compete with American labor in its home fields.

A tariff plank similar to those recently adopted in Democratic conventions, declaring for a revenue tariff sufficient to meet the expenses of the government, administered as economically as possible, is planned, but it will not be given the prominence accorded it in 1892.

The silverites do not intend that the tariff question shall in any way obscure the money issue. They say they yielded to President Cleveland's friends to make it the great issue four years ago, and the Democracy won the fight. No sooner had that happened than the president thrust the financial question to the front. They intend to take up the gage of battle and fight to a finish on that question alone.

In this the free coiners have an eye to the Republicans, as well, and propose to force them to relegate the tariff, protection and McKinleyism to the background, and to make the fight on their single gold standard plank.

Sound Money Men Hopeful.

The situation in the eastern gold camp has crystallized enough to enable one to get more of an idea of a settled plan than has hitherto prevailed. The gold men will not, as a body, leave the convention, and it is doubtful if any individual members take that course. The leaders are all against it, although it is believed that William C. Whitney would be pleased to see another convention with a gold standard platform. The most radical action that the gold standard men will take has practically been settled, and that is to follow the plan adopted by the Montana delegation at the national Republican convention in St. Louis, to remain in the convention hall, with the notification that they will act in their individual states as to the support of the platform and national ticket, as the Democrats of their states desire. But even this latter proposition is tempered, and the action may not take place, if the silver majority does not inordinately trample upon the rights and privileges of the gold minority. In these resolves the gold men say they are backed by the unbroken Democratic principles of majority rule. Such Tammany men as Senator Cantor, Congressman Sulzer and John C. Sheehan assert that they will abide by what the majority does, and will not bolt or refuse to vote on any question. The majority of the New York delegates are apparently of the same mind, and Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, the other leading states in the gold movement, are in sympathy.

As to the action of the convention on the temporary chairmanship, the delegates will fight tooth and nail for Hill, and they are very chipper with the hope that they may secure a number of silver votes to aid them. It has been developed that gold men, to make a show of fairness in the convention, will vote to unseat the Nebraska gold men seated by the national committee, and will ask support in return from the silver men for the Michigan gold men and for Hill. The silver men on the contrary seem to be afraid that there will be a division of their forces on the Hill question that may hurt their cause. It has been rumored that Boies has been dickering for the eastern vote, and that a few silver states that have had Vice President Stevenson in mind are also looking to New York and other gold states for votes. Pennsylvania is not in this alleged dicker, remaining faithful to Pattison. Altgeld and Senator Jones are most disturbed, and demand a short convention, but the gold men say that it will be a prolonged one.

The gold men were jubilant over the further fact that they had defeated the silver men's plans for a caucus.

Sibley a Candidate.

Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania arrived here yesterday, and opened headquarters at the Auditorium. He announces himself as a candidate for the presidential nomination on a free silver platform, and his friends, who have been here for several days, started a vigorous, earnest campaign in behalf of his candidacy. Mr. Silby's friends have received assurance from some of the silver leaders that if Pennsylvania will drop Pattison, and vote for Sibley, the state can name the choice of the convention. General Warner, president of the Bimetallic league, has assured Mr. Sibley of his support, and the belief is strong that if the silverites decide to select an eastern man for either first or second place on the ticket, they will unite on Sibley. It is also said that Mr. Sibley will be supported by the silver senators from the northwest.

The Democratic Clubs.

A conference of the representatives of the state associations, comprising the national association of Democratic clubs, was held last night at the headquarters of the National association at the Auditorium. Congressman Benton McMillin of Tennessee presided. The states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota, Utah, Wisconsin, Iowa, Colorado and California were represented. The condition of the club organizations in these states was reported to be uniformly of a satisfactory character. The reports on the probable attendance of clubs throughout the country at the national convention to be held in St. Louis on Sept. 20, was of a character to insure the most largely attended gathering of Democratic clubs in a national campaign in the history of state and national league club organizations. Another conference of the representatives of the state organizations and the executive committee of the National association, will be held at the headquarters in the Auditorium on Wednesday evening.

HOUGHS NECK.

Sewer Disposal and Street Lighting Among the Needed Improvements.

We don't hear much about sewer disposal for Houghs Neck in the deliberations of the City Council on a sewer system for Quincy. But it is not necessary to drain Houghs Neck into the Quincy system. Three or four pipes could be run out to sea which would effectively discharge all the sewage of Houghs Neck for many years as is done at Newport, R. I., at small cost and at no damage or nuisance to any one.

The petition for street lights has not yet been presented and there is some feeling over the wording thereof. W. H. Taylor is outspoken in the matter. He says the committee was instructed to petition for lights, and by this was meant lights all the year round. But the petition reads for the summer months. He lives at the Neck all the year round and he says it is in the winter that they are most needed. Summer residents however, say it would be an entering wedge to have lights in the summer, and it might not be long before they would burn all the year. It is not best to ask for too much, because then we would get nothing.

There is a debt of about $280 on the protestant chapel on Bay View avenue which gives the trustees hope to wipe out this year. It offers the Quincy churches an opportunity to do a little home mission ary work.

The petition of the eight common victuallers at Houghs Neck are still in abeyance, as the proceeding of the City Council show, and in keeping open for business all day Sunday they are liable to prosecution. The objection of some of the Councilmen to granting common victuallers' licenses in other parts of the city is said to be the cause of the delay.

THE AQUATIC SPORTS.

First Prizes to the Locia, West Wind and the Trix.

The aquatic events of Atlantic's Fourth of July celebration came off as scheduled in spite of the fog and report to the contrary.

The yachts were classified as follows, 18 feet and up, first class; under 18 feet, second class.

The starting gun for first class was fired from yacht Agilis, which was used as judges' boat, at 4.25 P. M. The following yachts started in this class. Locia, Magnolia, Payomet, Huron, Burgess, Arcturus and Naiad Queen. The Locia won first prize, and Magnolia second prize.

But two yachts entered in the second class, the West-Wind and the 98. The West-Wind won first and the 98 the second prize.

There were but two dories entered for the dory race, the Trix and Dainty. The Trix easily won first prize, leaving the second for the Dainty.

After the yachts were well under-way and out of sight in the fog, the rowing race was started, which resulted in the capture of first prize by John Stuart, while Fenton Fowler secured second.

$100 Reward $100.

MR. RICE FOR GOLD.

Silver Would Cause Good Times for a While but Depression Also.

Men in the shoe trade have been interviewed by the Herald, which has the following from our well known townsman:

Mr. William B. Rice of Rice & Hutchins, large shoe manufacturers, with offices at 125 Summer street, is a pronounced believer in a single gold standard. He believes this to be the only safe standard to accept at the present time, or even for the future, so far as it can be judged by present indications. He believes that the adoption of free silver would work a terrible injury to American industries. Bearing on that particular point he was asked:

"If you felt assured that within a year there would be a free silver administration in power and a free silver law, would that fact influence you in any degree in making contracts extending for a period beyond that length of time?"

"It most certainly would," he answered. "Confronted with such a condition I would make no contracts extending beyond a year, unless they were payable in gold."

"What do you think would be the effects on business of the passage of free silver legislation?"

"I have no doubt that for a time there would be a more active business. Such an inflation would naturally bring about a livelier condition of trade, but it would be only temporary, and would be followed by a depression. Those who own property would temporarily benefit from rise in prices. I think there would be an increase in prices and that those who had anything to sell would make a greater profit. This would be temporary. Those nimble enough to sell out in time would make money. I believe we would eventually be obliged to return to a gold standard."

"Wouldn't you favor some compromise on bimetallism?"

"No," was the emphatic reply. "I don't believe in that bimetallic rot at all. I'm a gold man, and I want the gold standard maintained. If we can't have that let us have free silver. Then merchandise would have one valuation in gold and another in silver. But I don't believe in this bimetallic talk. It costs the United States too much to maintain the theory that a silver dollar is just as good as a gold dollar."

BENJ. J. WEEKS, Superintendent.

NEURALGIA BOUND HIM WITH BANDS OF PAIN

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Situation In New England Vastly Improved by Heavy Rain.

Fruits and Berries Making a Good Showing.

Boston, July 7.—The New England section of the United States agricultural bureau issues the following bulletin:

A heavy, soaking rain fell over the most of Maine on the afternoon and night of the 4th, benefitting grass and hoed crops very much. The first part of the week had been hot and drying, and field crops were wilting to a considerable extent, but since the rain they show a marked improvement. The correspondent at Lewiston states that crops never looked better at this season of the year. He says the hay crop will not be so bulky as last year, but will be more solid and hardy, and probably of equal value. Most correspondents think the crop will be considerably below the average, though there is no doubt but the rain will cause a marked increase in the growth. Haying has begun to a limited extent, but is not general yet in this state. Potatoes and corn are both reported a little backward, but growing well. Apples and small fruits are very promising and are growing well.

The week has been generally favorable for work in New Hampshire, and haying and hoeing have been pushed along together. All field crops, grass lands and pastures were feeling the effects of the hot, drying weather very badly, but the rain has given present relief, and the outlook is more promising. The correspondent in Carroll county reports that corn looks discouraging, and that crops are backward and looking rather poor on the whole, but the general report is that field and garden crops are growing well, except on very light soil. Grain is very good. Grass is reported to be better than was expected before getting into it, but it promises to be very light in most fields. A correspondent in Merrimack county says small fruits will be poor on account of the drought, but generally raspberries are doing well and blackberries have set for a large crop. Apples are still promising and not falling badly, except in a few instances.

The weather was very dry and windy in Vermont till the 4th, and crops suffered to a considerable extent. Pastures and grass on dry fields suffered especially; the former turned brown very fast, and the latter dried up and decreased in amount where not cut. The rain of the 4th and 5th amounted to about one-half inch in southern districts, but in Addison county over two inches came. The ground took most of the rain, and much good will result to crops. Haying has begun, and correspondents report a light crop where cut. Field crops have grown well generally, and are promising. Strawberries have been good and of remarkably good flavor. Apples are dropping some, but generally there are enough left for the best good of the trees.

The weather has been generally favorable for haymaking in Massachusetts, and much hay has been housed in eastern counties in good condition. Crops were feeling the effects of the dry weather seriously, especially in north central districts, but the rains of the last of the week have moistened the top of the ground, and changed the outlook to a marked extent. Hail fell in a thunderstorm in the Connecticut valley on the 3d, doing some damage to tobacco fields in Southampton and vicinity, though not seriously. Tobacco is growing well, and reports from Hampden county state that it stands on an average about one foot in height. Corn and potatoes are doing fairly well. Garden crops are coming into the market in good quantity, and of fine quality. Tomatoes are very large. Wild raspberries are ripening, and a fair crop. Blackberry bushes hang very full. Blueberries are coming into the markets, and a good crop is indicated. Cranberries are in blossom, and promise well.

The week has given fine growing weather in Rhode Island. The first part was warm, with much sunshine, and the last cool and cloudy, with a good shower on the 4th and 5th. Haying has been delayed, but the crop has been improved. Hoed crops are all growing well.

The week has been very favorable in Connecticut, and all crops are promising. One correspondent in Fairfield county reports that, during a ride over the county on the 4th, he made the following observations: "Rye is ready for the reaper, is heavy and stands up well; oats are of a very rank growth; potatoes looking fair; corn small, but good color; crop of blackberries and raspberries large; few fall pears; hardly an average apple crop; hay crop almost an average, but more daisies than usual." Other correspondents tell about the same story about all crops. In New Haven county new potatoes show some scab, but yield well. Turnip seed cutting has commenced in this county with a good crop. Quince bushes are showing signs of blight. Grapes are promising very plenty in Tolland county.

Book Plant Tied Up.

Cambridge, Mass., July 7.—Under authority from President Prescott of the International Typographical union, 171 compositors, bookbinders and helpers walked out of Ginn & Co.'s book publishing plant yesterday. Some of the men are Harvard graduates, able to set type and make up books printed in Greek, Latin and other foreign tongues, and the mental standard of the entire force is quite high. The trouble was precipitated about three weeks ago in the bindery, where a number of non-unionists were employed to take the place of union employes.

Disturbed Doctor's Rest.

Chatham, N. B., July 7.—John McKane and Norman McKenzie were at the Waverly hotel, Newcastle, and were making some noise at 4 a. m., when Dr. Baynon of New Orleans, a guest at the house, requested them to make less noise and allow him to sleep. This angered the two, who followed Baynon to his room and gave him a severe beating, in the midst of which he drew a revolver on them. One ball left a mark along the top of McKane's head, and the other two took effect in McKenzie's wrist and shoulder. The latter is in a very critical condition. Dr. Baynon went and gave himself up.

Charged With Murder.

Wareham, Mass., July 7.—The case of Enrico Callerani, arrested for the murder, on July 4, of Allessandro Tasserani, came up here yesterday before Judge Alden. The complaint charged him with wilful and premeditated murder. He was not allowed to enter a plea, as he had no counsel. It will be remembered that the killing with which Callerani is charged took place at an Italian picnic, and was one of the results of a quarrel which occurred between the dead man and a brother of the alleged murderer.

Moore's Case Argued.

Concord, N. H., July 7.—Chief Justice Carpenter and Associate Justices Clark, Blodgett, Chase and Parsons of the supreme court heard arguments yesterday on the exceptions noted in the trial of Joseph C. Moore of Manchester, convicted of over-issuing stock in the Manchester Publishing company. It is probable an opinion will be handed down July 31.

A DISASTROUS CLOUDBURST

Sweeps Away Houses, Cattle and Crop---Three Persons Drowned.

Wheeling, July 7.—Another waterspout in the interior of Ohio and Marshall counties, yesterday, caused great loss of property, and a suspension of railroad traffic out of this city on two railroads. Sunday night the rainfall in the interior was very heavy, and yesterday morning there was so much rain that it approached a cloudburst in volume. The various streams, including Big and Little Wheeling creeks, Little Grave creek, Jim's Run, on the West Virginia side of the river, and Wheeling creek, and other tributaries on the Ohio side, sent out an immense amount of water. The water was speedily out of banks. Farmhouses were washed from foundations, stock drowned, growing crops destroyed, and many narrow escapes from death in the raging waters.

Wheeling creek put out into the Ohio so furiously that up-bound towboats were unable to stem the tide, and had to tie up below the city. The Baltimore and Ohio depot extends over the mouth of the creek, and was soon seen to be in danger, as the water was carrying away the foundations of the pier at the north side. All cars and property of value were taken away, and people warned of the danger. At 11:30 a. m. the east span went down, and carried with it the railroad bridge to the west. Further up the creek the trestle work of the Wheeling Terminal road was carried away.

Twelve miles below the city, at Moundsville, the damage was quite severe. The steel bridges of the Ohio river and Baltimore and Ohio roads were carried away, the current being so swift that the Ohio river bridge was sent to the middle of the Ohio river.

Up Little Grave creek, a hotel in the oil field was carried off its foundation, but no lives were lost.

The Ohio river road is now using a steamboat between Wheeling and Moundsville for hauling passengers, trains for the south starting at the latter point. The Baltimore and Ohio is blocked from Wheeling to Grafton, and its eastbound passenger trains are going by way of Fittsburg. The loss to the two railroads named is about $20,000.

On Pipe creek, in Ohio, opposite Moundsville, the home of John Perry was washed down the creek into the river, and Mrs. Perry and daughter were drowned. Mr. Perry had a narrow escape.

The 8-year-old daughter of Peter Richie, living on Turkey Run, was drowned early this morning. The house was swept away, and the child was caught in the wreckage and killed.

The Three Friends Safe.

Key West, July 7.—William Shaw, a pilot, spoke the steamer Three Friends, Captain Broward, yesterday, lying under the lee of the Sand Key light. The Raleigh was sighter later. She ran in, signalled the Maine and went on. Many believed a Spanish cruiser was chasing the Three Friends, but it was not so. She left here Wednesday last with her cargo. The Three Friends has evidently landed another expedition in Cuba.

Woman and Daughter Murdered.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 7.—Mrs. K. R. Richardson aged 55, and her 17-year old daughter, Ethel, were murdered near here. There is no clew to the murderer, but suspicion points to Scott Richardson, the stepson of Mrs. Richardson, who had made frequent threats to kill her. The only other theory suggested is that the murders were committed by a tramp.

Insanity is the horrible dream of the night perpetually present during the day. Insanity in women is oftener due to disease of the organs distinctly feminine than to any other cause. The insane asylums of the country are full of women whose carelessness of their health in this particular line has sentenced them to a life that is less desirable than death. The weakness or shock that causes such insanity is frequently the result of childbirth. At the time when a woman's greatest usefulness should begin she is taken away from her duties, and from those she loves, and for months, or years, or forever is shut away from them by the bolts and bars of a hospital. Such things are absolutely unnecessary. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prepare women for the trying time of parturition so that there will be no danger and comparatively little pain. It is the only medicine in the world that will accomplish this purpose. It is the only medicine of its kind devised by a regularly graduated, experienced and skillful specialist in the treatment of the diseases of women. It will cure any weakness or disease of the feminine organs. It strengthens and purifies them, relieving them of inflammation, soothing all pain, promoting regularity, and putting a stop to debilitating drains.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets aid the cure of all sorts of diseases by gently stimulating and invigorating the liver, by toning up the stomach, and by restoring to the entire digestive tract a regular, steady, natural, healthy action. Don't let an unscrupulous druggist delude you into believing that anything else is "just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good."

SILVERITES WIN.

Daniel Is Chosen Temporary Chairman.

A SET-BACK FOR GOLD.

Its Advocates Forced to Bow In Submission.

Daniel Makes a Long Speech In Accepting Temporary Chairmahship.

Chicago, July 8.—In the magnificent and capacious coliseum in Jackson park, beneath clear skies, with a cool, invigorating breeze, snapping at the flags and trappings, and the blue waters of Lake Michigan stretching away to the north, the Democratic national convention met yesterday. After a brief, but decisive battle in the arena, the silver men vindicated their supremacy. They wrested from the hands of the gold phalanxes the control of the convention, and gathered the reins of power into their own hands. There was a reminiscence of that old great coliseum, whose fall marked the destruction of an empire, where men were butchered to make a Roman holiday about it all. A champion, who has so often entered the lists to do battle in Democracy's cause, amid the ringing shouts and wild acclaim of his party, was put to the sword, that silver might be supreme. It was with reluctance that many of the friends of Senator Hill turned their thumbs downward, as the arrogant patricians of the empire that ruled the world did when the populace cried for mercy. But, like the gladiators who entered the arena to the blare of the trumpet and the clang of steel, the silver men beat back their sympathies and hardened their hearts, that the issue might be squarely drawn and decided, even though it invoked the doom of one whom they had delighted to honor in the past. By one of those strange fateful coincidents, it was Senator John W. Daniel of Virginia, who, four years ago, at the wigwam, nominated Mr. Hill for the presidency, who was selected to give the fatal blow to the man whom he would have exalted to the first place in the republic. No more eloquent commentary on the revolution which has divided the party and made this convention so memorable, could be needed. It was not without a wail of anger, however, that some of the spectators, who could not fathom the mysteries of political maneuvering, and the necessity of grinding men beneath the heel, saw the old champion, whose slogan and proudest boast was "I am a Democrat," go down. Even after Senator Daniel had reached the platform, and assumed the gavel, they called loudly for the defeated leader, but the experienced general, who has tasted the bitterness of defeat before, as well as the sweetness of victory, only smiled grimly.

This was the first result of this remarkable convention, which is ready to sacrifice all else that the white banner of silver may float above the party as its ensign and rallying cry.

The convention itself was a most inspiring sight. Never before since the present system of national conventions was inaugurated by the "old National Republican" party in Baltimore in 1831 has a convention met in such a capacious and admirably adapted structure. The hands of the big clock opposite the platform cannot be discerned, yet the acoustic properties of the building are so perfect that every word could be distinctly heard. The decorations are simple, but effective. The galleries in front are entwined with national colors, while at regular intervals large crayon portraits of the patron saints of the party, Jefferson, Jackson and others, look down upon the successors to their faith. A large portrait of Mr. Cleveland was off to one side, the only one displayed of a living Democrat

There was no demonstration during the day for any of the candidates, but many of the leaders like Hill and Whitney of New York, Blackburn of Kentucky, ex-Governor Russell of Massachusetts, Daniel of Virginia, Harrity of Pennsylvania, were the recipients of individual ovations.

The followers of both sides took every opportunity to cheer on their champions. There were many distinguished leaders among the delegates on the floor, like Senator Jones of Arkansas, Governor Flower, Frederic Coudert and ex-Mayor Grant of New York, Senator White of California, Governor Culberson and ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, General St. Clair and Governor McCorkle of West Virginia, Allen W. Thurman of Ohio, Senators George and Walthall of Mississippi, Senators Vest and Cockrell of Missouri, John I. Waller of Connecticut, Senator Gray of Delaware, and a host of others. On the platform were members of the national committee.

Although many well-known faces were missing, it was a distinguished gathering. The invocation of the boyish chaplain, Dr. Stires, an Episcopal divine, with its appeal for peace, had hardly ascended to the throne of grace before the contending hosts met in the shock of battle. The gold men carried out their program of presenting Senator Hill for temporary chairman, but the silver leaders also held to their resolution and immediately antagonized him with Senator Daniel. For two hours the oratorical gladiators of the opposing forces fought it out upon the platform. Alexander McDermott of New Jersey, John I. Waller of Connecticut, John R. Fellows of New York, and General St. Clair of West Virginia, championed Mr. Hill's cause, and C. S. Thomas of Colorado, M. F. Turple of California, C. M. Lass of Illinois, Delegate Marston of Louisiana, and Committeeman Clayton of Alabama, insisted upon his overthrow.

The temper of the delegates was plainly apparent from the salvos with which they greeted these firm utterances. It was noticeable that neither side put its giants forward. When the vote came to be taken, W. J. Stackhouse, one of the administration's federal officials in Iowa, in order to flaunt the divisions in the Boies delegation, challenged the vote of the state, and uncovered seven gold votes. Mr. Haldeman did the same thing in Blackburn's Kentucky delegation, and Mr. McKnight, a silver Michigan delegate, showed 12 silver votes in his delegation, which were locked up by the unit rule. The result of the rollcall showed 556 votes for Daniel and 349 votes for Hill, practically the strength of the two sides. Although this did not show a two-thirds majority, the silver leaders display no anxiety on this score, as the Nebraska gold delegation of 26 were unseated, and the representation from the territories were increased from 2 to 6 each.

There is little change in the situation as to candidates. Bland still has a strong lead, but the possibility of all sorts of complications, which may blockade his way to the coveted prize, have made his followers anxious, and the talk of abrogating the two-thirds rule in his interest has been revived. There is, of course, the natural disposition to crowd on to the band wagon, but the calmest observers cannot yet figure out how he can win. Stevenson is most prominently spoken of in this direction. To forestall the gold men, concerning whose plans, in this regard, there is much mystery, the silver men intend to hold a caucus as soon as a deadlock develops.

Senator Daniel, who assumed the duties of presiding officer, is an impressive figure, and a most eloquent orator of the old school. He sounded the keynote for silver in a ringing speech, but the fact that he spoke from notes was rather disappointing to his friends. The silver leaders in control carried through the remainder of the program, and silver is everywhere in control.

SENATOR DANIEL.

Following is

Mr. Daniel's Address.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the National Democratic Convention: In receiving from your hands this gavel as the temporary presiding officer of this convention, I beg leave to express a sentiment which I am sure is unanimous, that no national convention was ever presided over with more ability or more fairness than by yourself. I can express no better wish for myself than I may be able in some feeble way to model my conduct by your model, and to practice by your example. The high position, gentlemen, to which you have chosen me involves both a great personal honor and a keen responsibility. For the honor, I thank you. The responsibility I would be wholly unable to bear did I depend upon myself, but your gracious aid will make it easy and its burden light. That aid I confidently invoke from you for the sake of the great cause under whose banner we have fought so many battles, and which now demands of us such staunch devotion and such loyal service. I regret that my name should have been brought in even the most courteous and serious complication with that of my distinguished friend, the great senator from New York. But the very fact that I have permitted it to be done, refutes the suggestion that has been improvidently made on this floor that either I or those whom I have the honor to represent would ever heap indignity upon that brave and illustrious head. No candid man, no dispassionate judgment, gentlemen, can ever misinterpret your meaning. The senator from New York himself knows, as you know, and as I know, that there is no personality in the preferment which has been given to me. He must know, and the whole country that watches these proceedings must know, that it is solely due to the principle that this great majority of Democrats stand for, and that they know I stand with them. And that it is given in the spirit of the traditions received by these representatives of the people, from the people, whom all Democrats will ever bow to as the purest and original source of all power. The birth of the Democratic party was coeval with the birth of the sovereignty of the people. It can never die until the declaration of American independence is forgotten and that sovereignty is crushed out.

I am happy, gentlemen, to know that as the majority in this convention is not personal, neither, in any sense, is it sectional. It blends the palmetto and the pines in Maine and South Carolina. It begins with the sunrise in Maryland and spreads into a sunburst in Louisiana and Texas. It stretches in one unbroken column across the American continent from the Atlantic shores of the old dominion, and again it sheds its silvery beams over the golden gates of California. When I see this grand array, and think of the British gold standard that was recently unfurled over the ruins of Republican promises at St. Louis, I think, too, of the battle of New Orleans, of which it was said: "There stood John Bull in martial pomp, but there was old Kentucky."

Brethren of the east, there is no south, there is no north; there is no east or west, in this uprising of the people for American emancipation from the con-

GLAD TO SEE THEM.

Londoners Turned Out In Force to Greet Boston Ancients.

Tendered a Grand Banquet Upon Their Arrival.

Quaffing of Toasts and Exchange of Compliments Were In Order.

London, July 8.—Exasperating slowness of the Servia brought the Ancients to Liverpool a day late, ruined a magnificent program arranged by the officials, and also completely upset the formal reception and march through London.

The trip of the Ancients from Liverpool to this city was uneventful, but upon the arrival of the Americans here last night they were the recipients of a remarkable spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm. The streets were blocked with people, who were desirous of getting a glimpse of the celebrated American Artillery company.

The reception extended to the visitors by the crowd was, without doubt, more enthusiastic than was ever given to Americans in this city. The Americans were apparently delighted with the warmth of their reception, and their features were wreathed in smiles as they heard the welcoming of the London crowd. They took off their helmets and bowed repeatedly in response to the salutations offered them, and finally they returned the cheers of the British. There is not the slightest doubt that the visitors will become extremely popular, and everything possible will be done to make their visit a memorable one.

The party which reached the Honorable Artilley company's armory on Finsbury square numbered nearly 930 persons. The cheering was deaftening, and all traffic in the neighborhood was stopped. Upon entering the headquarters, the Artillery men immediately went to the reception hall, which was a brilliant sight, and a perfect blaze of uniforms. Standing in a vacant space was Lord Colonel Ville of Culross, in evening dress, and the Earl of Denbigh and others in full uniform. They welcomed each guest as his name was announced, and this was the signal for more loud cheering.

In the procession from the reception room to the dining hall, one member of the Boston company and one member of the Honorable Artillery company of London walked abreast. The procession was headed by the Earl of Denbigh and Colonel Walker, walking arm in arm. The bishop of Marlborough, chaplain of the Honorable Artillery company, said grace over the repast at 10 o'clock. The dining hall was very appropriately decorated, over the chairman's head on the wall was an elaborated device, made up of the Stars and Stripes, and the Union Jack, intertwined and flanked on the right and left by the state flag of Massachusetts and the flag of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston.

The chairman toasted the queen, and said that her majesty was showing the greatest interest in the visit of their guests. The toast to the queen was drunk amidst enthusiastic cheers. Colonel Walker of the Boston company led a separate round of cheers by the visiting Americans, and the whole assembly sang, "God Save the Queen."

The chairman then toasted the President of the United States. In proposing the toast, he said that is was a corrolary of the preceding toast to the queen. This remark was greeted with an outburst of cheering by the company, which lasted fully five minutes. The company drank the toast to the president standing, and the band played, "The Star Spangled Banner."

The chairman then toasted the Prince of Wales and the other members of the royal family. He referred in his speech to the Prince of Wales' connection with both military companies, with the London company as a member, and with the Boston company as an honorary member.

Toasts to the army and navy and to the auxiliary forces followed.

The chairman then proposed the toast of the evening, by saying: "Comrades from Massachusetts: With much pleasure I bid you the heartiest possible welcome. A body of armed invaders for the first time in 800 years has successfully landed on our shores. We are truly glad to see you, and we welcome you not only as friends and comrades, but as relations. We hope that it will not be presumption if we say that the Honorable Artillery company greets its visitors as its fond parent would greet its only offspring.

"All we can say is, it is high time that you came here and reported yourselves to headquarters. You will return to America with an increased affection for the English people, and you will disseminate it among your countrymen. I now invite all to drink to the health of our visitors, and I trust that this will commence an epoch of real peace between the two peoples."

Captain Henry Walker, upon rising to reply was cheered for many minutes. When he was allowed to speak he began by saying: "Friends: We all return sincere thanks for this candid welcome, the forerunner of many greetings to come from the blood of our race. It is the same blood still, and this is our home across the waters." Captain Walker then delivered an eloquent eulogy of the record of the Honorable Artillery company of London. He said: "We come here on a pilgrimage, and we know that there are warm hearts behind this reception." He also spoke of the loyalty and enthusiasm of both corps for their native land, and said: "Let these two companies be ever faithful to the principle that if disaster shall ever come you cannot say, 'I did it.'" Captain Walker's speech was received with tremendous enthusiasm.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Caught in Shafting.

A workman, employed in the polishing mill at George H. Hitchcock & Co., had a narrow escape from a horrible death Monday afternoon. He went up to oil some shafting when his clothing got caught in the revolving shaft, and in a second he was being whirled about the shafting. Fortunately his cries were heard by a boy in the engine room who threw the friction clutch and stopped the machinery. The man's clothing had to be cut away before he could be released but he escaped with a few bruises.

Peverley and Garbreth.

The roll-off in the bowling contest at Costello's alleys in the big pins and ducks was held Tuesday evening, the result being as follows, each man rolling three strings:

Big pins: Peverley, 560; Garbreth, 479; Fratus, 476; Wheeler, 473; Welsh, 470; Severson, 408.

The first prize, a 100-ride ticket to Boston, was won by Peverley, and the second prize, a box of cigars, to Garbreth.

The prize, a box of cigars, was won by Garbreth.

Highway Robbery.

James Holbrook, of South Braintree, was held up on Broad street, Weymouth, near the Methodist church about 9 o'clock Tuesday night and robbed of his watch, chain and necktie. Holbrook recognized one of the fellows and fought to defend himself, but there were too many for him and he received a severe beating and kicking besides being robbed. He, however, got one of the fellow's fingers between his teeth and before he let go he left his mark.

The police were notified and early this morning officers Butler, Fitzgerald and Peare arrested Simon Levangie, James Dillon and Michael J. Dwyer on the charge of highway robbery. Levangie's face was covered with scratches and some of his fingers bore the imprints of human teeth. The three fellows will be arraigned in court Thursday morning.

Banquet Tomorrow.

The new Young Men's Metropolitan Republican club will hold a banquet tomorrow evening at Hotel Brunswick, Boston, and Quincy will be represented. Curtis Guild, Jr., will preside, and the speakers will be Governor Wolcott, Hon. F. W. McCall and Hon. W. E. Barrett.

Brookline Grasping.

It requires 2,377 voters for one Representative to the General Court, but there are some in Brookline so cheeky that they think the town should have two because it has 866 in excess of 2,377.

"Where's my bicycle?" asked papa on the morning of the Fourth, as he came out into the yard.

"Boo-hoo!—I d-don't know," said Willie. "It went off a little while ago."

"Went off! Where?"

"Boo-hoo!—I d-don't know. I f-fufilled the roomatic tire wiv powder an' touched a m-match to it, an'—ah-hoo-ah-hoo!—it went away."

STREET EXPENSES.

Numerous Petitions from Norfolk County Towns for State Highways.

Quincy makes a poor showing in the report, in amount expended per valuation, but perhaps the returns are imperfect. The report says: The following table, showing the amounts appropriated for the repair and construction of roads and bridges is as complete as can be prepared from the data secured by correspondence with the officials of the various municipalities.

Nearly every year lately the city has made special appropriations for new roads. The amount in 1895 was probably smaller than in other years, but instead of nothing as appeared in the table, there was at least $3,955.61, as follows: Beale street, $2,000; Walker street, $1,955.61.

The table as published below gives the average amount expended for roads and bridges per $1000 of total valuation as $2.62, and estimates that of Quincy at $1.12, as follows; the last column of figures being the amount per $1,000:

	New Roads	Repairs	Bridges	Total	Amount per $1,000

Chicopee which expended $5.37 per $1,000 undoubtedly had an unusual appropriation for a bridge, the sum of $28,200 having been expended; her amount for general repairs was less than Quincy. The only other cities above the average were Newton, Taunton, Boston, Cambridge and Worcester, and there were probably special reasons in each case.

The second table shows the length of highways which the Massachusetts Highway Commission has been asked to build in Norfolk and Plymouth counties, and the number of feet which has actually been laid out. Norfolk county towns asked for 37 miles and obtained 6 miles. Plymouth county asked for 105 miles and obtained 11 miles:

PAVING CUTTERS' STRIKE.

Price Per 1000 Has Been Reduced to Starvation Wages.

A strike is in progress among the paving cutters of the Rockport granite company, and also at Bay View, says the Globe. The difficulty extends to the "motion" men as well as the cutters employed at the quarries. The workers of "motions" are those who work independently of the owners, and furnish all the material needed in their work.

The prices now paid at the quarries for this work is $13 per 1000 for the Philadelphia cut of paving, and $15 for New York and Boston. At the motion works $20 is paid for Philadelphia blocks. The cutters want an advance of $5 per 1000 blocks. A great decrease has taken place in the price paid for this work. Two years ago the price paid for cutting "Philadelphia" was $40 per 1000.

This pronounced cutting of prices has left the stonecutters in a serious predicament, so much so that they declare that the prices offered are starvation prices, and that they cannot make a living at their work.

Many of these paving-block cutters have left town since last spring, especially of the Finns. At the quarry of George Barker at Bay View, the men are offered $20 per 1000, but are holding out for $25.

Missionary Work.

We're not going to allow ourselves to get into a groove.

On the contrary, our belief is that a "live" retailer ought to be constantly on the alert for something new, with which to interest his old customers and attract new ones.

Then, again, he must perform a certain amount of labor in educating his patrons up to an appreciation of the best in his line.

In other words he must be a missionary, to a marked extent.

It is not all of swimming to swim, says Ed. W. Sandys in the July Outing, for the swimmer who keeps his hair dry is something like the Peri at the Gate of Paradise—he may get occasional peeps at the joys beyond, but he has but a faint idea of the pleasures of those who are inside. It is pleasant to cleave one's way through the yielding surface, or to float at will for long periods, but the best fun of swimming lies under water. To the expert diver are revealed many things which are safe hidden from the eyes of others, and the swimmer who cannot dive has only mastered one branch of the art. By diving, I do not mean a plunge from some support and a hasty popping up again—but diving, a la pearl diver, or anything else that goes under for a definite purpose and remains under long enough to look about and examine what may be below. To attain such skill requires long practice, 'tis true, but as it is merely a matter of practice, every swimmer should have sufficient love for his art to make him at least a moderately good diver. The diver is at home in the water; he can look about and, while his range of vision is certainly limited, he can see quite enough to afford him new pleasures, and best of all, he alone can fully illustrate the true value of natation by bringing from below almost any object of reasonable weight.

tional agreement for the restoration of the metals to an equality would be a bond of mankind, which would enable us to regulate the value of money and bring the two metals upon a parity. Alexander Hamilton understood this question. He framed the first financial act of this country, which was passed in 1792, fixing the unity of our currency upon both metals, for a double reason, first, that to exclude one would reduce it to a mere merchandise, and the other that it would involve the difference between a scanty and a full circulation. Thomas Jefferson knew this when he endorsed the work of Hamilton. Daniel Webster knew this when he declared that silver and gold are the legal standards, and that neither congress nor any state has any right to establish any other standard or to displace this one.

The majority of this convention, which I have the honor here to represent, maintain that this great American nation, with a natural base of fixed empire, the greatest ever established by man, with more territory and more productive energy than Great Britain, France and Germany combined, without dependence upon European nations for anything that they produce, is fully capable of restoring this constitutional money system of gold and silver at equality with each other, and as our fathers in 1776 declared our national independence of all the world, so today has the great Democratic party, founded by Thomas Jefferson, the author of that declaration, appeared here in Chicago to declare the financial independence of the United States, of all other nations, and to invoke all true Americans to assert it by their suffrages at the polls, that our country may be placed where she by right belongs, as the freest, most prosperous and happy nation that ever blessed the life of mankind upon this globe.

There will be no waste of time on platform when the committee on resolutions is appointed, if the silver men can control the matter in this respect. The platform has already been prepared. It is complete and is ready to present to the committee. It will not be long, and will deal especially with the financial question, putting it first in order and giving it first rank in order of importance. It will be a flat declaration in favor of the free mintage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, with gold, and will declare in terms against awaiting the co-operation of any other nation. This plank will be in the nature of a brief address, and appeal to the people to unite upon the reform of the finances, putting aside all other questions until the financial system can be changed. Proceeding on this theory there will be a declaration against any change in the present tariff until the financial question can be disposed of by legislation. There will be a declaration against the issuance of money by banks, and also against issuing interest-bearing bonds in time of peace.

SENATOR JONES.

White For Permanent Chairman.

The committee on permanent organization met in the Coliseum immediately after the adjournment of the convention. General E. B. Finley of Ohio was made chairman and J. P. Brown of Georgia, secretary. A recess was taken, and the silver men retired and held a caucus, at which the permanent organization was fully agreed upon. The committee then adjourned until 8 o'clock, when it reconvened at the Sherman House. In the evening the silver slate went through as follows: Permanent chairman, Stephen M. White of California; sergeant-at-arms, John I. Martin of Missouri; secretary, Thomas J. Cogan of Cincinnati; assistant secretary, Louis D. Hersheimer of Chicago; reading clerk, E. B. Wade of Tennessee; assistant reading clerks, N. R. Walker of Florida, Charles Nickell of Oregon, Jeff Pollard of Missouri, and Lincoln Dixon of Indiana. The name of Senator Hill of New York was presented by the gold men for permanent chairman, and he received six votes, to 33 for Senator White. The remainder of the organization as presented by the silver people went through by acclamation, the gold men making no nominations.

Gold Men Talk Bolt.

Bolt was the slogan of 150 Democrats at a meeting of gold standard men last night. Not a bolt from the convention was decided against, but a bolt from the ticket and the platform that the convention makes. Every suggestion was received with applause. Every contrary suggestion was received in silence. This is the significant resolution suggested by G. W. Irish of California, and adopted unanimously:

"That each sound money delegation select a member to return to his state and get views of his party on the matter, and report back to the chairman (Senator Gray) in July, if possible." Senator Hill and National Committeeman Sheehan were not present, but Governor Flower and William C. Whitney, with the aid of Colonel Fellows, held up New York state's end. The meeting was the most protracted of the convention, lasting until after midnight, and though behind closed doors its enthusiastic nature was easily discernible by the applause that floated out.

Senator Gray of Delaware presided over the meeting when it began, but had to leave to attend the meeting of the committee on resolutions, and did not return. Ex-Governor Flower took the chair in his absence. George W. Irish of California was the first speaker, and he was followed by General E. S. Bragg, William C. Whitney, Frederick R. Coudert, Franklin McVeagh and several others.

General Bragg was in favor of a bolt of the platform and ticket, if the plan announced by the silver men was carried out. He did not believe that the convention displayed a Democratic spirit, and he was, therefore, of the opinion that good Democrats could, with honor and credit, denounce their work.

Franklin McVeagh of Illinois and Delegate-at-Large Frederick Coudert of New York were of the same mind, although Mr. Coudert was careful in expression, while McVeagh spoke of even leaving the convention.

Ex-Governor Russell of Massachusetts agreed to the adoption of the resolution, but would not commit himself. General Bragg was for a new ticket. Mr. Outhwaite of Ohio and Holder of Ohio were in favor of the resolution.

"You see, we don't know anybody, and I suppose we didn't take that into account. Well, I suppose it's like this: they thought it would be easy to get acquainted in the hotel, and commence having a good time right away. . . . But I swear I don't know how to go about it. I can't seem to make up my mouth to speak to folks first; and then you can't tell whether a man ain't a gambler, or on for the horse races anyway. So we've been here a week now and you're the first ones we've spoken to besides the waiters since we came."

BIG AND GOOD.

BattleAx PLUG

Sometimes quality is sacrificed in the effort to give big quantity for little money.
No doubt about that.
But once in a while it isn't.
For instance, there's "BATTLE AX."
The piece is bigger than you ever saw before for 5 cents. And the quality is, as many a man has said, "mighty good."
There's no guess work in this statement.
It is just a plain fact.
You can prove it by investing 5 cents in "BATTLE AX."

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.:

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

SILVERITES WIN.

spiracy of European Kings. You must not forget that for 30 years we have supported the men that you have named for president—Seymour, Greeley, Tilden, Hancock, and twice Grover Cleveland. Do not forget that we have submitted cheerfully to your compromised platform, and to your repeated pledges of bimetallism, and have patiently borne repeated disappointments as to their fulfillment. Do not forget at the last national convention of the Democrats in 1892, you proclaimed yourselves to be in favor of the use of both gold and silver, without discriminating against either metal, and that the only question left open was the ratio between the metals. Do not forget—and I refer to the fact in no inferior sense—that just four years ago, in a Democratic convention in this city, the New York delegation stood here solidly and immovable for a candidate committed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, at the ratio of 16 to 1. And if we are still for it, let it not be forgotten that we owe it, in some measure, to their teachings. That we owe you much, gentlemen of the east, is readily acknowledged, and will be ever most gratefully remembered. We owe you much, gentlemen of the convention, and for what we owe you of the east is the force bill and the McKinley bill, and the Sherman law, the infamy of Republican legislation. The first was aimed not more at the south than at the great cities of the east, and chief among them the great Democratic city of New York, with its magnificent patronage. The bill got its death blow in the senate, but there was not a single Democrat in New York, or New England, to vote against it. If you gentlemen have helped to save the south, it also has helped to save you in the east, but whether the south should be saved or not, these great American Republican senators from the west—Teller and Walcott, and your Jones and your Stanford of California—sank their partisan feeling on the order of their patriotism, and came forward to the rescue of American institutions.

No man, in this high noon of our country's fraternity, can revive force bills now in this reconciled and reunited republic. Our opponents themselves have abandoned them. There is none that can stand between the union of hearts and the union of hands that Grant, in his dying vision, saw was coming on angels' wings to all the sons of our common country. When Chicago dressed southern graves in flowers, she buried sectionalism under a mountain of fragrance. When southern soldiers yesterday cheered the wounded hero of the north in Richmond, the south answered: "Let us have peace; peace, union and liberty, now and forever."

As the majority of Democrats is not sectional, neither does it stand for any privileged or classed legislation. The active business men of this country, its manufacturers, merchants, farmers, sons of toil in counting room, factory, field and mine, know that contraction of the currency sweeps away with the silent and resistless force of gravitation the annual profits of their enterprise and investments. They know, too, that the gold standard means contraction and the organization of disaster. What hope is there for the country, and what hope for the Democracy unless the view of the majority here shall be adopted? Do not the people know that it was not silver legislation, but legislation dictated by the advocates of the gold standard that has caused and now continues the financial depression? Do they not know that when their demands upon Democracy were complied with in 1893, and the Sherman law repealed without a substitute, that the very states that demanded it turned against the Democracy who granted it, and swept away their majorities in a torrent of ballots? Had the silver men had their way then, instead of the gold monometallists, what storms of abuse would here today be emptied upon their heads; but the people, applying the power of memory and analysis alike to discover the cause of their arrested prosperity, need not go far to find them. They do not forget when Democracy came to power in 1893, it inherited from its Republican predecessor the tax system and the currency system of which the McKinley law and the Sherman law were the culminating atrocities. It came to power amongst a panic, which fitly followed upon their enactment strikes, lockouts, riots and civic commotions, by which the scene of peaceful industry in Pennsylvania had become military camps. Besides manifold oppressive features, the McKinley law had thrown away $50,000,000 of revenue derived from sugar under the sceptral plea of a free breakfast table, and had substituted bounties to sugar planters, thus decreasing revenue and increasing expenditure, thus burning the candle at both ends and making the people pay at least for the alleged free breakfast.

From the joint operation of the McKinley law and Sherman law and adverse balance of trade forced against us in 1893, a surplus of $100,000,000 in the treasury was converted into a deficit of $70,000,000 in 1894, and engraved bonds prepared by a Republican secretary to borrow money to support the government were the ill-omens of the preorganized ruin that awaited the incoming Democracy, and a depleted treasury. More significant still, the very authors of the ill-starred Sherman law makeshift were already at confessional, upon the stool of penitence, and were begging Democrats to help them to put out the conflagration of disaster that they themselves had kindled.

So far as revenue to support the government is concerned, the Democratic party, with but a slender majority in the senate, was not long providing it, and had not the supreme court of the United States reversed its settled doctrine of 100 years, the income tax incorporated in the tariff bill would long since have abundantly supplied it.

Respecting finance, the Republicans, Populists and Democrats, while differing upon almost all other subjects, had united in 1892 in declaring for the restoration of our American system of bimetallism. By Republican and Democratic efforts alike, the Sherman law was swept from the statute books, the eagerness to rid the country of that Republican incubus being so great that no prudent effort was made to provide a substitute. In the very act of the Sherman law repealed it was declared to be the policy of the United States of America to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and to coin them into dollars of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value. The Republican party has now renounced the creed of its platform and of our national pledges, and presented to the country the issue of higher taxes, more bonds and less money. It has proclaimed itself, throwing away the disguises of the British gold standard. We can only expect, should they succeed, a specimen of panic and a long protracted period of depression.

Do not ask us, then, to join them in any or their propositions. Least of all, ask us not to join them upon the money question, and fight a sham battle over settled tariff, for the money question is the paramount issue before the American people, and it involves true Americanism more than any economic issue that ever was presented to a president at the presidential election. The existing gold standard—whence comes the idea that we are upon it—not from the Democratic platform of 1892, not from the last enactment of congress on the subject, which, in repealing the Sherman law, pledged the whole country to the continuance of the double standard; not from any statute whatsoever now in force in the United States. No; we are not upon any gold standard, but we have a disordered and miscellaneous currency of nine varieties, three of metal and six of paper, the product, for the most part, of Republican legislation, rendered worse by treasury practices, begun by Republican secretaries, and, unfortunately, copied by their Democratic successors.

Then, consider these facts, gentlemen: The federal, state and municipal taxes in this country are assessed and paid by the standard of the whole mass of money in circulation. No authority has ever been conferred by congress for the issue of any bonds payable in gold, but it has been distinctly refused. The specie resumption of 1875 gave the surplus revenue in the treasury, not gold only, the money of redemption. Provision made by the Bland-Allison act of 1878 added to our circulation some $350,000,000 of standard silver money, or paper, based upon it, and all that mass of silver money is sustained at parity with gold by nothing whatever on earth but the silver in it and the legal tender functions imparted to it by law. We have no outstanding gold obligations in the United States, except the small sum of $44,000,000 of gold certificates, which are specifically payable in gold, and they, of course, should be so paid. All of our specie obligations are payable in coin, which means silver or gold, at the government's option, or in silver specifically and only. There is more paper and silver, based upon silver, in circulation today than there is of gold, or paper based on gold, and that the gold dollar it not the unit of value is demonstrated by the fact that no gold dollar pieces can now, under our laws, be minted. If we should go upon the gold standard, we must change the existing bimetallic standard of payment of all public debts, taxes and appropriations, saving alone those specifically payable in gold.

As we have $20,000,000,000 of public and private debt, it would take more than three times all the gold in this country to pay one year's interest on it. We should be compelled hereafter to contract the currency by paying off $500,000,000 of greenbacks and Sherman notes in gold, which would nearly exhaust the entire American stock in and out of the treasury, and the same policy would require the $344,000,000 silver certificates to be paid in gold also, as foreshadowed by the present draft upon the country's stock of gold. This means an increase of the public debt by $500,000,000, with the prospect of $344,000,000 more. The disastrous consequences of such a policy are appalling to contemplate, and the only alternative suggested to fight for before the people is the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the complete restoration of our hereditary and constitutional system of American money. We pray you to make no more makeshifts and straddles. Vex not the country with your prophecies of smooth things to come from the British-Republican propaganda. The fact that the European nations are going to the gold standard renders it all the more impracticable that we should do so, for the limited stock of gold in the world would have longer division and a smaller share for each nation.

Previous predictions have been punctually refuted when prosperity was prophecied to come upon the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law. Instead of protecting the treasury reserve, an unprecedented raid was promptly made upon it and $262,000,000 of borrowed gold has been insufficient to guarantee its security. Instead of causing foreign capital to flow in, it has stimulated the flow of gold to Europe, and greenback notes and the Sherman notes have been used to drip the gold out of the treasury of the United States and to store it in the strong boxes of the war lords of Europe. Instead of reviving business, this policy has further depressed it. Instead of increasing wages, this policy has further decreased them. Instead of increasing the prices of our products, this policy has lowered them, and it is estimated at about 15 per cent in three years. Instead of reviving confidence, it has banished confidence. Instead of bringing relief, it has brought years of misery, and for this reason it has contracted the currency of the United States $4 a head for every man, woman and child since Nov. 1, 1893, and with this vast aggregate contraction the price of land, of manufactured goods and of all kinds of agricultural and mercantile produce has fallen. The public revenues have fallen, wages of labor have fallen, and everything on the face of the earth has fallen but taxes and debts, which have grown in burden, while on the other hand the means of their liquidation has been diminished.

In the meantime, commercial failures have progressed with devastating effect in this nation. The dividend on bank stocks have shrunken, three-fourths of the railway mileage of the United States is now in the hands of receivers, and the country has received a shock from which it will take many years to recover. Yet, in the distressed and contracted condition, the new fledged monometallists ask us to declare for a gold standard, and to wait for relief upon some ghostly dream of an international agreement. But the people now do well know that the conspiracy of European monarchs, led by Great Britain, has for its purpose to serve in the war upon American silver money, and stands in the way of such agreement. With their candidate, they seek to enhance the purchasing power of thousands and millions which is owed to them all over the world, and which you owe to them. They draw upon the United States for their food supplies and raw material, wheat, corn, oil, cotton and other like staples. And they seek to get it for the least money. Besides this, Great Britain has large gold mines in South Africa and South America, and by closing the silver mines has greatly enhanced their products and their values. Recent British aggression in Venezuela and in the settlements of South Africa was moved by the desire to possess more of these gold mines, and by monopolizing the metal as far as possible, to assert British commercial supremacy over the world. No nation calls itself free and independent that is not great enough to establish and maintain a financial system of its own.

To pretend that this, the foremost, richest and most powerful nation of the world, cannot coin its own money, without suing for an international agreement at the courts of European autocrats, who have none but primary interests to subserve, have, for many years, been held out at every presidential election. They have made use of such agreement, and have foiled it afterward, and we have never, in our history, had an international agreement upon a money system, and none of the founders of this republic ever dreamed that such an agreement was essential. We have had three international conferences, in order to obtain it, and to wait longer upon them is to ignore the interests of our own people and degrade our national dignity, and to advertise to all mankind our impotence and our folly.

The concession that comes from the gold standard men of all Europe for the restoration of the double standard is the only solution of the financial difficulties that we can find in the outlook before us. The declaration of the English premier and the French minister and the Russian government, which have recently been expressed, shows that if it succeeds at all, it will succeed against the sinister power of autocracy, which has been used against it. DOMESTIC MARTYRS.

Good men rarely know the pain endured by the women of their own household, or the efforts they make to appear cheerful and happy when they ought to be in bed, their suffering is really so great.

They ought to be told just where the danger lies, for their whole future may depend upon that knowledge, and how to overcome it.

There is no need of our describing the experiences of such women here, they are too well known by those who have suffered, but we will impress upon every one that these are the never-failing symptoms of serious womb trouble, and unless relieved at once, a life will be forfeited.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound never fails to relieve the distressing troubles above referred to; it has held the faith of the women of America for twenty years.

It gives tone to the womb, strengthens the muscles, banishes backache and relieves all pains incident to women's diseases.

BIG FIGHT IS ON.

Skirmish Line Broken In Chicago Convention.

GOLD MEN RULED OUT.

Each Side Had a Most Enthusiastic Inning.

Text of the Platform as Endorsed by the Resolutions Committee.

Chicago, July 9. — The battle of the giants was waged all along the line yesterday, with the silver men in control in the committee rooms and in the convention. No quarter was shown the committee on resolutions, where they had a majority of 20, and they crushed the opposition. The platform declares for free and independent coinage of silver without the co-operation of any other nation, for a tariff for revenue only, sufficient to pay the expenses of the government economically administered, for a constitutional amendment for an income tax, against federal interference in local affairs, against a third term, for simplicity and economy in national affairs, against a Pacific railroad funding bill, condemns the issue of bonds in time of peace, and gives a mild endorsement to the civil service law. Senator Hill, following the biblical injunction to turn the other cheek, after the resolutions which inferentially condemned the president at three distinct points, had been adopted by the committee, offered a plank commending the administration for its honesty, fidelity and courage. By a vote of 27 to 17 it was defeated.

Everywhere there was talk of a gold bolt, and it seems now very probable that there may be definite action of at least a portion of the minority. The leaders, however, are still exercising their influence to restrain their followers. The New York delegation decided not to withdraw. Ex-Governor Flower, who at first advocated a bolt, changed front, but Colonel George B. McClellan and Perry Belmont were for radical action.

The course of the committee on credentials, indicating the unseating of the Michigan gold delegation, had the effect in an indirect way of staying the strong hand of the silver leaders. It precipitated a storm of protests from the gold men, who said they considered it simply an exercise of force. The Massachusetts and Connecticut delegations were especially incensed, and they threatened to either withdraw from the convention or decline participation in its action, if the Michigan delegation was unseated. Coupled with this came the intimation that Senator White, who had been selected for permanent chairman, would rule that a nomination could be made by two-thirds of the delegates voting in the convention. It was this latter threat, more than the other, which decided the committee on credentials to reconsider the Michigan matter. If such a ruling was allowed, the Bland men, with their big lead, could, perhaps, compass the combination, if the gold men declined to vote. The friends of the other candidates became alarmed at the possibility, and, with swift combination against the Missourian, made haste to reconsider their action. It was this hitch in the committe on credentials which rendered the day's session of the convention a nullity, so far as results were concerned.

For over three hours the convention awaited the end of the struggle in the committee on credentials, occupying the intervening time with the oratory of silver champions. The gold men sat silent and impassive, as half a dozen silver orators were, one after the other, called to the stage to stir the blood and fire the imagination of their supporters. They seemed indifferent, while thousands yelled themselves hoarse, and at no time took any part in the demonstrations.

WILLIAM J. BRYN.

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, Senator Blackburn of Kentucky, Governor Overmyer of Kansas, Governor Altgeld of Illinois, and ex-Congressman Williams of Massachusetts, addressed the convention. The dashing Blackburn, and the pale, nervous, but alert, Governor Altgeld of Illinois, made a deep impression on the convention. But it was the young convert to free silver from the old Bay state who carried off the honors of the day. He argued that free silver was not a sectional issue, and when he concluded with a plea for financial emancipation from the money thraldom of Lombard street, the greatest demonstration of the day occurred. A hundred delegates rushed forward to grasp his hand and congratulate him, while the wild cheering of the crowd continued for several minutes.

The net result of the day's session was the seating of the Nebraska delegation. This was the signal for a wild demonstration in honor of Bryan, the boy orator of the Platte, who is now everywhere recognized as a formidable dark horse. The sudden announcement of the determination of the Illinois delegation, to desert Bland and vote for Stevenson, after the first ballot, fell like a wet blanket on the Missouri candidate. The Alabama Bland men also changed their allegiance, but the Bland men still keep up a brave front. The combination against the Missourian made great progress, and confidently claimed before the evening session of the convention, that they had blocked his way to the nomination. McLean's power in the convention was manifest everywhere, and the combination to nominate Teller grew more formidable with each development. The prospects of a gold bolt strengthens the argument of those who favor an open fusion with the silver Republicans and the Populists as the politics of the situation.

The crowds returned to the convention hall expecting a protracted night session and decisive action on the platform. There was further delay, however, in the committee on credentials, and, in the meantime, the band played, and as the evening advanced, myriads of electric lights added brilliant animation to the scene. The Michigan contest, which had excited discussion in committee, was reported at 6 o'clock, giving the silver forces a majority of the delegation, and thus permitting them to swing the 28 votes of Michigan for silver. It excited warm debate, which gave evidence of intense personal feeling. When, after two hours of speech-making, the final vote was taken, it gave occasion for the most spontaneous and stirring demonstrations that have ever occurred. As the New York delegation cast its solid vote to sustain the Michigan gold delegates, a great shout went up from the thousands of delegates and spectators, which grew in intensity as it proceeded, while men jumped on their chairs and waved hats, canes, etc., and shouted themselves hoarse. It was 18 minutes before the rapping of the chairman could bring the convention back to order.

Then, a moment later, the chair announced that the silver men had a decisive majority, there was a repetition of the wild demonstration, this time by the silver men, lasting 20 minutes. It was evident that the leaders desired time for counsel, and the leaders determined not to urge the platform to a final issue last night. With the forcible speech of Senator White ornamenting the chair, the permanent organizatfon was perfected, and at 9:36 the convention adjourned until today.

Chairman White's Speech.

Gentlemen of the Convention: I will detain you with no extended speech. I see that I am getting popular already. The Democratic party is here, represented by delegates who have come from the Atlantic and Pacific shores. Every state has its full quota; every state, as far as I can bring about such a result, shall have full, equal, absolute and impartial treatment from this standpoint. Every state is entitled to such treatment; every question should be considered carefully and deliberately, and then the voice of this convention is crystallized into a judgment; it shall be binding upon all the Democratic members of the convention.

We differ, perhaps, today upon certain vital issues, and we might express some feeling of bitterness in these discussions, but we submit to the voice and the candid judgment of our brethren, and on their judgment we will certainy rely. Time passes as we stand here; it leaves many with unsatisfied ambition. It leaves numerous aspirations and hopes unrealized. Men now prominent will pass away, some to oblivion, while they live, and others because they have been summoned to another shore, but the Democratic party will not die, even when we have ceased to live. When the differences which challenge consideration tonight have passed into history, when the asperities of this hour no longer obtain, the party, the guardian of the people's rights and the representative of the sentiment of the United States in the support of constitutional right, will endure to bless mankind.

My ambition or yours is of but little moment. Whether I succeed, or you do, in impressing our sentiments upon this convention is not of supreme importance. In this council chamber the Democratic party looks for an indication of its existence. The people seek here the righting of their wrongs, and the constitution—the great champion of our liberties—here it must find its best, its truest and its most loyal defenders.

No sectionalism, none whatever; equal, impartial justice to all this land; the triumph of the people's cause is here the triumph of the people's cause as here for which we have assembled, and to carry out that object I will consecrate my best exertion."

Declaration of Principles.

We the Democrats of the United States in national convention assembled, do reaffirm our allegiance to those great essential principles of justice and liberty upon which our institutions are founded, and which the Democrtic party has advocated from Jefferson's time to our own—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, the equality of all citizens before the law and the faithful observance of constitutional limitations.

During all these years the Democratic party has resisted the tendency of selfish interests to the centralization of governmental power, and steadfastly maintained the integrity of the dual system of government established by the founders of this republic of republics. Under its guidance and teachings the great principle of self government has found its best expression in the main-

London, July 9.—"The Queen" is the toast of the Ancients. By request of her majesty, the company journeyed to Windsor yesterday, where it was reviewed, lunched and shown over the state apartments of the historic castle. It appeared more than mere courtesy to the visiting military men from Boston; it was evidently an expression of good will to a nation. The entire affair was carried out with an absence of display that was refreshing.

WINDSOR CASTLE.

The Ancients left the Hotel Cecil at an early hour, marching with band and colors to the Waterloo station. They were escorted by the band of the Honorable Artillery company of London, and accompanied by the Earl of Denbigh, lieutenant colonel of the Honorable Artillery company. The Boston company were cheered all along the route.

Upon the arrival of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company at Windsor, they were received at the station by the mayor, the members of the Windsor corporation and a guard of honor.

When the visitors had alighted from the train Councillor Westlake read to them an illuminated address, which he afterward presented to Colonel Walker of the Boston corps.

Colonel Walker replied on behalf of his command, expressing their thanks for the warm welcome they had received, and adding that they had not come to England as strangers, but as children of the motherland; they came with hearts full of affection for her. His remarks were greeted with cheers.

All along the line of march at Windsor the visitors were greeted with cheers. In traversing St. George's hall, Messrs. Sampson and Bradley, who were carrying the national and state flags, raised them in salute before the throne. The compliment was greatly appreciated.

The lunch in the Orangery was a sumptuous affair, royal footmen in scarlet and gold serving the visitors, many of whom secured as souvenirs flowers and sprays of green with which the table was decorated.

The ceremony of inspection was simple, so simple, in fact, that the Ancients are not through wonde ing at it yet. The queen was riding in the park when the line was formed. As the colors of the United States dropped her majesty made a bow. The marching past followed, and then another present. During the march past the queen, her majesty remained seated in her carriage and did not at any time alight.

By direction of the queen, Colonel Walker and Adjustant Duchesny were presented to her majesty. To the colonel she said a few words, hoping that the journey had been pleasant.

Princess Frederica of Hanover and several of the ladies of the empire were present in levee dress.

The company returned to the railway station at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The entire route from the castle to the station was profusely decorated with flags, and the Stars and Stripes were hoisted upon the town hall.

A special brought the Ancients to London, and last night they dined at the Criterion. Today a grand review took place at Aldershot, at which the company were the guests.

Plucky Navigator Reaches Home.

Boston, July 9.—John Tasker of Bucksport, Me., 40 years of age, was sighted off Boston light yesterday afternoon in his little dory, the Jane Tasker. He left London nine weeks ago yesterday, and paddled down the Thames to the sea, set his mutton chop sail, made everything fast, and pluckily headed his craft for home, 3000 miles away. His craft is 13½ feet long, 3½ feet deep and 4ft. 4 in. wide in the center. Tasker was towed in at 6 o'clock. He says he had a pleasant trip, the days being almost alike, except on two occasions, when his craft narrowly escaped being run down by steamships.

After Liquor Dealers' Scalps.

Gloucester, Mass., July 8.—It is learned that City Marshal Parsons, in pushing the crusade against the illegal sale of liquor, under the existing no-license conditions here, has served notice upon all owners of buildings in which occupants have been convicted of illegally keeping liquor for sale, that they must secure other tenants or they will be prosecuted under chapter 201 of the public statutes, which provides that owners of buildings who knowingly let their premises for the illegal sale of liquor shall be equally liable to prosecution with the proprietors of such places. The marshal states that he intends to enforce the law rigidly in this respect.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and; when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

Quincy Men There.

Two interested Quincyites are at the National Democratic convention. The Herald correspondent has spotted them and comments as follows:

Dr. William Everett of Quincy is an interested spectator of the passing show. He comes to the Wellington every day to call on his friends in the delegation. The doctor discovered pretty quickly after his arrival that it was a waste of time to attempt to convert a silverite.

Brooks Adams, who has been a leader in the silver propaganda, is taking in his first national convention. He is a simon-pure pessimist, always confident that the world is on the verge of going to the dogs.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

A Man Who Would Ruin Young Girls in Court Today.

William M. Foster was arrested at the Quincy Adams depot Wednesday afternoon upon a serious charge, that of enticing young girls away for immoral purposes.

The two girls whom Foster attempted to entice away were Susan P. Rice, aged 13 years, and Kate E. Rice, aged 15 years.

The story told by Susan P. Rice in court this morning, was that she first saw Foster on June 17, when he came to her house asking for a man named Snow, who boarded there. At that time he asked her if she and her sister did not want to learn to be photographers. The next time she saw him was Wednesday when she met him on the street, when he again inquired for Snow. He then asked her if she and her sister did not want to earn $3 or $4 a day posing for photographs in Boston. He said all he wanted to photograph was their bodies and that their faces would be covered up. The little girl replied that she did not know but would ask her grandmother. This evidently alarmed Foster who hastened to say she must not do that for this was a secret. He then asked her to get her sister and meet him at the Quincy Adams depot when he would take them to Boston on the 3.10 train.

The girl went home and informed her uncle of the conversation, who in turn notified Officer Ferguson who went to the Quincy Adams depot and remained in the flagman's house to await developments.

Kate E. Rice, the older of the two girls, was sent to the depot, and while there Foster came out and engaged her in conversation and while doing so he was placed under arrest by the officer.

Foster had, however, evidently seen the officer approaching as he attempted to dispose of an obscene picture by throwing it in the stove.

Foster denies meaning the girls any harm but admits that he might possibly have said too much.

HOUGHS NECK.

There are several unoccupied cottages.

It is hoped that the prediction of pleasant weather the latter part of the month and a perfect August may be realized.

Ed. W. Sandys in his article on "Swimming" in Outing, recommends dog fashion for beginners. He says:

I have taught more than one younster how to swim, and while so doing I never bothered the pupil with instructions about frog-motion of the legs or anything of the sort. The easiest and most natural method of swimming is what is termed "dog-fashion," in which the hands move up and down like the fore paws of a swimming dog, while the feet keep time with the hands in a somewhat similar motion. A green boy who has had no instruction in frog-movements, when he first attempts to swim, will almost invariably try dog-fashion, which is the simplest method of keeping afloat. The downward beating of the hands has a direct tendency to force the head and chest upward, and if the lungs are kept as full as possible, the hand motion will support the body for many seconds without the aid of any leg movement whatever. As a boy in walking fast will swing his arms in time with the motion of his legs, so will the novice at swimming dog-fashion work all his limbs in a one-two-three-four beat. If the foot-beats are too strong, as they are apt to be at first, their tendency is to work the feet to the surface and to depress the head and chest. Hence, a first attempt is usually something of a struggle between hands and feet. This opposition of forces, while apparently a serious difficulty, is in reality quite easily overcome, if the learner heeds instructions and mingles a bit of commonsense with his efforts. As I never yet saw a boy who at his first trial could stretch out flat and perform the breast-stroke with the frog-motion of the legs, I prefer dog-fashion for beginners. This remark includes boys who, prior to their entering the water, had been told many times how to swim. None of these could do any better than the unlearned raw material.

—In the opinion of the Boston Pilot, "the Massachusetts delegation censuring St. Louis hotel men for refusing to entertain colored delegates to the Republican convention, presented a noble example of Satan rebuking sin. It is not many weeks since a colored bishop was turned away from three of the chief hotels in Boston because of his complexion." The worst feature of this criticism is its plain, transparent truth.

The Free Silver Humbug.

Prominent among the many perils to our National life and progress may be mentioned the rebellion, slavery, wild cat banks, free trade, (which exposes our intelligent workingmen to suicidal competition with pauper labor of the most heathenish portions of Europe) Butler's greenback delusion, bond issues in times of peace and plenty, anarchy, the liquor traffic and unrestricted immigration. Everyone of this list has been fostered by the Democrats, but repudiated by the Republicans who represent, and always will, the sober, conservative, common sense element of the citizens, who form the foundation of rock upon which the Republic rests.

The Democratic party of today contains more undesirable elements than the Republican; it is useless to dispute it, viz., it has about all the old landed aristocracy, saturated with Tory traditions, that a man's social position is determined by birth not worth; disgruntled and worthless labor agitators and their followers with an archistic tendencies; the most ignorant portion of immigrant laborers; President Elliot's free trade theorists from Harvard college; the rum element; Altgeld and his army of bombed bums; and a comparitively small portion of respectable Americans who do not realize, as yet, their position. It is true that politics makes strange bedfellows.

The latest humbug which the Republican party has repudiated is the "free silver" snare: the essence of which is to compel the government to buy all of a certain commodity mined, and pay for it at the rate of nearly double its actual market value, as a commodity, to wit, 100 to 53, giving a gold dollar worth 100 cents for 53 cents worth of silver. Why should the silver men have a monopoly of the government's patronage? Why not compel the government to buy copper or any other metal at the same rate? Give us all a fair share of the government's patronage.

When the Republican party sets forth the advantages of Protection to America industries, the Democrats cry loudly against it as "class" legislation, destined to assist a few captialists at the expense of the masses. But what of the "free silver" swindle? Does it not aid the silver miners, and hurt everyone else? Is not this favoring a class? Protection is a practical and logical system for the protection of our workmen, justified by the incomplete, varied and irregular development of labor production and demand in the different countries of the world. It is a temporary not a permanent policy. We cannot sacrifice the superior condition of American labor to aid ignorant and pauperized Europe.

It is to be hoped that the Democratic party will adopt the free silver idea in its entirety, thereby losing all the Independent voters, i. e. those who did not know a good thing when they had it (Republican rule); as well as thousands of voters who have hitherto voted the Democratic ticket, but believe in honest money and sound business methods in conducting the government finances.

TODAY'S COURT.

Simon Levangie, James Dillon and Michael J. Dwyer of Weymouth were arraigned for the larceny of a watch, chain and necktie all valued at $16.50, from James Holbrook at Weymouth. The evidence showed that the affair was in the nature of a general row and more of an assault than a case of larceny; James Dillon and Michael J. Dwyer were discharged, and the complaint against Levangie changed to assault, upon which he was fined $10.

Joseph Vero of Weymouth was fined $5 for assault on Robert Walsh.

Hoar's Congratulations.

Canton, O., July 9.—One of the most beautiful letters of congratulation which Major McKinley has received has just reached him. It came from Senator George F. Hoar of Massachusetts, who is traveling in Europe. Senator Hoar thinks the issue before the people this year makes the election in November the most important since the war, and believes the Republicans have been most happy in their choice of a candidate and in the expression of their principles.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

General Weyler has been forced to scatter his forces in Cuba.

A Chelsea (Mass.) boy fell 45 feet to the sidewalk and was uninjured.

Schooner George Gurney was in collision with the Allan liner Prussian.

—Ex-Secretary Whitney makes the whole question very plain. The maintenance of the double standard at the present time is not a question of desire, it is a question of ability. The commercial value of silver has declined greatly in the markets of the world. International exchanges have to be paid in gold; if we open our mints to the free coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of a comparative value which is largely at variance with the commercial value of the two metals, we must take the entire silver surplus ourselves and alone maintain its parity with gold, or else we shall go to a silver basis. And this change would mean panic and distress.—Halifax Free Press.

BIG FIGHT IS ON.

platform or the silver people has been adopted, Mr. Pattison will not be formally placed in nomination, for the reason that his friends could not consistently urge his selection on a platform expressing convictions on finance to which he is opposed. Nevertheless, the Pennsylvania delegation is instructed for Pattison, and, unless he signifies a desire that his name be withdrawn, the 64 votes of the Keystone state will be cast for Pattison, when Pennsylvania is reached in the call of the roll.

Should Governor Pattison withdraw, the eastern gold Democrats will be left without a candidate, as it is understood that nearly all the eastern states have decided that, if they vote at all, Pattison will be their choice. Mr. Harrity declines to discuss the situation, further than to say that Pennsylvania's vote will be cast for Pattison.

The platform of the Democratic convention has no such cloud of rival amendments to its authorship and inspiration as surrounded the making of the platform at St. Louis, which was really the main issue of the Republican convention. One man may be, to all practical purposes, credited with the authorship of the Democratic platform. This honor belongs to Colonel Charles H. Jones, publisher of the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Colonel Jones wrote the draft of the declaration of principles. The document was arranged and worded by him after consultation with Senators Cockrell and Vest, and other Democratic leaders, and his draft was adopted by the committee on resolutions, after three minor planks had been added, and some changes made in the wording, which did not affect the principles or spirit of Colonel Jones' work. The most vital plank of the Democratic declaration, that of dealing with the financial question, and outlining, with considerable detail, the articles of faith held by the silver leaders, was almost entirely the product of the St. Louis editor's pen. He also crystallized into verbal form the other points of the party creed, foremost among them the tariff and income tax plank, and those of lesser importance, planks relating to federal interference in state affairs, the denunciation of Republican congresses, the civil service plank and the declaration against third terms for presidents.

Gold Men Will Stick.

The sound money men—that is, the leaders—had a conference after the convention adjourned last night, and agreed to stick to the program as settled upon yesterday, to refrain from voting for a candidate for president, but to stay in the convention. They will let the free silver men make the nomination.

Chairman White said that, under the rules, two-thirds of the delegates present and voting can make a nomination. So, if all the sound money men decline to vote, it will be much easier for Bland to get the nomination. Two-thirds of the 586 votes, which is the estimated silver strength, are 391, and Bland has rising 350 votes pledged to him now.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

This situation is one in which the sound money men may, after all, interpose. If they do, it will be to vote for some such man as Stevenson, in order to compel the silver people to show a clear two-thirds vote of all the delegates.

The A. P. A.

J. J. Dwyer of the California delegation will appear before the resolutions committee today and call attention to the fact that the platform as agreed upon, contains no mention of the A. P. A. Mr. Dwyer says nearly all the Democratic state conventions passed resolutions condemning the A. P. A., and he thinks the omission in the national platform is an inadvertence that will be corrected. The Georgia A. P. A. plank, which condemns the organization as "un-American and anti-American in policy and principle," will be urged for adoption. Mr. Dwyer says if the committee declines to take action, a resolution will be offered on the floor of the convention.

Bissell Disgusted.

Ex-Postmaster General Bissell, delegate from Buffalo, left for home last night, the first bolter from this convention. He said before he left that he was disgusted with the course of things here, and especially with the attitude of the great majority of the convention toward President Cleveland, and would stay no longer in a body which was to adopt a platform condemning two of the best things President Cleveland had done, in the bond sales and the Chicago strike. Mr. Bissell predicts the election of McKinley.

It is anticipated that Bland will be nominated on the first or second ballot, and a final adjournment will be reached today at a reasonable hour.

How England Views It.

The Times, this morning, comments editorially upon the Chicago convention as follows: It is always well to know the worst, and, in England, certainly some gratitude may be felt for the extreme frankness of the majority in control of the convention. We take note of the fact that one of the historic American parties is fairly captured by men who glory in dishonest aims, and avow their desire to repudiate national and private debts. From the European point of view, the whole situation is deplorable. With the fundamental principles of sound finance and fair dealing, thus powerfully assailed, it is difficult to look forward, with confidence, to any speedy revival of American credit in the Old World. Nor is the outlook much more cheerful from the American standpoint, for there are signs that estrangment between the west and south on the one hand, and the east on the other, threaten the stability of American institutions with novel dangers."

The Standard says editorially: The leading silverites are playing upon the ignorances, prejudices and cupidity of the delegates so successfully that the honest money Democrats are utterly powerless. The platform is one dictated by greed and envy. The editorial in The Daily News, on the same subject, says: The platform appeals avowedly to some of the least creditable feelings of the people. But it is satisfactory to note that an active campaign is in progress, exposing the dangers and discredit attaching to a deliberate choice of a depreciated currency.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

BIG FIGHT IS ON.

tenance of the rights of the states and in its assertion of the necessity of confining the general government to the exercise of the powers granted by the constitution of the United States.

Recognizing that the money system is paramount to all others at this time, we invite attention to the fact that the federal constitution names silver and gold together as the money metals of the United States, and that the first coinage law passed by congress under the constitution made the silver dollar the monetary unit and admitted gold to free coinage at a ratio based upon the silver unit.

We declare that the act of 1873, demonetizing silver without the knowledge and approval of the American people, has resulted in the appreciation of gold and a corresponding fall in the price of commodities produced by the people.

We are unalterably opposed to monometallism, which has locked fast the prosperity of an industrial people in the paralysis of hard times. Gold monometallism is a British policy, and its adoption has brought other nations into financial servitude to London. It is not only un-American, but anti-American, and it can be fastened on the states only by the stifling of that spirit and love of liberty which proclaimed our political independence in 1776 and won it in the war of the revolution.

We demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. We demand that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts, public and private and we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future the demonetization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract.

We are opposed to the policy and practice of surrendering to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by law to the government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin.

We are opposed to the issuing of interest bearing bonds of the United States in time of peace, and condemn the trafficking with banking syndicates, which, in exchange for bonds and at an enormous profit to themselves, supply the federal treasury with gold to maintain the policy of gold monometallism.

Congress alone has the power to coin or issue money as President Jackson declared that this power could not be delegated to corporations or individuals. We therefore demand that the power to issue notes to circulate as money be taken from the national banks, and that all paper money shall be issued directly by the treasury department, be redeemable in coin and receivable for all debts, public and private.

We hold that tariff duties should be levied for purposes of revenue, such duties to be so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country and not discriminate between class or section, and that taxation should be limited by the needs of the government, honestly and economically administered. We denounce as disturbing to business the Republican threat to restore the McKinley law, which has been twice condemned by the people in national elections, and which, enacted under the false plea of protection to home industry, proved a prolific breeder of trusts and monopolies, enriched the few at the expense of the many, restricted trade and deprived the producers of the great American staples of access to their natural markets.

Until the money question is settled we are opposed to any agitation for further changes in our tariff laws, except such as are necessary to meet the deficit in revenue, caused by the adverse decision of the supreme court on the income tax. But for this decision by the supreme court there would be no deficit in the revenues under the law passed by a Democratic congress, in strict pursuance of the uniform decisions of that court for nearly 100 years, that court having in that decision sustained constitutional objections to its enactment, which had previously been overruled by the ablest judges who have ever sat on that bench. We declare that it is the duty of congress to use all the constitutional power, which remains after that decision, or which may come from its reversal by the court, as it may hereafter be constituted, so that the burdens of taxation may be equally and impartially laid, to the end that wealth may bear its due proportion of the expense of the government.

We hold that the most efficient way to protect American labor is to prevent the importation of foreign labor to compete with it in the home market, and that the value of the home market to our American farmers and artisans is greatly reduced by a vicious monetary system, which depresses the prices of their products below the cost of production, and thus deprives them of the means of purchasing the products of our home manufactures.

The absorption of wealth by the few, the consolidation of our leading railroad system, and the formation of trusts and pools require a stricter control by the federal government of those arteries of commerce. We demand the enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission, and such restrictions and guarantees in the control of railroads as will protect the people from robbery and oppression.

We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation and the lavish appropriation of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high, while the labor that pays them is unemployed and the products of the people's toil are depressed in price until they no longer repay the cost of production.

We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a Democratic government, and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

We denounce arbitrary interference by federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the Constitution of the United States and a crime against free institutions, and we especially object to government by injunction as a new and highly dangerous form of oppression by which federal judges, in contempt of the laws of the states and rights of citizens, become at once legislators, judges and executioners; and we approve the bill passed at the last session of the United States senate, and now pending in the house of representatives, relative to contempts in federal courts, and providing for trial by jury in certain cases of contempt.

No discrimination should be indulged in by the government of the United States in favor of any of its debtors. We approve of the refusal of the Fifty-third congress to pass the Pacific railroad funding bill, and denounce the effort of the present Republican congress to enact a similar measure.

Recognizing the just claims of deserving Union soldiers, we heartily endorse the rule of the present commissioner of pensions that no names shall be arbitrarily dropped from the pension roll, and that fact of enlistment and service should be deemed conclusive evidence against disease or disability before enlistment.

We favor the admission of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona into the Union as states, and we favor the early admission of all the territories having the necessary population and resources to entitle them to statehood, and while they remain territories we hold that the officials appointed to administer the government of any territory, together with the District of Columbia and Alaska, should be bona fide residents of the territory or district in which their duties are to be performed.

The Democratic party believes in home rule, and that all public lands of the United States should be appropriated to the establishment of free homes for American citizens.

We recommend that the territory of Alaska be granted a delegate in congress, and that the general land and timber laws of the United States be extended to said territory.

We extend our sympathy to the people of Cuba in their heroic struggle for liberty and independence.

We are oppose to life tenure in the public service. We favor appointments based upon merits, fixed terms of office, and such an administration of the civil service laws as will afford equal opportunities to all citizens of ascertained fitness.

We declare it to be the unwritten law of this republic, established by custom and usage of 100 years, and sanctioned by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the presidential office.

The federal government should care for and improve the Mississippi river and other great waterways of the republic, so as to secure for the interior states easy and cheap transportation to tide waters. When any waterway of the republic is of sufficient importance to demand aid of the government, such aid should be extended upon a definite plan of continuous work until permanent improvement is secured.

Confident in the justice of our cause, and the necessity of its success at the polls, we submit the foregoing declaration of principles and purposes to the considerate judgment of the American people. We invite the support of all citizens who approve them and who desire to have them made effective, through legislation, for the relief of the country's prosperity.

From a Silver Standpoint.

The prolonged demonstration which took place in the Democratic convention last night, beginning with the announcement of New York's vote on the Michigan contest, was construed by the silver men as prearranged. Some of them regard it as an effort to stampede the convention, and nominate Senator Hill. They immediately jumped to the conclusion that the hall had been packed, for many schemes were hurriedly discussed looking to the prevention of any future demonstration of the same character. Several of the silver delegates mounted the platform during the first period of the demonstration, and remonstrated with Senator Daniel, who was presiding, over the mildness of his manner. It was, however, beyond the power of any presiding officer to check the exhibition, and the Virginia senator, while feeling as keenly as any many could, the desirability of checking the enthusiasm, could do nothing to in any degree diminish its force or lessen its duration. Gestures and speech were as unavailing as would be a foghorn in a cannonade, and pounding with the gavel counted for no more in producing results.

GOVERNOR PATTISON.

With the growing storm, the silver leaders became very much incensed. Acting on the spur of the momentary impulse, Governor Stone of Missouri circulated a resolution directing the sergeant-at-arms to clear the galleries completely. Many of the silver delegates assured him of their support, and it looked for a while as if this heroic remedy would be resorted to. Different counsels prevailed, however. The governor first consented to a modification, suggested by ex-Senator Martin of Kansas, providing for closing the hall to visitors at all future sessions. Later, the silver men became more reconciled to the state of affairs, and with the first flush of surprise and indignation at the manifestation, the ill-feeling passed off, and it was decided to do nothing for the present, looking to the suppression of such demonstrations. The new spirit was manifested by a remark made by Senator Jones. "I suppose," he said, "that we can sit in our seats and take it easy as long as they can yell."

The first manifestation made upon New York's vote was generally accepted as a personal tribute to Senator Hill. He sat quietly in his seat, while the cheering proceeded, and appeared anxious to attract as little attention as possible. He was sought out, however, by many friends, and congratulated upon the demonstration. When it was suggested to him that it might make an effort to secure his nomination, he closed his lips tightly, and declined to make a reply.

The Pattison Movement.

There is much uncertainty regarding the position of Governor Pattison in the race for the presidential nomination. It seems to be understood that, after the

The man who keeps up with the procession nowadays must be strong enough to stand long, forced marches. This is a busy world we live in, busier than it ever was before, in any other age, and this is the busiest country in the world. The country is full of ambitious, energetic, strong, brainy men, each of whom is trying to lead his own particular procession. If his body fails, or his brain fails the man must fall out of the ranks—must lose his position—must, perhaps, make the rest of the journey in an ambulance.

The road to success is full of stragglers, full of those who—because they neglected their health—could not keep step—had to drop from the front rank to the second, and from the second to the third, until finally they were left behind altogether. A man can't succeed in war or in business, or in any other undertaking, unless he has health to carry him forward and to sustain his efforts. When he begins to lose health and strength and vitality, he begins to lose his value in the world. He loses the power of accomplishment, and so the power of earning.

A man's health is the most precious thing he can possibly own. Every man who is losing health, who is "run down," who is nervous and weak, who is losing flesh and sleep and appetite, should heed the danger signals while yet there is time, and should begin immediately to take that most wonderful of all invigorating blood tonics, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the medicine of all others that will build up wasting strength; that will give flesh; that will cure nervousness and sleeplessness; and that will bring back the failing strength of brain and body and nerves. A tricky dealer may offer a substitute, but nothing else is "just as good." It is sold by all good druggists, and full information concerning it may be obtained by addressing the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

GOLD MENS' PLEADINGS

Have Little or No Effect Upon the Silverites.

An Interesting Resume of an Exciting Day In the Convention.

Chicago, July 10.—Ten acres of people on the sloping sides of the great coliseum yesterday, saw the silver helmeted gladiators in its arena overpower the gold phalanxes, and plant the banner of silver upon the ramparts of Democracy. They saw what may prove the disruption of a great political party, amid scenes of enthusiasm such as perhaps never before occurred in a national convention. They saw 20,000 people with imagination inflamed by the burning words of passionate orators swayed like windswept fields; they heard the awful roar of 20,000 voices burst like a volcano against the reverberating dome overhead; they saw a man carried upon the shoulders of others, intoxicated with enthusiasm, amid tumult and turbulence; they listened to appeals, to threats, to cries for mercy, and finally, they watched the jubilant majority seal its victory, and the vanquished stalk forth into the daylight. Battle for the supremacy of Democratic principles was fought out in a session that lasted from 11 o'clock in the morning until shortly before 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

WILLIAM F. VILAS.

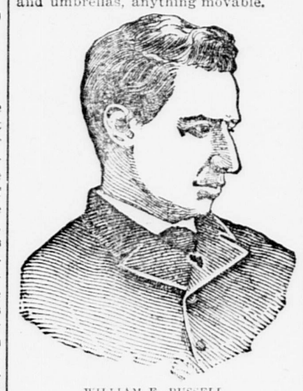
Each side sent its champions to the front. Senator Tillman of South Carolina, Senator Jones of Arkansas, ex-Congressman William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, crossed swords with Senator Hill of New York, Senator Vilas of Wisconsin and ex-Governor Russell of Massachusetts. The sinister looking senator from the state of Calhoun, with his eye blazing defiance at an audience which manifested its unfriendliness by a storm of hisses, opened the debate with a wildly passionate speech, in which he affirmed that the battle for the restoration of silver was a war for the emancipation of the white slaves, as the war of 1860 had been one for the emancipation of the black slaves. Disruption of the Democracy had brought about one, and he invited another disruption if it would result in this other emancipation. He went to the extreme of glorying in the suggestion presented that the issue was a sectional one, a declaration which aroused the resentment of Senator Jones, and he repudiated it in a brief speech, which aroused the first demonstration of the day. Even the gold delegates joined heartily in this demonstration against sectionalism.

Senator Vilas, who was postmaster general under Cleveland's first administration, bitterly denounced what he termed an attempt to launch the party on a career so wild that the world stood aghast. With a wave of his arm, that was full of impressive portent, he sounded his warning. "Somewhere in this country," said he, "there may be some Murat, some Denton, some Robespierre, but we will not follow them into another French revolution."

Ex-Governor Russell, the Massachusetts statesman, who has thrice carried the standard of Democracy to victory in the old Bay State, pleaded for a word of concession, of conciliation, and concluded with a solemn warning that the country, if not the convention would listen.

Demonstration followed demonstration, at frequent intervals, throughout these speeches, but it was Senator Hill who aroused the gold ones to their wildest enthusiasm, and Bryan, the boy orator of the Platte, who set the silver men aflame. The demonstration for Hill, who, with logic and close trenchant blade, sought the very heart contention as he bitterly assailed as undemocratic the new creed which the majority was to proclaim, lasted about 15 minutes. Although more protracted than that which greeted Bryan, it was of a different nature. The latter was the spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm, kindled by the touch of magnetic eloquence. The star of the brilliant young orator from the plains of Nebraska has burned brightly on the horizon of the convention two days. There were several demonstrations in his behalf Wednesday, but this was the first opportuity he had to show himself. His audience had been warmed up, and was full of pent-up enthusiasm. The powder magazine needed but the spark, and Bryan applied it with the skill of genius.

His very appearance captured the audience. Dressed like a plain westerner in a black sack suit of alpaca, he stood with a smile playing over his handsome, mobile, clearcut face, while with uplifted hand he quieted the waiting thousands. His mouth is firm, his eyes bright, his nose Roman, his wavy hair is brushed back from his forehead and falls to his collar. With well modulated voice, which gradually rose in pitch until it penetrated the furthermost limits of the hall, he wove the spell upon his audience. His speech was a masterpiece of fervid oratory. With consummate eloquence, he stated the case of silver and parried the arguments of the gold men. The convention took fire with enthusiasm. It crackled as by the war of flames. Cheers swelled to yells, yells became screams. Every chair in the vast coliseum, and every chair in the vast wilderness on the hillsides, became a rock on which frantic men and women were wildly waving handkerchiefs, hats and umbrellas, anything movable.



WILLIAM E. RUSSELL.

Some acted like men demented, divested themselves of their coats and flung them high in the air. A delegate uprooted the purple standard of his state and bore it frantically to the place where rose the standard of Nebraska. In a twinkling others followed the example. Two-thirds of the state standards were torn from their sockets and carried as trophies to Nebraska, where they were held in mid air. A dozen delegates rushed upon the stage and shouldered the half-dazed orator and bore him in triumph down the aisle. Louder and louder shrieked the thousands until the voulme of sound broke like a gigantic wave and fell only to rise and break again. For almost 15 minutes this maddened tumult continued, while delegates with the state standard paraded the enclosures.

Old political generals were stupefied. If the ballot for the nomination had been taken then it would have been a stampede. When it was all over the votes were taken, first on the minority substitute for the platform offered by Senator Hill, which was defeated, then on the resolution to endorse the administration, which was beaten, and lastly in the adoption of the platform, which was carried. Senator Tillman, after the rejection of the resolution to endorse the administration, withdrew his resolution to censure the administration. "The administration stands condemned by the vote," was his comment, "a brave man never strikes a fallen foe."

At the night session, in the presence of fully 25,000 people, the nominating speeches were made, and there was a repetition of the exciting scenes of the afternoon. The Bryan enthusiasm continued. The galleries went frantic at every mention of his name, and the wild demonstration of the afternoon was duplicated when he was placed in nomination by H. T. Lewis of Georgia, and seconded by W. C. K. Lutz of North Carolina, G. F. Williams of Massachusetts and T. K. Minan of Louisiana. Although the demonstration was confined largely to the galleries, it looked as if the favorite, Bland, had fallen back into the rack, hopelessly beaten.

Senator Vest placed the Missourian in nomination, and Governor Overmyer of Kansas seconded the nomination.

Fred White of Iowa placed Boles in nomination, and the Waterloo statesman owed a magnificent ovation to the enthusiasm of Miss Winnie Murray, a young woman from Nashua, Ia., who led the Boles demonstration, as Mrs. Carson Lake did the Blaine demonstration at Minneapolis four years ago.

Senator Joe Blackburn of Kentucky was placed in nomination by John S. Rhea, a brilliant Kentucky orator, and seconded by General St. Clair of West Virginia and W. W. Foote of California.

GEORGE G. VEST.

The leaders who are opposed to the nomination of Bland, who feared the convention might be stampeded to Bryan, decided, after the nomination speeches, to draw off and wait till today before taking a ballot. The action of the gold delegation, most of which decided not to participate in the nomination of a candidate on the platform, rendered Bland's strength formidable. If all the gold delegations declined to vote, 416 would constitute the necessary two-thirds, and the best estimate might give Bland 346. The Pennsylvania delegation, however, decided to vote for Pattison, after communicating with him by telegraph. The Wisconsin delegation decided not to vote, as did New Jersey. Maryland and Connecticut divided, and 30 of the Massachusetts delegates will be silent.

The sudden appearance of Bryan as a formidable candidate, and the developments of the day in connection with the gold delegations, greatly complicate the situation. The Teller movement again looms up prominently. The Bland managers are straining every nerve, and claim the victory, while Bryan's friends loudly assert that the convention will be stampeded to him.

Something happens every day to widen the breach between George F. Williams and the leaders of the Massachusetts delegation. His refusal in the convention to vote for the substitute resolution endorsing President Cleveland's administration has intensified the already bitter feeling entertained for him. There are no epithets in the language too strong to be employed in denouncing him. Being asked why he voted against the minority resolution he replied:

"I have not a word to say against President Cleveland or his administration, and entertain no feeling of hostility against either. The resolution was not offered in good faith; it was a part of an obstructive policy, which had been determined upon by an element which desired to create trouble in the convention. The proper course for delegates who were in sympathy with the majority of the convention was to vote down all amendments to the report of the committee on resolutions. If an amendment had been proposed endorsing the Christian religion I should have voted against it. The thing for the silver men to do was to vote down all amendments, and I joined with them in that policy. In doing that I had no intention to put a slight upon Mr. Cleveland. He was not considered by me. The matter I had to decide was whether the anti-silver men should be permitted to carry an amendment to the report of the committee on resolutions. I conceived it to be my duty to stand by the report of the committee. That is the explanation of my vote."

The Massachusetts delegates are not all agreed that the resolution against which Mr. Williams voted was offered in a spirit of friendliness to President Cleveland. Senator Hill knew very well when he proposed it that it would be rejected. He offered it in the meeting of the sub-committee on resolutions, and it was rejected. Again he offered it when the sub-committee made its report to the full committee. It was contemptuously rejected by that body.

Many of the members of the committee who opposed it said they did not do so on personal grounds. They did so because they believed that an endorsement of the administration would be a drag and a weight to the ticket to be nominated.

Senator Hill knew when he proposed his substitute what his fate would be. In view of the facts it is not strange that some of the president's friends from Massachusetts think that he was needlessly exposed to the rage of his political opponents.

Platform Suits Boies.

Waterloo, O., July 10.—Ex-Governor Boies prepared the following statement touching the platform adopted at Chicago:

"I see nothing in the platform of which friends of silver can complain. The plank demanding the free coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, with unlimited legal tender for silver, is beyond doubt in strict accord with the sentiment of a very large majority of the Democratic party in the states represented by silver delegates in the convention, and will prove entirely acceptable to the masses of the party, in these states at least. I believe, too, when the question thus presented has been as fully discussed in the east as it has been in the south and west, that the plank will receive the approval of the masses of the party in every state of the Union."

Cannot Support Silver.

Lewiston, Me., July 10. — The Daily Sun (Dem.) says editorially: Believing that the future prosperity of the people would be endangered by the adoption of free silver coinage, and that the silver platform, if approved by the country, would add only riches to the wealthy mine owners, and those who hold gold in their possession, for gold would certainly advance to a premium; and as the Democrats of Maine have placed themselves on record at a recent convention for gold, The Sun cannot consistently support the platform and the nominee of the silver convention. The Sun will also use its endeavors for the calling of a sound money Democratic convention, and the nomination of a ticket upon a gold platform.

Castine's Centennial.

Castine, Me., July 10.—Historic Castine celebrated her 100th birthday yesterday. The United States cruiser Columbia was in the harbor, escorted by revenue cutter Woodbury and steam yacht Princess. Houses and stores were decorated, and 2000 guests were here. At 5 a. m. there was bell ringing and salutes. At 8:30 a procession moved. It passed under a triumphal arch of welcome. Literary exercises were held in the Orthodox church, and consisted of prayer, scripture reading, an ode to the tune "Auld Lang Syne," and an address, extolling the beauties of Castine. Noah Brooks was president of the day.

Quincy Temperature at Noon.

Thursday was a very hot muggy day, the thermometer going as high as 94 degrees in the afternoon, and today is equally as hot. At 10 o'clock this morning the temperature was 88 degrees and at noon had reached the 90 mark. There is, however, a little more air today than Thursday.

Republican Banquet.

The first public meeting of the Young Men's Metropolitan club was the banquet of Thursday evening at The Brunswick, Boston. It was the first ratification of the Republican nominees in Boston and was largely attended, the Quincy contingent including ex-Mayor Fairbanks, Chairman Hammond of the Republican City Committee, H. W. Battison and W. J. Battison, Frank F. Prescott and others. A large portrait of McKinley was hung back of the head table, and the decoration of flags was very pretty. The banquet proper was a good one.

The speakers were Curtis Guild, Jr., the president of the club, Acting Govenor Wolcott, and Congressmen Barrett and McCall. Mr. Guild scathingly denounced the un-Americanism at the Chicago convention. Gov. Wolcott thanked the delegates for their work at St. Louis, and contrasted the work of the two conventions. He spoke for sound money, and extended a welcome to honest money democrates. Mr. Barrett made one of his best speeches, eulogizing Candidate McKinley whom he had known personally for many years. He spoke to the point in ringing words for the existing gold standard. Mr. McCall discussed the silver question. He said it did not matter what the Democrates promised as their notes had already gone to protest. There were frequent interruptions for applause and cheers, and enthusiasm ran high.

Funeral of Stephen Morse, Jr.

The funeral of Stephen Morse, Jr., took place on Fifth street, Medford, Thursday afternoon, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Mr. Morse was a great favorite, and his tragic death at Wellington station on Monday by being struck by a passing train, was much regretted.

Besides his home friends, there were present many from Boston, Quincy and Charlestown, besides large delegations from Cour de Lion Commandery of Charlestown, Signet Chapter, Henry Price Lodge of Masons, and Medford Council, Royal Arcanum.

The services were in charge of Rev. Mr. Wilson of Quincy. After the regular service the ritual of the Knights Templar was read. The flowers were very beautiful, among them being a fine set piece from the Boston Shooting Association. The burial was in Quincy.

It teaches a boy to be patient, persevering, careful, trains the eye and hand and incidental to use all the ordinary tools correctly.

MILTON.

The report of the warrant committee on school matters at the special town meeting, Thursday evening, was sustained. It was an adverse report in each case. The first article called on the School Committee to annul its action in determining to change the grades to the High School, and the second article called for the appointment of a committee of five citizens to look into the question of more school facilities, hear the evidences and make a written report on their finding to the regular March town meeting.

The report caused a hot discussion. It was opposed strongly by Frank L. Gage. Ex Selectman Whitney, J. Malcolm Forbes, Chairman Browne of the School Committee and others spoke.

Albert Candlin, a graduate of Boston University 3 years and Bridgewater Normal, and a teacher of six years' experience for the Willard school, in place of Mr. Merrick who resigns to accept the submastership at the Bennett school at Brighton. Mr. Candlin comes to Quincy from Southington, Conn., and is unusually well recommended by the school committee and Mr. A. C. Boyden.

Miss H. Annie Kennedy, who has been an assistant for two years to Miss Brassill, will succeed her as supervisor of Nature work. She will give her afternoons to the first eight grades and will teach science, two periods every morning in the High school.

Dr. Gallagher of Williston Seminary Coming to Braintree.

Prof. Sewall of Thayer Academy, Braintree, will be succeeded by Dr. William Gallagher, for 10 years principal of Williston Seminary, who will enter upon his new duties at the opening of the school year in September.

Dr. Gallagher went to Williston from the Boston Latin school, where he had held the position of master. He has been successful and his resignation is deeply regretted. He is a graduate of Harvard, and an educator of rare ability.

Improved Order of Red Men.

Generally in secret societies, the degree work of the order is not exemplified during the summer months but interest in the Red Men is so great at the present time that palefaces will not wait for cool weather before being adopted, and once a member the paleface wants to see more of the inside workings and beauties of Redmanship, so that all degree staffs are as busy now as during the winter.

Hodenosaunee Tribe of Wollaston is doing considerable degree work at present, having candidates for all degrees and several acceptable applications for adoption as soon as the present brothers have travelled the entire trail and become chiefs.

Several members of this tribe accompanied William A. Jordan D. G. S. to the hunting grounds of Brockton, Monday night, and assisted him in raising up the elected chief of Pequot Tribe; and again on Thursday night to South Braintree, to perform the same ceremony for Nahanton tribe. They received a true Red Man's welcome at both places, and fraternal visits will be of frequent occurrence in the future.

Over 200 tribes of the order have been instituted in the last six months, and the order is now organized in every state and territory of the union except one of each, and they will have a tribe or tribes before the close of July.

Boston Wants Ledgemen.

The civil service commissioners are in need of ledgemen; men who are competent to do any kind of ledge or rock work and who are experienced in the use of a drill and in the handling of explosives. Strong, able-bodied men not over 50 years of age are required. Registration will begin on Monday, the 13th inst., at 8 A. M., at the civil service labor office, room 16, State House extension (entrance opposite Asburton place), and will continue until the names of 100 ledgemen are added to the list.

Each person applying for registration must furnish two certificates from employers of ledgemen, to the effect that he is experienced in ledge work, and also in the use of a drill and the handling of explosives. Laborers who are at present registered, and who possess the above qualifications may, upon furnishing additional certificates as to their experience in ledge work, be placed on the register for certification for such work. No persons will be registered who do not furnish certificates that they possess the above qualifications. Veterans of the late war may register at any time.

Concert and Fireworks.

The band concert and fireworks under the auspices of the Fourth of July committee which were held last evening, attracted an enormous gathering.

The fireworks were exceptionally fine and the concert as rendered by the Atlantic Band was well appreciated.

Refreshments were on sale at the tent on the grounds and before the evening was gone, the refreshment committee's supply was almost exhausted.

Prizes for the various contests on the Fourth were awarded by Chief Marshal Moxon, from the band stand.

Fares Reduced.

The fares on the Quincy and Boston street railway will be reduced on and after Monday next between Quincy and East Weymouth to five cents; this is one-half what it has been in former times. The fare for school children will hereafter be two and one-half cents, or ten tickets for twenty-five cents. President Graham is in favor of giving the very best of accommodations to the public: frequent cars, low fares and close connections. He is right. If anything will invite the people to ride it is cheap fares and frequent cars.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember

HOUGHS NECK.

The Police Outwitted by a Much-Wanted Couple.

A Colored Man and White Woman Make Their Escape.

Man Secured Money on False Pretenses—Warrant for Woman.

The taking of French leave of a colored gentleman and the hasty departure of a woman who was wanted by a Randolph officer furnished the excitement at Houghs Neck Wednesday and served for the time being, to disturb the usual quietness of the beach.

The facts in the two episodes were as follows: Tuesday, Mr. Harvey received a check for $40 from one Dr. Brown of Boston. This check he had cashed by Stanley Mears. Mr. Mears took the check to a Quincy bank but as it was impossible to tell whether it was drawn on the Merchants or Mechanics bank, the Quincy bank refused to cash it.

Among Mr. Harvey's help was one colored gentleman, named J. E. Johnson. Johnson heard the parties interested talking of the matter and he determined to get possession of the money if possible. He asked Mr. Mears for the check but was refused. He then went to Boston Tuesday afternoon to see the parties at that end but without success.

Nothing daunted he made another trip to Boston on Wednesday and saw Mrs James Davis, a connection of Dr. Brown, and by a little moral suasion succeeded in getting her to give him $40 for which he gave her a receipt. He then came to Houghs Neck packed his grip and left.

In the meantime Mrs. Davis becoming suspicious made a trip to Houghs Neck, the cars containing Johnson and that containing Mrs. Davis passing each other.

As soon as Mrs. Davis arrived the true state of affairs was learned, and a telephone sent to the Quincy police, but through a misunderstanding as to the car Johnson was on and his description, the fellow got away.

When Johnson departed there went with him a woman named Laura Nason, who recently figured as principal witness in the Albe murder trial at Brockton. Laura was wanted by a Randolph officer on a criminal warrant and this officer learning that she was at Houghs Neck went down after her.

On the way down in the car he saw the fair Laura airing herself on the piazza of Harvey's restaurant. The day was warm and the officer thought here was a good opportunity to look about this famous resort and as he had located his party he would take a tour about and when he got ready to go home he would arrest her.

Purchasing a cigar he meandered about the beach with the air of a lord and to all appearances he was a French nobleman out for his constitutional walk.

In the meantime, however, the ever alert Laura had fixed her optics on the limb of law from Randolph, and taking time by the forelock she took a hasty departure with Johnson.

When the time came for the officer to go home he went for Laura but no Laura could he find, and there was nothing for him to do but to swallow his chagrin and go home alone.

Charles and Laura are still at large.

Items and Personals.

The cabin of the steamer Carrol, which was purchased by Mrs. J. B. Emery, has been enlarged and is now a pleasant roomy cottage.

The past week has been a quiet one at the beach and in fact the whole season thus far has been rather quiet, and unless we have some good weather to give business a chance to revive, the proprietors will close up at the end of the season without having made a dollar.

The guests at Pierce's hotel are Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Kennedy and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Merry, and Nicholas Ballum of Brockton.

There is much complaint made because the shore near the foot of Charles street is used as a dump for swill. As it is anything but pleasing the Board of Health should take the matter in hand and see that it is stopped.

There are 270 cottages at Houghs Neck.

Among the guests at the Loretto are Miss Katie Martin of Roxbury, Miss Phalan of Cambridge, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tibbits of Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Enwieght of Manchester, Miss Donovan, Miss Norton, Miss Tearney, Mr. and Mrs. Minrin Fitts of Roxbury.

Mrs. Florence M. Hovy and son of the Moondyne have gone to Canada for a month.

George McGrath of Weymouth has opened an ice cream parlor and refreshroom near the Hose house.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The first of a series of open air services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The first meeting will be at the corner of Hancock and Granite streets. Mr. John-R. Anderson, the well known Scotch temperance lecturer will be the speaker. These services are for all, and it is hoped that the Christian people will heartily co-operate. There will be special vocal and instrumental music.

The boys at Camp Durrell are having a splendid time. There are about seventy in the party from Cambridge, Malden, Melrose, Watertown, Salem and Quincy. The camp is located in obscure part of West Gloucester, located on the granite hills, with a splendid view of the ocean.

A few minutes walk from the camp is one of the finest beaches in the world. It is over a mile long, and from seven hundred to one thousand feet deep at low tide. It is surrounded by high hills of pure white sand. There are no buildings except three small cottages and two summer residences of Buffalo gentlemen.

The camp equipment is one of the finest in the country, costing $1500. It was given by Mr. Rindge who has given so much to Cambridge.

Quincy was represented by E. Nathaniel Thayer, Elwood Marnock, Arthur Hultman and Secretary Colton. Wednesday was parents day, and the Quincy callers were Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, Masters Joel and Carl Sheppard and Capt. Hultman.

Eighty-Eight More Trains.

There are now 182 daily trains to and from the Kneeland street depot of the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R, and the number will be increased to 270 when the New England trains enter about July 20. When the transfer is made all the freight business will be done on this side of Fort Point channel, the Western freight business being transferred to the New England yards.

RUN DOWN AT LAST.

A Bold Swindler Who Has Scooped In Thousands of Dollars.

Success Due to Use of President Cleveland's Name.

Gullible Westerners Fleeced by a New and Ingenious Plan.

New York, July 10.—A new form of the green goods game, which is as ingenious as it was successful, has been played upon the innocents in the west by a shrewd young man, who declares that he is the son of John S. Bell, a former chief of the United States secret service. The young man is in custody in Neosho, Mo., and the secret service agents are congratulating themselves that they have finally captured the man, who, during three years, had bid them all defiance.

The swindle which young Bell is said to have perpetrated involves no less a person than Grover Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland's honesty as an executive was brought into question, and the young rascal had the effrontery to declare that Mr. Cleveland was fully appraised of what he was doing, and that it was being done with his consent.

He represented to his intended victims that he was a member of the secret service, and that he had been detailed upon a special mission—the organization of a secret society, whose purpose was the election of Mr. Cleveland to a third term as president. He was in the habit of informing the dyed-in-the-wool administration Democrats that Mr. Cleveland appreciated that there would be great opposition to any proposition made that he should be re-elected, and he took advantage of the secret service for the purpose of organizing his friends, and to place in their hands the material with which to fight his battle.

This material was the point in which Bell showed his astuteness, in fully appreciating that the westerners would not be thoroughly well informed concerning the operations of the treasury department. He told his confidants that when the greenbacks were retired they would not be destroyed, as was the general impression, but would be put aside in a secret vault by the friends of Mr. Cleveland, so that the latter might have full control of the hoarded money when the proper time came. It was necessary, in order to use this money to the best advantage, to determine the men in various counties who would be true to the political compact. It was for that purpose that the secret society was to be formed of devoted Cleveland men.

Bell then told his victim that the latter's name was on Mr. Cleveland's list as a man who had rendered distinguished services to his party, and that the president had mentioned him as being eminently the man to trust in that particular section.

Then he would declare that it was the intention of the organizers of the society to supply each member with $4000 of the money in the way which would be most advantageous to Mr. Cleveland. This money would be sent them as soon as he forwarded their names and their initiation fee of $250 to Washington, and had administered the oath of the society to them.

Bell found plenty of persons who were gullible. Flattered by what they believe was a direct communication from the president, they took oath and paid their $250 to Bell. By the time they began to make inquiries in Washington concerning what had become of their money, Bell was hundreds of miles away, swindling more of Mr. Cleveland's friends.

The extent of the scheme was very great, and it soon came to Mr. Cleveland's ears. He became exceedingly angry, and insisted upon the secret service using all the methods known to it to capture Bell, but through superior sharpness or extraordinary good luck, Bell seemed to be able to dodge his pursuers effectually, and continued his swindling until the amount of money he collected from confiding Cleveland men is supposed to amount to nearly $50,000. Mr. Cleveland threatened, he said, at one time, to insist upon the reorganization of the bureau unless Bell was apprehended.

The captured man is likely to go to prison for several years, for the federal authorities intend to procure his indictment in every state in which he operated, and when one term of imprisonment is ended, to arrest and convict him on another offense.

Leander Wins the Cup.

Henley, July 10.—The final heat in the race for the grand challenge cup, between the Thames Rowing club and the Leander Rowing club, was won by Leander. Leander won by 2¼ lengths in 7:43. Both boats got off at the same instant, striking the water at a stroke of 40 to the minute. Thames led after half a dozen strokes, and then Leander drew up level, and at the half-mile post was a clear length in the lead. Leander kept in front and reached Fawley Court in 3:35. Her lead was somewhat shortened after passing Fawley Court, but from the Isthmiar to the finish Leander drew rapidly away from the Thames boat.

Matchett and McGuire.

New York, July 10.—At the national convention of the Socialist-Labor party, Charles H. Matchett of Brooklyn was nominated for President of the United States. The vote stood as follows: Charles H. Matchett, 43; Alderman Matthew McGuire of Paterson, N. J., 32; William Atkins of Ohio, 4. Mr. McGuire was unanimously nominated for vice president. The Socialists of this city will ratify the national and state tickets Saturday night with a parade, ending with a mass meeting in Union Square plaza. It is expected that 10,000 men and women will take part in the parade.

NEWELL MADE $25,000.

Has Gone to Europe, but Has a Successor Looking For a Pile.

Fitchburg, Mass., July 10.—Bradley C. Newell of Jacksonville, Vt., who lately was prominently before the public as the blacksmith magnetic healer, and who accumulated $25,000 within a year by answering the "still small voice" which bade him go and heal the sick, is on his way to Europe to treat the crowned heads and effete monarchs of lands across the sea, and incidentally, perhaps, to add to the $25,000.

BRADLEY C. NEWELL.

He has a successor in the person of Robert P. Stanton, who also claims to have magnetic healing power, and who says he is going to New York to cure the blindness of Charles Broadway Rouss, the rich merchant, who has offered $1,000,000 to any one who will restore his sight.

A Protest.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

MR. EDITOR: I notice in today's LEDGER that the Assessors found 5,842 poll taxpayers on their rounds in May. Had the Assessors been round a month later they would have found a great many more. It is a well known fact that hundreds, and I might say thousands, from the Provinces come here after they get through planting in the spring—just too late to be assessed—and work here all summer and go back in the fall. Or if they do happen to get here early in the spring they are sure to get away in the fall before the tax is collected.

While here they work for whatever they can get. They take the places of citizens who have always paid their tax and who have families to support. You will find it so all over the New England States and our city entertains its share of them. They are to be found doing our city work. They are on all the buildings that are today being erected in Quincy, while many of our citizens have to walk the streets in idleness, or if they do work they have to do so at cut down wages, all because those parties will work under them every time, and the contractor takes advantage of this by doing all the work in the summer months leaving nothing for winter but the possibility of runing in debt, to pay up next summer on starvation wages.

Now there must be something wrong somewhere and the least the city can do is to insist that the poll tax be paid ere the bird has flown. WORKMAN.

Quincy, July 9, 1896.

—Eugene V. Debs, the labor agitator, addressed a large audience in Providence on Tuesday evening. The strongest significance of it is in the confirmation of the late Phineas Taylor Barnum's alleged assertion that the American people dearly love to be humbugged, the only variation being in this case that perhaps a majority of Debs' hearers do not come under that national appellation. Debs is an arrant humbug and nuisance like others of his class.—Pawtucket Gazette.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health. Yours truly,

JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

BOND OF BROTHERHOOD

Cemented by Ancients and Honorables of America and England.

Visitors From Yankee Land Banquet Their Hosts.

London, July 10.—The members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston had an opportunity last night of returning, at least in part, and duly acknowledging the graces bestowed upon them since their arrival here, and right nobly did they act their part. The opportunity was furnished by the banquet they gave in the King's hall of the Holborn restaurant, one of the most prominent places of the kind in London. The hall was elaborately decorated with flowers and flags.

Prior to the banquet there was a reception, at which the hosts welcomed the chief guests. At the right of the chairman sat the Prince of Wales, Ambassador Bayard, the Marquis of Lansdowne and Field Marshal Sir Donald Stewart. On his left were the Duke of Connaught, Lord Salisbury, lord high chancellor of Great Britain; General Patrick Collins, American consul general at London, and the Rt. Rev. Alfred Earle, bishop suffrage of Marlborough. Among the 500 other guests present were many men of note.

A throng of ladies in gay attire watched the banqueting and listened to the speeches from the galleries. There was an atmosphere of enthusiasm and good fellowship everywhere, and the banquet was one of the most successful functions of the kind ever given in London.

Colonel Walker, in proposing a toast to the queen, welcomed the guests, and expressed his sincere pleasure in being in a position to welcome them. Colonel Walker said he was especially glad to see the Prince of Wales present. He hoped that the name of his highness would remain on the rolls of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company for many years, as a tie binding the companies and the two peoples.

Her majesty's queenliness as a woman, and her womanliness as a queen, clothed both her throne and her home with dignity, purity and honor.

Colonel Walker next toasted the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the royal family. In his speech he said that with the name of the Prince of Wales, he would give them also that of her whose name was honored wherever manhood honored grace, purity, dignity and beauty; the Princess of Wales.

The Prince of Wales was again cheered upon rising, and he said: "Colonel Walker has proposed this toast in most kind and felicitous terms. I assure you that I most deeply appreciate the way in which he has given, and you have received it. From tonight, the post I occupy will be doubly dear to me, as I shall feel that I am always associated with our American brothers, and shall consider that we all belong to one corps. It is my privilege tonight to return the compliment proposed by Colonel Walker, in asking my own corps and all the distinguished visitors I see here to drink, most cordially and heartily with me, to the health of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts."

Colonel Walker responded to this toast appropriately.

The Duke of Connaught responded to a toast to the united services of the mother country. The Marquis of Lansdowne proposed a toast to the health of Mr. Bayard, who said: "This is the first occasion of an invasion of the mother country by soldier citizens of the United States, and it will serve as a landmark in history where the hearts of the people of the two countries met on a common high level of mutual good understanding. Great Britain and America understand that they have a common ground and a common purpose. There are no diplomatic secrets between Great Britain and the United States. The only possible danger is that of a misunderstanding. Let us then be as clear in our countries as we were yesterday in the presence of the venerable and excellent queen, and as we are tonight in the presence of her sons."

Mr. Ball of Boston then read an ode, after which Colonel Walker arose and said: "God bless our mother, England, and God save the queen." He then retired, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and the United States ambassador. After the retirement of these guests there were cries of "Depew." That gentleman stood upon a chair in the middle of the hall, but owing to the confusion little of what he said was heard.

Three Friends Will Go Again.

Senor Solis, the Spanish consul, is in the city, and has been in consultation with United States court officials relative to getting a warrant against Captain Broward for engaging in and running filibustering expeditions.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Great Throng Attends Opening of the Convention at Washington.

Washington, July 10.—The city is thronged with the delegates to the annual convention of the Society of Christian Endeavor, which began its session yesterday. The character and extent of the decorations are far behind those of the Boston convention last year, and in the matter of convenience, also, Washington is not up to previous conventions.

The collapse of the big white tent "Williston" at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, due to the heavy fall of rain and the severe windstorm that followed, somewhat disconcerted the committee of arrangements with regard to the formal opening of the convention. Arrangements were hastily made to occupy Central hall until the "Williston" can be dried and re-erected.

Promptly at the appointed hour the exercises began with song and prayer, the great chorus of 1000 voices leading. Then came the hymn of welcome, written for the occasion by Colonel John Hay; the addresses of welcome by Chairman W. H. H. Smith, Rev. S. H. Green and John W. Ross of Washington followed, and responses to these by Dr. H. J. Service of Detroit, Bishop Walters of New Jersey and Professor W. W. Andrews of New Brunswick. The addresses of President Clark and Secretary Baer were then read.

President Clark, in his address, discussed the "platform" of the Endeavor society—the pledge, the consecration meeting, the committees, interdenominational and international fellowship, individual independence and self-government, individual subordination as societies to our own churches, Christian citizenship, and the ultimate purpose of the society, to deepen the spiritual life and raise the religious standards of young people.

Secretary Baer's report recorded the number of branches of the Christian Endeavor society in the world as 46,125. During the year 231,900 members of the society have become members of the Christian church in its various branches.

The program called for denominational services in no less than 28 separate places, and these were generally well attended. The Baptists and Presbyterians had the use of the two remaining big tents, and they made the most of them.

The Congregationalists had lost their home with the fall of Tent Williston, but the local committees proved equal to the occasion, and provided for them handsomely, by assigning to their use the big Central hall in the center of the city, which easily seated all of the Congregationalists who desired to attend the afternoon rally.

White lot was a mass of moving humanity last night. Electricity was used to illuminate the meetings, with beautiful effect. There were two meetings, one in Tent Washington and one in Tent Endeavor. That intended for Tent Williston was transferred to the Metropolitan Methodist church. In addition to these meetings were services at six different churches and halls scattered throughout the city. The program of exercises was much the same in all of them, and included music, devotional exercises and the addresses. The general topic for discussion by the speakers was "Christian Citizenship."

Worrying the Farmers.

Providence, July 10. — A plague of worms, which are destroying all the vegetation and worrying the farmers over the loss of their young crops, has developed in the northern part of the state. Specimends were brought here and shown to J. M. Southwick, the curator of the Roger Williams Park museum, who pronounced them to be the true army worm. A systematic crusade is to begin at once to exterminate the pests.

Lawrence Officer Punished.

Lawrence, Mass., July 10.—At a special meeting of the mayor and aldermen, the case of Policeman Joseph Brooks was considered. He, through his counsel, pleaded guilty to disobeying orders and neglecting his beat. The mayor sentenced him to be reprimanded at roll-call and fined 25 days' pay. This was confirmed by the aldermen.

Vermont Elopers Arrested.

Livermore Falls, Me., July 10.—Joseph McGraw and Mrs. Lewis E. Merritt, who eloped from Hartland, Vt., last week, and have been living at Jay Bridge, Me., as man and wife, were arrested there, and McGraw was committed for trial. Mrs. Merritt cried and begged to be taken tack to her husband.

Finds Time to Go Fishing.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 10.—The president spent a little time yesterday reading bulletins from Chicago, but enjoyed the day fishing. He does not express himself either one way or the other upon the doings of the convntion.

New England Briefs.

Hon. H. K. Slayton of Lawrence, Mass., is dead.

Henry Gormley, an elevator repairer, was crushed to death while at work in a building at Boston.

A postoffice thief named James Atwood, arrested in New York, is in the toils of a Boston postoffice inspector.

Biddeford (Me.) strikers are now undecided whether to call out the other unions and shut down the factories, or go back to their looms and settle the trouble later.

Provoking England.

London, July 10. — The Westminster Gazette published a special dispatch from Athens saying that Russia is prompting France to occupy Crete and hold the island against Great Britain's tenure of Cyprus and Egypt. The Greek government has become alarmed at this, and is endeavoring to induce the Cretans to accept the terms of the porte. The British fleet has been so strengthened in Cretan waters as to almost blockade the island.

Nearly 27,000 Victims.

Washington, July 10. — The Japanese minister received a telegram yesterday, stating that according to official returns, which were collected up to June 22, the total loss of life caused by the tidal wave which swept the northeast coast of Japan on June 15, was 26,899. The number of persons injured was 5793, and 5920 houses were swept away. The belief is prevalent in Japan that the tidal wave was caused by an earthquake in the sea off the northeast coast.

—One fortieth of an acre of land, located at the corner of Washington and Bedford streets, Boston, and recently leased by R. H. White, is assessed at $137,000, making the land worth $5,000,000 an acre. The entire land valuation of the town of Halifax, which has a large area, is but $156,198.—Hingham Journal.

Greater New York, with 317 square miles of territory, would be three times as big as London and 12 times the area of Paris.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

OF FRIENDSHIP.

A winter's eve, dark, cold and comfortless!
My feelings catch the spirit of the night;
Nor can a cheerful fire's warmth and light
Dispel foreboding thoughts and restlessness.
'Tis at such times dread visions cross our sight,
Unwelcome phantoms, shadowlike, appear,
Supplant hope's prophecy with idle fear,
Create and mock our melancholy plight.
But, of a sudden, my good friend is here;
As mists before the sun these demons go,
What matter winter's cold and skies above—
My heart is full of happiness and cheer!
Such swift transitions they alone can know
Who drink soul deep of friendship and its love.
—Walter Francis Kenrick in Boston Journal.

A BEAUTIFUL MAN.

He had that insolent, aggressive sort of beauty that makes people turn around in the street and stare—the strong, fair, God given beauty that even men like to look at.

He lived up to his beauty, and for his beauty's sake by his beauty. He looked like a prince, a prince of some northern saga—like Frithjof, the destroyer of gods. He looked like the impossible hero of a penny novelette written by a woman.

He was one evening at Colonel and Mrs. Wayne's. The music was complicated, and the women were plain, and he—wishing these conditions had been reversed—sat with his elbow resting on a little table near him and hand lifted up, looking at his nails. It soothed him and prevented his yawning from becoming unmanageably frequent.

"May I see them, too?" said a woman's voice at his side. It was a clear young voice, and when he turned around to look at its owner he was disappointed.

"I am a painter," said she, "and understand beautiful hands." She held out one of her own, palm upward, as she spoke, waiting for him to lay his upon it. He did so smiling, not knowing exactly what to say, and she bent her head a little to one side and looked at it.

The daughters of the house were playing a long duet.

"How dreadfully bored you are," she said thoughtfully, without raising her eyes; "five yawns in ten minutes. You may take back your hand. Thank you."

He was again at a loss what to say. He did not quite understand her, with her pretty voice and her ugly face. He would have liked to know what she thought of his hand, but it looked foolish to ask. So he sat still, staring at her aggravating, untidy little profile.

The ugly little thing came up to him before the evening was over and lifted her small hard face to his. "Mr. Van den Heuvel," she said in a pretty voice that ought to have belonged to some one else, "I want you to come and see me—that is," she corrected laughingly, "I want you to come and let me see you. I want to paint you, please." And here a softening of the pretty voice. "You are so very beautiful! I am an exceedingly clever painter, you know, so you need not fear to trust your beauty with me."

He went next day, and the day after that and every day.

She never heeded or cared about what his thoughts or his feelings might be. She painted on, stopping sometimes to clasp her hands in frank, heathenish adoration before him. "Your beauty positively hurts me!" she would say, pressing both her hands to her heart. And if he turned pale she told him to spoil her tints.

* * * * * *

"I love you," said Henri Pierre one afternoon as she bent over him with a cardboard lotus lily in her hand.

"Don't be foolish, dear," she said, rearranging her landscape.

"I love you," repeated Narcissus.

"Now your curls are all tangled up on the wrong side, and it will take me an hour to fasten the lilies on your head," she said crossly. And with light, turpentiny fingers and with a long brush in her mouth she patted him into shape again. "There, look down now and smile."

* * * * * *

"I shall try and catch smallpox," said Henri Pierre, opening his eyes, "or get burned in a fire and be all scarred and hideous. Then you will love me for something better than my beauty."

"Then I shall not love you at all," said the girl, with a decided little dab of the brush. "Go to sleep. Here comes Diana."

It was not Diana. It was Lydia Love, the poetess, who opened the door and entered with the flash and dazzle of her young success, and of her scarlet hat and cloak.

"My dear, you must lend him to me," she said after she had kissed her friend and stared at Henri Pierre until he shut his eyes again in self defense, "I have got an order for 24 sonnets, and my brain is absolutely dried up. Lend him to me for three weeks. I'll send him back unimpaired. Heavens! What a face he has!"

* * * * * *

He learned all her poems by heart, and recited them to her in the mornings when she was too calm to write. He sat at her feet from morning to night with the blue intensity of his eyes fixed on her willful face, and his heart broken by her capricious kindness.

"I love you," he said.

She laughed. "Be content with the gift of gifts the gods have blessed you with—your beauty—your improbable, your perfect, your magnificent beauty."

"Hang my beauty!" cried Henri Pierre passionately. "I want to be loved—loved for no reason—loved! Not because my nose is straight, and my hair browny yellow, and my eyes sky blue! But loved with closed eyes, blindly, unreasonably."

"I am sorry," said Lydia, who had finished her twenty-fourth sonnet that day; "but I cannot help you. And if you take my advice you will never be angry or in earnest about anything. It spoils your features."

* * * * * *

"Chi dice ca li stelle so 'lucente,
Nun sape st'uocchie ca tu tiene'nfronte."

It was not a boy, it was a young girl singing, and a little boy who was with her played the guitar. Henri Pierre threw them down a shilling. The little fellow immediately stopped playing to pick it up, but the girl went on singing in her shrill, young voice:

"Scetate, Caruli, ca l'aria e doce!"

Next day they came again.

"Chi dice ca li stelle so 'lucente,' rose the limpid voice of the little street singer like the continuation of a dream.

He threw up the window, and, sure enough, there they stood, the girl and the little boy.

Henri Pierre looked at the girl and then walked up to the large mirror that reached from the ceiling to the ground between two of the windows. He looked at himself closely and carefully for a long time, then he lifted his fist and crashed it down on the mirror so that the broken glass flew all around him.

Then he called his servant to bandage up his hand.

* * * * * *

The Countess D'Arcy was putting on her gloves and talking to Lydia Love.

"Yes, I have made up my mind," said the countess. "I am going to call on her. Of course I shall drop her again, but I want to see her. It is preposterous. The whole thing is preposterous."

And she rustled out of the room.

Henri Pierre's little Italian bride was sitting on the sofa when the Countess D'Arcy was announced. She arose when the visitor entered and held out her hand. Then she sat down again and waited.

"As an old friend of your husband I have wished to be the first to call and congratulate his bride," said the countess graciously.

"Do you know," said the countess, "that you have carried off the prize—the great prize of the season?"

The girl flushed warmly. "I know it, signora, I know it," she said, clasping her hands and speaking with an adorable Sicilian accent. "I have taken the prize! I have got the prince, the king that marries the girl in the story book. He is like San Giorgio, the slayer of dragons, or the Arcangelo Michele! He is the greatest, the noblest, the best, the cleverest!"

The countess smiled with indulgent pity.

"Yes, yes! He may be the greatest, the best, the cleverest, but what, my dear, is absolutely certain is that you have carried off the handsomest man in the country! Such beauty as his is not equaled once in a century."

The little street singer lifted her face, and her lids fluttered over her quiet eyes.

"Ah, that of course means nothing to me," she said. "I am blind."—London Sun.

The Queerest of Human Ailments.

If you will carefully read the statistics of the late war between the states you will find that according to the statements which have from time to time emanated from the adjutant general's office 199,720 Union troops died of disease during the years 1861–5. Of the 199,270 who succumbed to various maladies during those terrible years 21,187 died of a disease that was not classified simply because of its varying symptoms.

The majority of readers have never heard of this malady, but that it existed among the troops on both sides during the civil war—and in all other wars, for that matter—will not be denied by any observer who took the trouble to look a little beyond the havoc caused by shot and shell and the long catalogue of well known and well marked diseases incident to warfare. We refer to the malady known as nostalgia, which is the medical term for "homesickness." When this queer disease seizes its victim with a strong grip, he is almost as sure to die as though his malady were cholera. Persons who die from nostalgia apparently die without cause for so doing, but they die just as dead as though their ailment had been characterized by the eruptions of smallpox or the black vomit of yellow fever.

Nostalgia is not strictly an American disease, but has been known in all countries ever since men first became able to distinguish between physical ailments and cases of literal pining and fretting one's life away. Bismarck once said that for every 100 deaths in the army 7 were due to nostalgia or homesickness. —St. Louis Republic.

The Effects of Heat.

In The Nuovo Cimento, Signor Pettinelli describes a new determination of the lowest temperature at which a hot body becomes visible. He heated a cast iron cylinder 30 centimeters long and 14 broad, in a wrought iron jacket over a Bunsen burner to a temperature of 460 degrees C., as indicated by an air thermometer, and then observed its flat end in a dark room from a point 60 centimeters above it. When it had cooled to about 415 degrees, the red heat vanished and gave way to an indefinite hazy glow, the latter completely disappearing at 404 degrees, and repeated observations giving an error of only 3 degrees. High emissive substances became visible at the same temperature, but reflecting surfaces had to be heated 20 degrees higher before they appeared to the eye, and glass still more. These low temperature rays were found to traverse glass and water like ordinary light rays, but suffering a comparatively greater absorption. Different eyes differ slightly in their capacity for seeing them, the maximum divergence being about 6 degrees.

Declined With Thanks.

The editor of the Hillsboro (Ills.) News thus declines in advance an impending nomination to congress: "The mission of the hireling who holds the plow handles of this paper is to keep the fires burning on the altars of liberty and beacon lights blazing on the shores of time at $1.50 a blaze, invariably in advance. He does not hunger and thirst after official life. He did think once he would like to go to the legislature, but he has grown in grace since then and purged his system of that unholy desire. Since then he has not yearned a single yearn or hankered a hank after political distinction."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 12. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Enthusiasm in Christian service.—Acts iv, 12-33. (Prayer for the International Christian Endeavor convention.)

The sixteenth international Christian Endeavor convention is upon us. As we look back over these 16 years and see what has been accomplished for "Christ and the church" by the Endeavor hosts our hearts should go out to God in praise and thanksgiving for His blessings and earnest prayer for the continuance of the same and for His blessing upon the convention.

No more appropriate convention topic could have been selected than "enthusiasm in Christian service." This movement has practically been a movement of enthusiasm in Christian service since its inauguration. It is to be hoped that it will still continue to be such. We have a practical illustration of such enthusiasm in our topical reference, and a study of it will point out some of the characteristics of such enthusiasm. It is the enthusiasm of Peter and John in preaching Christ after they had offended the authorities and been arrested and imprisoned for healing a lame man and preaching Christ crucified and resurrected.

1. It was a worthy enthusiasm. They were enthusiastic over one who had died for the world and had risen and ascended into heaven, and in whose name not only physical healing could come, but in whose name only the soul could be eternally saved. Why should they not be enthusiastic in the service of such a one? Men are enthusiastic in the service of worthy generals and statesmen in the service of country. Why should we not be enthusiastic in serving God and Jesus Christ? There is no reason why we should not and every reason why we should.

2. It was enthusiasm at the beginning of the service. Peter and John had been disciples of Christ before, but they had only received the Holy Ghost, and in a sense this service was new. But Peter and John held out. They were not simply enthusiastic for a moment, but for life. Too many Christians are enthusiastic only when first led to Christ, but soon become weary in well doing. Look over the members of your church and your society. Did not many start well, but soon loose their interest and zeal? Are you one of them?

3. This enthusiasm for Christ cost something. Much that was unpleasant and injurious had to be endured. The religious enthusiast always pays for his enthusiasm. The world cannot understand it, and therefore scoffs at it and persecutes it. But it cost Christ something to make it possible for us to serve Him. Shall we hesitate then because of the cost?

Bible Reading.—Deut. xi, 13-15; Joshua xxii, 1-6; I Sam. xii, 20-24; I Kings xix, 10-18; Isa. lix, 19; Math. vii, 7, 8; xvi, 13-17; xxi, 8-11; Mark ii, 1-5; Luke xix, 1-5; Acts xviii, 24-28; xxvi, 27-29; Gal. iv, 18; Col. iii, 23, 24.

"Lifted Higher."

A child lay dying and said plaintively: "Lift me higher! Lift me higher!" The father took the little one in his arms and lifted her up as high as he could raise her as she continued to plead, with failing strength, "Lift me higher!" Soon she was gone, lifted out of her earthly father's trembling arms into the bosom of her heavenly Father. On the child's grave they cut her name and the words, "Lifted higher." God wants us all to come up to Him, to get closer to Him, to be lifted higher into life's better things.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

A Never Failing Patience.

Strong natures, as well as weak ones, have other peculiar temptations. As a usual thing, they are too confident of the sufficiency of their own resources and too much inclined to look with a feeling akin to contempt on timid and hesitating souls. Oftentimes they are inclined to use force where force is not of the slightest avail. Opposition makes them resentful, and even delay makes them fretful. The grace which they most need is a never failing patience.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

The Bells of Westminster.

The bells of Westminster abbey chime hourly a sweet, simple melody. The words allied to the tune are these:

All through this hour,
Lord, be my guide,
And through Thy power
No foot shall slide.

—Christian Intelligencer.

For Every Man.

The blood of Jesus was shed for every man, and every man that goes down to eternal ruin because of the neglect of the church will at the judgment bar of God stand as an accuser of the church for the wasted blood of Jesus.—Lutheran.

Other Things.

We pray a great deal—of course none too much—perhaps not as much as we ought—but what about recollection, meditation, thanksgiving, praise, adoration?—Christian Standard.

The Awaking Time.

The awaking time is coming for all souls that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for God has said, "They shall be filled."—Religious Telescope.

Love That Passeth Knowledge.

Not what I am, O Lord, but what Thou art—
That, that alone can be my soul's true rest.
Thy love, not mine, bids fear and doubt depart
And stills the tempest of my doubting heart.

It is Thy perfect love that casts out fear.
I know the voice that speaks the "It is I,"
And in these well known words of heavenly cheer
I hear the joy that bids each sorrow fly.

Thy name is love; I hear it from yon cross!
Thy name is love; I read it in yon tomb!
All meaner love is perishable dross,
But this shall light me through time's thickest gloom.

'Tis what I know of Thee, my Lord and God,
That fills my soul with peace, my lips with song.
Thou art my health, my joy, my staff, my rod;
Leaning on Thee, in weakness I am strong.
—Bonar.

Sickness is a burglar who is continually trying to break into human life. His most usual tool is constipation. This one, seemingly unimportant thing is the primary cause of nine-tenths of all human ailments. When the bowels fail to act, impure, poisonous matter is retained in the system, is absorbed by the blood, and carried to every part of the body. All the digestive organs are affected, and particularly the largest and most important of them—the liver. Constipation causes biliousness and bilious headaches; retards digestion in the stomach causing fermentation—sour stomach, flatulency, and feverishness, a feeling of fullness, heart-burn, and other disagreeable symptoms. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They afford immediate relief, but it is not merely a temporary relief. You do not become a slave to the use of the "Pellets." They gradually restore the healthy, natural action of the digestive organs and you may stop using them until some indiscretion in eating again makes them necessary. Doctors are supposed to know more about health and sickness than anybody else, and when the doctor comes the first thing he does is to find out if the bowels are in good order.

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient."

The more one knows about health and disease the easier it is for him to be healthy. Knowledge of some of the simpler laws of health is of the utmost importance to everyone, and everyone may have this knowledge by possessing Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser." A Dove Colored Gown.

A very dainty dress that comes from Paris is of the soft gray blue that you see on a ringdove's neck. The bodice is slit up twice in front, and from either slit emerges a fanlike plaiting of deep lace, which hangs loose to below the waist. Above these slits the bodice is fastened together on either side by two enamel buttons. The folded collar is of cerise velvet, and the usual inside frill of cream lace falls over it, forming a pretty frill-like expansion below each ear. The sleeve, very full above and light below the elbow, expands in a sort of sheath over the hand, and this sheath is slit up in front to show an inside plaiting of black chiffon. The soft belt of cerise velvet matches the collar, and the toque of soft gray straw, ruched with bluish gray tulle, has an erect panache, just over the right eye, of black ostrich feathers. Anemones, primroses and tuberoses are the favorite millinery flowers in Paris.—St. James Gazette.

A Dainty Dressing Table.

A dressing table covered with crape paper is a great addition to summer cottages, making the chambers look dainty and attractive. One may be easily made at home. Get a carpenter to make plain pine tables in kidney shape, half circles or oblong, sufficiently large for all the appointments of the toilet, and cover the top with cotton flannel or something equally thick. Tack a piece of cloth around the edge deep enough to come down half way to the floor. Sew to this a flounce of the crape paper that will reach the floor. Cover the cotton flannel with the paper and sew another flounce of paper around the edge of the table, allowing a little heading to stand up and having it deep enough to overlap the lower flounce. The frame of the looking glass may be covered with the paper, and both table and glass require a liberal number of bows made of the paper and placed at every corner.—New York Sun.

She Is Not Superstitious.

The superstitions that encompass and harass a bride are so many and for the most part so utterly foolish that it is a positive delight to find a bride who absolutely ignores some of the time worn beliefs. Everybody knows that it is the worst of luck for a bride to wear her wedding gown before the day of the wedding, and to try on the veil is simply tempting Providence, but one of the most charming brides of the season did both. She is the vice president's daughter, too, Miss Julia Stevenson. Several days before her wedding day she posed to Miss Frances Benjamin Johnson for a series of portraits. She wore the different gowns of her trousseau, including the wedding gown, and several of the pictures represent her veiled in the bridal tulle. It was eminently sensible, of course, and all that, but there are very few brides who would dare do it.—Washington Post.

The Czarina.

Naturally, perhaps, the English papers declare that the czarina is the most beautiful sovereign in Europe. A writer in The Sketch says: "A friend in Russia, from whom I have heard this week, tells me that as she passed through the streets, sitting alone in her lovely state carriage surrounded by gorgeously arrayed guards, she looked, in her dazzling, shimmering robes, like a fairy princess. The peasants positively fell down, muttering prayers as she passed, and I hear that a low murmur of admiration even escaped from the royal and diplomatic onlookers as the lovely young empress stood forth to receive her crown. The queen is delighted at the impression her beloved granddaughter has made upon her Russian subjects as well as upon all those present at the coronation."

A Woman's Good Suggestion.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore writes in The Business Folio of Boston:

I am especially interested in a "Rational Celebration of July Fourth." If such a celebration could be devised and undertaken by a large company of women of character, drawn from the existing organizations of women, with addresses, appropriate music and the reading of the Declaration of Independence, with an entire omission of gunpowder, guns, swords, drums and all sorts of military paraphernalia, all done in the highest style of woman's work, and if it could be persisted in for a few years, it would radically affect our present insane way of getting through the day and would start us on a celebration that would affect the thought and practice of the nation.

The Icebox.

In arranging for the supply of ice it is better to have the box filled to its utmost twice or three times a week rather than a smaller piece every day. When the box is thoroughly chilled, it keeps not only the meat and vegetables, but the ice itself. Put in 150 pounds if possible, and on the morning of the fourth day it will be found that a piece will still remain. Another caution is to open the part where the ice is kept as rarely as possible. The cold chamber is the place to put everything, even bottles of water and butter. The gust of heated air that strikes directly upon the ice when the refrigerator door is opened is the deadly agent to make it disappear. —New York Times.

Legislation For Women.

A law recently enacted in New York provides that 60 hours a week shall be the maximum of work for women and children, that chairs shall be provided for women clerks, and that all places where women and children are employed shall be subject to sanitary inspection.

An Attractive Innovation.

An attractive feature of the Women's clubs' recent convention at Louisville was the corps of ushers and pages. The pages were small girls of from 10 to 14 years and were dressed in white, with mortarboard hats, older young women similarly attired officiating as ushers.

Keith's New Theatre.

The programme at Keith's the coming week will include the Boston Symphony Orchestra players in a new programme, specially interesting scenes in the Vitascope for the ladies and little folks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dickson in a new comedy sketch, the Newsboys' Quintet, Cecil Spooner, soubrette; Ed Latell, musical comedian; Morriscey and Rich, eccentric comedians; Judge Brothers, acrobats, and a dozen other features. The living pictures, soon to be produced, will be the most elaborate series ever attempted in any theatre in the world. There will be upward of thirty subjects, most of them reproductions of famous paintings.

—On the final ballot for President at Chicago 18 Massachusetts delegates refused to vote. Six were cast for Bryan and three for Pattison. On the first four ballots Bryan received one Massachusetts vote each time.

New Magazines.

Colonel John J. Garnett, of the Confederate States Artillery, has contributed to the "Lee of Virginia" series now running in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, a paper on "The Seven Days' Campaign near Richmond." It appears in the June number. In the same number is an interesting article about Sarah Bernhardt, "the Genius of Tragedy," by W. de Wagstaffe, with a number of portraits of the great actress in her various characters.

THE FOLLOWING bouquet of information clipped from the Boston Record gives a very comprehensive idea of the various kinds of money that are now talked so much about:—

Free Coinage.—The melting and stamping into money, without charge for the service, of all silver bullion brought to the mints.

Sixteen to One.—The ratio sought to be maintained by law, according to which sixteen ounces of silver shall equal in value one ounce of gold.

Commercial Ratio.—The ratio of actual value, the rate at which gold and silver can be exchanged. It is now thirty-one ounces of silver to one of gold.

Sound Money.—A currency of which every dollar is exchangeable at par with the standard dollar of the country—in this country a gold dollar.

The Gold Standard.—The measure of value adopted by the leading nations of the world as a basis for their currency—the coin (gold) in which all obligations are finally redeemable.

A Fifty-Cent Dollar.—One which, owing to the depreciation of silver, is intrinsically worth only this amount, and maintains its face value only by reason of the government's pledge to keep it at a parity with gold.

A VETERAN HORSEMAN

Drove to Boston Fires on Engine No. 15.

Has Handled the Ribbons Over the Best Horseflesh.

The Interesting Experience of Mr. A. J. Breed.

Mr. A. J. Breed is well known among the most distinguished horsemen of New England, for he has driven for such men as Charles O. Rogers, of the Boston Journal, Jim Fiske, Jr., S. R. Payson, of Belmont, and ten years for Francis Blake, of Weston, Mass.

He also distinguished himself in the Boston Fire Department as the driver of Engine 15.

Mr. Breed, who is now ticket agent at Keith's Theatre, makes the following statement: —

"I had kidney complaint, indigestion, and accompanying troubles. I was so used up and nervous that I could not sleep two hours a night. Although I had a good appetite, I could not eat, as everything in the shape of food lay like a brick on my stomach. I own a place at Wolfboro, N. H., where I go every summer, but experienced no relief from the change of air until I took Dr. Crosby's prize formula. When my suffering was greatest, my son, Dr. C. S. Breed, the proprietor of the St. James Stables, at 1440 Washington St., Boston, sent me some Puritana. The relief it gave me was marvelous. I found that my nervousness left me, my kidney trouble disappeared, my indigestion was cured, and I was enabled to eat and sleep. I can honestly say that I gained at least 20 pounds and am feeling altogether another man. I cannot only eat anything that is put before me, but feel so well that I cannot do enough for Puritana to compensate for the good Puritana has done me. My only wish is that others may see this and profit thereby, as I am a firm believer in Puritana.

"A. J. BREED."

Mr. Breed also says that he recently advised one of his neighbors at Wolfboro to try Puritana, and he finds that the old gentleman is much pleased with the results.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A
COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE,
Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After useing two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

THE NEW MOSES.

Bryan the Nominee of the Democratic Party.

WON BY GREAT ORATORY.

General Stampede Begun on Fourth Ballot.

Many Candidates For Vice Presidency, Which Is Still Unsettled.

Chicago, July 11. — William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, the classic featured orator from the plains of the Platte, swept the convention off of its feet yesterday, and was nominated for president on the fifth ballot. Political history furnishes no precedent for yesterday's proceedings in the coliseum, either as a great spectacular show, or as the result of deliberations of the convention of a great political party. Bryan is about 36 years old, younger by 10 years than any man ever nominated for the chief magistrate of the American republic. He came like a young Lochinvar out of the west, which has never before nominated a presidential candidate, to woo the bride for whose hand the country's greatest chieftains have been suitors. His name was barely mentioned in the preliminary skirmishes. Four days ago, when the convention met, he was not entered in the lists. But Thursday he made an impassioned speech and stirred the convention to frenzy by his eloquence. That speech overthrew the diligently organized work of weeks and months for other aspirants for the honor. The cause of silver was uppermost in the minds of the delegates when they assembled here. For the cause they deliberately placed the eastern wing of the party on the altar.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Now, when the convention is analyzed, it is seen that the support of Bland and Boies as candidates was never solidly founded. It was only as the representatives of the issue that they rallied delegates to their standards, and even after many of them had attached themselves to the fortunes of one or the other of the candidates, they appeared restless, and in an instinctive way to be casting about for a new Moses. The far-seeing staid, and seasoned leaders of silver, realizing that their new creed would alienate the eastern Democracy, believed in alliance with the silver Republicans beyond the Missouri, through Teller's nomination, but the rank and file would have none of it. Thursday, when Bryan made his speech, the delegates suddenly saw in him the great advocate of their cause, and they turned to him with an impetuosity that nothing could balk. They wanted a tribunal of the people. They felt that they found him in the eloquent young Nebraskan, who set their imaginations on fire. If he had been placed in nomination then, the convention would have been stampeded, as it was yesterday. Some of the gray-haired leaders saw and feared it.

Thursday night, when he was placed in nomination, those who thought they had found their candidate were confirmed in their opinions. The idea which G. F. Williams of Massachusetts conveyed in his seconding speech, that it needed the strength of youth to endure the hardship of a new issue, that a young arm should wield the scimiter of an indignant people, sank home. Here, as Mr. Williams said, was the new Cicero, to meet the new Catalines of today. The leaders, who doubted the wisdom of nominating so young and inexperienced a man, tried to check the stampede by adjourning until today. They hoped a night's reflection would suffice. At the suggestion of an adjournment there was rebellion. The motion was declared carried, against a storm of opposition from the Bryan enthusiasts, who wanted to nominate their candidate at once.

A night's reflection only made them more determined. Yesterday morning, when the convention met to ballot, Bryan showed second in the first rollcall. He had already overhauled Boies, only Bland was ahead, and it was a struggle for the Missourian to get the 238 votes which were cast for him. The stampede began on the next ballot. In the fourth ballot, Bryan took the lead, and Bland fell back, hopelessly beaten. The nomination was made unanimous on the next ballot.

Some have sought to find in the nomination of 1880, of Garfield, who was not a candidate, a parallel with Bryan's nomination Friday, but there is no parallel. Garfield was only nominated after one of the hardest and most protracted convention contests of the country. Grant, Blaine, Edmunds, Sherman and Washburne were contesting for mastery, and after three ballots the rival leaders and the convention turned to Garfield, who had electrified the delegates by his matchless oratory and commanding presence. Yesterday the support of the other candidates simply melted away, and Bryan won without a struggle. On the first ballot, Bland got 238; Bryan, 105; Boies, 86; Matthews, 58; McLean, 54; Pattison, 95; Blackburn, 83; Pennoyer, 10; Tillman, 17; Stevenson, 2 Teller, 8; Campbell, 2; Russell, 2, and Hill, 1.

There were 186 gold men who refused to vote. They declined to participate in the nomination on the platform which had been adopted. The latter realized that the gold men would probably place another ticket in the field, or if they did not actively oppose the nominees of the convention in the campaign which was to follow, that they would, passively at least, give aid and comfort to the political enemy. Pennsylvania alone of the gold states continued to participate in the proceedings. She cast her 64 votes for Governor Pattison to the end. Most of the other gold men who voted against their instructions were for Pattison, but there were scattering votes for Stevenson, Hill, Russell and Campbell.

On the second ballot, Alabama sought to check the rout that had already begun by changing her vote from Boies to Bland, but Bryan was overtaking him with giant strides. Bland gained 48, while Bryan advanced 92. Boies was the principal loser. His vote dwindled to 37.

On the third ballot, Colorado gave up hope of Teller, the mention of whose name had been cheered and hissed by the galleries, and Oregon gave up Pennoyer in the Ohio delegation, the Bryan force lacked but seven votes of a majority, and there was open rebellion in Illinois and other states, which wanted to swing into the line.

On the fourth ballot, Alabama, the first state to vote, headed the stampede to Bryan. Idaho, California and other states followed. The revolt in other delegations spread, even among those bound by resolutions of instruction.

On the fifth and last ballot, Kansas went over. Illinois and other states came tumbling along in her wake. When Ohio was reached Bryan had 446 votes of the 504 required to make a two-thirds majority. Chairman White had ruled that two-thirds of those voting constituted the two-thirds majority under the rule. The Bryan men in the delegation demanded the poll of the vote. The friends of McLean saw that the end was in sight, and McLean himself mounted a chair and withdrew his name as a candidate, and cast the 46 votes of Ohio for Bryan. This gave him 492—12 less than enough to nominate. Montana changed her six votes to Bryan, and Oklahoma followed with her six. To the territory of Oklahoma, therefore, belongs the honor of nominating the Democratic candidate for president in 1896, as to that of Arizona belonged the honor four years ago.

THE STAMPEDE.

Of course, the other states then scrambled over each other. Governor Stone of Missouri withdrew Bland's name, and Senator Turpie withdrew that of the Hoosier state, and, on his motion the nomination was made unanimous.

There were frequent Bryan demonstrations throughout the day. The most dramatic scene occurred at the conclusion of the fourth, when it was apparent that Bryan would be nominated on the next ballot. The colors of the states were again uprooted, and the coliseum, for 24 minutes, shook with the storm of cheers, while men marched and sang, and historical women became frantic. Until after the nomination, a sweet-faced, modest looking woman sat almost unnoticed in one of the chairs to the right of the stage, surrounded by a few friends. She remained quiet amidst all the excitement, but her face glowed with pleasure as she followed the proceedings which made her husband famous. It was Mrs. Bryan. Immediately after the nomination, when it became noised about that she was there, and there was a rush to see and congratulate her, she modestly withdrew, and sought her husband.

The night session of the convention adjourned almost immediately after convening, the leaders deciding that it was not advisable to go ahead with the nomination for vice president. The vice presidential situation is very much complicated. John R. McLean of Ohio, proprietor of the Cincinnati Enquirer; George F. Williams of Massachusetts, ex-Congressman Sibley of Pennsylvania, Senator Daniel of Virginia, and ex-Congressman Fithian of Illinois, are the candidates whose names are being canvassed. Mr. McLean has for some days been conceded as a strong leader for this honor, but some dissensions have developed in the Ohio delegation which complicate the situation. Allan W. Thurman, the son of "the old Roman," sought the honor, but when the question was submitted to the delegation last night they decided, by a vote of 34 to 14, to stand by McLean. Of course the wishes of the presidential nominee will be considered in the matter, and it was at the request of his followers that action was deferred until today. Williams made a favorable impression on the convention, and some sentiment exists for him, especially in the south. Sibley, too, has quite a boom, while those who believe a southern man should go on the ticket are for Daniel. Fithian will not be placed in nomination unless Governor Altgeld decides not to support McLean, to whom he is favorably inclined.

Until the representatives of the gold element have conferred, the policy of putting a third ticket in the field cannot be definitely determined. The sentiment of the Populist leaders here is favorable to endorsing Bryan. The numerous Republican bolters from the St. Louis convention, who came here hoping to nominate Teller, are greatly chagrined at the result. They have telegraphed to Teller not to take a definite stand until they can confer with him, and Senator Dubois and others started for Denver today. They say the Bryan wave carried the convention off its feet, and that his free trade views are such that they are not likely to endorse him.

Bryan delivered a stirring speech from the balcony of his hotel last night, covering his previously expressed views on the financial and labor question.

How Bryan Received the News.

Mr. Bryan received the announcement of his nomination with all the composure and calmness of a man who had been used to such things during a longer life than his. He was at the time sitting chatting with two newspaper friends in his parlor at the Clifton House. "If," said he, "this is true, I want to do that which I have for some time had in contemplation in this emergency." He then turned to the parlor table, and, with a lead pencil, wrote on a scrap of paper the following:

"The American People: In order that I may have no ambition but to discharge faithfully the duties of the office, I desire to announce that, if elected president, I shall, under no circumstances, be a candidate for re-election."

He immediately hurried away to the barber shop to get shaved. The news had, in the meantime, become generally known, and the lobby of the Clifton was completely filled by the time the barber had allowed Bryan to leave the tonsorial chair. There were loud cheers and calls for a speech when he appeared in the corridor of the hotel. Taking a stand in the stairway, Mr. Bryan said:

"My Friends: I assure you that I am exceedingly grateful for the great compliment which I am assured has been paid me by the Democratic national convention. It, of course, remains to be seen whether the nomination is a wise or an unwise one. For my part, I do not know. This will, of course, be determined by the contest which will be decided at the polls next November, when it will be known, not only whether I shall be elected or defeated, but, immeasureably more important than that, whether the cause of silver shall lose or win. I will only add that I hope that those who accept the views of the Democratic platform, which was yesterday adopted, will lose no opportunity to influence the result in the interest of the doctrines therein inculcated. I thank you for this manifestation of your endorsement."

The brief speech was received with a loud and generous burst of applause, and a demand for an opportunity to shake hands with the new candidate. An impromptu reception followed for about 20 minutes at the foot of the stairway.

Senator Hill and William C. Whitney left Chicago early last evening for New York. Senator Hill was asked if he had anything to say, and he replied: "I was a Democrat before the convention; I am a Democrat still." Senator Hill says that his absence from the convention yesterday could not be, reported, to mean that he had bolted the convention.

Bryan's Career.

It has been said that William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska "won fame in an hour" by his address on the tariff in congress in March, 1892, but his race for fame began 12 years prior to that date, for he was a student of political economy at a very early age and was on the stump before he was old enough to vote. Mr. Bryan was born in Salem, Ills., March 19, 1860. His father was a prominent lawyer and a circuit court judge. Young Bryan graduated at the Illinois college and at the Union Law college. Then he married Miss Mary E. Baird and put out his shingle as an attorney. His total income for the first six months was $68; after that he had a fine practice. His wife has also been admitted to the bar, and she is in more senses than wives usually are a helpmeet to her husband. They have a delightful little home and several bright children.

Mr. Bryan is a smooth faced, clean cut, handsome man, a fine speaker and a ready debater. He is an ardent tariff reformer. Since his retirement from congress he has been active upon occasions in spreading the free silver propaganda all over the great west and down into New Mexico. He never fails to secure converts. He began his congressional career by carrying an overwhelmingly Republican district by 7000 majority. Although his views on finance are at variance with those of some of the great Democratic statesmen, recent developments have shown that he is in advance rather than in the rear of Democratic progress. As long ago as May, 1895, in a speech in Missouri, Mr. Bryan said he believed the Democratic party would take its position at the next national convention and declare for the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1.

Possible Vice Presidential Nominee.

John R. McLean was a baseball catcher at one time, and a more determined one never faced a pitcher. That was before the days of masks and stomach pads. After his baseball enthusiasm was partially knocked out by a foul tip, which took him to a dark room for two months to repair an impaired eye, his next ambition was to print the best newspaper in Ohio.

He inherited the Cincinnati Enquirer from his father, and while there may be some question as to the realization of his efforts, he has certainly succeeded in building up an extremely influential and profitable newspaper. Then he fell a victim to the wiles of Cupid and married Miss Mary T. Beale, daughter of General Edward F. Beale of Washington. The bride was about 25 years old at that time and the groom 10 years her senior. He has one of the swellest of the swell houses in Washington, entertains handsomely, and has among his guests the biggest men of both the Republican and Democratic parties. Two of three years ago he said he would not accept any political position, but preferred the life of a private citizen.

He is an avowed adherent to the free silver theory, and his paper, The Enquirer, is a staunch supporter of the cause. His experience with the New York Journal not long since was not entirely as he could have wished, but he forsook the enterprise manfully and without a shadow upon his business and professional capacity. Mr. McLean is very wealthy. Some people estimate that he is worth $20,000,000. He is a large holder of real estate in Cincinnati, a heavy owner of street railway stock in Washington, and the chief stockholder in the principal gas plant of that city. He is about 45 years of age.

Nothing to Say.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 11.—President Cleveland again enjoyed the cool breeze of the bay in his steam launch yesterday. His companion on the fishing trip was Private Secretary Thurber. They had a good run of luck. Early last evening the president was informed of Mr. Bryan's nomination. Mr. Thurber stated to the press that the president absolutely declined to express an opinion on the nomination.

The Mother's Dream.

Boy, your mother's dreaming; there's a picture pure and bright
That gladdens all her homely tasks at morning, noon and night;
A picture where is blended all the beauty born of hope,
A view that takes the whole of life within its loving scope.
She's dreaming, fondly dreaming, of the happy future when
Her boy shall stand the equal of his grandest fellow men.
Her boy, whose heart with goodness she has labored to imbue,
Shall be, in her declining years, her lover proud and true.
She's growing old; her cheeks have lost the blush and bloom of spring,
But, oh, her heart is proud because her son shall be a king,
Shall be a king of noble deeds, with goodness crowned, and own
The hearts of all his fellow men, and she shall share his throne.
Boy, your mother's dreaming; there's a picture pure and bright
That gladdens all her homely tasks at morning, noon and night;
A view that takes the whole of life within its loving scope.
Oh, boy, beware! You must not mar that mother's dream and hope.
—Nixon Waterman in L. A. W. Bulletin.

Every Day.

Oh, trifling tasks so often done,
Yet ever to be done anew!
Oh, cares which come with every sun
Morn after morn the long years through!
We shrink beneath their paltry sway—
The irksome calls of every day.

The restless sense of wasted power,
The tiresome rounds of little things,
Are hard to bear, as hour by hour
Its tedious iteration brings.
Who shall evade or who delay
The small demands of every day?

The bowlder in the torrent's course,
By tide and tempest lashed in vain,
Obeys the wave whirled pebble's force
And yields its substance grain by grain.
So crumble strongest lives away
Beneath the wear of every day.

Who finds the lion in his lair,
Who tracks the tiger for his life,
May wound them ere they are aware
Or conquer them in desperate strife,
Yet powerless he to slay or slay
The vexing gnats of every day.

The steady strain that never stops
Is mightier than the fiercest shock;
The constant fall of water drops
Will groove the adamantine rock.
We feel our noble powers decay
In feeble wars with every day.

We rise to meet a heavy blow—
Our souls a sudden bravery fills.
But we endure not always so
The drop by drop of little ills.
We still deplore and still obey
The hard behests of every day.

The heart which boldly faces death
Upon the battlefield and dares
Cannon and bayonet faints beneath
The needle points of frets and cares.
The stoutest spirits they dismay—
The tiny stings of every day.

And even saints of holy fame,
Whose souls by faith have overcome,
Who wore amid the cruel flame
The molten crown of martyrdom,
Bore not without complaint alway
The petty pains of every day.

Ah! more than martyr's aureole,
And more than hero's heart of fire,
We need the humble strength of soul
Which daily toils and ills require.
Sweet Patience, grant us, if you may,
An added grace for every day.

The Sphinx Measurement.

The protests in the Winthrop race and the City of Boston open race were heard by the judges last night. A Boston paper says:

Arthur Keith must toe the mark. The judges of both regattas voted to give him till Wednesday to be measured by Official Measurer Bertram at South Boston, and if not measured by that time the yacht will be thrown out of both regattas. It is a significant fact that the disposition of some twenty-five prizes rests upon protests filed against Sphinx. It is also significant that a member of the South Boston Yacht Club who went to Quincy yesterday to see her measured found her hauled up high and dry upon the beach.

TODAY'S COURT.

Daniel Walsh was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John L. Burke was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph. Case continued until July 20.

Alice M. Hawley of Weymouth was fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

The case of W. L. Foster for enticing young girls away was called. The court thought the evidence not sufficient and ordered his discharge.

Runaway on Railroad.

There was a lively runaway up the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. just before midnight last night. The horse started from near French's stable and crossing the depot platform started up the tracks on the trot toward Quincy Adams. He crossed two of the bridges all right but in crossing the bridge in the rear of L. M. Pratt & Co.'s store his legs went through between the planks and there he hung. A crowd of men soon gathered, but it was after one o'clock this morning before they succeeded in getting him out. The animal was not injured much and it was fortunate that there was no train due.

NEW GRANITE WORK.

Several Orders Being Booked by Quincy Firms.

Business Not Rushing but Many Are Busy.

The granite business in Quincy as a whole is not rushing, and in fact it never is for a month or two following May, when everybody is busy. Some firms in Quincy are having all they can do and are obliged to let out some of their work to other firms, while on the other hand there are some firms who have practically nothing to do, and are letting their men go. Nearly all of the firms seen by the LEDGER representatives speak encouragingly of the outlook and think that with the large amount of work that there is in the market, Quincy will get a good share.

F. Hardwick & Son report that business with them is rushing, although their orders are for medium-sized memorials.

Most of the firms closed their yards from last Friday, July 3, until Wednesday morning.

Fuller, Foley & Co. have the order for a good sized sarcophagus monument of medium Quincy granite for New England parties, the base of which is 7-2x4-6. The die and cap will be polished.

George H. Hitchcock & Co. are getting out some handsome stock at their quarry.

Frederick L. Jones, of McGilvary & Jones, has just returned from his western business trip where he secured several orders.

Biganess, LeClair & Co. report having some small work on hand, but as a whole work is quiet, and they have felt obliged to let some of their cutters go.

The Nichols Granite Co. report they have enough orders to keep their gang at work, but work is a little quiet.

A. Marnock & Co. are cutting a sarcophagus monument for western parties, the base of which is 9-2x5-2. They are also at work upon a column die sarcophagus monument which is to be elaborately carved.

The Blue Hill Granite Co. have just started a seam 100 feet long and 50 feet wide at their quarry.

Burke Bros. are getting out a handsome cube job. The base is 2-10x2-6 and the cube 2x3x1. A five pointed polished star appears on the face of the cube, across which is the name "Stella" in raised polished letters.

The annual meeting of the Lyons Granite Company will be held Monday evening.

The Manet Granite Company are cutting a large square monument with inclosure, to be of extra dark Quincy granite. The base is 6x6 and the die 2x6x6, the whole being surmounted by a large cross 4-3x1. The monument is all polished above the second base and the posts of the inclosure are also polished.

S. Henry Barnicoat has gone with his family to England for a two months' trip. During Mr. Barnicoat's absence Mr. George McDonald will have charge of the business.

Deacon Bros. have just shipped a square monument of dark Quincy stock, the base of which is 6-8x6-8. The die and cap are polished.

C. H. Hardwick & Co. are quite busy at their plant and have quite a lot of orders for small memorials on hand. They are getting out some handsome stock in their quarry.

Swingle & Falconer are as usual very busy and find no let up in business.

McDonnell & Sons have orders for several large jobs, among which are an elaborately column die monument the base of which is 11x11, the whole to be surmounted by a statue of Memory. Another of their orders is a soldiers' monument for Geneva, N. Y., the base of which is 10-4x10 4, the whole to be surmounted by a polished granite ball.

The Granite Manufacturers' Association has appointed a committee to arrange for its annual outing.

W. T. Spargo & Co. reports having booked orders for several good sized monuments, among which are two-column die sarcophagus monuments of dark Quincy granite, both of which are to be elaborately carved. One has a base 9x5-9 and the other 6x4-3.

Herbert W. Beattie has just completed the model of a figure of "Memory." The statue, which is eight feet high represents a woman holding a spray of lilies in the left hand, while the right hand is in the act of dropping one just plucked from the spray. The face has a sweet, thoughtful expression, and the drapery an easy flowing and original arrangement.

—The Sudbury town meeting on the proposed $2000 granite monument will be held July 20.

In China, which has long been known as "the land of opposites," the dials of clocks are made to turn around, while the hands stand still.

Sea shells murmur because the vibrations of the air, not otherwise observable, are collected in the shell, and by its shape are brought to a focus.

COUNTRY RESIDENCE.

[Copyright, 1896, by George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.]

Many suburbs are like a shabby frame to a picture, little attention being paid to the houses or outskirts, which, in many instances, must of necessity be built in a hurry by careless speculators with little regard to external appearance. This class of house ought to be made more attractive, as there is no excuse for a repulsive appearance even if they must be erected cheaply or built in haste. They need not, therefore, be inelegant. The most renowned and graceful structures of modern times, the World's fair buildings at Chicago, were not more remarkable for their beauty than for the incredible haste in which they were built—put up to be taken down in a few months—and yet they were models of elegance and constituted the best part of the exhibition by their beautiful and majestic proportions.

Let it then be always borne in mind that the necessity for hurry and cheapness is not an excuse for ugliness or poor construction. It is only necessary for the builder to know what he is about, and a handsome house can be built as rapidly and cheaply as an ugly one. Let every one building be fully alive to his own best interests, and not neglect the looks of his buildings, for it is the well proportioned, good looking house of any kind that rents or sells sooner and for a higher price than one that may be equally good, but not so good in appearance.

Plan.—Frame, seaside, shore or country residence, suited for erection in any first class neighborhood. Front, 59 feet; depth, 59 feet. Height of stories: Cellar, 7 feet; first story, 10 feet 2 inches; second story, 9 feet 2 inches; third story, 8 feet 2 inches.

A heavy frame, sheathed, felted and with shingle finish. Piazza very large and spacious. Interior: Open fireplaces in hall, parlor, library, dining room and principal bedrooms; portable range with hood in kitchen; range and tubs in laundry; first and second floors lined and deadened; second story floor, also kitchen wing of first floor, yellow pine; main hall, parlor, library and dining room of quartered oak. The cellar floor is cemented. The ceiling is plastered. The walls of first, second and third floors are soapstone finish.

ing room are in whitewood stained; other finish, white pine varnished; the front staircase is of quartered oak up to third floor, and of elaborate design; outside blinds to all windows of first, second and third floors; kitchen, laundry, servants' hall, bathroom and back hall wainscoted; handsome mantels to all fireplaces; house piped for gas, fitted up with gas machine complete; plumbed complete, having water supply from distant well pumped by windmill, also a large cistern and hand pumps, connecting same at stationary tubs and with facilities to pump into tank in attic. Sewer connections run in to the water. Can be arranged for cesspool if required. A large portable furnace heats all the principal rooms. House treated with creosote stain for side walls and roofs, the casings and blinds being painted. The yellow pine floors of veranda and ceilings are finished with spar varnish.

Cost to build, finished as above, $15,000.

Hints For Builders.

It costs no more to build a cottage which is really good artistically than one which is intrinsically bad—less, in fact. Reserve, simplicity, dependence on the really good old models that have been left to us from the earlier periods of American building—these are the only qualities that are required, and generally they should not be hard to find nor to acquire. Arrange the rooms very simply, keep the lines of the plan as near a plain rectangle as possible, leave the roof alone, avoid many bay windows, towers and dormers, make your chimneys just as large as is feasible, have nothing to do with yellow and white paint, and you will be pretty safe.—Ladies' Home Journal.

White Houses With Green Blinds.

Time was when the plantation homes of the south were universally painted white, with green blinds, and while Dickens and other travelers and critics may ridicule the glaring white walled houses, upon sun heated pavements and may be treeless streets of the cities, yet amid the green trees and waving fields of the south these white houses with green blinds were cool and inviting in summer and, surrounded with evergreen trees in winter, were pictures of elegance and good taste.—American Homes.

Blanche Found Something In the Pear Tree, but It Wasn't Sweet.

"Oh, grandma!" exclaimed Blanche breathlessly, "guess what I 'scovered up in the big pear tree this morning?"

Grandma put on her spectacles and tried to look very wise. "Is it something to eat?" she asked.

"Yes," answered Blanche quickly, "part of it is."

"And is it sweet?" continued grandma.

"Just as sweet as sugar," declared Blanche.

"Then I guess it's a big, bouncing Bartlett pear," said grandma, smiling.

"Dear, dear, me!" exclaimed grandma thoughtfully: "whatever can it be? I think you will have to tell me, Blanche."

"I'm not going to just yet," said Blanche, "'cause maybe if I tell you a few more things you can guess it. Part of it is a house, and something lives in it, and they can fly."

"Perhaps it's a b-i-r-d," suggested Aunt Nan.

Blanche laughed and laughed. "Why, it's 'most as good as a puzzle," she said. "Do you ever eat birds, Aunt Nan?"

"Sakes alive, no!" exclaimed Aunt Nan decidedly.

"Supposing we go out and take a look at your puzzle," said grandpa, as he folded up his paper.

So they all went quickly down the narrow garden walk and stopped beside the tall green pear tree. "Don't you see it?" asked Blanche excitedly. "That great gray bee's nest away up near the top. And don't you see the yellow bees buzzing and buzzing around everywhere? Don't you see them, grandpa?"

"No," said grandpa slowly, "I don't. There isn't a bee's nest anywhere around here that I can see, even with my glasses on, and I can't discover one single bee either."

"Why—ee!" exclaimed Blanche wonderingly, "I can see them as plain as anything, grandpa."

Grandpa looked amused. "What bright, bright eyes you must have," he said, smiling.

"And can't you really 'scover anything 'sides leaves and pears?" asked Blanche in surprise.

"Oh, yes, indeed," answered grandpa, with a twinkle in his eye, "I've discovered something quite remarkable, Blanche. I've discovered that every one of your yellow bees are nothing more or less than hornets!"

"Why—ee!" exclaimed Blanche in astonishment. And then how everybody laughed.—Youth's Companion.

The Stolen Lunch.

Poor little Peter! Do you see him at the schoolhouse pump? Oh, how he cries and howls!

Yesterday a little girl named Mary Owens came to the teacher and said: "Oh, Miss Ward, what shall I do? This is the third day that some one has eaten up all my lunch. I have been watching and trying to find out who can be the thief. But it is of no use."

The poor child cried because she was so troubled at the loss of her dinner.

"Never mind, little Mary," said the teacher. "Do as I tell you, and we will catch the naughty child very soon."

So they said not a word more before the other scholars and quietly laid their plan. Next morning the teacher brought a tempting doughnut and placed it in Mary's lunch basket.

Just before the bell rang to dismiss the school at noon the scholars heard a noise and soon saw Peter standing by the well and working the pump handle in a lively fashion.

The doughnut had been filled with red pepper, and when poor Peter tasted it he knew he was found out. Oh, how it did burn! It seemed as if he could never get to the water. And, worst of all, the boys and girls now came running to him, shouting and laughing at him with all their might.

No doubt this will be the last time little Mary will lose her lunch.—Boston Woman's Journal.

A Three-year-old Bicyclist.

Would you like an introduction to the youngest bicycle rider in Chicago, if not in the world? This is his picture. The young man is just 3 years old, and he lives at 2760 Commercial street, Ravenswood. His name is Allison Friedberg. He rides an odd little baby bicycle, the wheels of which are only 16 inches in diameter and the seat 22 inches from the ground. Not long ago he rode from Ravenswood to Lincoln park and back, a distance of ten miles, in less than half a day. He learned to ride very easily and is not at all afraid.—Chicago Record.

His First Wages.

There is a boy in a neighboring city whose parents live very economically and have always given him the plainest of food. He has found a position in a shop this season, and what do you suppose he did with his first week's wages? He bought a peck of raisins, went off by himself and ate them all—every raisin. He was ill for several days, and the next week's money had to go to pay the doctor.—New York Letter.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

BUY

· TEA ·

Of Boston Branch Grocery.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

RESERVE IS INVADED.

Gold In United States Treasury Falls Below $1000,000,000 Mark.

Considered a Response to Silverite's Victory.

Officials, However, Do Not Appear Specially Alarmed Over the Future.

Washington, July 11.—A loss of nearly $1,000,000 and decline below the old customary limit of $100,000,000, was the response of the gold reserve to the victory of the silver extremists at Chicago.

The decline below $100,000,000 was, in some measure, a mere coincidence, as the reserve has been hovering about that point for the past two weeks. The significant and less favorable features of the situation were the announcement, early in the morning, of the loss of $500,000 in gold coin, for export, and $120,000 for domestic purposes. There had been few exports of any magnitude for some weeks, and the reserve, according to the official figures, not including the losses of yesterday, declined only from $102,418,002 on June 30, to $100,295,688 yesterday morning.

The reported loss in the morning was followed by the withdrawal of $200,000 for export and additional withdrawals for domestic purposes, which carried the total up to $218,400 in gold coin, and $16,300 in gold bars. The gross losses for the day were $934,700, and the net reserve at the close of business was $99,171,518. The loss was principally in coin, because the present charge for gold bars makes coin more profitable in certain cases.

The supply of coin is now ample, being reported at $112,263,728, against bullion to the amount of $32,481,533. The sum of $42,327,259 in coin is set aside against outstanding gold certificates, leaving the amount available for general uses about $70,000,000.

No special alarm is felt at the treasury regarding the immediate future of the gold reserve. It is believed that the effect of the declaration for free silver at Chicago has been discounted by the stock market, and that confidence prevails abroad that the United States intends to adhere to the gold standard. This is not the season of heavy gold losses under normal conditions, and they have amounted to only about $8,500,000 during the past six weeks. The gross losses have been somewhat larger, but have been offset by some considerable deposits of gold at the mints and assay offices and exchanges of gold for other currency at the sub-treasuries.

A deposit of $500 in gold certificates was made at Philadelphia a day or two ago in exchange for silver certificates, and the gold thus released was carried to the net reserve. The season has hardly begun for large demands for small notes which usually come in the late summer and early autumn, but the present is usually the period when the tide of gold turns toward the United States.

There may be some doubt whether there are actual gold imports of any moment during the next four or five months, but it is hoped that the offerings of bills of exchange against exports of American merchandise will be sufficient to prevent heavy exports of gold.

Dined, Smoked and Talked.

London, July 11.—The Honorable Artillery company of London gave a smoker in honor of their guests from Massachusetts, last night, in the drill shed at their armory house. The entertainment commenced at 10 o'clock, a distinguished company being present. Each guest was handed an elaborate and beautiful long antique folio program, adorned with the colors of the two companies, in imitation of what such a document might have been in the period of Charles I. and Captain Robert Keayne, the first commander of the Massachusetts company. Most of the guests wore citizen dress for the occasion, giving rather a sombre appearance to the audience. A long program by the best artists from the music hall and theaters had been arranged for the entertainment of the guests. At midnight a splendid supper was served. The assembled company separated very late, after a most enjoyable evening.

Dunraven's Pet Scheme Advanced.

London, July 11.—Lord Dunraven moved the third reading of the deceased wife's sister bill in the house of lords yesterday, and the Duke of Argyll immediately moved its rejection. In so doing he described the proposal as an abomination directly opposed to the Bible, and claimed it would reduce marriage to mere animalism and open the door to enormous evils. The bill finally passed its third reading in the house of lords by a vote of 142 to 104.

In a Bad Spot.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., July 11.—Schooner J. P. Wyman lies in a very bad place near Robinson's Hole, and appears to be pounding on the rocks quite heavily. It seems almost certain that she will be a total loss. Steamer Pentagoet also lies in an exceedingly bad locality. On nearly the same bit of coast the steamer South Portland and schooner Agnes Manning were wrecked in 1891.

Due to Impure Water.

Haverhill, Mass., July 11.—Professor Sedgwick of Boston, who has been asked to investigate the probable cause of the typhoid fever epidemic in this city, reports that in his opinion it is due to contamination in one of the water supplies, Crystal lake, due to the use of the lake for pleasure purposes.

Chief Guest Didn't Go.

St. John's, N. F., July 11.—Commodore Recoloux of the French flagship Clocheterie declined to attend a dinner given in his honor last night by Governor Murray of this colony, because the colonial government resists the interference of French fishermen with Newfoundland residents on the treaty coast, where the French have fishing rights.

Couldn't Fight Alone.

Biddeford, Me., July 11.—The backbone of the strike in the Pepperell and Laconia mills, where the loom fixers went out a week ago, is broken, the strikers having voted to return to work. The strikers will go back Monday. They realized that they could not fight the battle alone.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Has but Little to Report of a Very Encouraging Nature.

New York, July 11.—Bradstreets says: The usual midsummer dullness in general merchandise markets has been emphasized by unfavorable weather, by uneasiness at the attitude of the Chicago platform toward the finances of the country, and by the continued conservatism with which merchants continue to supply their wants. The volume of business appears smaller than last week. Mercantile collections are more unsatisfactory, and there is a disposition among jobbers to look more closely after credits. Wool is still further depressed, with not enough business to establish quotations. There is no improvement in the demand for fall business in woolens. Iron and steel industries report a reduced demand, even after the greatly restricted output, with prices practically unchanged, and little prospect for a revival for some time. A portion of the recent activity among shoe manufacturers still continues, but the tendency is to fall off.

Among two dozen staple articles, prices of which form a gauge of the general tendency of values, only one, print cloths, shows an advance over last week, coffee, petroleum, iron, steel, coal and lumber being conspicuous among those for which prices are unchanged. The general tendency to the price movement, therefore, is downward, the advance in prints being the result of the shutdown at the east. More encouraging trade features include the opening of new prints for fall delivery, and the preparation for the road of travelers, more particularly among dry goods jobbers.

Good Fellowship.

London, July 11.—The Sports' club tendered a banquet last evening to the Yale men, who came over to contest for the grand challenge cup in the Henley regatta. The company spent the early part of the evening in the enjoyment of a capital dinner. About 10:45 o'clock, Chairman Jackson proposed the first toast of the evening, the queen and the President of the United States. Lieutenant Commander Cowles replied on behalf of the United tates. The chair then proposed the Prince of Wales. Chairman Jackson proposed the toast of the evening to "the representatives of Yale, on behalf of the club that is representative of every English sport, to a crew that has earned every one's esteem, and has won all sympathies in their defeat." Captain Treadway of the Yale crew replied in a humorous speech. Mr. Kinney proposed "success to the American universities," and Mr. Skiddy gave the "Yale whisper." Chauncy Depew also replied to a call, and delighted his audience with a characteristic assortment of yarns and jokes, delivered amid roars of laughter.

Many Bolters.

Boston, July 11.—All is commotion in political circles here, not so much due to the nomination by the Chicago convention, as to the views of some of the most prominent Democrats, quoted in The Journal. Winslow Warren, collector of the port, says he has left the Democratic party, and will vote for McKinley. His reason is expressed in these words, concerning the Chicago convention: "They have endorsed repudiation and mob law; they have overthrown the constitution; they have done away with the supreme court." Among the other Democrats quoted as bolting the platform are: General Francis Peabody, Jr.; Dana Estes, Professors Norton and Shalor of Harvard, Osborne Howes, J. L. Nichols, C. T. Lovering, W. B. De Las Casas and ex-Mayor Bessom, who say they will vote for McKinley. Colonel T. W. Higginson and Edward Atkinson can support neither party. Fully a score of equally prominent Democrats say they have left the Democratic party.

Fell Five Stories.

Boston, July 11.—A hoisting elevator in a building now in course of construction at Dudley and Adams streets, fell five stories yesterday, and seriously injured eight workingmen, who were at that moment upon it, waiting to be lowered to the bottom of the building. There were nine men on the elevator, but one man, by what seemed almost a miracle, escaped all injury by catching a dangling rope. Immediately after the fall, ambulances were summoned from the city hospital and from station 10, and patrol wagons came from stations 9 and 10. In these the men were put, all unconscious, and taken to the city hospital. All were resting and out of danger at a late hour last night.

Outhwaite's Prediction.

Columbus, O., July 11.—Ex-Congressman Outhwaite (Dem.), just from Chicago, says it is settled that the gold Democrats are determined to see that the candidate of the Chicago convention is overwhelmingly defeated.

Cabinet Nearly Built.

Ottawa, July 11.—Hon. Wilfred Laurier yesterday, had an interview with Lord Aberdeen. He was asked to undertake, and accepted, the task of forming a government. It is thought his cabinet is pretty well completed.

THE ENDEAVOR HOSTS

Carrying Out Their Program With Zeal and Enthusiasm.

Washington, July 11. — The enthusiasm of the Christian Endeavorers still continues. A letter of regret at inability to be present was read from Hon. Neal Dow of Portland, Me. In his letter Mr. Dow said: "It is said that the Protestant church members who are voters in this country are at least 5,000,000 in number. If that be true it may be honestly said that the continuance of that great sin, shame, crime and infamy depends upon the permission of the church membership, because their ballots, honestly employed, may easily destroy the grog shops promptly."

Yesterday morning the general topic of the convention was "Christian Service." Rev. Hugh S. Williams of Memphis spoke at Tent Washington of "Our Glorious Incentives to Service;" Rev. C. L. Work of Cincinnati considered, at Tent Endeavor, "Some Bible Phases of Prayer;" Rev. W. F. Wilson of Toronto, at the same place, discussed "The Joy of Soul Winning;" and Rev. J. W. Chapman, D. D., in Tent Washington, spoke of "Some Conditions of Successful Service."

The Junior Christian Endeavor society, in Tent Washington, was addressed by Miss Kate H. Haus of St. Louis, Rev. H. S. Williams of Memphis, Rev. T. L. Cuyler of Brooklyn and J. W. Chapman of Philadelphia. Bishop Fellows of Chicago presided at Tent Washington.

President Harper of Chicago university, who was to have presided at the Tent Endeavor meeting, being abroad, his place was taken on the platform by John L. Beckley of New York. Mrs. Clark, wife of the president of the united sicieties, delivered the address on the "Mothers' Societies." Speeches were also made by by Rev. C. L. Work of Cincinnati, W. F. Wilson of Toronto and H. M. Wharton of Baltimore.

One of the features of the large meeting was the unrolling of the missionary roll of honor, being lists of names on continuous sheets of paper rolled up on hose reels, after the manner of petitions, etc., when prepared for impressive effect. Upon it were the names of 5869 young people's societies, 2331 junior societies, representing 35 states, 7 territories, 7 provinces and 4 foreign lands, and showing contributions of $154,022 to home mission boards and $206,150 to other denominational uses, a total of $360,172. The noon evangelistic meeting was conducted by Rev. W. H. Towers of England.

The afternoon program included officers' conferences in separate churches of corresponding secretaries, junior superintendents, missionary superintendents, local union officers, district secretaries, state and provincial officers, from 2:30 to 4 o'clock.

The same zeal and enthusiasm which characterized the day gatherings were in evidence last night, when nine large meetings were held throughout the city. Naturally the center of gathering was at the White lot, where the three huge tents are located. By extraordinary effort and hard work, Tent Williston, which had been blown down by the storm of Wednesday night, had again been erected and was used for services. The topic of the day, "Saved to Serve," was again the general subject for discussion at the night meetings. It was subdivided under various heads, and under these remarks were made by distinguished divines from all over the country.

A Great Pacer.

Old Orchard, Me., July 11.—Roan Wilkes set a new race record for New England yesterday, by winning the second heat of the 2:12 pace in 2:07¼. He repeated the performance in the next heat, and, despite the rather excited gait, was the quietest horse of the lot. There was contributory evidence that he could have gone in much faster time.

—One Representative for Brookline would be about the proper caper if the town is to constitute a district by itself, even if it has a few hundred over the basis of apportionment.

—Twenty years in the Concord reformatory is the sentence just given the Cambridge firebugs, and most people will agree that the punishment is none too severe. A few sentences like this, says the Milford Gazette, would have a discouraging effect on future incendiary efforts, and doubtless result in a speedy banishment of this form of crime from the state.

—The Stoughton Record says "the highest town tax in the State in 1895 was $24.50 in a Norfolk county town,—Holbrook. The two next, were North Attleboro and Hawley, each $24. It looks very much as though another Norfolk town, our own Stoughton, would beat that record, this year, with a tax of about $26."

—In Sweden, according to travellers who have resided in that country, it is a household custom to provide rooms where the children may go and cry and scream, and make all the noise they need to. In all other parts of the house they are expected to be quiet and mindful of the presence of their elders.

—Aitchison, the greatest manufacturer and dealer in glass eyes in Europe, was recently interviewed. He says that England alone consumes 50,000 g ass eyes annually. A good English glass eye will last about a year and costs $5. Glass eyes of German and French make are cheaper, but will not stand wear as long as the English. The greatest destroyer of the glass eye is the salt contained in the tears; its caustic action upon the glass has up to this time baffled all human invention.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. Orin Hollis were presented with a son July 5.

Rev. Mr. Ross, formerly pastor of the South church, was in town Thursday.

Rev. Mr. Hilton of Randolph will preach in the first church, Sunday, in exchange with the pastor.

Rev. C. F. Clark, of Weymouth, will preach in the Baptist church next Sunday afternoon, and in the evening, an interesting Sunday School concert will be held. All are welcome.

The Hesperion club of the Universalist society gathered Wednesday afternoon and evening on French's common and after attending to some business matters enjoyed a very pleasant time.

The Atlanta quartette should feel well pleased with the result of their labors in Braintree. In the First church the collection amounted to $40, in the South church $11 and in the Baptist $4 50.

Mr. Bunker, the gate man at Braintree saved the life of an elderly lady Wednesday morning—she seemed determined to rush in front of the South Shore express, but he held her firmly till the train passed, when she went her way without even thanking her rescuer. This is the third person within two weeks that Mr. Bunker has saved from death.

Wednesday was a gala day, certainly. The Baptist people went in good numbers by electrics to Lovell's Grove, and the North Congregational people, having chosen the same day went to the same place; and the result was a large number were together and the occasion was a very enjoyable one to both the picnic parties. The M. E. people of the West Quincy church were also there the same day.

The Epworth League connected with the M. E. church enjoyed a very nice lawn party on the parsonage grounds Wednesday afternoon and evening. Refreshments were served and a good number were present.

About fifty persons, mostly by name Glover, and others connected with the family, held a reunion at the old Amasa Thayer place, at or near Mayflower park, on the Fourth. Ice cream, cake and refreshments were plenty, and all enjoyed the occasion.

About two hundred attended the picnic of the First church Sunday school at Lovell's grove, Wednesday. This is a very delightful place and the young people enjoyed the outing very much. Nearly every one carried a lunch but the summer drinks found ready buyers.

The machinery for Morrison and Ellsworth's laundry has been set up this week. People who are always forgetting their laundry bundles will be glad to know that it will be no longer necessary to bother about it as the promoters of this enterprise propose to do the carrying. You take off the soiled linen, they do the rest.

The Water Commissioners have commenced to extend the water pipe through Hayward street.

The Veteran Fire Association met at South Braintree, Thursday night, but for want of a quorum adjourned. The veterans at East Braintree met last night to talk over the subject of attending muster in September, but at time of going to press we have not learned the result.

A party of young people, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. James Ellsworth, took a straw ride to Downers Tuesday night. It was not much of a night for a straw ride but they had a good time. Finding everything closed at Downers they drove up to Quincy Point where they took lunch at the Monatiquot.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

—You wouldn't think money a scarce article, says the Roxbury Gazette, after seeing the throngs crowding to get a ride on the chutes. It costs ten cents to enter the enclosure in which the chutes are kept and ten cents a person for each ride. When 20,000 people, every day, in Boston alone, pay twenty cents a piece to slide down an incline, the fact is as surprising as it is non-understandable.

—In regard to Speaker Meyer, the Marlboro Times says that a free press has no business trying to control the free action of a public man. Control? No! Neither has it sought to do so. Criticise? Yes. When the presiding office of a deliberative body rules negatively on one and affirmatively on another of two similar motions, both rulings palpably in the furtherance of his own personal predilections, he is clearly open to the criticism of a free press whose rights are dwarfed by his action.—Mansfield News.

All the People

Should keep themselves healthy and special care should be given to this matter at this time. Health depends upon pure, rich blood, for when the blood is impure and impoverished diseases of various kinds are almost certain to result. The one true blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. By its power to purify and vitalize the blood it has proved itself to be the safeguard of health, and the record of remarkable cures effected proves that it has wonderful power over disease. It actually and permanently cures when all other preparations fail to do any good whatever.

THE TALKING BEAR.

On a summer evening in autumn Peggy Mullieos sat at her cottage door mending a pair of stockings, when, casting a glance outward, she perceived a great crowd of men, women and children coming from the other end of the village and in the midst of them a black bear led by a keeper. The latter wore a large white redingote, in which he was able to wrap himself twice, a very short vest and pantaloons the worse for wear. His boots stood in want of repair, and his gray hat had for a long time lacked part of its brim. Beside him walked a hungry looking lad, dressed in white, playing a large flageolet and beating a tambourine.

Arrived before the Red Lion, the only hostelry in the village, the mountebank paused. He made a circle about him and ordered his bear to stand upright. Then, flourishing his baton over the head of the animal, he began to dance with him, taking steps and poses which the bear imitated. One might believe the inhabitants of Hopfield very happy, for the crowd laughed heartily.

A ventriloquist, who was stopping at the Red Lion, regarded from a window this spectacle of buffoonery. Arriving that morning, he had already had opportunities of recognizing the character of the inhabitants of the place. The idea, therefore, occurred to him of amusing himself at their expense.

He descended among the spectators, and, profiting by a moment when the flageolet and tambourine were silent, he approached the mountebank.

"No doubt your bear can talk?" he said to him.

The man regarded him fixedly, shrugged his shoulders and replied brusquely:

"Question him, and you will find out."

This was what the ventriloquist expected. He made a step toward the bear and said in a mocking voice:

"You dance like a member of an opera company, and I compliment you. From what country are you, my gentleman?"

"From the Alps, Switzerland."

I will not attempt to describe the dismay that seized the crowd. They were all struck with astonishment and affright, but the surprise of the bear's owner was the greatest of all. He opened his large, dull eyes, his cavernous mouth, and remained immovable, as if his feet were rooted to the spot.

The ventriloquist turned toward him.

"Your bear speaks very good English," he said. Then, to the animal, "You appear to be sad?"

"The air of Hopfield has made me splenetic," replied the bear.

Here the crowd began to retreat, and the ventriloquist continued:

"Have you belonged for some time to your master?"

"Sufficiently long to be weary of him."

"Is he not kind to you?"

"Yes, kind as a blacksmith with his anvil."

"Would you like to revenge yourself upon him?"

"One of these days I will eat him as one eats breakfast."

At these words the affrighted crowd retreated still farther. The dismayed keeper wished to draw the bear again to him, but the animal, tired of waiting, uttered a surly growl. The ventriloquist staid no longer, but turned away and took his course toward the inn. The crowd imitated him and rapidly dispersed.

The ventriloquist, having reached the door of the Red Lion, looked back and laughed at the fugitives, while the unconscious cause of all this disorder, tranquilly seated in the road, seemed to throw a careless and philosophical glance upon the terror he had occasioned.

The same evening the ventriloquist met some of the villagers, who had gathered at the inn to discuss the morning's adventure, with many amplifications and comments, as was their amiable custom. He thought the joke had been carried far enough and laughingly explained how the trick had been done. They listened attentively, but when he had ended the older men shook their heads with an air of incredulity.

"This is very well to tell to children," murmured Grandfather Griffy, "but we are persons of experience. It is not the first time that animals have spoken, for one remembers Balaam's ass. Besides, the almanac predicted this event in announcing that in mid-August, three days before or three days after, a marvelous thing would transpire in the world."

The ventriloquist insisted and wished to give proof of what he advanced, but the crowd departed with suspicion, persuaded that he wished to deceive them.

The innkeeper, who had observed all with a watchful eye and a mocking smile, approached the discomfited ventriloquist.

"Milord," he said, "do not be astonished at what has happened. Romance is always more welcome to the crowd than reality. You wished to jest with these rustics, but they have taken the joke in earnest. Nothing will now convince the inhabitants of Hopfield, who love the marvelous, that the bear has not spoken. This proves one thing. We should beware of circulating a story which is false. It is easier to find believers in the most absurd or mischievous statement than to convince a certain order of people of the simple, harmless truth."—Exchange.

A Dangerous Cycling Feat.

The daredevil feat of the one legged cyclist performed nightly during the recent cycle show at Madison Square Garden, New York, made a great sensation. But it is much to be feared that such exhibitions have an effect upon young and reckless wheelmen that is anything but salutary. Riding down a flight of 200 steps, reaching from the dome of the huge hall to the level of the sidewalk, is no small matter. It is a dangerous experiment, a foolhardy and criminal risk.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY.

Hon. William C. Whitney, who recently abandoned a trip to Europe in order to attend the Democratic national convention in Chicago and marshal the gold standard forces, is a convention veteran, having attended every national gathering of his party since 1872. Never was there a time when Mr. Whitney was more free to do active political work than now. Although a man of many millions and vast business interests, he has had his affairs in such shape for the past few years that he has been able to live the life of a retired capitalist. It was understood that when he refused a second term in President Cleveland's cabinet that family as well as business affairs stood in the way. Today he is a widower, and his lieutenants have his business interests well in hand. He may be expected to go to Chicago and work as hard as he did four years ago, when, out of pure personal friendship, he took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and pitched in to secure the nomination of Mr. Cleveland.

Republican Vice Presidential Candidate.

Garret Augustus Hobart, the Republican candidate for vice president, is a prominent and wealthy business man of Paterson, N. J. Mr. Hobart was born in Long Branch in 1844. At the age of 20 he was graduated from Rutgers college, and soon after began the study of law in the office of Socrates Tuttle of Paterson, at one time one of the most eminent legal lights in the state.

Early in his career he took an interest in politics, and has always been identified with the Republican party. His first office was that of city counsel of Paterson. Later he was elected county counsel for Passaic. In 1872 he was elected a member of the state legislature, re-elected the following year and chosen speaker of the house. He was twice elected to the state senate, and in 1881 and 1882 he was president of that body. For many years he has been active in state and national politics. During the campaign of 1892 he was particularly energetic as a member of the Republican national committee, and he was given credit for carrying New Jersey for his party last year. He is extensively interested in business enterprises of various kinds, being a large owner in electric light and street car companies.

Charles W. Fairbanks.

The St. Louis convention brought into national notice an Indianapolis Republican who was unknown to fame a few weeks ago. Charles W. Fairbanks, who was temporary chairman of the convention, is one of the most skillful railroad attorneys in the west. He was born at Unionville Center, O., in 1852, and was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan university at the age of 20. Mr. Fairbanks began as a reporter, but read law while he was writing news stories. Soon after he was admitted to the bar he secured a position as solicitor for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. He is now interested largely in many western railroads, being president and one of the principal stockholders of the Terre Haute and Peoria. He is an expert in corporation law and has great ability as a railroad financier. He owns a fine farm in Illinois and a big fruit ranch in southern California.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Furnishings For the Outdoor Living Room—Making Currant Jelly—A Grass Linen Parlor Suit.

Nowadays the piazza is a living room to all country seekers. In New England the piazza is never considered properly furnished unless the floor is well covered with a rug. For this purpose jute rugs of various lengths may be used, or an ingrain carpet two or three yards long of simple pattern. Either will be suitable and look well, but the carpet rug should be lined so as to inscrease its weight and enable it to lie flat.

The newest piazza rugs this season are known as the wood fiber. They come in every color in beautiful patterns, are most durable and can be purchased in different sizes with fringe at both ends.

If the piazza is so situated that it is troubled by the morning sun, porch curtains should be added. Of these the Japanese are the most popular. They are of all widths in good, fair designs, and are to be had at reasonable rates. Another style of piazza covering is the curtain of striped awning. It comes in different colors, but blue and red are generally the tones preferred. A strong Manilla rope passed through heavy brass rings serves as a pole on which to pull the curtain backward and forward.

This season's furniture for the piazza is more varied than ever, though the rattan seems to take the lead. It comes in four pieces—a good sized sofa, two big armchairs and a small table—all covered in gay striped Algerian material.

Another new, effective and fresh looking porch decoration noted, as are the foregoing by the New York Journal, is to be obtained with matting furniture. Some of it is of wickerwork on rockers, some of rustic treatment, painted green, some of openwork Japanese make, and all generally well cushioned.

Raspberry Granite.

A granite is a grained ice served like a sorbet in little glasses just before or after the roast, explains Table Talk. For one made from raspberries take 3 pints of raspberries, a cupful of sugar, a cupful of water and the juice of a lemon. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes, take from the fire, add the strained juice of the raspberries and lemon. When cold, pack in a freezer and set away without working. At the end of an hour scrape the sides of the freezing can with a long, flexible knife, mixing what has frozen with the rest of the more liquid portion. Do not beat it, as it should be coarse and grainy, with icy particles through it. Close and set aside again, opening and mixing it in this manner three times in as many hours. At the end of that time stir in a pint of the whole fruit and serve.

Currant Jelly.

Gather currants for jelly after several days of sunshine. Remove leaves and imperfect ones, but do not stem them. Mash them in an earthen or porcelain vessel with a wooden spoon. Put them in a bag and drain, but do not squeeze them, as that makes the jelly cloudy. Make raspberry jam at the same time, and squeeze the last of the juice to add to it. Measure a pint of sugar for each of juice, and heat it in an earthen dish in the oven. Boil the juice 20 minutes and skim thoroughly. Then add the hot sugar and boil three or four minutes, or until it thickens in a spoon when exposed to the air. Have your glasses clean and hot, and pour the jelly into them boiling hot. Let them remain in the sun, if possible, for several days, then cover with paper dipped in brandy and paste another paper over the top of the glass.

Fireplace Screen.

Every open fireplace should have its screen, as it forms a very effective addition to the furnishing of the room, and a very useful one as well. Stained glass is well adapted to this purpose, care being taken that the glass is of such color and quality as to "break" the firelight, opalescent glass being especially suitable, as well as "jewels," "crystals" and deeply corrugated rolled glass. In a homemade screen should a transparent effect be required and stained glass not obtainable, a white bolting cloth, which is in itself semi-transparent, may be used. This may be stretched over the frame and be decorated in water colors and embroidered to suit the taste of the designer.—Decorator and Furnisher.

Grass Linen Parlor Suit.

A charming novelty in a warm weather parlor suit can be obtained this year in the shape of hard wood frames of odd and artistic form, with claw feet of brass or nickel, upholstered in grass linen so heavy as to almost resemble matting. This covering is plain or striped with vivid colors. Standard Designer says these sets would not look out of place in city sitting rooms and are delightful for a cottage parlor.

Another set still handsomer is modeled after Dutch shapes, and has frames of green oak stained until it is the color of the heart of an emerald and highly polished. The coverings are of white cretonne, with great golden and crimson tulips scattered over it.

Old Family Tea Service.

Every self respecting matron has an old family tea service. She may not have had any ancestors, but she has the tea service just the same. These old family tea sets are often bought at secondhand shops, but just now the leading silversmiths are making a specialty of them.

The tray is very large, and with a handle at either end. A coat of arms is in the center, and some old legend of the family surrounds the outer edge. If the coat of arms is vague, half rubbed out, noncommittal, so to speak, a higher price is charged for the set. If there is a dent or so in it, the price goes up accordingly.

RAILWAY DISASTERS.

Accident to Picnic Train Near Chicago Results In Five Deaths.

Twenty-Eight People Killed at Logan, Ia.

Eighteen Were Residents of Omaha and the City Is In Mourning.

Chicago, July 13.—Five people were killed, three fatally injured and a score seriously hurt in a wreck on the Wisconsin Central road last night. The wrecked train was the first section of a picnic which had been held at Schiller park, about 12 miles west of the city. The picnic was held under the auspices of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and fully 3000 people were in attendance. The first section consisted of 12 cars, and left the park shortly after 8 o'clock for the return trip to the city.

All the cars were densely crowded, and many people were standing on the platform of the cars. When the train reached Altenheim cemetery, 10 miles from the city, it ran upon a siding in front of the depot.

The picnic train was not running over 10 miles an hour, and when it neared Altenheim, the switchman at the depot opended a switch to transfer a freight train, and did not close it in time to prevent the picnic train from dashing upon a siding, where a train of empty coaches were standing, waiting for a clear track.

The picnic train did not strike the train on the siding with great force, and, in fact, the entire engine of the picnic train was not damaged beyond a broken pilot. The force of the collision was sufficient, however, to jam the first coach up against the baggage car in such a way as to partially telescope it. The people who were killed were all standing on the platform of the first coach, and their lives were crushed out by the rear end of the baggage car. All of the seriously injured were in the first car, and none of the passengers in the other cars were badly injured, although some of them were bruised by being thrown against seats, and to the floor of the cars.

THE IOWA ACCIDENT.

Twenty-Eight People Killed and Many More Deaths May Result.

Omaha, July 13.—Omaha is a city of mourning. The Sabbath morning brought with it a full realization of the greatest catastrophe that ever wreaked death and desolation in the hearts and firesides of the city's people. Twenty-eight people were killed and 50 injured, many fatally, in a wreck Saturday, at Logan, Ia. Twenty-four of the dead are identified, and the others are so badly mutilated that identification is hardly possible.

It was not until after the morning papers were out that the first authentic information became generally known. The depot was the center toward which all turned, and then the morning train brought in their sad burden of dead and dying, the depot approaches were thickly massed with people, who talked in whispers, and shuddered as they thought of the bereaved ones, to whom they could only offer silent sympathy.

The list of injured contains the names of 28 or more people who are seriously hurt, dangerously so, to a greater or less degree. In addition, there were at least 50, if not a greater number, who received injuries of a minor nature. These consisted of bruises and cuts or slight disfigurements, which will practically amount to nothing.

A considerable number, also, were shaken up severely. This was especially the case among the passengers who occupied the cars immediately behind the one which was demolished. The incidental fright, combined with the shock, threw both men and women into hysterics, but owing to the work that devolved upon the physicians in caring for the desperately hurt, such individuals were left without medical attention and got over their attacks as best they could. Their condition, however, left its effect upon great numbers of the passengers, and when they alighted from trains they were all trembling, and many of them, although their limbs were sound and their general physical condition was unimpaired, required the assistance of friends to lead them away to their homes. It took much time to prepare the injured for their journey to this city. It was necessary to transport them a considerable distance after the wounds were dressed.

It was many hours after the departure of the first section of the return train, which carried the unhurt, before the second section was started. The latter carried all the wounded, whose hurts were serious. It had also on board such friends of the injured as would not be torn away from, or forced to leave the sides of their suffering loved ones.

The section consisted of two coaches, a baggage car and a Pullman. They were crowded to an uncomfortable degree, in order to hold the great number that boarded. The baggage car was used for those who required cots and stretchers for the journey. The other car was for those who were able to sit up, or were less injured. The scenes which were presented within the two cars cannot be forgotten by those who witnessed it. The interior of the baggage car presented the most pathetic sight. Here were ranged, end to end, the cots which bore the most seriously injured. They filled the car to its fullest capacity. The roll of the dead belonging in Omaha numbers 18.

The responsibility for the accident rests on Engineer Montgomery of the ill-fated excursion train. His orders were to wait at Logan for the fast mail and fast freight. He started his train out immediately after the mail passed, forgetting about the freight. The head-end collision occurred 20 minutes later on a curve. The heavy freight passed partially over the passenger. All the people killed were in the front coaches of the excursion. All the dead and injured were brought to Omaha.

WOULDN'T GIVE UP.

Polish Woman's Long Chase For Erring Husband Is Rewarded.

Cambridge, Mass., July 13.—Israel Solimiska, a native of Poland, is under arrest at station 2. The events leading up to the man's arrest yesterday are romantic and transpire on two continents and in three countries. It is the story of an alleged wronged wife, who has been unflagging in her search for her spouse, and unremitting in her efforts to have him punished for his alleged indifference and desertion of her.

Mrs. Solimiska entered the police station several days ago, and with the assistance of an interpreter, told Captain Murray that her husband was at present residing with another woman on Franklin street, and that she desired his arrest for non-support and a more serious charge.

She married Solimiska, she stated, in Poland several years ago, and they lived happily together for a time, but suddenly his affection and love began to wane, and it was a short time after this that he imparted the intelligence that he was going to leave his native land and try his fortune in America.

He left his wife behind, but she struggled hard, and at last accumulated sufficient funds to pay her passage to New York on board a steamer. After days of anxious search she found her husband, she says, but was not received as joyfully as she desired.

Again he disappeared, this time going to Montreal, and after a search, which at one time looked hopeless, she at last found him in the Canadian metropolis. He was living with another woman, she claims, and, after considerable difficulty, she secured his arrest, and he was sentenced to six months in jail. This sentence he served, the woman stated to the captain, and immediately upon his release again disappeared, but she soon discovered that he had left Canada for Boston, and followed on here.

At last she heard, through a friend, that he was living in Cambridge, on Franklin street. She secured assistance from her friends, and by many hours' watching, at last saw her alleged spouse enter and leave a house on that street, and also saw a strange woman meet him at the door upon his return from work.

A TALK ON POLITICS

Indulged In by a Christian Endeavor Speaker at Washington.

Christian Leaders Should Be Nominated For Office

And Be Ready to Be Sacrificed on the Cross of Public Duty.

Washington, July 13.—A list of 30 meetings, arranged to be held in the tents and churches yesterday afternoon, offered varying attractions to the 40,000 Christian Endeavor delegates in attendance here upon the 15th international convention. They were mostly denominational rallies, and they drew crowds, according to the numerical strength of each particular denomination. The Baptists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists occupied the three tents on the White lot. Speeches were made at these rallies by prominent members of the several denominations.

INTERIOR OF THE ENDEAVOR TENT.

Following these rallies, Evangelist B. F. Mills of Fort Edward, N. Y., addressed a large audience of citizens in Tent Washington. He created a mild sensation in the middle of his sermon by a pointed reference to Candidate McKinley. Speaking of the extension of the principles of socialism, as set forth in the sermon on the mount, he showed the need, in the present time, of Christian leaders in American politics.

"Our candidates for public office, from president down to constable, should be guided," said Dr. Mills, "by the spirit of the lamb that was slain. They do pretend to be, or they would not get our votes. If they came forward honestly and made known their real motives for running for office we would not support them. Suppose McKinley should step up before you and say: 'Fellow citizens, I wish to be your president, so that I can pay my debts (sensation), or suppose Bryan should say: 'I will be your president for my own good.' Why, we would not choose either of them to take care of our stray dogs.

"What they should say is: 'Fellow citizens, I am ready to be sacrificed upon the cross of public duty. I am ready to be president or constable, as my country calls me.' That is Christian. That is the spirit of the lamb that was slain. It is a pity that it is not always said in sincerity."

A Sabbath observance meeting was held also in Central hall, William Shaw of Boston presiding. Speeches were made by Wilbur F. Crafts of Washington, Mrs. H. T. McEwen of New York and others.

At 7 o'clock Christian Endeavor prayer meetings were held in all the churches of the city. Preaching services, both morning and evening, in the city churches, were well attended by citizens and Endeavorers.

Killed a Friend.

Boston, July 13.—Samuel Darfler, a Russian Jew, 19 years old, was fatally shot last night by Samuel Sochat, a friend, 16 years old. The shooting took place in a basement store at 21 Lowell street. Sochat claims that the revolver was lying on the store counter, and that, after waiting on three boys, he pushed a weight over in the direction of the revolver, which was hit and discharged, the bullet lodging in Darfler's brain. Darfler died on the way to the hospital. The boys, however, claim that Sochat came in from a back room with the revolver in his hand, and, after exclaiming: "Now I will show you something," discharged the revolver.

No Discrimination.

Washington, July 13.—Recent diplomatic correspondence of the state department contains a series of letters between the department and Minister Breckinridge at St. Petersburg, on the subject of the refusal of Russian consular officers to vise United States passports in favor of Hebrews. The documents include a statement from the American minister to the effect that this government cannot consent to certain facts complained of by Russian consular officials, tending as they do "to humiliate, within its own territory, by invidious and disparaging distinctions, a class embracing many of its most honored and valuable citizens."

Shot His Wife.

Barre, Vt., July 13.—George Judd, a quarryman, living in Websterville, three miles from this city, became suddenly deranged, and shot his wife in the back with a revolver. The woman is not fatally injured. After shooting his wife, Judd started for East Barre, to shoot his daughter, Mrs. James Cook, who resides there. A telephone message was sent to East Barre, and Constable Hutchins arrested Judd.

No New Facts.

Cape Town, July 13.—The select committee on the Jameson raid into the Transvaal has concluded its labors. It has learned little that is new. The report will show that Cecil Rhodes and Alfred Belt, the directors of the South Africa company who were implicated in the raid, have refunded to the company all of the sums drawn by the Johannesburg reformers.

Sisters Died Together.

Grafton, Vt., July 13.—Misses Lillian and Rosa Belle, aged 20 and 17, respectively, daughters of Rev. E. D. Goodrich, were drowned while bathing in Saxton river. They were found by their mother, who narrowly escaped the same fate, in her attempt to recover the bodies.

Quincy Temperature at Noon.

Although there is a cool breeze today the temperature is the highest it has been this year, as it registered 96 degrees at noon. The nearest it has reached this point was on June 21, when 95 was recorded. It has now been in the 90s for five successive days.

	This Week.	Last Week.
Sunday	92	74
Monday	96	75
Tuesday	—	68
Wednesday	—	83
Thursday	—	90
Saturday	—	90

ONE OF our conservative citizens, who has often with others longed again for the old Quincy, stood recently looking at the old Savings Bank building while it was moving out. City Clerk H. A. Keith stood by and our reporter said to him, "which is better the old or new Quincy?" "Look there," was the answer, "which is better, that old building moving out, or Adams Block?" The reply was a thoughtful wise one. There stood the fine block, an ornament, pride and benefit to Quincy, while the old wooden block was bidding good bye to its place.

A city that has so large a population of industrious citizens, so many children growing up, who are being well educated, also industries and churches, and very many fine educational academies and schools is well off.

We have in addition, a good water supply, a very fine public library, a hospital, a big fountain that is appreciated by the large travelling community.

Just now, in a transition state, there is improvement in many directions needed, and our citizens have it within their power to make Quincy a pattern city.

Last week in a visit to Fitchburg we could not help wishing for more public spirit here; we can all even with a little self denial, afford to do more in public ways. Their hospital in Fitchburg is continually receiving large gifts in money from people residing there; from old citizens who realize what a hospital is, and what it needs. The ladies have an industrial school where poor girls are taught to do housework properly. Forty-two girls and young women presented themselves at the room the day it was opened. Many wealthy ladies say they wish their own daughters could be taught as well how to wash dishes, sweep carpets, make beds and cook. The Women's club made $1,000 for charitable work in a recent edition of a paper edited and published by them.

We do not care enough for the general welfare here. We need organization for diverse separate purposes to improve Quincy. We rely too much upon what "they do." Growling at a city government that does its best while we do not stir ourselves to supplement their work by our own. Let us begin and work for our city along all lines for its advancement.

SUNDAY WAS a perfect mid-summer day, one to live out in, in spite of heat. We do not get the direct influence of the sun in our variable climate as often as we need it. American nervousness would be less if we took more sun baths. The many who enjoyed Hough Neck attested to this in a measure. Would that the road bed on the car tracks was smoother. Can not an improvement be made here? It must be a paying road. Especially in the evening were crowds brought up on the cars, people seeming to hang on by every possible spot. Teams also were numerous and the wheels added to the life, and now and then barges, one very large one from out of town went by, all carrying people to the pleasant Houghs Neck.

APPROVAL IS expressed in regard to the article published in our columns about the dangerous corner at the grain store, corner Washington and Canal streets.

Sunday Was the Best Beach Day of the Season—A Clambake.

At last continuous summer weather has come. A week of 90 degree weather has done much to improve beach business. The largest crowd of the season was here Sunday, and there is more of a demand for cottages

The crew of one of the United States postal routes running between Boston, Providence and New York, held a clambake at the Sea Weed cottage Saturday, as guests of Mr. Fred F. French, who is also a member of the crew. The guests other than the train crew were, Postmaster James F. Burke of Quincy, Postmaster Arthur Dunham of Houghs Neck, ex-Councilman George W. Morton, A. G. Dolliver of the Boston and Albany railroad, J. Malloy of Randolph and examining clerk Royal J. Blake of Boston. One of the crew who resides in Providence made the chowder, as he declared no one in Massachusetts fully understood how to concoct one, and in order that everything should be right he brought the clams with him all the way from Providence. After dinner speeches were made by nearly all present, all of whom spoke highly of the chowder.

All that was needed to make the race of the Hull Yacht club on Saturday a Quincy race would be the Quincy management and courses and more entries. One class was made up entirely of Quincy boats, not only by enrollment in the Quincy club but by residence in the city. It was sailed in a strong westerly breeze, and the result is summarized below:

McIntyre—Huntington.

A pretty wedding took place at Centre Congregational church on Thursday evening, July 9. The contracting parties being Miss Lilla G. Huntington, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huntington of Copeland street, and Mr. Albert McIntyre of Brilliant, Ohio.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker. Mrs. Baker, sister of the groom acting as bridesmaid, and Mr. Baker as best man. The bride was attired in white brocaded silk and carried a bunch of roses. Mrs. Baker was attired similar to the bride.

A reception followed the marriage at the home of the bride's parents at West Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre will take a trip to Maine, and will make their home in Ohio about Aug. 1.

A Pastor's Review.

The text of Rev. E. N. Hardy's Sunday morning sermon was in Matt. 21:42—the stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner. He argued that we and the church are builders and in conclusion reviewed the work of his first year in Quincy. He felt that Christ was the corner stone of the church. The number in attendance has kept up. Over fifty new families have been welcomed in a year, making over 400 now connected with the church. Individual communion cups had been introduced, also additional singing books. There had been a gain in organization; the church has been incorporated, a home department of the Sunday school satisfactorily started, and the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip organized. The accessions to the church had been 27, the largest year with one exception. All the result of good seed sowing by the pastor emeritus. It has been a delightful year for the pastor and he looked for still larger returns.

At the Wollaston Traps.

The regular shoot of the Wollaston Trap club was held on Saturday afternoon notwithstanding the intense heat. Elcock was high man with 19 birds. The score: Elcock, 19; A. A. Lincoln, 18; Starrett, 16; Marsden, 16; Bates, 13

Travel was heavy on all its lines, it being necessary to double up by running two cars instead of one, and on some trips it was necessary to run three cars; the total number of cars in use being forty. Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver troubles, catarrh—cures which prove

QUALITY COUNTS EVERY TIME.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

To Be Expected.

Our friend in the picture may not be exactly happy, but he isn't shirking his duty, all the same.

Business men don't find it all plain sailing; but if they're wise they learn by experience.

It's the fellows who DON'T learn who make most of the failures.

We strive to learn something about our business every day—something to help us in holding and extending our trade.

It's a fact that we are doing both these things. Take for example. We're not only selling far more than anybody else in the city, but our output increases day by day.

People know where to come for a good thing.

Col. Walker Formerly of Quincy.

Some of us who are reading of the visit to England, of the Ancients and Honorables, remember the commander of our U. S. portion, Col. Henry Walker, who use to live in Quincy. The Walkers, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walker and their children, Ezra, Henry, Freeman, Maria and Laura, lived on what is now called Chestnut street in the house more recently occupied by the late Mr. Charles H. Hardwick and family, and which stands in that neighborhood, having been moved a short distance. One pleasant recollection is, of all the sons walking regularly each Sunday to church, the Episcopal, with their father. Col. Henry Walker has always been a prominent man. Quincy is well represented just now by some solid citizens at this memorable gathering on the other side of the water.

Run Into by Bicycle.

A lady, whose name could not be learned was quite seriously injured Sunday morning by being run into on Washington street near River street by a reckless bicycle rider. She had just alighted from a street car and had taken but a step or two before a bicycle rider came tearing down the street and ran into her. She was thrown down and considerably bruised, besides being injured about the limbs. She was taken into a house near by where her injuries were attended to. The wheel was badly smashed and its rider bruised somewhat. President Graham of the street railway, who witnessed the accident, took the rider's name and address.

It Broke Their Hearts.

Borrowing and using other people's boats without permission of the owner, turns out to be expensive business sometimes, as it did in the following case. Last week a young man from South Quincy borrowed without permission of the owner, the yacht owned by George Holden, and took a party of eight, the majority of whom were ladies, out for a sail.

When off Lovell's island the boat had a hole stove in her by running against a rock and the party were taken ashore in the tender. The yacht quickly filled with water and sank. Sunday a party of wreckers went out to raise the boat and in this they were successful, but it nearly broke the heart of the young man from South Quincy when a bill for $110 was presented for raising the yacht.

Young Men's Christian Association.

It has been decided to hold the regular sessions of the Boys' Sloyd class in the morning, instead of the afternoon. The opening session, however, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A fair sized, orderly and attentive audience gathered in front of Nash's Hotel Sunday at 4 o'clock, at the first open-air meeting of the season. The singing was led by Mr. T. B. Emery. Mr. George Cutchley played the cornet accompaniments. The eloquent Scotch temperance lecturer, Mr. John R. Anderson, gave a stirring talk on "Rest."

The speaker next Sunday will be Rev. Allan B. Hudson of North Weymouth, who has just been called to the First Church, Brockton.

News From Enterprise.

A letter received today from Joseph W. McGrath of the training ship Enterprise, dated at Queenstown, Ireland, July 2, reports all the Quincy boys well and in good spirits, though they all suffered during the voyage from depressed spirits and intense cold, the voyage having been an exceedingly tempestuous one. Only by the most skilful management was the Enterprise saved from encountering the centre of a cyclonic storm, which lasted nearly two days. The letter speaks in anticipatory pleasure of the intended participation by the cadets in the Ancient and Honorable parade in London, the disembarkation being at Southampton.

The boys are getting a good idea of sea life, but the misery of the novices was indescribable, the letter dilating particularly on the condition of the cadets when almost in the track of the storm.

Horta, in the Fayal islands, the first stopping place, is described as uninteresting, a cathedral and a fortress being the principal objects to the sightseer. Swarthy soldiers are met at every step, who receive for their services three cents per day.

After leaving Southampton the vessel will visit continental ports.

CITY COUNCIL MATTERS.

The Paving of Copeland Street and City Hall Remodelling.

Among the important orders now before the City Council, which may come up at tonight's meeting and which, if the present indications count for anything, will cause more or less debate, are those calling for an appropriation of $18,000 for paving Copeland street, and $24,000 for remodelling City Hall?

The former order is now on the table and the latter in the hands of a committee which will probably report tonight. It will place both orders in a position to be passed to be ordained, but the probability is that both orders will be killed.

When the Copeland street order came from the Committee on Finance, it was with the recommendation that the order ought not to pass. There was then quite a debate on the acceptance of the committee's report which finally resulted in the report not being accepted by a close vote.

The Ward Four and Ward Three members are almost unanimous in favor of the order, while the other wards are opposed on the ground of expense, also that it is foolish to pave the street now as it may soon have to be dug up for the sewer. That, however, makes no difference to the Ward Four Councilmen, and the position they take is: If the Copeland street order is passed they will vote for the City Hall order, on the other hand if the Copeland street order is killed then these same legislators will kill the City Hall order. The method of passing some orders in the City Council seems to be, "If you vote for my ward, I will vote for yours, but if my ward cannot have what it wants, I will not let your ward have anything it wants."

There is not the least doubt but what this is the condition of the two orders, for if it was not, Copeland street order would have been settled one way or the other at the last meeting, and appearances indicate that the order was purposely laid on the table until the City Hall order comes up.

Took Money from an Old Lady.

For some weeks Constable Furnald has been watching for Joseph A. Mitchell, for obtaining money under false pretenses in Boston. He finally located him on Bridge street, North Weymouth, and succeeded on Saturday, with the assistance of Inspector Bogan, in arresting him. He was arraigned in a Boston court today. The money was obtained at different times from Mrs. Prior, a lady about 84 years of age residing in Boston.

SCROFULA AND ERYSIPELAS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD, Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly, W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women.

Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure.

P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once.

MAINE MAN IS CHOSEN

Sewall's Nomination Came on the Fifth Ballot.

Battle Progressed at a Lively Rate Until the Decision Was Reached.

Chicago, July 13. — When 11 o'clock, Chairman White called the convention to order on Saturday, there were only about 4000 people in the coliseum. More than half of the gold delegates were absent. Contrary to the usual custom the proceedings were not opened with prayer. A few routine announcements were made before the names of the vice presidential candidates were presented.

J. T. O'Sullivan of Massachusetts placed in nomination George F. Williams of the same state. Mr. Marston of Louisiana placed in nomination John R. McLean of Ohio, and he said he did so on his own authority. Delegate Maloney of Washington named James H. Lewis of Washington. T. F. Curry of North Carolina placed in nomination Judge Walter Clark of the supreme court of North Carolina. Tom Johnson of Cleveland nominated ex-Congressman George W. Fithian of Illinois. M. A. Miller of Oregon presented the name of ex-Governor Pennoyer of Oregon. William A. Burke of California named Arthur Sewall of Maine. J. D. Showalter of Missouri named Joe Sibley of Pennsylvania. C. S. Thomas of Colorado advised the convention to select Sewall of Maine. Governor Culberson told the convention that Texas was for Richard P. Bland. O. W. Powers of Utah presented the name of John W. Daniel of Virginia.

The voting began amid the usual confusion, and it was developed at once that there was to be a big field of candidates.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Harrity, 21; Teller, 1; White, 1; Pattison, 2; Williams (Mass.), 76; McLean, 111; Clarke, 50; Sewall, 100; Sibley, 163; Fithian, 1; Daniel, 11; Bland, 62; Blackburn, 20; Williams (Ills.), 22; Boies, 20. Number not voting, 258.

A second ballot gave: Sibley, 113; Sewall, 37; McLean, 164; Williams (Mass.), 16; Bland, 288; Clarke, 22; Harrity, 21; Williams, (Ills.), 13; Pattison, 1. Number not voting, 255.

Amos Cummings of New York read a telegram taking Sibley out of the race.

The third ballot resulted: Bland, 255; McLean, 210; Sibley, 50; Sewall, 97; Williams (Mass.), 15; Harrity, 19; Clarke, 22; Pattison, 1; Daniel, 6. Number not voting, 255.

Governor Stone of Missouri read a telegram from Bland withdrawing his name from vice presidency nomination. Bland said it would be unwise to nominate both candidates from west of the Mississippi river.

The progress of the fourth ballot was watched with intense interest. The contest had now narrowed down to a race between McLean and Sewall. Delegations that had retired for consultation filed in. Alabama cast her 22 votes for Sewall, but when John Powers of Illinois announced that Illinois cast 48 votes for McLean there was a scene of wild confusion. At last order was restored, and the roll of the delegation was called. It showed 28 for McLean, 10 for Sewall and 10 absent, but under the unit rule the 48 votes went to McLean. The result of the fourth ballot follows: McLean, 296; Sewall, 261; Williams, (Mass.) 9; Harrity, 11; Clarke, 46; Pattison, 1; Daniel, 54. Votes cast, 678. Absent, 252. Necessary, 453.

The fourth ballot having been announced, Ulrich Sloan of the Ohio delegation, who had placed Mr. McLean in nomination, received a telegram from the Ohio man, which was as follows: "Any vote cast for me for vice president is against my expressed wish, and without my authority." He added to the telegram the comment, "that is for McLean, not the Ohio delegation." Shouts of "McLean," mingled with "No, no" and "Sewall," interrupted the reading of the dispatch, and continued for a time. When order was restored, the fifth ballot was taken. When the roll-call was concluded there was a hurried consultation. Sewall had 420 votes, within 25 votes of enough to nominate. The Illinois delegation wavered. Suddenly Harvey Donovan mounted a chair, and shouted: "Illinois, which will cast its vote for the nominee of this convention, now desires to aid in the making of the ticket. She casts her 48 votes for Arthur Sewall of Maine." "That nominates Sewall, hurrah," shouted thousands of voices. Kentucky, Ohio, Maryland and other states quickly fell in line. The Michigan delegation moved to make the nomination unanimous. Delegates grasped the state colors and marched about Indian file. They at last lined up in front of the stage, while several routine announcements were made, and then, as the band struck up the stirring strains of "Dixie," the procession reformed, and for several minutes paraded about the delegates' enclosure with the purple staffs and Nebraska and Maine in the van.

The crowd shouted, and there was a general scene of enthusiasm. At last all the state colors were brought to the center of the pit, where the Nebraska delegation was located. They clustered there, bobbing about like corks on a sea of swaying men, until the chairman began to rap for order. The result of the fifth ballot was as follows: Sewall, 568; McLean, 32; Harrity, 11; Williams, 9; Clarke, 22; Pattison, 1; Daniel, 36. Absent and not voting, 251.

By repeated appeals the chairman persuaded the delegates to go back to their seats for the transaction of the routine business remaining.

Resolutions were adopted empowering the national committee to fix the time and place for holding the next national convention, and to choose for its chairman and the members of the executive committee persons not members of the national committee; resolutions thanking the presiding officers, Daniel, White and Richardson, and thanking the city and the people of Chicago for their hospitality, and declaring Chicago "the greatest convention city in the world;" the last proposed by Senator Blanchard of Louisiana.

C. K. Ladd of Illinois made an unsuccessful attempt to secure consideration of a motion to abrogate the two-thirds rule, and at 3:10 Chairman White declared the convention adjourned.

Workmen were already up among the rafters, with characteristic Chicagoan haste, tearing down the decorations, and as the band played America the crowds filed out.

The silver committee has closed its headquarters at the Sherman House, and many of the members left the city for their homes. Senator Harris, who has acted as chairman of the committee, said he felt as fresh as when he arrived here, almost two weeks ago. "I feel," he added, "that we have done a good work and done it well. When we started in a year ago people were inclined to laugh at us, but we have done all that we have said we would do. Everything has worked out according to program. We have given the people silver candidates on the strongest silver platform ever made. Having done this and paid its bills, the silver committee feels that it may consistently close up the business and leave the rest for the people."

UNCLE SOLON'S VIEWS.

Silver Movement a Stepping Stone to His Pet Hobby, Greenbacks.

Lewiston, Me., July 13.—Solon Chase, the originator of the greenback movement of 1874 in Maine, which assumed such importance that a few years afterward the party elected a governor here, was interviewed relative to the effect of the nomination of Arthur Sewall of Bath for vice president, and as to the general political outlook. He was at his home at Chase's Mills, 14 miles from the telegraph office, or from a railroad station, and the announcement of Sewall's selection for second place on the ticket was interesting news to him. He thought that Sewall's name would strengthen the ticket in Maine, and that the state would see a lively campaign. He believes that Bryan will sweep the country, and that a free silver congress in both branches will be elected. Mr. Chase was at one time this spring mentioned as a possible candidate for president upon the Populist ticket, but he says the wisest thing for the Populists at St. Louis to do is to endorse the nomination of Bryan and Sewall. "It is a principle we are fighting for," said Solon, "not men." He says Bryan has always been a consistent silver man, and every silver man should support him. He believes that the silver movement is but a stepping stone to his ideal, viz., greenback money.

Breckinridge Will Run.

Lexington, Ky., July 13. — W. C. P. Breckinridge, who was turned out of congress by the Ashland district on account of the famous Breckinridge-Pollard scandal, will again make the race for congress. Breckinridge yesterday authorized the statement that he was a candidate, but declined to state whether or not he would accept the Chicago platform. A large portion of his followers are free silver Democrats, but it is said he will make the race independent of the declaration of the Chicago convention. Opposed to him are four free silver candidates, beside W. C. Owen, who defeated him two years ago.

About a Third Ticket.

New York, July 13.—In order to ascertain the probable effect of the nomination of a third ticket by the gold standard Democrats, especially in states where the result of the November election may be considered doubtful, the New York Herald has asked several members of the Republican national committee whether they think putting up a Democratic gold candidate would aid or injure McKinley. The replies thus far received from the committeemen indicate the general belief that the Republican candidate would not be harmed by a third ticket, and a still more general expectation that sound money Democrats will vote for McKinley, as the most certain and effective way to prevent the success of the free coinage advocates.

Boston Standard Assigns.

Boston, July 13.—The Boston Daily Standard, the organ of the A. P. A., has suspended publication. Notice to the effect that Edward S. Crockett and Benton H. DeWolf, as assignees of the Boston Daily Standard Publishing company, are in full possession of the property, was posted at the closed doors of the place of publication, Saturday evening, and when the employes in the several departments reported for duty yesterday they received by this notice their first intimation that the paper would not appear as usual this morning. The men on the office rolls number in all 103. Each of them has a considerable claim for unpaid salary. It has been stated, however, by a person vested with some authority, that they will be paid dollar for dollar.

Colombo Remains.

Rome, July 13.—Lieutenant General Pelloux has accepted the position of minister of war in the cabinet under Marquis Di Rudini, on a basis of an increase of 10,000,000 lire in the army estimates. Signor Colombo, minister of the treasury, therefore remains in the cabinet, and the crisis is regarded as ended.

Killed His Barkeeper.

Springfield, O., July 13. — A jealous saloon keeper, Charles Stark, yesterday shot and killed Louis Leiterman, his bartender, and mortally wounded his wife. Stark had suspected his wife and Leiterman of being on intimate terms. Stark escaped.

Peruvian Strife.

Lima, July 13.—Several partisans of ex-President Caceres and four colonels of the army have been arrested, charged with conspiracy. It is asserted that they planned a revolution for the middle of August.

Worse Than War.

Habana, July 13.—A panic prevails in the Spanish army, in consequence of the terrible increase of yellow fever in the last few days. It is estimated that fully 40 per cent of the cases prove fatal. In Santiago de Cuba there are 4500 soldiers in the hospitals. Major General Linares is stricken, and his life is despaired of. The epidemic is also very serious all along the trocha. In some cases entire companies have been stricken. In eastern Cuba, the fever is raging with great violence, and it is spreading to the central points. In Matanzas, it is said the mortality is about 60 per cent, and it is becoming difficult to bury the dead. The hospitals of Habana contain nearly 6000 patients, and every day the number is being increased.

Caught Robbing Dead Man.

Washington, July 13.—Harry J. Pocock, for many years city register of St. Louis, died suddenly last night on a train in Ohio, between Athens and Parkersburg. Mr. Pocock retired apparently in good health. The lower section of the berth occupied by Pocock contained two women, who were discovered in the act of ransacking the dead man's clothes, by the conductor. The two women claimed to be relatives of Pocock, but later admitted this to be false. They were turned over to the authorities of Parkersburg, with the suspicion that they had "doped" Mr. Pocock for the purpose of robbery. They had $518, which was supposed to have been taken from the dead man's clothes.

Famine Follows Tidal Wave.

San Francisco, July 13.—The steamship Doric arrived from Yokohama last night, bringing news up to June 25. Estimates of the loss of life from the great tidal wave reach as high as 50,000, and this number is believed to be far below the mark. The tidal wave was 80 feet in height, and swept inland a distance of 2½ miles along 200 miles of coast. Thousands of acres of land under cultivation were devastated, and the inhabitants of the flooded districts are suffering from famine.

ANNA IVOR'S REQUEST.

Personal letters reach Mrs. Pinkham by thousands; some asking advice, and others, like the following, telling of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done and will ever continue to do in eradicating those fearful female complaints so little understood by physicians.

All womb and ovarian troubles, irregularities, whites, bearing-down pains, displacements, tendency to cancer and tumor are cured permanently.

"I feel as if I owed my life to your Vegetable Compound. After the birth of my babe I was very miserable. I had a drawing pain in the lower part of my bowels, no strength, and a terrible backache. Every day I failed. My husband said if I would try a bottle of your Vegetable Compound, he would get it for me. The change was wonderful. After I had taken the first half bottle I began to have great faith in it. When I had taken three bottles, I was well and growing stout. It is a pleasure for me to write this to you. I only ask women in any way afflicted with female troubles to try it."—MRS. ANNA IVOR, Pittsford Mills, Rutland Co., Vt.

WANT A NEW TICKET.

Gold Democrats of Illinois Address Brethren In Other States.

A Declaration That Bryan Is Not a Democrat.

Organized Revolt Against Free Silver Should Be Begun at Once.

Chicago, July 14.—The executive committee of the honest money Democracy of Illinois issued an address last night to the Democrats of other states, calling upon them to nominate another national ticket, and adopt a platform of sound money, upon which the nominees can appeal to the people of that opinion. It is as follows:

To our fellow Democrats of other states:

A national convention, convened under the constituted authority of our party, has just closed its session in the city of Chicago. It entered upon its work by violating all party precedents in the rejection of a distinguished Democrat as its temporary presiding officer. It deprived a sovereign state of a voice in its deliberations by unseating, without cause or legal justification, delegates elected with all the regularity known to party organization. It refused to endorse the honesty of the present Democratic administration. It adopted a platform which favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone, at the ratio of 16 to 1, and thereby it repudiated a time-honored Democratic principle, which demands the strictest maintenance of a sound and stable currency.

Finally, to make it still plainer that although in name, it was not in fact, a Democratic convention, it nominated for president one who is not in his politics, and not always been even in profession, a Democrat.

This has made such a crisis, both for the nation and Democratic party, that sound money Democrats must at once decide what political action they will take for protection of the honor of the nation, the prosperity of the people and the life and usefulness of the party. The sound money Democrats of Illinois have fully made up their minds that a new Democratic national convention should be called for the earliest feasible day, to nominate Democratic candidates for president and vice president, and to adopt a platform of Democratic principles, and they desire to state to the Democrats of the other states their reasons, as follows:

1. Sound money Democrats owe it to the country to make it certain at once that their revolt against free silver is determined, and will be organized. It is unfair to oblige the credit of the nation and the business and industrial interests of the people to merely guess what the sound money Democrats will do in November, and wait until November to find out.

2. The nomination of a new ticket is the logical course. Without it, and a sound Democratic campaign, the whole educational force of sound money Democratic sentiment would be paralyzed from the beginning. Republicans cannot argue the sound money question to Democratic voters. Republican sincerity on that question is doubted by the mass of Democrats. The tariff question will be put to the front, and insisted upon by Republican speakers and the Republican press, as it has persistently been by Mr. McKinley himself. Democrats will not listen to lessons on finance when accompanied by abuse of the Democratic party. The most effective force at this time for a campaign is the force resting in the sound money Democrats; for they are profoundly in earnest, and can get a hearing from Democrats that the Republicans cannot possibly get.

3. A new convention would also preserve for the future the opportunities of the Democratic party. Unless a clear cut separation is made between the genuine Democrats and the Democrats who are drifting into Populism, or are already in Populism; and unless a clear cut separation is supported by organization, the party has no chance of regaining public confidence for years to come. The sound money Democrats in the different states must either make it clear that they have no association with the Bryan party, or they must accept association and entanglement with it; and all state organizations will, in the public mind, be for it that does not make it absolutely clear that they are against it. The sound money Democrats are already sufficiently organized in this state to be able to meet their fellow Democrats in a new convention, and are anxious to confer with representatives of other states whenever a representative conference can be brought about. Communications should be addressed to Charles E. Ewing, chairman, Palmer House, Chicago.

The communication is signed by the executive committee of the Honest Money Democracy of Illinois.

As Viewed by Tom Reed.

Boston, July 14. — The Journal says that Speaker Thomas B. Reed, who is at Old Orchard, Me., declined to be interviewed by its correspondent on the work of the Chicago convention, but added that he was of the opinion of Hon. Amos L. Allen, his private secretary. The latter then said: "The action of the Chicago convention in nominating Mr. Sewall for the vice presidency on a silver platform, after the Democrats of Maine had selected their candidate for state and county officers on a gold platform is, to say the least, strange, and under the situation somewhat peculiar. I do not think that Sewall will be able to carry his own city, much less the state. Apparently, the only reason the Democrats nominated Sewall was this: He is the only wealthy Democrat in the east who favors the free coinage of silver, and they thing that by his nomination they will be able to draw eastern voters.

"It is my opinion that the nomination of Sewall will be more than likely to result in breaking up the organization of the Democratic party in Maine. The Democrats of Maine can, if they are wise, conduct their state campaign on the gold platform, on which it was inaugurated at the state convention.

"But if they undertake to call another state convention, for the purpose of undoing the work of their recent state convention, and endorsing a silver platform, they will soon be at war among themselves. Any attempt to force Democratic voters in Maine to support silver will certainly be disastrous to the party in this state."

Bryan at Salem.

Salem, Ills., July 14.—Never before in its history has this quiet little town of 2000 people been so ablaze in glory as it was last night. Ordinarily, the citizens retire for the night by 9 o'clock. At 10 it is as quiet as a country churchyard; at midnight there is nothing left with which to compare the stillness that prevails. But last night it was different. W. J. Bryan, a native of the place, returned here. The whole town was out to meet him. Then, there were sky rockets and roman candles and red fire burning along the route by which Mr. Bryan was conducted to the home of his sister. Here he will remain for the next two days. Mr. Bryan was heartily received at the stations on his way from Chicago to this place.

Will Endorse Chicago Nominees.

St. Louis, July 14.—Preparations are making for the Populist national convention, which will open here July 22. H. E. Taubeneck, chairman of the national committee is here, and has issued a call for a meeting of the committee the day before the convention opens. The Lindell hotel will be the Populist headquarters, and the national committee will sit there to pass upon contests and select a temporary chairman and other officers. There is little doubt that the silver convention will endorse the Democratic ticket. That the Populists will do the same is also probable. According to Chairman Taubeneck the two conventions will bring fully 50,000 persons to St. Louis.

The Maine Predicament.

Lewiston, Me., July 14.—Democratic politics in Maine are badly mixed just at present. The leaders do not know which way to turn. At the Portland convention, the Democrats, after a hard fight, succeeded in adopting a gold plank in their platform. It is entirely inconsistent with the Chicago financial plank. It is now proposed by some to adopt a new platform, to conciliate the silver men, and to ask Mr. Winslow, the Democratic nominee for governor, to stand upon it. The more radical free silver Democrats propose calling another convention and adopting a new platform, and nominating a new candidate.

An Addicks Convention.

Dover, Del., July 14.—The Addicks wing of the Republican party in this state held a convention today and nominated John H. Hoffecker for governor, Jonathan S. Willis for congress and J. E. Addicks, Mifflin Wilson and Daniel F. Fooks for electors. The "regular" party, headed by Higgins' men, will meet on Thursday. Addicks announced that, in view of the fact that the United States constitution prohibits a man from being an elector and also a United States senator, he is not a candidate for the former office.

Another Successful Trip.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 14.—The filibuster steamer Three Friends returned to this port yesterday. Captain Bruaard gives a very interesting account of his last voyage, including a number of narrow escapes from the enemy's cruisers. The expedition, which was successfully landed on the Cuban coast, was composed of 100 men, under Colonel Perico Terres. The vessel also carried a large cargo of arms and supplies. The Three Friends has landed five expeditions in Cuba. Captain Bruaard says he is done with filibustering.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Sunshine and Rain Have Both Proved Beneficial the Past Week.

Potato Beetles and Army Worms Are Numerous.

Reports of Fair Hay Crop and Plenty of Berries and Fruit.

Boston, July 14.—The New England section of the United States agricultural bureau issues the following bulletin:

The weather in New England for the week ending July 13 has been very favorable to vegetation. Rain came on the 7th and 8th, and in scattered showers on the 6th and 11th, the total amount being from one-half inch to two inches. The rains have retarded work at haying, but have helped vegetation wonderfully. Corn, potatoes and tobacco especially are benefitted. The sunshine of the last few days helped to nearly finish haying in southern sections, and helped the work well on the way in northern districts. The crop is below the average, but better than was expected a fortnight ago, and is of good quality. Pastures have been much improved by the rain of the 4th and 5th. Apples are dropping some, but on the whole promise an abundant crop.

The past week has been warm, with frequent showers in Maine. All growing crops are doing well. Haying is begun. The yield from old fields will be light, but fairly good from new ones. The crop will be below the average. Grain is in excellent condition, being helped by the warm weather and rain. Potatoes are blossoming, and new ones are being marketed. The vines are heavy, and the beetle has not yet appeared, although some complaint has been made of rot. Apples are dropping some, and the yield, it is feared, will not be up to expectations.

There have been light rains in New Hampshire during the week, but of too small quantity to be of much benefit. The crop will be short, yet in some sections it is reported that the yield will be better than was expected. Pastures are suffering, and springs and wells are getting low. Cabbages and turnips are poor, and potatoes are reported to want rain badly. Corn and oats are doing well, and apples promise an abundant yield. Blueberries and strawberries have been very plentiful. Favored by the drought, grasshoppers have become very destructive, and the Colorado beetle is damaging potatoes.

Rain has come to Vermont, 2½ inches being reported from Ripton, Addison county, in 10 days past. Although too late for hay, they will help the growing crops much. Corn is growing very fast, the warm weather favoring it. The hay crop is light, but better than was expected, and will soon be gathered. Grasshoppers are very destructive to grass and grain, and the potato beetle is plentiful and doing much damage.

Because of rains early in the week haying in Massachusetts has been retarded, but the favoring sunshine of the latter part has helped to rush the work. The crop, although better than was expected, is below the average, but of very good quality. Pastures are good, but need more rain. Grain is doing very well, oats in particular are promising. Barley crop will be good. Corn is growing wonderfully, and is in tassel. Potatoes are doing very well, and are in blossom. The beetle has done very little damage as yet. Strawberries are at their best. The crop has been good. Blueberries and raspberries are doing very well, and the yield will be abundant. Although apples have dropped some, the yield promises to be good, the first having just been marketed. Cranberries are likely to be plenty, although the bogs need rain. Caterpillars are reported to be doing damage in some places, and fire worms and army worms do much havoc. Chestnut trees are blooming freely, but later than usual. Pumpkins are blooming. Cucumbers are large enough for picking. Along the Connecticut river there is much complaint, because of the army worm. So numerous are they in some localities that the grass is literally black with them. Rye, corn, grass and other vegetation is in some places totally destroyed. Grub worms are reported by one correspondent to be doing some damage to squash, potato and grass roots.

There has been considerable cloudiness and rain in Rhode Island during the past week, interfering with haying, but the favorable weather of the past few days helped to finish up the greater part of that work. The weather has been favorable for growing crops, especially corn and potatoes, which are reported doing well. The army worm has appeared in some sections, but as yet it is too early to predict the amount of damage it will do.

Cloudy and rainy weather has retarded the harvesting of hay and rye in Connecticut, but has favored corn, potatoes, tobacco and pastures. The hay crop is about an average one, pastures and consequently stock are in good condition, raspberries are scarce, blackberries and whortleberries promise a large yield. The potato beetle has appeared by the thousand in some sections, and are doing some damage. Chestnuts are blossoming freely.

Canadian Boat Won.

New York, July 14.—Light breezes and heavy winds, sunshine and rain, and a victory of 47m. 11s. for the plucky little Canadian Glencairn, were the characteristics of the first race in the series between the Glencairn and El Helrie for the possession of the trophy which the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club offers to the winner of the best three out of five races, to be sailed on consecutive days on Long Island Sound. The Glencairn is the representative of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal.

The Depleted Reserve.

Washington, July 14.—The treasury, yesterday, lost $657,300 in gold coin, of which $375,000 was for export. This leaves the true amount of the gold reserve $98,420,635.

With the Cadets,

It was so hot Monday that the drill of the Cadets was postponed until afternoon. At 4 o'clock they turned out for company drill. They had been ordered to put on their brown canvas suits—their knock-abouts—and leggings, and they knew that they were in for it. They knew only too well. For an hour they marched and countermarched, practising stacking guns, and fired at the inimical trees across the stream which bisects their land. For the full sixty minutes they were kept on the move. Then they were allowed 15 minutes in which to transform themselves from the oddest uniform to the best uniformed body of volunteers in the service of the Commonwealth; and, so, at quarter past 5 they were out in the company streets again, ready for inspection and muster. There was no relief then until after battalion parade, which took place at 6 o'clock.

Today the prescribed tour of duty begins. Monday was equivalent to a fall field day—more than equivalent, in fact.

Quincy Men Interviewed.

William B. Orcutt, chairman of the Democratic City committee, said: "As far as I have had an opportunity to talk to the voters, the ticket and platform will draw as well as any other ticket and platform that could be put in the field by the Democrats. What we will lose from our side we will more than gain from the Republicans. The ticket will grow stronger as the day of election approaches. The rank and file of the people, I find, favor the ticket and the platform from its financial standpoint."

George D. Cahill, secretary of the ward and city committee, believes that the candidates and the platform will be supported in this city and bring out considerable enthusiasm among the workingmen. If the "gold bugs" bolt, he thinks that the workingmen will stand together for the ticket all the stronger.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Considerable Time Given to Trivial Matters.

Appropriation Orders Passed with Very Little Discussion.

The Street Railway Company to be Brought to Accounting.

The City Council is getting an unenviable reputation for quibbling on little things, and not discussing appropriation orders which call for large appropriation. This was the fact at the meeting Monday evening. Why not reverse matters gentlemen?

Councilmen Pinkham and Sprague were the only absent members.

Communications.

Mayor Adams forwarded a communication announcing the appointment of Marshall P. Wright and Henry O. Fairbanks as Water Commissioners, and Albert F. Schenkelberger as Sewer Commissioner. Placed on file.

The Mayor forwarded a communication stating that the Quincy Electric Light & Power Co. were unwilling to renew the contract with the city for street lighting upon the present terms. To Committee on Streets.

The Mayor also forwarded a reply to the petition to the Highway Commissioners to lay out Washington street stating that they could not accept it, giving as their reason the present condition of the street and the amount to be expended elsewhere this year.

The Mayor also forwarded a petition from Houghs Neck for the establishment of a system of summer street lighting. To Committee on Streets.

Petitions.

Councilman Lamb presented a petition for the acceptance of Arthur and Nelson streets as public highways. To committee on Streets.

Councilman Claflin asked permission for the Committee on Finance to retire. Voted.

Voted to take a recess of ten minutes.

Report of Committee.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass an order appropriating $5,000 for plans, engineering, etc., for the Sewage Commission. Passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

The Committee on State Aid reported that Mrs. Annette Osborne be granted $4 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets recommended the passage of an order for the assessment of $1,659.48 betterments on the Walker street extension. Referred to the City Solicitor for his opinion.

The Committee on Streets reported a substitute order appropriating $4,000 for the rebuilding and widening of Adams street, between Whitwell street and Furnace brook.

Councilman Phillips asked the Commissioner if some work had not been done at this point, and was answered that perhaps $15 or $20 had been spent.

The order took its second reading and was referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Streets reported an order that the Commissioner of Public Works cause the Street Railway Company to remove tracks on Beale street. Report accepted.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on petitions of M. R. Sparrow and Mary D. LePierre for common victualler's licenses.

Councilman Anderson hoped report in relation to Mrs. LePierre would not be accepted

Councilman Little said if anyone was entitled to a license she was. He did not believe in inflicting a lot of blue laws upon the city. Drug stores were allowed to sell tonic and cigars on Sundays.

Councilman Sidelinger said the committee was unanimous in this case. If she had a license she would not have a right to sell these things. It would simply open a way to break the laws.

President Bryant asked what there was about the Sparrow case.

Councilman Sidelinger in reply quoted the law about common victuallers, and said Mr. Sparrow had nothing but an ice cream saloon and nothing to cook meals with.

Councilman Anderson moved a division of the question. Voted.

Councilman Anderson then offered a substitute report that Mrs. La Pierre be granted a license.

Councilman Claflin said in regard to the Sparrow license he was entitled to a license. If he has not the necessary cooking utensils he can easily get them.

Upon motion of Councilman Nickerson the petition of M. R Sparrow was laid on the table.

The question then was on the substitute report offered by Councilman Anderson in the LaPierre case.

Councilman Holt said he went to Mrs. LaPerre and found the restaurant was in the house part. There was an L where there was a counter and cigars, tobacco and tonic. They would not close the side down leading into this L as they claimed they could not make a living if that was closed. It looked to him like a good place to go and loaf and smoke on Sundays.

Councilman Lamb said the man there had nothing to do with it. There were tables near the so-call bar. This was a first class place and was patronized by tourists. It was for the police to see that the license was enforced.

Councilman Little thought it necessary to have a restaurant there.

Councilman Moxon said if this is a place where the public are to be accommodated it should be granted. If she violates the law someone else must look out for it.

Councilman Nickerson did not suppose this place was needed Sundays.

Councilman Field said if ever a place should be licensed this was the place. He was glad he lived in a time when he had a right to buy a glass of tonic on Sunday if he wanted it. People ought to have a place to get something to eat.

Councilman Nickerson thought it wrong to grant this license against the report of the committee. He objected on general principles to opening any more of these places. This gentleman from Ward Three (Field) believed in keeping grocery stores open on Sundays.

Councilman Field denied that he ever said he believed in open grocery stores on Sunday.

Councilman Nickerson replied that in the debate over a certain license the gentleman had said he believed that there were grocery stores that should be kept open on Sundays.

Councilman Barker believed it the duty of the Committee to see these places and under the statutes we should report as we have in all cases. The chairman of the Committee was thoroughly versed in the matter and knew when a license could be granted under the law.

Councilman Moxon wanted to know if there were any people who went to this place Sundays to eat.

Councilman Anderson said he had eaten there on two Sundays. It was the only place where the train employes could go.

Councilman Sidelinger said the man he saw there said that unless he kept store open he did not want any license.

Councilman Lamb said, according to all we have heard the Committee has not seen the party who wants the license.

Councilman Sidelinger. This man claimed to run the place.

Councilman Holt. He said he took $5 over the counter on Sunday.

Councilman Rice asked by what right he was selling over that counter Sundays without a license.

The substitute order was then accepted and adopted.

Councilman Sidelinger doubted the vote. On a rising vote the order was adopted 12 to 8.

The Committee on Licenses reported favorably on the petitions of James Bisson and James C. Dunn for carriage licenses, and C. F. Veazie for a job wagon, and they were granted.

Councilman Russell offered an order for electric lights on Goddard street, but President Bryant ruled such an order out of order.

After the Street Railway.

Councilman Nickerson offered an order that notice be given in the DAILY LEDGER of a hearing Aug. 3, to show cause why sidings of the street railway on Washington and Hancock streets should not be removed, and any other right "to put in all necessary turnouts," etc, should not be revoked.

Councilman Field asked the reason.

President Bryant explained that Street Railway Company had put in sidings which the Council had refused to grant, and that they claimed the right under an old grant of the Selectmen. The order had been drawn by the City Solicitor.

Tax Levy Order.

Councilman Claflin offered an order calling for the assessment of $202,500 on estates and $2 on the polls of the city, as the annual levy. Read once and referred to Committee on Finance.

The reports of the committee on Licenses were taken from the table.

There was an adverse report on the petition of Angelo Fossati, but it was granted.

The report on the petition of E. Brown, leave to withdraw, caused some debate.

Councilman Lamb opposed and offered substitute granting order.

Substitute was favored by Councilman Little and opposed by Councilmen Nickerson and Barker, but was adopted.

At 9.10 the Council adjourned for one week. The summer vacation is not in sight, as a hearing is advertised for Aug. 3

DON'T Advertise Unless YOU WANT To Largely Increase Your BUSINESS.

To Be Expected.

Our friend in the picture may not be exactly happy, but he isn't shirking his duty, all the same.

Business men don't find it all plain sailing; but if they're wise they learn by experience.

It's the fellows who DON'T learn who make most of the failures.

We strive to learn something about our business every day—something to help us in holding and extending our trade.

It's a fact that we are doing both these things. Take

Soda Water

for example. We're not only selling far more than anybody else in the city, but our output increases day by day.

People know where to come for a good thing.

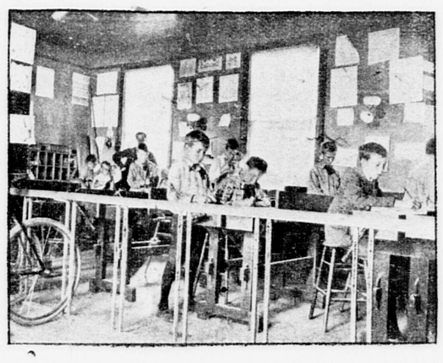
NEW CLASS IN SLOYD.

The Young Men's Christian Association Doing a Good Work for the Boys.



During the past year the Young Men's Christian Association has won for itself a reputation in Association circles because of its being the first association to introduce the Sloyd system of wood work for boys. With an outfit of only twelve benches, costing $125, the present of Mr. W. G. Corthell, and an expenditure of less than $200 more for instruction, the Association has been able to instruct thirty-nine boys in eight months. It takes several years for the average boy to complete the Sloyd course, but every lesson is of some use, teaching him some new exercise and the use of some one or more tools.

It is a great mistake, however, for people to think that the object of the Sloyd class is to teach a boy the carpenter's trade. No doubt a boy will very easily learn the carpenter's trade after having taken Sloyd, but the primary object of Sloyd is educational. In the first place, every boy must make his own drawing of the model he is to make, with the proper specifications.

The educational aim of Sloyd is to instill a taste for and a love of labor in general; to inspire respect for rough, honest bodily labor; to develop independence and self-reliance; to train in habits of order, exactness, cleanliness, and neatness; to train the eye and sense of form; to give a general dexterity of hand and develop touch; to accustom to attention, industry, perseverance, and patience; and lastly, to promote the development of the physical powers.

The Quincy Sloyd outfit was intended primarily for the Wollaston boys and in the fall will again be removed to that section, but that the boys of all sections of the city may have the benefit, another class, similar to that held during the past two months, will be started under the direction of Mr. C. F. Merrick, formerly principal of the Willard school. If enough boys register, two classes will be started, dividing them according to age. The class will meet for organization tomorrow, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. After that on Tuesday and Friday mornings, unless the majority of the boys prefer some other day.

Any boys old enough to handle tools will be admitted to these classes. The fee charged for the class will be nominal; just enough to pay for instruction. The association furnishes benches, tools and material. Every thing made is useful and belongs to the boy, although the association will reserve the right to keep one model from each boy, for exhibition.

Experiments in institutions for boys in various parts of the country have shown that Sloyd is more interesting and has a better moral influence over boys than any other kind of work ever introduced. It is sincerely to be hoped that before another year all sections of the city will be provided with Sloyd classes.

Such classes will have a marked influence on coming generations. Full information can be secured at the Association rooms. Parents are invited to call and see the classes at work and have the system fully explained.

MAY BE PROSECUTED

Two Norfolk County Commissioners Fail to Make Returns.

The Norfolk County Commissioners continue to be criticised for their course of procedure. It is a law of the Legislature that all persons, officials, corporations, etc., shall make returns before July 10. That time has expired and it looks as though some of the commissioners of Norfolk county would be in the list of delinquents, which will be handed for prosecution to the attorney-general. They have filed one return, for the appearances of Messrs. Grover and Joy before the committee on county estimates, but there was another commission before which they were called, the committee to investigate the acts and doings of the commissioners of Norfolk county.

Before that committee Counsel Robert M. Morse appeared. He figures on the records or registry books as appearing for Messrs. Bowker and Morrill, and he has put in a bill for $2500. That this was a legislative expense, for which a return should have been made before the time expired on July 10, the department in charge of the returns seems to think.

Mr. Morse's bill for $2500, it is understood, is now in the hands of the treasurer of the county, but the treasurer has been instructed not to pay the bill.

Section 7, chapter 456, of the Acts of 1890, specifies that any person, private or public corporation, or association, which shall violate any provision of the act, under which returns of Legislative expenses are made, shall be fined not less than $100, nor more than $1000. The law also says that "any person who shall act as Legislative counsel or agent contrary to the provisions of this act shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1000, and shall be debarred from acting in the capacity of Legislative counsel or agent for the period of three years from the date of said conviction. It shall be the duty of the Attorney General, upon information, to bring prosecutions for the violations of the provisions of this act."

—There will be a grand Republican ratification meeting in Music Hall, Boston, this evening.

WAS IT MURDER?

A Farmer at Braintree Assaulted By His Workman.

Mr. Henderson Secured a Warrant, But Died Before Arrest.

The Accused Was Too Friendly With Mrs. Henderson.

William Card, a farm hand who has been employed by Charles L. Henderson of Braintree, was arrested Monday by Officers Galivan and Downey, upon a warrant charging him with assaulting his employer. Since the warrant was issued on Saturday Henderson has died and a more serious phase is developed.

According to the stories told about Braintree Henderson was jealous of his wife. Last week Thursday she went to Boston shopping and Card accompanied her. They returned late that night and the next morning Henderson took his wife to task. A row was the outcome. Henderson, it is alleged, was beating his wife with a club and she was crying for help.

This brought Card to the scene and he took the club away from Henderson and gave him a good pounding.

Saturday Henderson came to Quincy and applied to Judge Humphrey for a warrant for Card for assault. He told the clerk at the time that his jaw was broken and his head was badly cut.

That night Henderson was taken sick and Dr. Dearing was called, who pronounced his ailment pneumonia. Henderson died Sunday night and the certificate gave the cause as pneumonia.

Medical Examiner Frazier was then called into the case, and upon a hasty examination ordered Card held without bail until an autopsy could be held.

Card is about 30 years of age, and has been in Braintree three or four years, working at odd jobs. About four months ago he went to work for Henderson, and soon became a favorite with the family, more especially Mrs. Henderson. When arrested he was found at work on the farm haying, and readily accompanied the officers.

Henderson was a man about 52 years of age and came to Braintree from Brockton about two years ago, and as far as can be learned was a man of quiet disposition and not addicted to quarreling.

Card was arraigned in the Court at Quincy this morning and held in $3000 until next Tuesday.

$100 Reward $100.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—wan and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

DEALINGS WITH SPAIN

As Set Forth In Our Annual Report on Foreign Relations.

Many Diplomatic Tangles Have Been Settled.

Claims of the United States Recognized In Each Instance.

Washington, July 14.—It requires 71 printed pages in the volume of foreign relations to set out the correspondence which has passed between the United States and Spain during the year 1895, yet in no case is there printed any matter in the nature of reports from United States officers touching the rebellion, its causes, progress or prospects. The chapter on Spain begins with the celebrated Mora case, which, having been settled satisfactorily by the payment of an indemnity by Spain of $1,500,000, is now a closed incident.

Next in order comes the Allianca incident, beginning with Secretary Gresham's vigorous demand upon the Spanish government for a prompt disavowal of the act of the Conde de Venadito, in firing upon the American steamship; for an expression of regret, and the issuance of orders to Spanish naval commanders to refrain from interference with legitimate American commerce, whether within three miles of the Cuban coast or not.

The conclusion of this incident is, for the first time told officially in this publication. The Spanish government showed an entire readiness to do everything that international law requires, to smooth away the bad impression made by the incident, and, after procuring a report on the subject from the Cuban officials, the Duke of Tetuan, Spanish minister of foreign affairs, delivered to United States Minister Taylor a statement, in which he says that the Allianca was fired upon with a special purpose not to hit her, she being outside of the jurisdictional zone of Spain.

This was an involuntary error, which no one could lament more than the government of his majesty, whose purpose never was to set obstacles or hindrances to the legitimate commerce of the United States, and much less to give the slightest offense to the flag of a friendly power. He adds that instructions have been sent to the commanders of the ships of the navy to avoid a repetition of events similar to that now in question, which is disavowed by the government of his majesty.

Mr. Uhl, then acting secretary of state, closed the incident by accepting the duke's communication as a sufficient and satisfactory explanation, without conceding that the exertion of the Allianca at the time the shot was fired can be consideded as a controlling circumstance.

Correspondence passing between the state department and the resident Spanish minister, relative to the enforcement by the United States of the neutrality laws, takes up considerable space. It begins with the cases of the yachts Amadis, LaGonda and Baracoa, but these have already been made public through legal proceedings.

Half a dozen letters tell the story of the fruitless attempt of Marshal Campos, then captain general, to prevent United States Consul General Williams from exercising diplomatic functions in intervening to protect American citizens arrested by the Spanish officials in Cuba. Secretary Olney acted with vigor and promptness in this matter, addressing himself to Minister DeLome here, and to the Spanish government at Madrid at the same time, through Minister Taylor, and in less than a month Consul General Williams was recognized as having full power to look after such matters, being thus placed on an equality with the German consuls in Cuba.

One short letter from United States Minister Taylor to Secretary Gresham, on Feb. 9, 1895, tells the story of a diplomatic victory that, from its business value, deserves prominent place in the volume. This was the final concession by the Spanish government to the United States citizens of the right to pay minimum import duties on goods sent to Cuba.

A premonition of claims, to be preferred against Spain, appears in several letters from E. Atkins & Co. of Boston, to Secretary Olney, giving notice of the destruction of their valuable sugar estate by the insurgents. Incidentally, they vote that the insurgents are mainly negroes, and that the orders to burn their property were sent from Cuban headquarters in New York, with the purpose of causing trouble between the United States and Spain.

The chapter on Spain ends with correspondence relative to the cases of certain American citizens arrested and expelled from Cuba—Francisco Corrillo, John A. Somers and the Ansleys.

Interesting Statistics.

Washington, July 14.—The report of the navigation bureau shows that during the year ended June 30, 1896, 709 vessels, of 204,000 gross tons, were built in the United States, compared with 682 vessels, of 133,000 tons for last year, an increase of 71,000 tons. Steam vessels built numbered 322, of 135,000 tons, compared with 283, of 75,700 tons for the previous year. Steel, as chief material of construction, has increased to 106,900 tons, from 47,700 tons for the previous year. Nearly three-fourths of the steel tonnage was built on the great lakes.

Diaz' Popularity.

City of Mexico, July 14.—A committee of 600 electors from the City of Mexico visited President Diaz at the castle of Chapiltopec yesterday, to congratulate him on his re-election, which occurred Sunday. Raefel Ronde made an address, in which he commended the solidity of the government of the country, and felicitated Mexico on having attained an ideal so seldom realized in Latin countries, of permanence and stability of government. General Diaz replied in a patriotic strain.

Champion Sculler of the World.

London, July 14.—The sculling race for the championship of the world, the sportsman challenge cup, valued at $3500, and a stake of $5000, between Charles R. ("Wag") Harding of London and James Stanbury of Victoria, Australia, was rowed over the Thames course of four miles and 30 yards, from Putney to Mortlake, yesterday, and was won by Stanbury.

THE LAST DAY.

Close of the Fifteenth Convention of the Christian Endeavorers.

Washington, July 14.—The last day's session of the 15th International Christian Endeavor convention began at the appointed hour, in the three white tents simultaneously. It was a day reserved for missionaries. Addresses were made in Tents Williston and Endeavor by a number of foreign delegates, India, China, Africa, Asia, England, and the countries of Continental Europe being represented. Among other missionaries, Goll of Africa, Rutnam of India, Bentley of China and Hildner of Germany spoke. The chief interest of the day centered in the Armenian demonstration in Tent Washington. Three Armenian missionaries are here, one being Secretary Green of the national relief committee, and the others being Margaret W. Leitch of Ceylon and Rebecca Kirkorian of Turkey, just returned from the scene of the atrocities. These three spoke to an immense crowd of sympathizing Endeavorers in Tent Washington.

PRESIDENT CLARK.

The big Central hall was utilized for an hour or more, when a largely attended reception took place. It was given by the officers and trustees of the United society to all the officers of the state, territorial and provincial unions now in the city.

Services in the three tents on the White lot, and in five of the largest churches of the city, brought the convention to a close last night. Music and singing, devotional exercises and a sermon were prominent features of these gatherings, and they were followed in each instance by a consecration service of over half an hour. At Tent Washington, President Clark presided. Rev. Maurice Baldwin of London preached the sermon.

The board of trustees, at a meeting, passed resolutions extending their heartiest thanks to the city for its hospitality, and to individuals and committees participating in the work that has been brought to such a successful conclusion. Of the great choir of nearly 5000 voices, the trustees say: "Never was there a choir so large, better trained, readier in various service."

Confesses His Guilt.

Pittsburg, July 14.—The case of Major Moreland, ex-city attorney, who, with his assistant, W. H. House, is charged with embezzlement of city funds and malfeasance in office, was called in court yesterday. Immediately after the indictment was read, Major Moreland entered a plea of guilty. This caused great excitement, as such action was entirely unexpected. The maximum penalty attached to Major Moreland's confessed crime is five years' imprisonment, or fine covering the amount of the city's claim against him.

More Cruisers For Spain.

Madrid, July 14.—In an interview with the minister of marine, it was said that the government had authorized the purchase of cruisers in Genoa, but that the contracts would not be signed until the cortes had granted the necessary credits. The minister said that one of the cruisers was practically ready, and that the other could be delivered in February. From a trustworthy source it was learned that the credits will be granted, though the price is considered excessive.

Found Dead In His Room.

New York, July 14.—Pierre Gerard, an aged inventor, was found dead, yesterday, on the floor of a room which he rented at 44 Clinton place. The coroner was notified. Gerard wrote several dramas, but, as far as can be learned, they were never staged. He also wrote several books. One was "How to Build a City." The title of another was "My Santurine," which was a story of a circus girl.

Down an Embankment.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 14.—An express train on the Hazleton branch of the Lehigh Valley railroad, while rounding a curve between White Haven and Freeland, struck a cow. The engine was derailed and thrown down an embankment 200 feet high, and three passenger coaches were thrown from the track upon their sides. One man was killed and a score of persons were hurt, several seriously.

American Vessels Stranded.

Nassau, N. P., July 14.—The American barque Eliza J. McManemy, from Philadelphia for Pensacola, and from the latter port June 27 for Rio Janeiro, lumber laden, stranded near Memory rock. The vessel and cargo were lost. The crew were saved. The American schooner Henry S. Woodruff stranded on Powell's reef, Abaco. The vessel was lost, but her crew saved.

Atways the Friend of Labor.

Chicago, July 14.—Before leaving Chicago, Vice Presidential Candidate Sewall denounced the attack made on him in a morning paper, depicting him as a foe of organized labor. He said: "Any one acquainted with the history of Maine and her lumber and shipbuilding interests knows that the house of Sewall has always had the friendship of its employes. We never had the slightest trouble, nor have we ever opposed union labor. I am an advocate of the cause of the laboring man, and our men have always been treated on that principle."

Way Murder Trial Begun.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., July 14.—The trial of Marshal Way, for the murder of his wife on May 20, began yesterday in the Caledonia court. The tragedy occurred in the village of Wheelock. Mrs. Way had decided to leave her husband because of ill-treatment on his part. When she was stepping into a carriage, in which was seated her sister, Way struck his wife with a club three times on the head, the injury resulting fatally very soon after. Way pleaded not guilty to the charge. The day was occupied in impanelling a jury. Counsel for the defense will offer the plea of insanity.

Abused His Wife.

Attleboro, Mass., July 14.—James N. Yuill has had trouble with his wife for some time, owing to his habits of intoxication, and she sued him for a divorce. The court ordered him not to trouble her, or enter the house while the suit is pending. Last night he forced his way into the house, grabbed her by the throat, threw her down and beat her, threatening, as she claims, to kill her. The police were summoned, but before they came he got away. A large crowd has been looking for him, but he has not yet been found.

Poet and Journalist.

Rochester, N. H., July 14.—Benjamin W. Ball, journalist and poet, died yesterday, aged 73. He was born in Concord, Mass. He published a book of poems in 1851, and another in 1892, entitled "The Merrimac River, Hellenics and Other Poems." His contributions to The Atlantic Monthly attracted wide attention, and he was a frequent contributor to Boston newspapers and magazines.

Back to Work.

Suncook, N. H., July 14.—The China, Webster and Pembroke mills started up again yesterday. They will run alternate weeks until the first of September. The stopping of the mills means considerable to the people of Suncook. For the four weeks that the mills will be closed means a loss of about $24,000 to the working people of this village. The employes are pleased with the alternate week plan.

Bigamy and Theft Charged.

Claremont, Mass., July 14.—H. B. Y. Osgood was arrested here for alleged bigamy and theft. It is claimed that he married Miss Gill of Boston in 1893, and Miss Helen Hibbard of Bellows Falls, Vt., in 1895. From the latter he is said to have gotten $2500 in cash and fled to Cleveland, but returned to Claremont. He was taken to Keene for trial.

Probably Accidental.

Boston, July 14.—The police have decided that the shooting of Samuel Dorfler, who was killed in a West End store Sunday night, resulted from an accident. Samuel Sochat, who is under arrest for causing Dorfler's death, will probably not be discharged, however, until he is given a hearing.

Balfour Amendment Withdrawn.

London, July 14.—It is semi-officially announced that the amendments offered by Gerald Balfour to the Irish land bill, in the house of commons, are to be withdrawn. It is also stated that the whole of clause 13 will be dropped in consequence of the attitude of opposition assumed by T. W. Russell, upon whose support of the measure the government had reckoned. Mr. Russell is a Liberal, opposed to home rule, but "in favor of land law and temperance reform." The amendments to the land bill which Mr. Balfour proposed proved to be acceptable neither to the Nationalists nor to the Ulsterites.

☞ All kinds of jobbing done cheaply, for cash, by NELSON HERSEY. His job wagon can be found every morning, between 7 and 8 o'clock, corner of Hancock and Granite streets,—near the town pump. tf

If a door is hung to swing one way, there is no use trying to push it the other way. There is a right and a wrong way to do things. Many thousands of women in America are sick, and would like to be well. They are making efforts to get well, but they are making them in the wrong way. They are taking medicines prepared by incompetent nurses, or inexperienced physicians. They are daily submitting to examinations and local treatment, for which there is generally no necessity. They are growing steadily worse instead of steadily better.

There is no reason why almost every woman should not be well and strong. Over thirty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, an eminent and successful specialist in the treatment of the diseases of women, discovered a wonderful specific for woman's diseases that has since become world-famous as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all forms of female weakness and disease. Its effect is immediately perceptible in the better feeling of the patient. It forces out impurity, soothes the inflammation that is always present in disorders of this kind, promotes regularity, and stops debilitating drains on the system. It cures nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, lack of appetite, lack of vitality.

Every woman should have a copy of Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is a handsomely illustrated volume of a thousand pages, several chapters of which are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women. THE CAMPAIGN GUNS

Have Already Begun to Boom on Both Sides at Boston.

Administration Officials May Bolt Chicago Platform.

Red Hot Political News From Many Sections of the Country.

Boston, July 15.—Four thousand people occupied Music hall last night, at the first ratification meeting held under the auspices of the Republican state committee in recognition of the nomination by the St. Louis convention of the Republican candidates for president and vice president. The hall was beautifully decorated with bunting. At the back of the platform hung pictures of McKinley and Hobart. On the platform sat many well-known citizens, whose appearance was greeted with cheers. G. H. Lyman called the gathering to order, and introduced William S. Butler of New Bedford as chairman. Mr. Butler was greeted with much enthusiasm, and after extending a welcome to the large gathering, introduced Governor Walcott.

When the applause which greeted the governor had subsided sufficiently, he delivered an address filled with eulogies of the action taken by the Republican party at St. Louis, paying particular attention to the platform adopted, and comparing it to that framed at Chicago. In a humorous manner he referred to Massachusetts' small contribution to the silver party. He gave his views upon the question of 16 to 1, and pointed out that such a ratio would but ruin rather than enrich the rich as well as the poor.

"Doubling of the price of commodities," he declared, "will never be met by a purchasing power. There are going to be with us this year thousands of honorable Democrats, and those men will find welcome with us, if not under a blue uniform, as during the war, at least under and for the Stars and Stripes. The laws of this commonwealth say that all of our bonds shall be paid in gold coin or its equivalent. That law was placed on our statute books during the dark days of the war. As a result, our credit is good. Our financial honor is highly regarded. And now is this all to be set aside by the Democratic party? I say no. It is a question of repudiation or honor, between the pirates' flag and the Stars and Stripes."

Senator Lodge received a grand ovation. He said: "I had thought that we should enter on this campaign with an appeal to the American people to restore the Republican party to power, resting such appeals on the last three years' record of the Democratic party; but events have moved rapidly, the situation has changed, and we appeal to the American people to prevent panic and misfortune. The Republican convention met and adopted a platform clear in its policy. We want to carry it, and McKinley and Hobart to victory. Those of us who know our candidate for president, know him to be a patriotic American, who would rather cut off his hand with the sword he carried in battle than that the honor of his country should be repudiated, than that our supreme courts should be tampered with, or a creditor turned away from the gates of our treasury. Mr. Hobart is a guarantee of the party which he represents. Since June 16 another convention has been held. A transient collection of persons got possession of the Democratic organization."

"From the outside of their convention, it appears like a series of orgies—a secessionist from North Carolina and an anarchist from Germany at the head. The head of the ticket which they have nominated: voice and bank account; silver at head, gold at foot. They declared for tariff for revenue only. The Republican party declared for protection. It is still on our banner. We stand for the gold standard of the United States. The Republican party has been on the gold standard from 1873 to 1893, and we had during that time pretty good times. The only question is whether we shall stand on the existing gold standard or go over to a silver standard. In 1860 the Democratic party was divided; a bloody war was near, and no man dared trust his neighbor. The Republican party called all to its standard. We now call all to us. We do not propose to rake up the past to drive men from us, but we are anxious to have all good men with us. I repeat to you now that in this day, when ideas are threatening the liberty of the American people, the Republican party which placed Lincoln in the chair lifts up its standard. The result is in the hands of God."

The Silver Rally.

George Fred Williams received a great ovation at the Democratic ratification meeting last night in Faneuil hall. For fully 10 minutes after he stepped on the platform the hall resounded with the shouts of the followers of free silver in Boston. The meeting was composed of Democrats, Republicans, Populists and socialists. Harry J. Jaquith was the temporary chairman, and read a long speech in support of silver.

The permanent chairman was Timothy W. Coakley. In opening his remarks, he asked the Democrats of Boston to hurl back the lie in the teeth of those delegates who misrepresented the Democrats of Massachusetts at Chicago. "Lombard street will shudder," said he, "when it hears that Faneuil hall has declared for free silver."

Mr. Williams received another noisy reception on being introduced. "Fellow citizens," began Mr. Williams, "I will not say fellow Democrats alone, revolutions are at home in this hall. A new revolution has been begun, the revolution of the industrial system of the country.

"Returning to Boston, after fulfilling what I considered to be my duty, I do not understand why I am received on the part of my friends here with vilification. But I do not come back to make any apology. I have done what seemed to me to be right, and that is all any man can do. I admit that my change on the money question justified attack, but it does not justify an attack upon my honesty. If I change my mind must I go about silent, acting a lie? You do not know how earnestly I search my conscience to find my duty to you.

Mr. Williams explained his change of mind by the fact that since the convention was held, which sent him as a delegate to the Chicago convention, the attitude of the gold men became more and more uncompromisingly against free silver. The time had changed in the two months which succeeded the April convention. "I came then to the question, 'how shall I represent the Democracy if they were to vote on the question at the present day?' I will not criticise the Democrats who differ from me, for I hope that their hasty judgments will be reconsidered. We have a great fight before us, and we need all our friends. The leaders of the people must therefore be loyal or they must retire."

Mr. Williams endorsed the ticket and spoke eloquently of William J. Bryan, and said that he knew him well.

"The second place on the ticket," said he, "is occupied by a business man, and Mr. Sewall's nomination was made by the west to prove to the east that unlike other conventions, there was no trading, and that it was not a sectional convention. The west held out the hand to the east. Mr. Sewall's nomination was the heartfelt sympathy for the laborers of the country."

An overflow meeting was held outside the hall, at which over 2000 people were present. Mr. Williams also spoke at this meeting, and was received vociferously. Among the other speakers of the evening were James H. Mellen of Worcester, who was hailed as "Silver Jim" by the audience. Delegate O'Sullivan, the original silver man, made a speech for the white metal, and received almost as warm a reception as Mr. Williams.

NO WALK-OVER.

Senator Smith Says Both Parties Have a Hard Fight Ahead.

New York, July 15.—Senator Smith of New Jersey gave out his views regarding the Democratic situation as follows: "I have not been home long enough as yet to find out what will be the attitude of the state convention. I do know, however, that there is a very wide diversity of opinion. Some with whom I have talked are eager to bolt the ticket and put up an independent candidate. Others favor nominating electors pledged to vote for none but a sound money candidate for president, others feel that it is the duty of the Democrats to abide by the decision of the national convention. How the real sober second thought will crystallize itself during the next few weeks I am wholly unable to judge. But one thing to my mind is plain, and that is that the question is so great and so pregnant with consequences that the people themselves are the ones to decide what to do.

JAMES SMITH, JR.

"Is there any silver sentiment in New Jersey?"

"Yes, much more than is generally supposed. The agricultural element of each party is affected to a considerable degree by the enthusiasm of the western farmers for this idea. It will be no easy task to overcome this enthusiasm wherever there is a large agricultural element."

"Then you do not foresee a walkover for McKinley?"

"On the contrary, I am convinced that if the election was to be held next week, Bryan would win. People here in the east do not appreciate the hold the free silver idea has taken upon the masses of the entire west and south, and they will be impressed more and more as the campaign progresses by the personality of the candidate.

A billion dollars are so many that a man man who can count three every second would have to count day and night for 10,000 years to get through with them dollar by dollar.

THE PROPOSED tax-levy order is just about as large as the law permits, and much nearer the limit than in recent years, although the limit increases rapidly. In 1889 the first year of the city, the limit was about $117,000. This year, Mayor Adams told us in his inaugural it would be $207,864 by one method, and $203,124 by the other. It is fortunate, in view of the appropriation, that the limit is so large, for by the tax order introduced in the City Council it is necessary to assess $202,500.

But this large levy for current city expenses is responsible for an increase of about $27,000 in the total levy, and is sure to materially increase the tax rate, even if there is a large increase in valuation.

The figures which enter into the tax levy are nearly complete with the passage of the order for $202,500 now pending in the City Council. The total State tax is $11,777 50, and the total county tax $12,078.97. There are but 7 more polls than in 1895. The amount of maturing notes and interest required, is known and the overlayings and valuation only are to be estimated. Here are the figures for the two years side by side:

Tax levy,	$175,000.00	$ 02,500.00
Notes,	78,451.00	77,480.00
Interest,	18,114.46	20,342.65
County (less polls)	10,272.30	6,236.87
State (less polls)	4,262.30	5,935.50
Polls,	11,666.00	11,684.00
Overlayings,	4,974.60	*5,000.00
Total,	$302,740.36	*$329,179.12
No. Polls,	5,833.00	5,840.00
Valuation,	$17,325,855.00	*$18,000,000.00
Tax rate,	$16.80	*$18.50

*Estimated

The estimate of the valuation has been made as favorable as possible to reduce the tax rate, and it is doubtful if it reaches eighteen million dollars. The gain in valuation for the city years has been:

Year.	Valuation.	Gain.
1888,	$9,757,960	——
1889,	12,319,245	$2,561,285
1890,	13,677,410	1,358,165
1891,	14,427,030	749,620
1892,	15,566,920	1,139,899
1893,	16,638,070	1,071,150
1894,	16,817,455	179,385
1895,	17,325,855	508,400

THAT THE new Metropolitan water supply is mainly to give Boston an adequate supply is shown by the pressing need of more water as shown in the orders this week, and Boston should not object to paying its portion of the cost. The water commissioner of Boston says the reduction of the consumption of water to the lowest possible limit is imperative. The use of hose for watering lawns and irrigating gardens, and possibly street sprinkling, and the puddling of trenches, will have to be stopped. At any rate the use of garden hose must be stopped, and it behooves the people to aid the water department in every way possible to economize in their use of water.

A RAMBLING TALK

At the July Meeting of the Board of Trade.

Councilman Parker Opens Discussion for Street Improvements.

Street Railway and Other Matters Considered—A New Secretary.

The July meeting of the Board of Trade opened Tuesday evening with Vice President John R. Graham in the chair and Clarence Burgin as temporary secretary. President Adams soon arrived and took the chair.

A ballot for the election of secretary, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John O. Hall, resulted in the election of T. J. Dunphy.

Mr. Dunphy is the present efficient secretary of the Granite Manufacturers' Association. As the Board of Trade meets in the room of the association, and the secretary has office hours daily, he and his records will be accessable at all times.

Councilman Theodore Parker inquired relative to the movement for equalization of railroad fares.

President Adams thought it doubtful if any railroad grievance would be righted at present because of change in officials.

Mr. Parker then opened a discussion on street improvements reading the following paper:

"There is perhaps no better work this Board could take up than the improvement of the streets of our city. It goes without saying that we are not keeping up with other cities of our class in this respect. Well built, curbed, and guttered streets are one of the factors to draw new residents among us.

"The point I wish to bring before you tonight for discussion is how is the best way to get improved streets. It may be well to show you what another city of our size is doing in this line. I shall take the city of Burlington, Iowa. In the first place because I lived there several years and know whereof I speak; secondly because it is practically the same in size as our city. Burlington by the last census had a population of 25,315; Quincy, 20,712. Burlington's city debt last year $324,000; Quincy last year $313,000; practically the same.

COUNCILMAN PARKER.

"Burlington has the following street improvements, 25 miles of curbing, 8 miles brick paved streets, 7 miles Macadamized streets and a fraction of a mile of block paved streets; making a total of 17 miles of improved streets.

"During the year ending Mar. 31, 1895, the following work was done 10,252 feet curbing set (nearly 2 miles) 28,265 square yards (over a mile and a half) of brick pavement laid; 1750 square yards of Macadam, and 567 square yards of limestone block. The total cost of this work was $50,445.63.

"The city engineer in summing up says the total improvements during the year foot up to $116,587.68, distributed as follows:

Grading,	$20,170.94
Curbing and paving,	50,445.60
Sewer,	24,382.41
Curbs and retaining walls,	3,157.82
Tile drain for surface drainage,	454.01
Street repairs etc.,	17,587.87

"I wish to call your attention more particularly tonight to the method adopted in Burlington for paying for street paving. Out of $50,000 spent last year for improved streets $41,000 of this was paid by abutting property, the balance by the city. The city paves by authority of a state law and city ordinances are drawn to conform to this law. If done by contract (as it usually is) the contractor is paid a part as the city collects the assessments from the property owner. The cost of paving streets stands as alien against the property. By petitioning the City Council any property owner is allowed to pay the assessment in five equal annual instalments. Nearly all paving is done through the influence of property owners asking for contemplated improvement. It requires a majority of the foot frontage and a majority of the Council to pass an ordinance to pave.

"In his report for last year the City Engineer says: The foregoing figures ($116,587), of which $50,000 was for paving and curbing, represents a fair average of the amount of the work done and sums expended each year for the past seven years, which compares very favorably with the improvements made in other cities of the same class, especially when we consider the fact that Burlington is reducing her bonded indebtedness from year to year, while some of her sister cities are plunging still deeper in a spasmodic effort to make public improvements in one year which requires all the available revenue of five or ten years. Such a policy, while sanctioned or even advocated by some people, is not to be commended in municipal affairs any more than in private business, except in extreme cases where the delay of a needed improvement would cause more loss or perhaps damage than the interest on the money expended amounts to.

"I think the above shows quite clearly what one little western city is doing--spending $50,000 a year on improved streets, and having 80 per cent. of this paid for by the abutters. What did our city do last year in the way of building improved streets? I do not know of a foot being built. There was expended for gravel roads, $6,844; for edgestones, $870.74; or 2,500 feet (less than half a mile), against two miles for Burlington."

The consensus of opinion was that the city could not.

G. H. Field favored asking for legislation permitting cities to assess for building streets.

Councilman Moxon thought the city should have control of the laying out of new streets, by some board of survey.

Mr. Parker thought there should be some way for abutters to get street improvements.

W. T. Shea favored an expenditure of $50,000 annually for a few years for permanent improvements, and was opposed to betterments.

Mr. Moxon had obtained figures for the widening and rebuilding of Hancock street with a curbed reservation in the centre for a double track street railway.

John R. Graham as a citizen favored such an improvement, and believed the street railway would contribute several thousand dollars.

There was some opposition expressed to paving Copeland street at this time, but this was withdrawn when it was stated that it would be from three to five years before a sewer was put through the street.

Other speakers, pro and con, were G. H. Field, John Swithin, Postmaster Burke, M. Parker and Alexander Marnock.

The improvement of Hancock and Copeland streets was referred to the committee on municipal affairs.

The action of the city government toward the street railway came up for criticism upon which Representative Thompson, John R. Graham, Mayor Adams, Councilman Moxon and Postmaster Burke spoke.

George Holden's yacht which was held by the campers who demanded $110, is now in Quincy bay, but the $110 has not been paid as yet, and probably will not be.

Tuesday evening there sailed out from Quincy a party of young men who were determined to bring that yacht back to Quincy.

When they arrived on the scene the campers were found on guard, but as the Quincy party outnumbered the guard, the guard were driven ashore and the yacht towed to Quincy.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Mayor Adams Withdraws His Complaint.

Before the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners.

The Hearing is Advertised for Friday of this Week.

Affairs concerning the lighting of the public streets by the city seem to be slightly mixed, and now the inquiry is: Where are we at?

When the contract with the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. expired this year the matter was referred to the City Council, who, after duly considering the matter, passed an order authorizing the Mayor to enter into a contract with the local company for three years at the same or better terms.

While this order was before the council an order was passed authorizing the Mayor to petition the Legislature for authority to enable the city to establish a municipal lighting plant without first purchasing the plant of the local company.

The Legislature refused this to a committee who gave a hearing. At this hearing the Electric Light Co. was represented by its officials and counsel and the city by Mayor Adams and President Bryant of the City Council. The hearing proved to be a fizzle and no more was heard from it.

Some weeks ago the Mayor made a complaint to the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners of the quality and price of the lights furnished by the local company, and the commissioners immediately ordered a Public hearing for Friday morning July 17, at City Hall.

Last Monday evening the City Council were informed by the Mayor that the local company had refused to renew its contract with the city upon the terms of the old contract and the matter was referred to the Committee on Streets.

This it was generally supposed would furnish spice to the Friday hearing and a large attendance was anticipated.

Not to be caught napping the Electric Light Co. began preparing its defence and Tuesday afternoon there arrived in town a half dozen electrical experts, who were taken over the line and through the power station. They called the machinery in use of a modern pattern and the lines in good condition and in fact as they expressed it a first class plant.

This morning another phase of the situation has seemingly developed, for shortly after the shower there came a ring at Secretary Faxon's telephone, and upon answering it, he was informed that he was connected with the office of the Gas and Electric Light Commission, and the information they had to impart to him was, that Mayor Adams had this morning withdrawn his complaint and petition from the board.

This being the case there doubtless will be no public hearing Friday, and again the public say "Where are we at?"

Ladies' Day Q. Y. C.

The annual social event of the Quincy Yacht club, known as ladies' day, will be observed tomorrow, Thursday, at the club house, Houghs Neck, and if good weather prevails an enjoyable day is assured the many ladies and gentlemen who are sure to be present.

The affair will be in charge of the house committee, Commodore C. F. Pettengill, Vice Commodore John W. Sanborn, Secretary James S. Whiting and Horace R. Drinkwater, Luther W. Glover, Walter B. Wilson, Walter E. Wyman, Gordon M. Keating, Fred B. Rice and C. Eaton Pierce.

The programme will include a review and sail from 3 to 5 o'clock, to be followed by a lunch upon returning from the sail, and dancing in the evening.

The preparatory gun will be fired from the flagship and the number of the course to be sailed will be displayed from the club float, and at 3 o'clock a second gun will be fired for the fleet to pass in review and sail over the course designated.

During the sail an orchestra will furnish music at the club house for the entertainment of those who remain on shore.

In the evening the club house will be illuminated with Chinese lanterns, and from 7 until 10 o'clock those who desire may dance the merry hours away.

Should Thursday prove to be stormy the event will take place Friday.

Sick-poison is a poison which makes you sick. It comes from the stomach. The stomach makes it out of undigested food.

The blood gets it and taints the whole body with it. That's the way of it.

The way to be rid of it is to look after your digestion.

If your food is all properly digested, there will be none left in the stomach to make sick-poison out of.

If your stomach is too weak to see to this properly by itself, help it along with a few doses of Shaker Digestive Cordial.

That's the cure of it.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is a delicious, healthful, tonic cordial, made of pure medicinal plants, herbs and wine.

It positively cures indigestion and prevents the formation of sick-poison.

THE MORNING RAIN.

A Fall of an Inch and a Half in a Short Time.

The much needed rain, for which the gardens and lawns have been praying came this morning and for a while there was plenty of it and some to spare. It commenced to rain lightly about 8 o'clock and increased gradually until 9 o'clock at which hour it came down in torrents and it seemed for a few moments as if the flood gates of heaven had been suddenly opened. The rain was accompanied by several sharp flashes of lightning and heavy peals of thunder, but they were not near enough to do any harm.

The gutters quickly became running rivers and outlets not being large enough to accommodate the large body of water, the streets soon became flooded, and in places where the street was low, ponds were formed.

On Granite street beneath the railroad bridge where the street is low and having feeders from both sides the water accumulated fast and the gate becoming stopped up the water rose rapidly and at one time had reached a depth of something like two feet. The Commissioner was summoned by telephone and a man was soon on the spot clearing away the rubbish that had clogged up the gate.

In several other places about the city the streets were gutted out and the street department will have enough to keep them busy for the balance of the day.

At the pumping station, where a rain fall guage is kept, it was ascertained that the rain fall this morning was 1 43-100 inches.

A TALK ON PROTECTION.

It Creates and Stimulates Manufacture and Raises Wages.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Abuse, bitter and unceasing, has been heaped upon the policy of protection to American industries by professional ranters on the Democratic stump, who pose as "labor agitators. It has been the special target for their rhetorical slings and arrows. They have stigmatized it as "class-legislation" enacted at the dictation of the capitalist-manufacturers to enable them to foist their goods upon the down-trodden masses at a price in excess of their real value by a sum equal to the duty imposed on the same kind of goods when imported.

To their narrow minds the single fact that any capitalist should favor protection is conclusive evidence that it is a snare to be fought tooth and nail; a fair trial and impartial judgment is not to be thought of.

These scheming harpies, the worst element in the industrial life of America subsist on discord and strife which their heresies and fallacious arguments stir up between employer and workmen. Their Anarchistic utterances inflame the minds of the most ignorant laborers and the idle and discontented hangers-on. They antagonize capital and labor, thwart arbitration, advocate force in strikes and decry the Federal authorities for protecting government property against mob violence during strikes. Their influence was felt in framing the platform of the Democratic convention in Chicago.

The policy of protection is a perfectly logical, but (viewed from the stand point—of the industry of the world as a whole) selfish measure. It is necessary and justifiable from the fact that the industry of the world has developed with the nation and not the world as a whole as the unit.—In each nation the commodity called labor has a different value. The price of a commodity is determined more by the cost of the labor involved in its production than by any other factor. To admit—goods free of duty which are made by pauper labor in foreign countries is to expose our intelligent and well-paid workman to suicidal competition with the degraded hordes of Europe.

Protection, in effect, is a compact between American capital and labor, to create and stimulate the manufacture of commodities at home, thereby at the same time increasing the demand for labor, thus inevitably raising wages. It is consequently mutually advantageous to both capital and labor to be protected from the ravages of pauper labor on American industry, increased home production giving the former a legitimate profit, the later higher wages. American capital and labor should fight side by side against the poverty, crime and ignorance of Europe. Self interest if nothing else should commend this policy. Foreign labor and capital lose what home industries gain and herein is the measure selfish, but the superior condition of American industry, attained through good luck and good management must not be sacrificed through any philanthropic motives.

As the industry of the world becomes less diversified and labor more intelligent, the value of labor will be more uniform, and till then reciprocity will be the balance wheel in inter-national trade, joining nations in unrestricted trade whenever mutually advantageous. It is a significant fact that English wages after half a century of free trade are still one third lower than in the United States where protection has not yet had a fair chance to demonstrate its value to American industry.

Very respectfully,
AUTOCRAT.

VANDERBILT WORRIED

As the Wedding Day of His Son and Miss Wilson Drew Near.

Said to Be Suffering From a Paralytic Shock.

Family Unwilling to Make Public the Facts In In the Case.

New York, July 15.—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., came to town Monday to see his son, and to take him back to Newport, if his condition permitted. He found his son convalescent, but suddenly became very sick himself. Messengers were sent to Doctors Draper, Delafield and McLane, who at once went to the house. Mr. Vanderbilt became some worse yesterday. Early in the evening passersby the Vanderbilt mansion were surprised to see parts of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street strewn with tan bark. Everyone in the house was reticent as to the nature of Mr. Vanderbilt's sickness, though it is believed to be an attack of paralysis, caused by worry over his son's proposed marriage to Miss Wilson.

At first no one would admit that Mr. Vanderbilt was sick, but when the tanbark was spread around his house they reluctantly confessed.

When Cornelius Vanderbilt was born in New Dorph, in 1843, the commodore his grandfather, for whom he was named, was not a very rich man, and his father, William H., was comparatively poor. Young Cornelius received a good education, and then began the study of railroads, in which his family were the very best teachers.

At 22 he was made treasurer of the New York and Harlem railroad, and here he showed such mastery of financial affairs that, when, in 1877, William H. was made president of the New York Central, the son was made first vice president. In 1883, upon the retirement of his father, he became chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central and Michigan Central roads, and since then has stood at the head of the great Vanderbilt system. In 1870 he married Miss Alice Gwynne. He was already a worker in the cause of the Episcopal church, and with the growth of his fortune, gave more and more liberally to religious and charitable works. He is a devout member of St. Bartholomew's church, and has frequently passed the collection plate in Dr. Greer's church.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT.

He was an earnest advocate of the penny provident fund, and other organizations for the welfare of the poor.

His liberallty has not been confined to church matters. He has subscribed largely to the Metropolitan museum of art, the American museum of natural history and many other educational institutions. He has been a lavish entertainer. His magnificent home at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue is probably the finest house in this country, while at Newport, R. I., The Breakers has a fence that alone cost $200,000. Mr. Vanderbilt has given as much as $3000 to grand opera singers to sing an evening at his home. He hired Jane Harding and Coquelin to recite for his guests.

Mr. Vanderbilt has added greatly to the fortunes left by his grandfather and father, and is believed to be worth anywhere from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. Unlike many other millionaires, he is credited with knowing to a cent just how much of worldly goods he has.

Mr. Vanderbilt suffered a severe blow four years ago in the death of his oldest son, William H., and many fears were expressed for the father's life. There are five children living, Cornelius, Jr., aged 22; Gertrude, aged 20; Alfred, 18; Reginald, aged 15, and Gladys, 9.

Mr. Vanderbilt has devoted much time and a share of his wealth to the advancements of the interests of his employes, by whom he is held in the greatest affection. He is a director in more than 30 railway companies, and officially connected with some 15 church and charitable organizations. He is a member of nearly 20 clubs.

Pistol Didn't Work Well.

San Francisco, July 15.—An attempt was made to kill Charles Ezeta, ex-president of San Salvador, yesterday. As Ezeta was sitting at lunch in the dining room of his hotel, Pedro Jimnes, a Salvadorean, walked up to the table at which Ezeta and a party of friends were seated, and spat in the face of the ex-president. Ezeta sprang at Jimnes, who drew a pistol and pulled the trigger. The weapon did not discharge readily, and, before the assailant could accomplish his purpose, he was seized by Ezeta's friends and held until the arrival of police assistance.

HAS DONE HIS DUTY.

Criticisms of Minister Terrell Declared to Be Unwarranted.

Certain Charges Made by Christian Endeavorers

Bring Forth a Reply From Those Acquainted With the Circumstances.

Washington, July 15.—The criticisms upon the United States minister at Constantinople at some of the Christian Endeavor meetings in relation to Armenia, especially the attack made by Rev. B. F. Mills of Fort Edward, N. Y., are declared by friends of the administration to be based upon lack of knowledge of the actual situation in Turkey. The volumes of foreign relations which are just being published indicate the difficulty which the state department has had in dealing with the Turkish administration.

Rev. Mr. Mills criticised Minister Terrell, especially for advising that the missionaries be withdrawn from the isolated portions of Turkey during the period of trouble.

A. W. TERRELL.

The suggestion of temporary withdrawal of missionaries from Turkey was made by Mr. Terrell from the fruits of his experience. He forsaw that there was destined to be a massacre of Armenians. He wrote to Mr. Dwight, the head of the American mission: "On Oct. 24, when very few persons were rejoicing over the order which proposed to arm and make officers of a race which had for ages been subjugated and denied privileges, I demanded, and obtained on that day telegraphic orders to every civil and military chief in the Ottoman empire to protect American missionaries." Four times since then like orders were demanded by Terrell.

Minister Terrell and the people in the state department know and appreciate the interests, pecuniary and moral, which the missionaries in Turkey have in charge, and no one knows better than does Terrell the self-sacrificing spirit which caused men and women to leave good homes and go among an ignorant race of primitive Christians. It is because of this knowledge and appreciation that Terrell wishes them removed from places where they could do no good, to places of safety, at least until the period of danger had passed.

Mr. Terrell has fought the sultan's government for a guard over all missionary property in the interior, but nothing can be done to prevent the outrages of the wild creatures of the Turkish mountains. As Terrell said in the same letter from which quotation is made, "Christian Europe, after exasperating the Turks with compulsory reforms, now looks on with folded hands and does nothing to stop this carnival of blood."

It is not the Turks alone which Minister Terrell must have in mind. He wrote to Dwight: "I quite sympathize with your desire to see calumniators punished on account of my own experience at this port, but when you reflect that the rival Christian churches of eastern and southern Europe would rather see Asia Minor controlled by Turks than by American Protestants, that this prejudice is so strong that the consuls of one great Catholic power officially reported to their ambassador that our missionaries had encouraged the Armenians to aspire to state autonomy, you will readily understand that the most dangerous calumniators are beyond the control of the Turkish government."

No official at Constantinople could be more persistent, it is maintained, than has been Minister Terrell. A religious enthusiast might have made more urgent demands, with less practical results, and the grave possibility of embroiling two countries in war. The work has been prosecuted as well from this end.

In a recent letter to Secretary Olney, Minister Terrell said: "These American missionaries, while acting in the midst of carnage as picket guards of education, are 'permitted' by their American boards 'to leave in their own discretion.' Of course, under the circumstances, they will die, if need be, at their posts. And then, if the worst shall come, not a bayonet would be lifted by Christian Europe to avenge. Whether, even for the crown of martyrdom, it is right to incur the risk of plunging their country in war by remaining at their posts to be slain, is a question for them to determine. The Armenians, among whom our American missionaries labor, have been Christians for 1400 years. Their education, and not their conversion to Christianity, is the chief missionary work now being done. Their bishops participated in all the early councils of Christian churches, except that of Chalcedon, and during all these centuries they have had their patriarchs, bishops and priests, and have worshipped the same God and his Christ that missionaries do. For the mere education of a race thus spiritually enlightened, I am not willing by my silence to become a party in the work of exposing American children to butchery. I admire the intelligence and zeal of our American missionaries here, but a decent regard for my own reputation did not permit me to remain silent regarding the safety of American children."

This letter, written in response to ugly comments by missionaries at home, is considered a timely and complete answer to all that the Fort Edward clergyman said against the government official who has been looking after the lives, as well as the property, of the church workers in the fastnesses of Turkey.

AN OPEN LETTER.

What Mrs. L. E. Bressie Says to American Women.

Speaks of Her Melancholy Condition After the Birth of Her Child.

"I feel as if I was doing an injustice to my suffering sisters if I did not tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me, and its worth to the world.

"From the birth of my child until he was four years old, I was in poor health, but feeling convinced that half of the ailments of women were imagined or else cultivated, I fought against my bad feelings, until I was obliged to give up. My disease baffled the best doctors.

"I was nervous, hysterical; my head ached with such a terrible burning sensation on the top, and felt as if a band was drawn tightly above my brow; inflammation of the stomach, no appetite, nausea at the sight of food, indigestion, constipation, bladder and kidney troubles, palpitation of the heart, attacks of melancholia would occur without any provocation whatever, numbness of the limbs, threatening paralysis, and loss of memory to such an extent that I feared aberration of the mind.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and spoke in glowing terms of what it had done for her.

"I began its use and gained rapidly. Now I am a living advertisement of its merits. I had not used it a year when I was the envy of the whole town, for my rosy, dimpled, girlish looks and perfect health.

"I recommend it to all women. I find a great advantage in being able to say, it is by a woman's hands this great boon is given to women. All honor to the name of Lydia E. Pinkham; wide success to the Vegetable Compound.

"Yours in Health, MRS. L. E. BRESSIE, Herculaneum, Jefferson Co., Mo."

CAUGHT IN FIRETRAP.

Aged Man and His Wife Burned to Death In a Boston Fire.

A Woman Dying In a Hospital From Burns.

Considered a Miracle That All In the Building Did Not Perish.

Boston, July 16.—Without a note of warning or the raising of a friendly hand to help them in their hour of extremest peril, two human souls were sent into eternity last night through the agency of a coal oil lamp, in the four-story frame tenement at 20 Lehigh street. As near as can be ascertained, the holocaust started by the explosion of a lamp under the main stairway, which, being of wood, burned like tinder and cut off egress from the building. The occupants had all retired, and the fire gained rapid headway in the dry old frame building, and when noticed by a passerby the flames were bursting from the second-story windows. He yelled to the occupants of the next house and aroused some of the other neighbors, who turned in an alarm and tried in the meantime to rescue the unfortunates.

When the firemen arrived the whole interior was in flames, and the shrieks of the women were heartrending. Joe Fulman, with Officers Nelson and Gillete, succeeded in rescuing Mrs. Kate Hope and Mrs. Flagg, the only ones who succeeded in getting out unharmed. The hose play on the building had in the meantime put out the fire, and the firemen entered from the second story of a bakeshop on Broadway, which formed an L extension to the tenement. They were horrified to find crouched close to the stairway hole the insensible body of Mrs. Margeret Hogan, an aged widow, 60 years old. They tenderly carried her down the ladder, and the cold air revived her, bringing her mind back to the horrible scene, and making her poor burned body writhe in its agony. She was burned so terribly as to preclude any hope of recovery, and although the utmost possible was done for her, pending the arrival of the ambulance, her agony was so great that it would have been a mercy if she died ere reacing the hospital, where she was pronounced as being beyond help.

Near the stairway leading to the roof were found two bodies burned beyond recognition, their position indicating that they had hopes to escape by the roof. They were lying huddled close together, and the position when found indicated that the man had tried to shield his companion from the devouring flames. They were only identified by finding that all the occupants except Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Driscoll were accounted for. Two alarms were sent in, and it is said that the firemen were rather slow in responding, but worked heroically to save the inmates of the house, located 20 feet below the surface of Broadway, with no fire plug handy, and in a street with scarcely any public light. Then, too, the building was a veritable fire and death trap, made all of wood, with openings and apertures that created a draught like a furnace, so that it is a miracle that anyone escaped.

The dead were old people, and to be roused from their sleep with such a terrible fate confronting them, they no doubt were dazed with fear and completely lost their presence of mind.

The building was damaged about $3000. The tenants' loss, for they lost everything, will be about $1000.

Jennie Foster Found.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 16. — Jennie Foster, aged 16, who disappeared from her home in Chester Centre, Mass., June 28, was found here yesterday by Detective Cronan and Agent Bullock of the Massachusetts Humane society. The girl was enticed from home by W. H. Curtis, 45 years old, who is now under arrest at Chester Centre, awaiting trial. He dressed her as a boy and tried to get her out of the state with him. She was employed here in an ice cream saloon.

Testing the Law.

Pawtucket, R. I., July 16.—The police closed the horse poolroom in this city yesterday, acting on advice from the city solicitor. After the management had secured legal advice, each of the arresting officers was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wilson, on writs for trespassing, and furnished bail in the sum of $1000 each. They remained in charge of the place and no business was done. Chief Perry states that the place will not be allowed to reopen.

Held on Serious Charge.

New Haven, July 16.—As the result of investigations conducted by Coroner Mix, Martin Maloney was placed under arrest yesterday and will have to answer to a charge of manslaughter or murder, in causing the death of his brother, Daniel. The brothers had a quarrel on the night of July 3, during which Martin struck Dan over the head with a coupling pin, and as the result of the blow the latter died from lockjaw.

Corcoran's Attitude.

Boston, July 16.—John W. Corcoran, chairman of the Democratic state committee, in a Journal interview, said he was not going to resign the chairmanship; that he will not be a gubernatorial candidate; that he had no quarrel with George F. Williams, and that he was unprepared to answer the question as to his supporting the party platform and candidates.

Keegan Heard From.

Providence, July 16.—J. J. McGill, one of the attorneys for Larry Keegan, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Emily Chambers, has received a letter from his client, in which he says he was visited by a friend on Tuesday who gave him a clew by which the murderer of Mrs. Chambers can be found. Keegan is in failing health.

Seaside Home For Infants.

Fall River, Mass., July 16.—Efforts are being made here toward establishing a seaside home for infants during the summer months. Land has been purchased on the east shore of Mt. Hope bay, and $1000 has been subscribed. During the past three weeks the infant mortality here has been unusually large.

Ohio Company Bid Lowest.

New Bedford, Mass., July 16.—The county commissioners yesterday opened bids for the construction of a new 70-foot bridge across the Acushnot river, between New Bedford and Fairhaven, to replace the old structure. There were 13 bidders, the Wrought Iron Bridge company of Canton, O., submitting the lowest figures. The contract will be awarded after the supervising engineer has examined the figures, and construction will be begun in the fall.

Lynn's Loss Is Winsted's Gain.

Winsted, Conn., July 16.—The J. F. Swain company of Lynn, Mass., has consolidated with the Winsted Shoe company, and will at once remove its business to this town. It is expected that upwards of 1100 employes will accompany the firm from Lynn.

THE WATER in the big granite fountain in the Square is now taken from a supply arranged to come through a pipe lower down than that used in winter, to make it as cold as possible. This cost a great deal in plumbing, but the idea came from the late Mr. Gavin who planned quite a refrigerator under there. It is a pity that some of these sultry days we can not enjoy two different jets that he fixed for high sprays. No one would mind a little sprinkling perhaps, and it is feared the pipes and faucets may be damaged by not being used. One of the architects of the fountain, Mr. Walker, said the arrangements for the supply of water was admirable.

Aluminum in the Kitchen.

For domestic utensils aluminum is destined to be in increasing demand. They are so pretty, so light and so easy to keep clean, and they cost just enough more than other kinds to make them fashionable. Complete kitchen outfits, from coffee pot to frying pan, are now manufactured. It is certain that water can be boiled quicker in an aluminum pot or pan than in a vessel of any other metal, for two reasons—the aluminum is made very thin and it is an excellent conductor of heat. For covered dishes designed to retain the heat aluminum is the best metal we have.

It is a remarkable feature of some of these utensils that they are cast, and not stamped. A tea kettle can be cast only the sixteenth of an inch in thickness that will stand an amount of banging and denting which would lead anyone not familiar with the facts to supposed that it was made of rolled or stamped metal.—Journal.

CITY BALANCES.

The Total Appropriations Aggregate $445,000.65,

As briefly noted the other day, only about one-third of the appropriations for 1896 had been expended July 1 by the approved bills of City Auditor Hall. The total for the year is nearly half a million dollars, and may go over the half if the city continues a too liberal policy.

To be exact the appropriations for 1896 already amount to $445,000.65, and by the July 1 statement $154,039.31 had been expended, leaving a balance of $290,961.34. There is also a balance of $4,275.08 from appropriations for 1895. The balances, item by item, are given below:

The annual appropriation order provided for $369,400.65, including $227,968 for current expenses, $97,822.65 for debt and interest, $14,500 for maintenance of water department, and $29,110 for interest on water debt. In addition to the $369,400.65, there have been loans, and many appropriation orders are pending.

Aside from such items as the new schoolhouses, city debt, interest, etc., it is probably a fact that in most cases half the appropriations have been spent.

In the knockabout class there will be one prize, $10. There will be the five association classes, viz:

First Class—All yachts 25 ft. and less than 30 ft. S. L.

Knockabout class:

Fourth Class—15 ft. and less than 18 ft. S. L.

There will be no restrictions on sails except in the knockabout class.

The races will be sailed under the association rules.

Nearly 100 yachts are entered for these four races.

Glove Button Saves a Quarryman.

How much may depend upon a glove fastening was illustrated at the "Star" quarry in an adventure, last week, which the person concerned would not care to repeat. He is a derrick man who stands on the brink of the great chasm from which the blue stone is hoisted. His duty is to catch hold of the big hook depending from the end of the boom as it swings over the bank and attach it to the crate to be sent into the pit for a load of spalls and broken stone. Standing upon the very edge he reached out to catch the hook which dangled him. He wore thick buckskin gloves to protect his hands from cuts and bruises, and the hook slipped from him as he leaned out, but caught in the fastening of the glove. The swing of the boom took him off his feet in an instant and carried him into the giddy space, with his life depending on the glove's holding fast. His whole weight was hung on that button, and there was a clear ninety feet of space between him and the floor of rock below. The moments that passed before the boom could be swung over the bank again seemed like hours to him, but he got back at last safe and unhurt. He explained that he did not dare move his hand in the glove to attempt to catch the hook with his fingers for fear the change of the position would loosen the button so that it would give away. His presence of mind in keeping still as possible may have helped to keep the slender thread from breaking. Every man in the quarry looked on spell-bound while the power man worked the levers and set the derrick man safely on the ground again, and a sigh of relief went up from thirty men who watched their fellow workman.—Bloomington, (Ind.), Progress.

Improvements.

The new and extensive cesspools at the rear of the brick block on Chestnut street, have been under the care of Mr. Sandburg, whose practical mind suggested a combination of two methods suggested by Mr. Knowlton, Commissioner of Public Works, and by Mr. B. F. Curtis, chairman of the Board of Health.

He dug a new big cesspool at the back edge of the driveway connecting it by a large trench with another large one at the other end of the driveway. All these were filled with large stone chips, laid to form a connecting drain. A smaller trench further carried under the barn, gave more filtering surface for the sewerage from the houses.

The gravel taken out was used to regrade the yards. This was all rolled down and old cesspools filled with granite chips and covered over with the gravel. Old board fences were in one place replaced by an open one, and discontinued in another yard, so sun and air can penetrate. With the rear thus improved, the block is now a more desirable place of residence.

An Attractive House.

There is a new house going up next to the Episcopal church, Hancock street, Wollaston, that is very attractive on account of its symmetry and lines that show more taste than is usual. Also the gambrel roof that is always economical as well as picturesque, gives another attraction. A plate with the builder's name is on the front. Variety is the spice of life, and it is well all do not want the same thing; nevertheless a study and enjoyment of what is best are needed to get rid of the really ugly in art, in these days when chisel and plane run riot.

Gas at 60 Cents.

The Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company was organized on Wednesday. The act incorporating the company says that the price charged for fuel gas to individual consumers shall not exceed the following amounts for 1000 cubic feet: Within eight miles of the State House, 60 cents; to the inhabitants of any city outside the above limit having a population of more than 75,000, 75 cents; to any other city outside of said limits, 90 cents; to the inhabitants, $1.25.

To Be Expected.

Our friend in the picture may not be exactly happy, but he isn't shirking his duty, all the same.

Business men don't find it all plain sailing; but if they're wise they learn by experience.

It's the fellows who DON'T learn who make most of the failures.

We strive to learn something about our business every day—something to help us in holding and extending our trade.

It's a fact that we are doing both these things. Take

Soda Water

for example. We're not only selling far more than anybody else in the city, but our output increases day by day.

People know where to come for a good thing.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The Company Desire a Long Contract on Same Terms.

The Committee on Streets of the City Council and the officials of the Electric Light Co. held a meeting Wednesday evening at City Hall, when the subject of street lights was considered. It was figured out that deducting what the company paid into the city for taxes and water that the arc lights cost the city $65 each. The company it is understood asked that the city enter into a contract with the company for five years upon the same terms as the last contract.

HOUGHS NECK.

If the warm weather only remains with us, there will be few vacant cottages.

Many of the summer residents are entertaining guests from out of town.

Yes, Houghs Neck should have something in the way of street lights.

The familiar face of Mrs. Hattie Connor is again seen at the Brockton cafe.

The annual illumination will be held this year as usual, but it is a little early to fix the date as yet.

The prospects are that there will be a contest of speed in the near future between the two local photographers as to which can take a picture in the shortest time.

RUSSELL DEAD.

The Popular Ex-Governor Dies Suddenly This Morning.

He Had Retired the Night Before in Good Health and Spirits,

A Camp in the Environs of Quebec the Scene of the Tragic End.

QUEBEC, July 16.—Ex-Gov. William E. Russell died at B. F. Dutton's beautiful camp this morning. He went to bed last evening as well as ever, so far as was known, and was dead in bed this morning. Heart disease was supposed to be the cause. His brother, Col. H. E. Russell, and Col. Francis Peabody, Jr., are here, and left at once with the body for his home in Massachusetts.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The medals won by members of the Quincy Triangle Wheelmen at Lowell last month were received today. They are beauties and will be on exhibition tonight.

The reception to the bicyclists, which was planned for the 22d has been abandoned owing to the fact that extensive repairs must necessarily be made in the rooms. The reception will probably be given later.

The Quincy Association will join the Brockton and Rockland in a moonlight excursion to Minot's Light next Tuesday, starting from Quincy Point. The Brockton orchestra will furnish the music.

Adams Academy Trophies.

The two banners won by Adams Academy in the dual games with Thayer Academy are on exhibition in the windows of McGovern Bros.' store in Adams block. That for track sports is of black and gold, and that for the base ball is of blue and white; both being trimmed with gold lace and appropriately lettered. These represent the colors of the two academies.

Besides the banners there are the two silver cups awarded to J. D. Kent and H. S. Taylor; the former for base running and the latter for batting.

Two large framed pictures of the Academy team form an appropriate background.

—The United States grand jury returned last week a no bill against Postmaster Avery of Plymouth. This case aroused considerable excitement in the county some months ago, when it was said that Mr. Avery did not conduct his office in a suitable manner. This completely exonerates Mr. Avery.

—The six leading gold standard states of the Union have a population of 23,185,881; the six which are most wildly clamoring for silver have 950,113. And yet in the Senate of the United States these two groups of states have an equal representation.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

COMING AGAIN.

Mr. Plimsoll Satisfied With What He Has Accomplished Thus Far.

New York, July 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Plimsoll of London sailed for Europe on the Teutonic yesterday. Speaking to a reporter, Mr. Plimsoll said it was probable he would return to America in November or December, to continue his efforts to bring about more friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain. Peace and arbitration committees move altogether too slowly for "the sailor's friend." He prefers to go it alone rather than await the red tape proceedings and the pleasure of society treasurers, so he pays his own expenses.

Mr. Plimsoll is hopeful that the forthcoming annual report of W. T. Harris, commissioner of education for the national government, will contain much that will pave the way to bringing about an era of good feeling, which will eventually result in a friendly compact between England and America. Mr. Plimsoll is quite satisfied with what he has accomplished while here, and regrets that the oppressive heat prevented him doing more.

Glencairn Wins the Cup.

New York, July 16.—The third and last race in the series between Glencairn of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Canada, and El Heirie, for small yachts, was sailed over a course three miles to leeward and return, twice over. Ever since the races were begun on Monday noon, the Crane brothers, who have been sailing the El Heirie, have been praying for a hard blow. They received an answer to their petition yesterday, for the wind came out of the west by south at the rate of about 10 miles an hour, and the Yankee boat's adherents smiled and their hopes ran high, as they thought of the prospect of winning at least one race in the series. But their hopes were crushed, and now the cup goes to Montreal, where it will stay until some speedy half-rater can be found to win it back.

After Seventeen Years.

Cincinnati, July 16.—A man and woman knocked at the residence of Rev. R. E. Smith and asked to be married. They were Peter Brown, 42, and Florence E. Lide, 35, both of Bridgeport, Conn. The strange story developed after the ceremony is that the two have lived as man and wife in Bridgeport for 17 years, and have brought up a family of five children. The family was seemingly one of the happiest in the town. Four months ago the woman went away with George McKinney, and the husband has been looking for them ever since. He found the woman in this city, and she seemed quite glad to meet her husband and her 14-year-old boy, who had accompanied him, but she refused to return until he married her. Hence the ceremony at Rev. Mr. Smith's.

Hibernians In Session.

Detroit, July 16.—The Ancient Order of Hibernians met here yesterday in national convention. The report of the national secretary shows the total membership of the order is about 90,000, a gain of 3290 in two years. During that period 1449 members died. Pennsylvania is the banner state, with 20,713 members. The total receipts since the last report amounted to $1,568,102.31. The expenditures, $1,024,980.86. Of the latter amount, $245,768.70 was paid for sick fees, $86,025.39 for death benefits, $11,295.95 for burying wives of members, and $239,838.56 was spent for charitable purposes. The balance in the treasuries of all the divisions amounts to $345,211.45. The annual banquet was held last evening.

The Cretan Situation.

London, July 16. — A dispatch from Canea reports that the fighting at Apokorona was severe, lasting until after midnight, when the Turks were totally defeated. The consuls of the powers in Crete have telegraphed to their governments denouncing the Turkish violation of the armistice. It is said that Abdullah Pasha, who was superceded as governor of Crete by George Brovitch, the Christian prince of Samos, but who was left in command of the Turkish troops in the island, is secretly furnishing the Mussulman Cretans with arms and ammunition to enable them to provoke new conflicts.

Cartwheels Galore.

Washington, July 16.—Owing to the fact that the amount of silver dollars in the treasury available for the redemption of treasury notes has become reduced to $10,659,582, and will be further reduced by redemption during the current month, the coinage of silver dollars by the mints will be increased from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000 per month from Aug. 1, and will probably be continued at that rate, in order that the treasury may have a sufficient stock to redeem treasury notes presented in exchange for silver dollars.

Killed Mistress and Himself.

Portland, Or., July 16.—Henry Cook, a saloon keeper, yesterday shot Mrs. E. F. Marr, a lodging house keeper, for whom he had left his wife and family, and then sent a bullet through his own brain.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Plenty of rain.

It is about time for the Hose company to be thinking about holding its second annual ball.

The Y. M. C. A. of Brockton is arranging for a moonlight excursion from Quincy Point next Tuesday.

Mrs. F. L. Bristol of Uxbridge spent Wednesday night in Atlantic, en route from Bath, Me., to her home.

The beach presents a lively appearance today with the many who are attending the ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht club.

The Methodist Sunday school of Atlantic spent an enjoyable day Wednesday on their annual picnic to Lovell's Grove.

Judge Humphrey will hold an inquest Monday to determine the cause of the death of Charles L. Henderson of Braintree.

The cellar of the new Savings bank block is about completed and the carpenter's derrick is being placed in position today.

The predicted disastrous thunder showers that were to visit New England Wednesday night did not take place in Quincy, but it sprinkled a little.

Rain which threatened to interfere with ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht Club was dispelled before noon, allowing the programme to be carried out this afternoon.

There were but a few ladies and gentlemen present at the Granite City Club on Wednesday evening. The big, black clouds probably frightened many away. The whist prizes were taken by Mrs. E. W. H. Bass and Mr. W. W. Ewell.

The Atlantic band is to give a series of band concerts during the remainder of this month and August, once a week. Refreshments are to be served on the grounds. If satisfactory arrangements can be made the first concert will be held next Tuesday evening.

TODAY'S COURT.

Benjamin Banner of Braintree was arraigned for drunkenness. Case continued one week.

Agnes Kenney of Quincy was fined $10 for violating the ordinances of the Board of Health.

Maria Chubbuck was arraigned for the larceny of one peck of apples from Lewis F. Darbly at Quincy.

Darbly lives in Mrs. Chubbuck's house and claimed that he hired it with the understanding that all the fruit went with it. Mrs. Chubbuck claimed she reserved the fruit to distribute among her tenants and that the day the alleged larceny took place she knocked a few apples from the tree claiming that she had a right to them.

Charles H. Johnson the real estate agent who let the house to Mr. Darbly, testified that when he let the house Mrs. Chubbuck was asked by Mrs. Darby about the fruit, to which Mrs. Chubbuck replied that she made a division of the fruit. Mr. Johnson further said that he had no instructions about the fruit.

The court found the defendant not guilty.

John Sullivan was arraigned for threatening an assault upon Martin Frolund at Quincy. Case continued three months.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

Is it Hot Enough for you ?

Now, don't get angry; come around this evening and have a glass of SICILY LEMON PHOSPHATE. The clerk will ask . . .

Is it Cold Enough for you ?

Is it the best flavored, the most delicious soda you ever tasted? And if it is, give him five cents and come again to-morrow night. And if it isn't, give him nothing; set down the glass with a disgusted air and never come near us again. We're not afraid to take this risk; you need not be.

Nature's Cure

Proof of the Pudding.

Fred M. Burroughs, who is with N. Boynton & Co., Boston, and who lives at 32 Lincoln St., Charlestown, says:—"Last December I was all run down with stomach and bowel trouble. I was troubled with gas, and my food disturbed me after eating. Cod-liver oil emulsion did not give me relief, and I used Puritana and felt good results from the start. I can now eat anything within reason, can enjoy my food, and am not troubled by it after meals. My bowels are as regular as clockwork. I can truly say that Puritana appeals to me as a grand good cure for those afflicted with stomach trouble, and especially indigestion."

If you are a sufferer, get of your druggist this great disease-conquering discovery (the price is $1 for the complete treatment, consisting of one bottle of Puritana, one bottle of Puritana Pills, and one bottle of Puritana tablets, all enclosed in one package), or write to the undersigned, and you will bless the day when you heard of Puritana. Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

Populists Undecided as to How to Deal With Bryan's Candidacy.

Sewall Warmly Welcomed by Citizens of Bath.

Political Items of Interest From Many Sections of the Country.

St. Louis, July 16.—It becomes more and more evident each day, as the day of the national convention draws near, that the party will clash over the endorsement of Bryan for president. Letters from all parts of the country are pouring into the national committee headquarters, some demanding, some denouncing endorsement of the ticket, and everything indicates that there is a decided difference of opinion as to the best action to be taken at the coming convention. It is the opinion of some of the Populists here that the party is near the danger line of a split over the question. They express the hope, however, that some definite plan of action agreeable to all can be decided upon at the meeting of the national executive committee, which is to be held here next Saturday. Many of the Populist leaders are awaiting the coming of the free silver senators who bolted the Republican convention. Upon the coure they take will depend in a measure the action of the anti-Bryan wing. If the silver Republicans come out openly for Bryan and the Chicago platform, the opposition may not make much of a fight.

Mr. Taubeneck still declines to discuss the movement in favor of Bryan and Sewall. His invariable statement is: "I have nothing for publication."

Ex-Governor Waite of Colorado, who will head the delegation from that state, is out for endorsing the Bryan and Sewall ticket, and will begin work for it as soon as he reaches St. Louis.

The biggest fight next to the one endorsing the candidates will be that over the platform. A very strong wing of the party, headed by Chairman Taubeneck, Sergeant-at-Arms McDowell, Chairman Rozzell of the Missouri state committee, and many of the members of the national committee propose to make a fight for the adoption of the Omaha platform instead of an endorsement of the Chicago declaration.

George P. Keeney, general organizer of the national silver party, with headquarters in New York city, is here to attend his party convention, which convenes next week. "There has been for months," said Mr. Keeney, "a bitter fight in New York, between the representatives of plutocracy on one side and the middle classes and daily wage-earners on the other, and it is going to be fiercer from now on, until election. It has been my special duty to labor among the last mentioned classes, and my candid opinion is that they will win. There is not a state in the east in which Bryan has not a good fighting chance, and there must be no hesitancy in waging the war there. He will be met by volunteers all along the line."

A POPULAR CITIZEN.

Bath Folks Extend a Hearty Greeting to Mr. Sewall.

Bath, Me., July 16. — Arthur Sewall had his home-coming last night, and it was of the warmest sort. The formal welcome was entirely non-partisan, as the several committees were equally made up of Republicans and Democrats. As the special train bearing Mr. Sewall came into the city at 7:15, fireworks were profusely burned, the church and city bells rung, and a national salute fired by big guns. Thousands of people at the depot were provided with horns, and the vocal welcome made a din greater than ever heard here before. Mr. Sewall was met at the depot platform by F. H. Twitchell, president of the city council, Mayor Bibber having unexpectedly been called away. In responding to a short welcoming address, Mr. Sewall said:

"Fellow citizens, fellow Republicans, fellow Democrats of Bath: It is always a great pleasure to me to come back to our beloved state of Maine, which we all love so well. But it is a greater pleasure to return to our old city of Bath to meet my old associates and the friends with whom I have passed my life.

"It is not fitting, and you do not expect me at this time to make a long speech, but there is one thought which has so filled my mind that I feel that you will pardon my speaking of it here. We have had a convention, and it is of that I would speak to you. It was a great convention, yet it did not seem to me to be a partisan one; it seemed more like the uprising of the people, and they seemed to be controlled by one idea—an idea that filled me for years. They know that this country is in deep distress, that it has been in distress for years, and that great multitudes believed it. I believe that the great trouble is with our monetary system, and they believe as I believe, that there is but one remedy. They entertain no dishonest or dishonorable idea, but they demand that we be carried back to the money of our fathers. To that monetary system under which this government flourished for so many years."

Mr. Sewall was escorted to his home in a barouche decorated with flags. A band led the column, followed by 40 young men, dressed in yachting costume. The illumination as the procession passed up Washington street to Mr. Sewall's house was the finest seen for years. The Sewall mansion and surrounding grounds, which were thrown open to the public, were brilliantly decorated. Mr. Sewall here made a short speech, again expressing his appreciation of the reception. Then the procession escorted him to the city park, where he received the public, while the band played patriotic pieces and fireworks brightened the surroundings.

JONES AT WASHINGTON.

Has Not Yet Decided Upon Make-Up of Executive Committee.

Washington, July 16.—Senator Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is at the capital in conference with Senator Harris of Tennessee on various matters connected with the prosecution of Mr. Bryan's candidacy. He says that the executive committee probably will not be appointed for 10 days yet. Senator Jones said that he favors locating the national headquarters in Washington, but it will be for the committee to decide that point. In case Washington is determined upon, a large building, centrally located, will be taken for campaign work. He said that he can give no intimation as to the personnel of the executive committee until he has conferred with several gentlemen. Among names generally mentioned are those of the members of the silver committee, viz.: Senator Harris of Tennessee, Turple of Indiana, Governor Stone of Missouri and Mr. Hinrichsen of Illinois, who organized the silver movement up to the time of the convention. The name of Governor Stone has been mentioned as chairman of the executive committee, but it is feared his duties as governor might prevent his assuming this responsible and laborious position. Chairman Jones will see that all sections of the country are represented on the executive committee.

Mr. Jones says he has no doubt of the endorsement of Bryan and Sewall by the Populist convention at St. Louis. He said that he expects opposition to come from a few Populists who regard themselves as leaders, and who would not endorse any Democratic ticket, but he says the rank and file of Populist delegates will sweep over this opposition.

FOR SOUND MONEY.

New York State Democracy Repudiates the Chicago Convention.

New York, July 16.—The state Democracy, through its executive committee, adopted resolutions last night repudiating the Chicago platform, and providing for the appointment of a committee to confer with sound money men of this and other states to bring about the nomination of a sound money Democratic ticket. Among those present were Francis M. Scott, Maurice J. Power, John D. Warner, Robert J. Cook, Robert G. Monroe and George Walton Green. The meeting adopted these resolutions:

"Resolved, That we hereby repudiate and condemn the revolutionary and undemocratic platform adopted at the last miscalled national convention held in Chicago. It proposes to substitute for our present standard of value, which is equal to the best in the world, an unstable and depreciated standard, which has been repudiated by every civilized and prosperous commercial nation, and which would put us on a monetary par with China, Mexico and other countries where the labor is notoriously underpaid."

The adoption of the bolting resolution breaks the new-formed alliance between the state Democracy and Tammany Hall, under the terms of which the former was given representation in Chicago.

Tammany will endorse the ticket. John C. Sheehan promised it in the most positive manner, and said that the meeting of the executive committee for the purpose might be held next week. He couldn't say when the Tammany ratification meeting would be held.

Voice of the Press.

New York, July 16.—The weekly Public Opinion of New York prints this week a symposium of carefully selected press comment from 123 leading newspapers in all parts of the world on the Democratic convention and the issues of the campaign. Of these, 58 are Democratic, 28 Republican and 37 independent journals or special organs of labor organizations, farmers, single taxers, etc. Of the 58 Democratic papers, 32 repudiate the platform and 24 emphatically reject the candidates, and either by implication or in plain words, advise Democrats to remain within the party lines and vote for the ticket with a reservation, if necessary, regarding the financial plank. Two declare for McKinley, three demand an independent ticket and 15 declare for the platform and candidates, with free silver. Of the 28 Republican papers, four declare for silver, while four say that the Democratic party is dead or hopelessly disrupted. Of the 37 independent and special journals, 15 reject the platform and candidates, nine declare for McKinley, 10 declare for Bryan and three demand an independent Democratic ticket.

Speeches at Canton.

Canton, O., July 16.—On their own special train, and with their own band, several hundred Cleveland women came to Canton yesterday to call on Major McKinley, and to congratulate him and the nation, as one of them put it, on his nomination. Rain fell, but it did not prevent the Canton people from turning out in large numbers to welcome their visitors. The Cleveland delegation was met at the station by a large committee of Canton women. The delegation marched from the railway station to the residence of Major McKinley. A speech of congratulation was made by Mrs. Elroy Avery of Cleveland, to which Major McKinley made response.

Hanna Will Be Busy.

Cleveland, July 16.—The Republican executive committee has decided to locate headquarters in both New York and Chicago. There will be no discrimination between the two cities by selecting either as the main headquarters. Chairman Hanna says he will be located nowhere, but will fight the campaign in the saddle. Two vacancies on the national committee were filled by the appointment of Myron M. Parker of the District of Columbia and C. S. Johnson of Alaska. The members of the committee, with the exception of Senator Quay, who left for home yesterday afternoon, dined with Mr. Hanna last evening.

Rain Interfered.

Salem, Ills., July 16.—Salem paid its farewell yesterday to William J. Bryan, in a demonstration that was greatly marred by a tremendous downpour of rain. He left Salem this morning, and is scheduled to arrive in Kansas City this evening, and will probably make a speech there. The night will be spent at Kansas City, and tomorrow morning Mr. Bryan will start for Lincoln. The trip through Nebraska will be made in daytime, and Mr. Bryan will probably make several informal speeches en route.

The Free Silver Stump.

Lawrence, Mass., July 16.—The Democratic nominations and platform were ratified by a rally in city hall last night, with George F. Williams and Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan as speakers. Both were given a rousing reception. Their addresses were devoted to the work of the Chicago convention, and its endorsement of silver and the nominees. Mr. Williams attacked the administration on its bond issues. The alleged benefits of free silver coinage were lengthily explained by both speakers.

Bad dreams are one symptom of ill health. People generally treat such matters lightly. They believe that they are caused by the eating of something indigestible, and that this is a small matter. Perhaps sometimes it may be. The most horrible dreams are, however, due to affections of the nerves. Irritated, tired, worn out nerves are one of the chief causes of indigestion. More than that, they are a continual strain and drain on the brain. They are sapping the vitality of the brain every instant in the day. By the time night comes, the brain is too tired to rest. It is an unnatural conditon of fatigue. The little worries and irritations of the day find repetition at night in the form of dirty, muddy water, filled with slimy, crawling things, from which the most frantic efforts give no relief until the sufferer finds himself wide awake, sitting up in his bed, with sleep banished for that night. That is nervousness, perhaps caused by, or causing, indigestion, and producing insomnia—sleeplessness. It doesn't take a man long to wear out with that sort of work. The day after a night full of horrible dreams is not likely to be a good day for business. A man's work for that day is not likely to be very valuable—nor the woman's either.

There is a cure for bad dreams, sleeplessness, indigestion, brain fatigue and debility. Its name—"The Golden Medical Discovery," called so because its discoverer knew that it was more valuable to the world than the discovery of gold in California, or Australia, or Africa. It makes what is far more precious than the finest gold—good health. It purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, aids digestion, invigorates the action of every organ in the body, and produces firm, solid, healthy flesh. It will fill out the cheek-hollows of bloodless, pale women and nerveless, lifeless men. It is sold by druggists, and there is nothing "just as good."

A LOSS DEEPLY FELT.

Ex-Governor Russell Passes Away In a Lonely Camp In Quebec.

End Was Sudden and Apparently Without Pain.

Short Life Was Full of Accomplishments Attained by But Few.

St. Adelaide de Pabos, Que., July 17.—Ex-Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts died in the camp of B. F. Dutton of Boston, on the Petit Pabos river, many miles inland from this point.

The ex-governor arrived here Wednesday, acompanied by his brother, Colonel Henry E. Russell, and Francis Peabody, and immediately left for the camp in the upper country.

Wednesday night all the members of the party retired in apparent good health. They were a bit weary from their long journey, but the ex-governor appeared as lively and happy as any. He was pleased to be in the wilds once more, there in the freedom of the woods and streams to regain the strength that had been severely taxed during the stormy days of the recent convention at Chicago.

In a few hours all was changed. He who was so eager to enter upon the recreations of woodland life, was found cold in death at the first gray light of dawn. Some time during the night he had peacefully passed away. His death was undoubtedly painless, for the expression of calm content that marked his countenance gave sufficient proof of that. The discovery was made by his companions, who attempted to arouse him in vain.

It was a terrible shock to his friends, but they nerved themselves to the sorrowful task of making arrangements for the removal of the body, in order that it might be conveyed to his own beloved state at the earliest possible moment.

The camp guide was dispatched to this point at once and telegraphed messages sent to relatives and friends in Boston. One message was sent to Joseph B. Russell, brother of the ex-governor, saying: "Will found dead in bed this morning. Death painless; probably heart disease. Will leave for Boston with body."

That the announcement of the sad event was not made sooner is due to the fact that this little hamlet in Gaspe county is in a remote section of the province of Quebec, and the camp on the Pabos is a long distance from this point. It is a great salmon fishing country, and the Massachusetts party were anticipating that sport.

St. Adelaide is fully 450 miles from Quebec, and practically out of the world, so to speak. The natural route in reaching the spot where the ex-governor now lies dead is via the Grand Trunk to Quebec, from Montreal, thence over the Intercolonial railway to Dalhousie, N. B., and from the latter place by steamer to Gaspe, at the entrance of Baie de Chaleur, Gulf of St. Lawrence. The steamer makes but two trips a day, and before the news of ex-Governor Russell's death reached this point it had started back for Dalhousie.

The body of ex-Governor Russell was brought down from the camp last night, reaching here at 11 o'clock.

The Canadian government steamer Admiral arrived here this morning. The body was placed on board the Admiral on her arrival and is on the way to Dalhousie, where it will be put on a train for Boston, which it is expected will be reached Sunday morning.

The coroner's jury pronounced heart disease the cause of death.

A Brilliant Career.

William Eustis Russell, the youngest candidate but one ever elected to the office of chief executive of the state of Massachusetts, was a native of Cambridge. He was a son of Charles Theodore Russell, one of the most eminent lawyers in the state, and was born Jan. 6, 1857. Mr. Russell's career had been remarkable from the first. He was a particularly bright lad, and always stood well in his classes while attending the public schools of Cambridge. In 1873 he entered Harvard, where he was diligent in his studies, yet finding opportunity for athletic sports, in which he took great interest, and with his teachers as well as with his classmates he was a general favorite. He was graduated in 1877, and then entered the law school of Boston university, finishing his course at that institution in 1879 at the head of his class. He won the Lawrence prize for the finest essay, and delivered the class oration at commencement; and he received the first summa cum laude ever given by that law school. In 1880 he was admitted to the Suffolk bar, and began practice in the firm of Messrs. C. T. & T. H. Russell, attorneys.

Mr. Russell soon became interested in politics, as a Democrat, and his clear ideas, expressed in a pleasing oratorical manner, quickly brought him into notice. In 1881 he was elected to the Cambridge common council, and for the two years following he was a member of the Cambridge board of aldermen. In 1884 he was elected mayor of Cambridge, the youngest man ever chosen to that position, and for four years he continued in office, displaying marked acumen and executive ability, and meeting the many intricate questions which came before him with judgment and decision that commanded the respect and admiration even of his political opponents.

In 1888 he was induced to accept the Democratic nomination for governor, a seemingly hopeless fight in a state that was strongly Republican, and having as a rival a popular candidate. He stumped the state for Cleveland and tariff reform, and reduced the Republican plurality very materially at the fall election. In 1889 he was again the candidate, making a stalwart fight, and the Republican nominee, ex-Governor Brackett, barely escaped defeat.

With that perseverance which had brought him success on other occasions, he again ran for governor in 1890, and was elected by a large majority, although the remainder of the ticket, with one exception, was Republican. In 1891 he was renominated and re-elected, and again in 1892.

Governor Russell was a gentleman of pleasing address, a magnetic speaker, and displayed a maturity of ideas and a knowledge of public affairs far beyond his years. He was offered the nomination for congressman from the Fifth congressional district in 1886, but declined the honor. He was presiding officer at the convention of Democratic clubs in Baltimore, July 4, 1888. He had been president of the alumni of the law school of Boston university since 1884, and also president of the Middlesex County Democratic club. He was a member of the Union club, Boston.

He was married on June 3, 1885, at Cambridge, to Miss Margaret Manning, daughter of the late Rev. Joshua Swan of Cambridge; they had two children.

"I Have Finished."

Ex-Governor Russell's last public utterance was at the Democratic national convention in Chicago on Thursday last. He followed Senator Vilas of Wisconsin

STORE ENTERED.

Two Boys Promptly Arrested Upon Suspicion in Boston.

The variety store of Joseph Malanti on President's avenue, South Quincy, was entered by burglars early Thursday morning, by forcing a window in the rear. Once inside they helped themselves to cigars, tobacco, fruit, what little change there was in the money draw, and before they left, in order to have something to chew on their way out of town, some three pounds of molasses kisses were taken, the total value being about $7.

During the early morning hours, Thursday, Officer Neagle of Station 4, Boston, saw two young fellows near the Old Colony depot trying to dispose of a miscellaneous lot of articles consisting of tobacco, etc., and as they could not tell a straight story as to how they came into their possession the officer placed them under arrest, and having his suspicions that they might have come from Quincy, the police in this city were notified. Having been previously notified by Malanti of the break, Officer McKay went in town and brought out the boys.

The fellows gave their names as Thomas C. Lucas, aged 20 years of Campello, and Albert E. McAdam, aged 17 years of Montello. They said they came to Quincy the day before and prowled about and slept that night in a freight car, and the next morning broke into Malanti's store.

They were arraigned in court this morning.

Ladies' Day Weather for Ladies' Day Yesterday.

A Large Fleet of Boats in the Review and Sail.

The Hop in the Evening a Brilliant Affair.

It was almost a perfect day that greeted the Quincy Yacht Club Thursday afternoon at their annual ladies' day observance, the only thing lacking if anything being a sufficient breeze, but the weather may have been to order, ladies' weather.

This is the leading social event of the year in yachting circles along the South Shore and the warm afternoon sun brought out hosts of pretty girls of every age who were for the most part arrayed in natty yachting togs and prepared to enjoy to its fullest capacity the programme provided for their entertainment by the committee in charge.

Visitors were present from all parts of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and from all the yachting centres in Boston harbor. Many embraced the opportunity for a sail in the harbor, yet there were scores who from preference remained ashore and watched the gay scene from the broad verandas of the club house. Secretary Whiting also remained ashore and looked after their comfort, as well as to receive those who were late in arriving, and to his assiduous efforts much of the success is due.

At the outer porch, Officer Geo. McKay was on duty, while handsome Jim Murray guarded the entrance from the water side, and as all were obliged to show their cards of admission to these officers before entering, the committee in charge knew just who and how many were to be provided for and this year there were none who went away unsatisfied.

COMMODORE PETTENGILL

Shortly after 2 o'clock Commodore Pettengill steamed down from Quincy Point in the Columbia with a large party of friends, and came to anchor off the club-house. Promptly at 2.45 the preparatory gun was fired, and for the next fifteen minutes the the skippers were kept busy getting their precious freight on board the yachts.

Meanwhile, the course flag had been hoisted, and promptly at 3 o'clock came the signal to get away. The fleet passed in review of the Commodore's boat, each saluting as they passed, and receiving a gun.

There was but a light breeze at this time, and before the sail was finished it had died down almost into a drifting match, which made it rather slow work in landing.

Commodore Pettengill gave his guests on the flagship a fine sail. They embarked from Quincy Point at 1.45, steamed to the club house, and after the review followed the boats to Jack-knife ledge buoy, thence around Sheep island and through the gut toward Squantum, and back to the club house float.

Immediately after the return, T. D. Cook served a lunch of sandwiches and cream in the hall, and this interesting part of the programme consumed the most of the time until 7 o'clock, at which hour dancing was commenced. From then until 10 o'clock the goddess of dancing held full sway.

Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the day, and one and all voted it the best yet.

The yachts to participate in the sail, and their guests, were:

Good Blood

Is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health. Impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. It creates a good appetite, gives refreshing sleep and cures that tired feeling. Remember,

Emery—White.

One of the most fashionable marriages which has been solemnized at Wollaston for some time was the Emery-White marriage, which took place at the First Baptist church, on Thursday evening, before an audience of relatives and friends of the contracting parties, which completely filled the edifice.

The contracting parties were Miss Grace Wollaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Emery of Lincoln avenue, and Mr. Hartley Laurington White of the civil engineering firm of White & Wetherbee of Brockton.

The ceremony, which took place at the First Baptist church at eight o'clock, was performed by the Rev. Preston Gurney, pastor of that society, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Hay of the New Jerusalem church of Brockton.

As the bridal procession moved up the aisle to meet the groom and his best man, Mr. George H. Wetherbee, Jr., his business partner, organist Pratt played the Wedding March from Lohengrin, and, as the party returned, Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The bride was gowned in an ivory-white gros grain silk, en train and high neck, with garniture of pearl; the veil being fastened by a sunburst of opals and pearls, confining sprays of lily of the valley. She carried a bouquet of the same flowers and maiden hair fern. The bride was attended by the maid of honor, her sister, Miss Sadie F. Emery. Miss Emery wore a white organdie, simply trimmed with white satin ribbon, the round neck having a garniture of daybreak pinks. She carried in her hand a bouquet made of the same flowers.

The ushers were Mr. Justin F. and Mr. Frank A. Emery, brothers of the bride, Mr. Charles L. Hammond of Atlantic, Mr. Fred. R. French, Mr. Wm. L. Puffer, and Mr. Oscar B. Leonard, of Brockton.

The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride with ferns, potted plants and wild flowers.

After the ceremony a reception was given to the members of the family at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. White were assisted in receiving by the maid of honor and the best man. The many beautiful gifts which Mr. and Mrs. White received were on view.

After the reception they left for a short tour among the mountains. They will spend the summer at the Webster house at Franklin Falls, N. H., where Mr. White is superintending the construction of a system of sewerage for that city. After that work is completed they will reside in Braintree.

Music Hall, Atlantic.

A temperance rally was held in Music Hall, Atlantic, Thursday evening given by Faxon lodge, No. 228, of I. O. G. T. of Atlantic.

Mr. P. J. Chisholm of Wollaston Lodge was in charge of the meeting. Prominent speakers presided including representatives from other lodges. One from Washington, D. C., and one from Nova Scotia.

A splendid programme was announced by Brother Chisholm, at the end of which was served lemonade.

Attendance 150, lodges represented 20.

Real Estate.

The A. W. Blanchard real estate agency, offices at Weymouth and 40 Water Street, Boston, have sold for the estate of the late Samuel Hollis of Braintree, the house on Taylor street, Wollaston, to Mrs. Mary D. Porter. The estate comprises 6,030 feet of land and a seven room house.

—Small families are hardly the rule among the English "upper ten." The average is seven or eight. The Queen is the mother of nine and the Princess of Wales of six children; Lord Abergavenny is the proud father of ten, the Duke of Argyll of twelve, the beautiful Countess of Dudley is the mother of seven, the Earl of Ellesmere boasts of eleven, the Earl of Inchiquin of twelve, the Earl of Leicester of fifteen and the Duke of Westminster of eleven.

—John Q. A. Brackett, John D. Long, William Claflin and George S. Boutwell are the only living ex-Governors of Massachusetts.

OUR LIGHT SYSTEM.

Experts Make a Good Report After Inspection.

No Doubt But Company is Meeting Requirements of Contract.

Up to the Standard and Better Than Average Plants.

Much has been said first and last in the Legislature and the City Council about the Electric Light Co., and it has been frequently alluded to as an antiquated plant that had outlived its usefulness, that its current was not up to the required standard, and that the employes were incompetent, and in justice to the company it is only fair, in view of the fact that the hearing before the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners has fallen through, to give part of the testimony of the company that would have been presented.

In the first place all of the employes are working under licenses granted by the State inspector who was in Quincy a few weeks ago.

It was also stated in Wednesday's LEDGER that experts had been in town examining the plant, and an abstract from their report will be of interest. Mr. F. M. Kimball, general manager of the light and supply department of the General Electric Co., and Walter Eaton, electrician of the Cambridge Electric Light Co., after stating that they found the apparatus of modern type and everything in good order, and having been assured that no extra care was exercised in anticipation of the test, say:

"It is an established commercial fact, recognized by representative electrical people, that the consumption of 6.8 amperes of current at 45 volts, in the arc of a lamp gives, if the lamp be in good order and a good grade of carbon be used, an amount of light nominally called 1200 candle power, and as all the apparatus appertaining to your plant shows that you are actually expending this amount of energy, through properly constructed and operated lamps, I have no doubt whatever, but that you are completely meeting the requirements of your contract.

"Careful tests in the station, each of five minutes' duration, this time being sufficiently long for the lamps in the circuit to feed and thereby show any variations if such existed, showed that the current on circuit No. 1 remain within the limits of 6.7 amperes mimimum and 7 amperes maximum; No. 2 circuit from 6.7 minimum to 6.9 maximum; No. 3 circuit from 6.7 minimum to 7.1 maximum, and No. 4 circuit 6.8 with so small variations from this value that they could not be accurately read on the instruments. These readings were taken at 8 P. M., and the results are very much better than we ordinarily find with composite station of the size of your own."

W. M. Densing and B. F. Simmons of the General Electric Co. state "That they inspected the lines and fixtures, and considering the foliage and other difficulties which you have to contend with in Quincy, we consider the lines in good condition and the fixtures and appliances used are, with a few exceptions, of the same general type now on the market. The lines are free from grounds and the machines in good conditions. The circuits tested at different times during the evening were found at the normal point in all but one or two instances in which we found the lamp a little out of adjustment, but as it is impossible to keep such a large number of arcs in a perfect condition all the time this is hardly a defect in the system. These tests were made from 7.45 to 10 P. M. and the variation during the evening was not more than one-tenth of an ampere above or below the normal point In conclusion we can say that the lighting service on both series, incandescent and arc lamps is up to the standard and even better than the average of plants in New England."

Two for Quincy.

Article XXI of the Constitution of Massachusetts requires that the Norfolk County commissioners shall meet at Dedham, Tuesday, August 4, to divide Norfolk county (exclusive of Cohasset) into thirteen Representative districts. The same number as at present, but towns have gained differently in number of legal voters so that there will be some changes of district boundaries. Quincy hopes to form one district, entitled to two representatives. The law says the districts shall be of contiguous territory, so as to apportion the representatives assigned to each county equally, as nearly as may be, according to the relative number of legal voters in the several districts of each county, and such districts shall be so formed that no town or ward of a city shall be divided therefor, nor shall any district be made which shall be entitled to elect more than three representatives.

Methodist Picnic.

A large number of the members and friends of the Methodist Sunday School of Atlantic enjoyed their annual picnic on Wednesday. Debarring the morning shower it was an ideal day and an ideal picnic. A happier lot of children never enjoyed a day's sports. The ice cream from Henry H. Faxon was greatly appreciated.

BOAT OVERTURNED.

Many Men Lost Their Lives In a Wild Scramble Which Followed.

Cleveland, July 17.—At 8 o'clock last night, while a flat-bottomed ferryboat loaded with laborers, was crossing the Old river channel, it was capsized. All the men were thrown into the channel, and between 15 and 20 were drowned.

The accident was due to a panic among the men on board. The boat was so loaded that the gunwale was only three inches above the water, and a passing tug made waves which came into the bow. At once there was a rush to the other side, and the boat went under and spilled the men. They were all members of a gang of ore handlers, and were going to their homes.

The scene was one of wild struggle for life. Lines and life preservers were thrown from the tug and the steamer Langdon, and many of the men in the water were pulled aboard. Others were rescued by small boats, and some swam ashore.

The life saving crew was summoned, and the work of searching for bodies at once began.

Those who escaped scattered in every direction, and it is uncertain just how many lives were lost, but 20 men were reported missing.

The crowding of the boat was due to the fact that the ore gangs pay just so much per trip on the ferry, and the more men that get on the less the cost per passenger.

The scenes on the streets where most of the men lived were indescribable. Men, women and children were running about screaming, and the disorder makes it impossible to get intelligent stories from those who were rescued. The men were mainly Germans or Poles, and their families cannot speak English.

An immense crowd gathered on the banks of the river watching the work of the boats conducting the search. Among them was William Benlow, a pressman. In moving about he fell into the river and was drowned.

The actions of some undertakers were disgusting. They almost came to blows in their anxiety to gain possession of the bodies, and the police had to interfere.

The bodies of the following were found:

Charles Sproeke, William Saunders, August Hasten, Michael Lynch, Fritz Fortels, Chris Gerlach, —— Prokup, Charles Bohermester, Julius Erkhe, Chris Gohren, Charles Kraus, Edward Ryan; two unknown men.

Miss Tillman Killed.

Columbia, S. C., July 17.—Miss Addie Tillman, eldest child of Senator Tillman, and her escort, Rev. Robert A. Lee, pastor of the Episcopal church at Yorkville, this state, were killed by the same bolt of lightning at Brevard, N. C. They were in a horseback party, and had started to ascend Rich mountain. When nearly at the summit a thunder storm overtook the party, and they sought shelter under some bushes, near which was a large oak tree. The tree was struck by lightning, which instantly killed Miss Tillman, Mr. Lee and their horses.

Costly Blaze at Haverhil.

Haverhill, Mass., July 17.—The four-story wooden building in the rear of Washington square, occupied by Lennox & Briggs as a morocco factory, and Chase & Laubhan as an electric power station, was gutted by fire this morning. Two alarms called out the entire department. The fire probably started from the boiler in the portion occupied by the electric power plant. The machinery and contents are practically a total loss. The building was thoroughly saturated with oil, and the fire made a clean sweep from top to bottom. The total loss is $32,000.

CONFESSION OF GUILT.

Suicide of Frank Thomas, a Prosperous Farmer, Thus Regarded.

Wife Recently Died Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Blew His Brains Out When the Authorities Began to Investigate.

Bangor, Me., July 17.—Presque Isle people were shocked yesterday to learn of the suicide of a prominent citizen, and his death exposes what is supposed to have been a terrible tragedy, which has been a mystery. The suicide was Frank C. Thomas, who had a large farm and was in prosperous circumstances. The facts which led up to his tragic death had their origin several years ago, and are substantially as follows:

Ten years ago Thomas married a Miss Clark, a fine, intelligent, respectable young lady, then 19 years of age. Soon after their married life began domestic troubles commenced to multiply. Thomas became ugly and abusive, and his treatment was so inhuman that her mind gave way under the terrible strain, and she became insane. This was five years ago. She was taken to the Augusta hospital, where she remained until last April.

When she was brought home last Friday there was a party for the young girl, 9 years old, and Mrs. Thomas was feeling as well as usual. That night, however, she was taken with convulsions and soon expired. She was buried Sunday.

Certain circumstances connected with her death led her father and her brothers to enter a complaint of their suspicions, claiming she had been poisoned. County Attorney Lumbert was notified, and directed Drs. Boone, Upham and Sawyer to make an investigation. The remains were taken up Tuesday, the contents of the stomach removed and forwarded, under charge of Deputy Sheriff King, to Augusta, to State Chemist Robinson, for analysis.

These proceedings had gone on so quietly that Thomas did not hear of them until Wednesday night. He retired as usual, arose early, as was his custom, yesterday morning, and started for the barn, carrying his gun with him. Two young men saw him and followed him, but he sent them to the field, on a pretext. He then deliberately sat down on a "jigger," placed the muzzle to his head and pulled the trigger. The top of his head was blown off, and he died instantly.

Word was at once sent to the coroner at Fort Fairfield. It is supposed he poisoned his wife, and from fear of detection took his own life. Six years ago Thomas was accused of incendiarism, but the charge could not be sustained. His father died last March under very similar conditions to those surrounding the death of his wife, and it is now claimed that he killed him. The family here is now wiped out, except a little girl, 9 years old. Thomas was 45 year old, and has several brothers in Pennsylvania.

Cold Comfort For Creditors.

New Haven, July 17.—A final report has been filed by General S. E. Merwin, as trustee of the insolvent estate of Quigley & Tuttle, the New York brokers. The estate will pay 13 mills on the dollar as a dividend. The liabilities of the concern were $287,299.04, and the trustee has been able to scrape up $3734.39 in assets. That will allow the payment of the 13-mill dividend. Tuttle settled his individual estate by paying between 6 and 7 per cent to his creditors. Quigley is now in Sing Sing, serving a term for issuing bogus bonds.

Severed From the World.

Fitchburg, Mass., July 1.—Miss Alice Marks of this city, Miss Katherine Riley of Cork, Ire.; Miss Rose Gillivan of County Meath, Ire.; Miss Alice Jennings of Halifax, who have worn the white veil in the Presentation convent for two years, took the black veil yesterday, the services of profession being conducted by Rev. NEURALGIA

He Is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

A LOSS DEEPLY FELT.

in making a hopeless stand for the adoption of the minority report of the committee on resolutions. His great effort made him conspicuous in the convention, and won the respect of his silver opponents. The concluding portion of the speech follows:

WILLIAM EUSTIS RUSSELL.

"In the details of this convention I have heard one false note from the commonwealth of Massachusetts. I answer it not in anger, but in sorrow. And I appeal to you, my associates of the Massachusetts delegation, do I not speak the true sentiments of our state and our party when I utter their and your earnest, emphatic and unflinching protest against the platform of this convention.

"I have heard from the lips of some of the old leaders of your party at whose feet we younger men have lived to learn our Democracy, that this new departure was the bright dawn of a better day. I would to God I could believe it. I have heard that Democracy was being tied to a star. Yes, but not to the lone star, my Texan friends; that we would welcome, but I fear to the falling star, which flashes for the instant and then goes out in the dimness of the night.

"No, my friends, we see not the dawn, but the darkness of division and defeat. Oh, that from this great majority there might come the word of concession and conciliation. Oh, that the olive branch of peace might be lifted to bind us together heart and soul, as of old.

"I know the binding force of instructions, but no convention has sent a delegate to rigidly control his conscience in the face of this evident peril.

"I have finished. I have finished my word of protest.

"In closing, let me speak a word of prophecy, uttered with the love and loyalty which would rally all Democrats under the old flag: When this storm has subsided and the dark clouds of passion and of prejudice have passed away, and there comes after the turmoil of this convention the sober second thought, then the protest we of the minority here make will be hailed as the ark of the covenant of our faith, where, reunited, we shall meet to carry our old principles again to triumphant victory."

Cleveland Grieved.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 17.—President Cleveland keenly feels the death of William E. Russell, and expressed his sorrow in the following tribute: "My personal relations were so intimate and close with ex-Governor Russell that I could not but be terribly shocked at the news of his sudden death. While this intelligence has caused me to mourn the personal loss, I cannot forget Mr. Russell's eminent public services, and his attributes of bravery and patriotism, which made him so valuable a citizen, especially at this time, when courageous adherences to the right and unfaltering advocacy of sound principles are so much needed. It may, therefore, well be said that the country has suffered a bereavement. The people of Massachusetts surely cannot fail to mourn throughout the length and breadth of the commonwealth, the untimely death of a son whose career has at all times reflected honor upon his native state."

Boston Mourns.

Boston, July 17.—The first news of ex-Governor Russell's death was received with almost absolute incredulity on the streets of this city. Even members of the law firm with which he was associated refused to look upon the matter seriously when asked if they were able to verify the rumor of the ex-governor's death. It was not until after the press wires had been busy for some time that verification of the sad news was obtained, and there was no further hope that the story was unfounded. The first news was contained in the following telegram to Joseph B. Russell, brother of the ex-governor, signed by Colonel Harry E. Russell: "Will found dead in bed this morning. Death painless. Probably heart disease. Start for Boston at once."

Hon. George Fred Williams said: "He had a very remarkable personality. He was an honorable opponent under all circumstances. In positions of responsibility he always employed himself with dignity, and never lost sight of responsibility. No doubt the intensity of his nature made political life a severe tax upon his physical system. I have no doubt that the strain of political work sapped his vigor and aggravated his weakness."

No tribute, probably, was voiced with such evidence of strong emotion as ex-Governor John D. Long's. He seemed profoundly affected by the news. Having been asked had he learned of Mr. Russell's death, he replied in the affirmative. "I heard it with unutterable sadness," he said, repeating the last phrase with regretful emphasis many times. "The sympathy I have to express is the deepest. It is a sadder case than the usual one of a man ripe in years, who had fulfilled his mission. He was only 40, and had years of usefulness and service to his country before him."

Mayor Quincy said: "He leaves behind him an unusually wide circle of personal friends, who will deeply mourn his untimely end, in early manhood, just as his powers had fully matured. He will hold a unique place in the political history of the Democratic party and the commonwealth.

The Reform club of Massachusetts, at its dinner held yesterday, took action on the death of ex-Governor Russell, the following resolutions being adopted:

"Whereas, it has pleased God to take from our midst our beloved fellow citizen and friend, William Eustis Russell, ere yet he had achieved the full measure of greatness for which his remarkable qualities gave promise;

"Resolved, That the Reform Club of Massachusetts, while bowing sorrowfully to the divine will, rises to express a keen sense of the great loss which has fallen upon us all and upon the state.

"Eloquent, impressive, earnest, he swayed men's minds.

"Brave, strong and true, he won the admiration of all who knew him.

"Upright, wise and pure, he served his God and his state as an honored citizen and wise ruler."

Whitney's Tribute.

New York, July 17.—William C. Whitney paid William E. Russell a loyal tribute last night. Mr. Russell was a member of Mr. Whitney's party, which went to the Chicago convention in a private car.

"My last intimate association with Governor Russell at Chicago," said Mr. Whitney, "makes this news more shocking than I can express. I have never known a better man in a fight—always willing, steady and reliable; right minded and abundantly trustworthy; ready to take any part and ready to do any part well, and with it all genial and full of fun. I became very much attached to him. We all parted with him on the platform of the Albany station last Saturday, with a real feeling of regret. In my judgment, there was no man of his age in the United States with greater promise of usefulness and honor, and almost none with more capacity for valuable service to the public. To be able to present political truth in a way to reach the popular mind is a great faculty. He had it. His is a great loss."

The board of trustees of the Reform club, of which organization ex-Governor Russell was a member, adopted resolutions of respect last night. They read as follows: "Resolved, That in the untimely death of W. E. Russell, the cause of good government has lost an able, fearless and devoted champion, the nation one of the best citizens, and this club one of its most distinguished and honored members. Resolved, That the respectful sympathy of the members of this club be tendered to the widow and family of the deceased statesman."

At the Stricken Home.

Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., July 17.—Mrs. William E. Russell and her three children, William Eustis, Jr., Richard Manning and Margeret, who are spending the summer in a quiet cottage overlooking the bay, were in ignorance of the cloud of sadness overhanging them until 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a telegram from Colonel Harry E. Russell was received, announcing the death of the husband and father of this little family. Apparently dazed at first, Mrs. Russell, as the significance of the sad news grew upon her, seemed to be bearing up well. Ex-Governor Russell's brother, Joseph B., arrived just after 3 o'clock. Profound grief at the news is expressed on every side here.

Bryan's Sympathy.

Kansas City, July 17.—Just before his train left Sedalia, Mr. Bryan received a telegram announcing the sudden death of ex-Governor Russell. Mr. Bryan at once indited the following telegram to Mrs. Russell: "I have just learned of the sudden death of Governor Russell, and hasten to express to you my profound sympathy. Your husband's friends were legion, and they all share your sorrow."

Loss to Whole Country.

Bath, Me., July 17.—Arthur Sewall was deeply touched on the receipt of a message announcing ex-Governor Russell's death. In an interview he said: "I wish to add my tribute to the memory of William E. Russell, a statesman and a citizen of high and noble character. In his death the country has met with a great loss, which must deeply touch the hearts of every true American."

Hibernians on Parade.

Detroit, July 17.—Yesterday's business session of the Hibernians' international convention was devoted mainly to discussions of, and amendments to the by-laws of the A. O. H. The feature yesterday was an imposing street parade. The Detroit and Windsor (Ont.) Catholic military and civil organizations, the Hibernian Knights from Toledo, and several bands escorted along the line the delegations of A. O. H. through the principal avenues of the city. The Stars and Stripes and green flags were carried side by side, and large crowds gathered along the line of march.

Up to Old Tricks.

London, July 17.—A dispatch from Constantinople asserts that a massacre has occurred at Egin, in the Diarbekir district of Armenia, in which 400 persons were killed, and the city was pillaged. The Turkish authorities are trying to keep the report of the massacre secret. In the Bitlis district almost every village has been ruined, and a massacre is imminent at Aintab, the beginning being deferred until an order is received from the sultan's palace.

Work For Five Thousand.

Shenandoah, Pa., July 17.—It is announced that the Lehigh valley collieries in this vicinity, 10 in number, will resume work on full time, beginning next Monday. This affects about 5000 hands.

Christians Holding Their Own.

Canea, July 17.—Fighting in the Apokorona district of the Island of Crete continues. The Turkish troops make little progress against the Christian Cretans.

HEEDLESS WOMEN.

They Pay a Sad Penalty for Their Neglect

If women only heeded first symptoms—nervousness, backache, headache, lassitude, loss of appetite and sleep; palpitation, melancholy, "blues," etc., and at once removed the cause with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, there would be much less suffering. But they are careless, or their physician is to blame, and they drift into some distressing female disease. The Vegetable Compound at once removes all irregularities of the monthly period: inflammation, ulceration and displacement of the womb, and all female troubles. All druggists have it. Write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., if you wish for advice, which she will give you free.

"I should not be alive to-day, if it had not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was suffering greatly from an attack of female weakness, and nothing I had tried could give me relief; when by the advice of a friend I began the Compound. After using it two months I was a different girl, and now at the end of six I am entirely cured."—MRS. ANNIE KIRKLAND, Patchogue, L. I.

A Milton Candidate.

A Young Men's Republican club was organized at Milton Tuesday evening. Mr. Merrill Brown was elected president, and Arthur A. Hibbard was elected secretary. The club starts out with a big membership. It was voted to support Mr. E. D. Wadsworth for County Commissioner. He has all the qualifications for the position, and he will have the endorsement of all the big taxpayers of this wealthy town.

—Small families are hardly the rule among the English "upper ten." The average is seven or eight. The Queen is the mother of nine and the Princess of Wales of six children; Lord Abergavenny is the proud father of ten, the Duke of Argyll of twelve, the beautiful Countess of Dudley is the mother of seven, the Earl of Ellesmere boasts of eleven, the Earl of Inchiquin of twelve, the Earl of Leicester of fifteen and the Duke of Westminster of eleven.

—Among the ignorant and the unwashed the term "goldbug" is used to signify one who seeks to "down" the masses. To the clear-headed thinker and the clean-living toiler, to him who believes in political as well as personal honesty, it means the man who wishes to give the masses the very best there is afloat.—Free Press.

—The pen that wrote and signed the Proclamation of Emancipation, is in the possession of Charles J. Livermore, of Melrose, Mass. It was given by Lincoln to Charles Sumner to be handed to Mr. Lincoln's friend, George Livermore of Cambridge, who was the father of the present owner. Although a common steel pen, money could not buy it from its present owner.

—According to the American standard one ounce of gold will coin $18.60; 16 ounces of silver will also coin $18.60. But the 16 ounces of silver can be bought today for $9.94 in gold; therefore if the people vote for free coinage, 16 to 1, those who have the gold can make $8.66 on every ounce; unless the silver dollar depreciates so as not to be worth only about 50 cents.

—John Q. A. Brackett, John D. Long, William Claflin and George S. Boutwell are the only living ex-Governors of Massachusetts.

IN A DEAD FAINT.

A Randolph Man Causes Excitement at West Quincy.

Cyrus N. Thayer, who drives a butcher wagon from Randolph, was cutting a piece of meat in his cart near the West Quincy depot this morning, when he was suddenly seen to reel and fall into the street. He was carried into the residence of Mrf. La-Pierre, and physicians telephoned for. Dr. Davis was the first to reach the scene, and after working over him for some moments succeeded in bringing him back to life. He is still very weak and is at Mr. La Pierre's.

While Dr. Davis was at work upon the man the rumor was started that a man had dropped dead at the South Quincy depot and Chief of Police Hayden, Inspector McKay, Dr. Ash and a LEDGER reporter hastened to the scene. Arriving at South Quincy nothing was found, but it was learned by telephone that the man was at the West Quincy depot.

Meanwhile Medical Examiner Gilbert had been notified that there was a dead man at the West Quincy depot and he dispatched the ambulance to that place.

When the ambulance arrived they found no one to care for and returned.

It was given out that Mr. Thayer fell in a fainting spell.

LIVELY MORNING BLAZE.

A House on California Avenue Damaged About $500.

The alarm from Box 45 at 7.20 o'clock this morning called the department to a lively blaze on California avenue in a house owned by the heirs of the Haggerty estate and occupied by Timothy Morrison.

Morrison has a little store in the front part of the house for the sale of tonics, cigars, tobacco, etc., and the fire is supposed to have been started beneath the counter in the store by children playing with matches.

The store part was completely gutted and the upper rooms were badly scorched and also wet down with water, although there was but little fire reached this part.

The fire's progress was so rapid that it was impossible to get any of the furniture out and it was damaged considerably by smoke and water.

The loss on the house is about $500, and Mr. Morrison estimates his loss at $200 which will be a total loss, as he had no insurance.

Merit Wins Favor.

At this time, when the cry from all sides is "hard times," it is refreshing to meet a concern plucky enough to push forward to greater success. We refer to the New York Condensed Milk Co., manufacturers of the justly famous Gail Borden Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, which has placed in operation four large manufacturing plants during the past twelve months. This gives them altogether fifteen factories making the Company the largest and most important condensing company in the world, possessing most of the home market and the largest share of the export trade.

There is something besides pluck and enterprise that has built up this enormous business. The genuine merit of the Gail Borden Eagle Brand Condensed Milk is recognized by all intelligent housekeepers, and has become a necessity in the home. As an infant food, it is without an equal and the hundreds of thousands of children successfully raised on it constitute testimonials of merit which are available everywhere. "Infant Health," a valuable book of information for mothers, will be sent free to all on application to the New York Condensed Milk Co., New York City.

Braintree Red Men.

The following chiefs of Nahanton Tribe, I. O. R. M., No. 81, were raised up Friday evening by D. G. S. William A. Jordan and suite of Wollaston, in their hall on Pearl street:

Prophet—A. L. Litchfield.
Sachem—F. A. Mansfield.
Senior Sagamore—George H. Jones.
Junior Sagamore—E. D. Bacon.
First Sanap—Edward E. Jackson.
Second Sanap—J. Syphus.
G. of W.—Charles Custance.
G. of F.—Charles A. Hobart.

A collation followed, and speech making was in order until a late hour.

Summer Vacation.

The Universalist church will be closed until the first Sunday in September. It is impossible for Rev. H. L. Canfield, who had been engaged for the last two Sundays in July, to be present, which will be a great disappointment to many. Owing to the lateness the news was received, and the absence of the pastor, who is enjoying his vacation in New Hampshire, it has been decided best to close during the heated term.

—A very interesting experiment was made on April 17 last at Messrs. Menzel & Company's paper and wood pulp manufactory, at Elsenthal, in order to ascertain what was the shortest space of time in which it was possible to convert the wood of a standing tree into paper, and the latter into a journal ready for delivery. Time, two hours and twenty-five minutes. This experiment is of extreme importance, because it shows what rapidity can be attained by the concurrence of practical machines and favorable conditions.

OPPONENTS OF BRYAN

Will Name Towne For President on the Ticket of Populists.

Bryan Receives a Generous Ovation at Lincoln.

Chairman Faulkner Will Do His Best to Secure Bryan's Election.

St. Louis, July 18.—Charles A. Towne of Duluth, who represents the Sixth district in congress, and who was one of the delegates who walked out of the Republican national convention in St. Louis with Senator Teller, will be put forward as a presidential candidate by prominent Populists at the convention next week. A conference which broke up at midnight decided upon this course as the best to counteract the movement for Bryan. At the conference were six prominent silver men and 10 leading Populists, who came together informally to discuss the political situation. It was also decided that with his name should be presented a platform of principles which has been prepared by "Cyclone" Davis, the Populist leader of Texas. It is not known exactly what this platform is, but it will, no doubt, conform closely to the one adopted in Omaha.

CONGRESSMAN CHARLES A. TOWNE.

Charles A. Towne is only 38 years of age, and is serving his first term in congress. Last winter he delivered in congress one of the most brilliant silver speeches ever heard there. When he returned to Duluth from the St. Louis convention, Congressman Towne was met by 10,000 people, who gave him a grand ovation.

MULTITUDE'S PLAUDITS

Greeted Mr. and Mrs. Bryan on Their Return to Their Nebraska Home.

Lincoln, Neb., July 18.—Mr. Bryan returned last evening to his home in this city, to be greeted by a majority of the citizens of Lincoln, who made more noise over his return than Chicago did over the nomination.

His reception by the people of his home city was one of which any man might be justly proud. The enthusiasm and the ardor of the western people over their first presidential candidate found vent in all sorts of manifestations.

A public reception was held at the state house. It was the spontaneous action of the people of the city.

When the reception was over, Mr. Bryan went to a platform, where he addressed what is said to have been the largest congregation of people ever assembled in Lincoln. There was no introductory speeches. When he came forward he was received with applause. Mr. Bryan said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: I am proud tonight to be able to say of those who are assembled here, 'These are our neighbors.' I beg to express to Republicans, Democrats, Populists, Prohibitionists and all of all parties, the gratitude which we feel for this magnificent compliment. I say 'we' because those who have shared my struggles deserve the full share of all the honors that may come to me. This scene tonight recalls the day nine years ago this month, when by accident, rather than design, I first set foot within the limits of the city of Lincoln. I remember the day, because I fell in love with the town, and then made the resolve to make it my future home. I came among you a stranger in a strange land, and yet no people have ever treated a stranger more kindly than you have treated me.

"But I desire to express not only our grateful appreciation of all the kindness, social and political, that you have shown us, but to give to you this assurance that if by the suffrages of my countrymen I, for a short time, occupy the most honorable position within the gift of the people, that I shall return to the people who first took me in their arms. This shall be my home when earthly honors have passed away, and I shall mingle my ashes with the dust of this beloved state. This is no political gathering. I see here the faces of those who, with hearts as honest as I hope my own heart is, differ from me on all the issues of the day, but I am glad that love can leap across party lines and abide in the holy friendship with those whose judgment go apart. I thank the mayor of this great city for the charity which he has shown today. I thank all those of all parties who have been willing for the moment to forget the differences that exist between us, and join in celebrating the fact that at last the nomination for president has crossed the Missouri river.

"We are glad that the Prohibition party came to our city for its candidate, and if the great Republican party, which for so many years has dominated in the counsels of the nation had selected a Nebraska man for the head of that ticket, he would have led you in doing honor to him, regardless of what his opinions might have been. I am glad that the states of this Union, east and west and south, will have their attentions turned toward this great prairie state and toward this capitol city. We believe, my friends, that when our fellow citizens in other sections of this land become acquainted with the people of this state, and the people of this nation, that they will be brought near to us, and that it will be a tie to bind us all in a common love of the greatest nation on God's footstool, and now, as I can see each one of you personally, and express my thanks by pressure of the hand or by my voice, permit me to bid you all, in behalf of my wife and myself, good night."

At the conclusion of the address, cheer after cheer went up. Upon their return home after the demonstration at the state house, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan held a reception at their home in honor of the visiting members of the press.

The uproar in the way of the blowing of horns, ringing of bells and discharging of fireworks were kept up till long after midnight.

FAULKNER'S SUPPORT.

Guaranteed to the Nominee Placed on the Chicago Platform.

Washington, July 18.—Senator Faulkner, the chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, who has begun work already in behalf of the Democratic national committee and Democratic congressional nominees, having been quoted in an interview as saying that he was "in thorough sympathy with the Chicago platform and ticket," has sent a card of correction to The Evening Star. The senator said:

"The statement does not correctly define my position, and I feel unwilling to let it pass by in silence. I believe the Chicago convention was a legal and regularly constituted assembly of delegates, commissioned by the members of the party, to give expression to the will and wishes of the Democratic masses of the country. If present, and a delegate to that convention, I should not have voted for the platform, as presented. As it is, in several respects, it does not give expression to my views on certain public questions. A majority of that fairly and regularly constituted convention, however, adopted that declaration of principles. Such a majority can alone determine the principles and policies of a national party. Believing that the candidates nominated and platform adopted at Chicago, taken in connection with the history and traditions of the party, more nearly express my views in reference to public questions than the Republican candidates nominated and the platform adopted at St. Louis, I shall give my earnest support to the nominees of the Chicago convention."

Eckels Not a Candidate.

Washington, July 18.—Comptroller Eckels, when his attention was called to the dispatch from Chicago, stating that the gold standard Democrats wanted to nominate him for governor of Illinois, said that he did not want the nomination. In the first place, because he was not a candidate for any office, and in the second place because he could render more effective aid to the sound money cause if he was not a candidate.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Volume of Business Is Even Smaller Than Was Anticipated.

New York, July 18.—Bradstreet's says: Nearly all general merchandise markets continue dull, and the volume of business is smaller than anticipated. Little or no disposition is shown to engage in new enterprises, both city and country merchants continuing to purchase with more than usual conservatism, in view of the unsettled financial outlook and the low range of prices.

The more important decreases in prices for stables this week are for iron, steel, petroleum, cotton, lard and coffee.

Among more favorable features are relatively encouraging reports concerning trade at nine business centers, together with an improvement in quotations for wheat, Indian corn, oats and pork, and firm or unchanged prices for wool, sugar, lumber, leather and print cloths. Baltimore reports various jobbing lines doing well, but, as at St. Paul, with a tendency to defer placing orders until after election. Chicago and St. Louis agree that sales for fall delivery, while fair in some directions, will not equal the record for 1895. Rains have improved crop prospects in Washington. The week has been marked at San Francisco by the departure of a train load of fruit for London, a cargo of wheat for Australia, and two ships loaded with lumber for Europe. Crop prospects in Louisiana and Texas have improved, particularly with reference to cotton, and country merchants are reported encouraged. Sales of dry goods and notions at Atlanta are about an average, of shoes, heavier than in 1895, and the distribution of groceries more active.

The total number of business failures in the United States this week shows an unexpected increase, 255, compared with 219 last week. When compared with the corresponding week in 1895, the increase during the past six business days is 41.

Stole $30,000 Worth.

New York, July 18.—The man who robbed Oscar Moore and his wife of jewelry and bonds worth $30,000 in St. Joseph's hospital, Philadelphia, a few days ago, was captured in this city yesterday. He is a professional nurse, who has assumed at various times the aliases of Whitney, Thompson, Belmont and Soulte. Bowers is his name. "I stole Mr. Moore's valuables," said Bowers. "The property taken has been greatly exaggerated. I do not think the jewelry was worth more than $15,000. I only realized $93 on what I disposed of."

Sin Found Him Out.

Harrisburg, July 18.—Garret Light, a prosperous farmer of Dauphin county, was arrested last night for the attempted murder of his former sweetheart, Annie Rickel, at Monticello, Ia., 15 years ago. Light was tried and convicted soon after the commission of the crime, but escaped before sentence was imposed. He located in Dauphin county, married, and has a family of five children. He will be sent to Iowa for sentence.

Life Sentence For Burglary.

New York, July 18.—Protesting his innocence to the last, Joseph Block, a poor, illiterate Russian, was sentenced yesterday, by Judge Aspinwall, at Brooklyn, to imprisonment for life at hard labor, in Sing Sing, for the theft of goods valued at less than $50. The severity of the punishment was due to the habitual criminal act provisions. Block is the first criminal in Kings county who has been sent to prison for life for burglary.

Judge Field Seriously Sick.

San Francisco, July 18. — Justice Stephen J. Field is seriously sick at Paso Robles, where he went two weeks ago, hoping to derive benefit from the springs. Justice Field's advanced age and continuous exhaustive labors have had their effect in undermining his physical vigor, aggravated by an infection in one of his knees, from which he has suffered for 20 years.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Another Serious Crisis In the Hoist Works Strike at Cleveland.

Workmen Waylaid and Pummelled by Union Men.

Bold Methods Planned and Carried Out to Obtain Satisfaction.

Cleveland, July 16.—The city is now under martial law. Two companies of the Fifth regiment are now out, and it is probable that several more will be ordered out before the labor troubles are over. All the police have been mobilized in the stations, ready to be summoned to the Brown hoisting works, which is the present seat of the trouble.

Scenes which almost rivalled the draft riots of New York occurred yesterday. The vicinity of the works was the center of operations. The locked-out men and the non-union employes were the combattants, with the police acting in the capacity of incidental performers. Many men were kicked, bruised and cut with clubs, bricks and fists. One of these, C. W. Jackson, a workman of the company, received 13 wounds in the head, and is now lying in a precarious condition. George Guhde, another employe, received two heavy blows on the head.

Of at least 133 workmen who started for the Brown works yesterday, only between 30 and 40 succeeded in reaching their destination. Several of these pitiable, blood-covered objects, returned to their homes, or were taken home. How many men in all were injured or how badly, cannot now be told.

The opponents of the non-union men have been planning a campaign against the non-union men for some time. It was deemed useless to attack them at night, while escorted by a strong police force. So the early morning hours, when the men were on their way to the works, was chosen. So quietly were the arrangements perfected that the police knew little or nothing of the plan. At an early hour this morning a strange scene was witnessed in Superior street, near Wilson avenue. In the gloom lit up by the faint dawn, and the flicker of the still-lighted street lamp, a trio of men gathered and whispered together eagerly. These were soon followed by others, coming from all directions, until about 200 had gathered. Not a loud word was spoken. Orders were given by the first three that met together, and in a few minutes the crowd had vanished, as silently and orderly as they had assembled.

The men had been divided into squads of 10, 15 and 20, each captained by one known to be resolute. To each squad had been assigned a street where it had been ascertained non-union men passed on their way to work.

The territory invaded extended from Wilson avenue to Erie street. After these squads had taken their stations, they were joined by others until the numbers were doubled. The battle began at half a dozen different points soon afterward. The union men would appear suddenly from behind a fence, dash into the non-union men, strike a dozen blows and disappear as the police appeared on the scene.

Captain English apprehended danger. He, of course, did not know where it would break out, but all the police under his charge were started toward the Brown works at an early hour. Soon they heard the fighting at different points. They were ordered in every direction, and succeeded by rapid arrivals in curtailing many violent affrays.

Strange pursuits were indulged in. One might see a crowd of frantic non-unionists running up a street, pursued by a howling mob of union men, while the latter were pursued by flying policemen. Up streets, down streets, over fences, under fences, through houses and across fields, the wild, three-cornered pursuits made their way.

The houses along the streets were crowded with spectators, crying derision at the non-union men. Since the close of the Case school of applied science for the summer, about 20 of the pupils in the engineering department have been working at the Brown hoist works, going and returning in a body for safety. Yesterday morning they were pursued by 50 angry strikers with clubs and stones, but escaped injury by the exercise of superior sprinting powers.

The militia and the police patrolled the grounds surrounding the Brown works yesterday afternoon and kept the crowd moving.

Vanderbilt's Sickness.

New York, July 16.—Speaking of Mr. Vanderbilt's condition, Dr. McLean says: 'The shock has now passed and the crisis is over. Mr. Vanderbilt is quite conscious, and can recognize anyone in the room. He is not, however, allowed to see visitors, and is not allowed to talk to anyone. Mr Vanderbilt must have absolute rest, and he will receive it. The paralysis was all along the right side, and it was a case of arterial tension, which might be caused by almost any one of 1000 little causes. It is of a kind that will go and leave no ill effects."

An Abused Husband.

Perry, O. T. July 16.—Dr. Alfred C. Carpenter, late professor in the New York city medical school, and prominently known in the east, has brought suit here for divorce from his wife, Caroline, charging gross neglect, cruelty and abandonment. Firebug's Life Sentence.

New York, July 16.—Max H. Hirschkopf, the firebug indicted as the leading spirit of a notorious gang of factory burners, was convicted yesterday after a lengthy trial, and was sentenced to prison for life by Justice Fursman.

Jones was at work for a plumber upon a newly built house at Narragansett Pier, belonging to a family named Heck, the members of which had arrived and were moving in while the plumbers were putting on their finishing touches. Jones saw an open trunk, and, lifting a small lid, found several jewelry cases, three of which he looted. After the men had left the house the theft was discovered. Jones was suspected and arrested. He first denied his guilt, but confessing, was held for the grand jury.

RIOTING IS RENEWED.

Bayonets Brought Into Play With Serious Results.

Further Acts of Violence Likely to Be Met With Extreme Measures.

Cleveland, July 18.—The fiercest fight since the strike of the Brown hoisting workers began occurred last evening. The militia kept the crowd back while the non-union men were taken from the shops, but the mob increased until it numbered many thousands, and extended over a territory of 15 squares. Jeers, stones and clubs drew a charge from the police and militia. Many on both sides were wounded. Just how many strikers were hurt is uncertain.

All day there were frequent clashes between the mob at the Brown hoisting works and the police and militia. The members of the mob were in a vicious mood, and whenever a lone soldier or policeman could be reached violence was attempted.

The troops, from 2 p. m., were constantly under arms, and had great difficulty in clearing the streets, two charges being necessary, in which the bayonet was freely used.

But as soon as a charge was ended the mob, which early in the afternoon numbered 5000, would flow back against the line of steel like a wave of the sea, and again begin to hoot and throw stones.

When the workmen had been taken away and the troops were returning to their quarters at the works, another vengeful rally was made upon company F. Again a charge was made, and cold steel was driven home so that many of the rioters had to be helped away.

Two policemen who had been sent to escort a body of men to the works yesterday were surrounded by a body of Variety iron works employes, who hooted the officers and dared them to come inside the gates, where they retreated. "Come in here and we'll kill you," shouted one man. Then another raised a bar of iron and shouted: "I'll kill you if you pass these gates." The officers rushed through and the man ran. In a few seconds the officers were surrounded by 100 frenzied workmen, shouting: "Kill the dogs." The policemen pulled their revolvers and backed out before the crowd could rush. A detail of soldiers arrived and escorted the policemen to the Brown works.

A squad of four militiamen, of Company I, was returning home shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, after having escorted men from the works, when one of them separated from the others near East Madison avenue. He was noticed by strikers, and a small crowd followed him, hooting and jeering. By the time he reached Jaete's block, on Hamilton street, the mob had grown to 4000 or 5000, and stones were thrown. The soldier had only his side arms, and ran into a grocery store to escape. The crowd threatened to tear down the building, and he came out. Special Officer Murphy appeared and started to escort the militiaman to the patrol box, that police assistance might be summoned, but the mob encompassed them, and attacked them with stones, sticks and fists. Meanwhile word of the trouble had been sent to the militia at the Brown works, and Company F hastened to the rescue.

At double quick, with rifles at charge bayonets, they rushed at the crowd, clearing thestreet quickly. A number of men and boys were stabbed with bayonets, but only two seriously, Thomas Garrity and Thomas McGlarvey. They are wounded in the back, and McGlarvey may die. In the excitement, the lone militiaman slipped away, and though doubtless injured, is probably not dangerously hurt. Murphy, however, was so badly beaten that his recovery is in doubt. Martial law will be enforced in the disturbed district from now on, and any serious menace to the militia is likely to be met with extreme measures. The soldiers are in the temper to use lead.

The Cleveland Disaster.

Cleveland, July 18.—The crew of the fire tug Clevelander returned to the old river bed yesterday, to continue the search for the missing victims of Thursday night's disaster. When Captain Motley and the lifesaving crew ceased their efforts, after a diligent search of five hours, in which 15 bodies were hauled to the surface, the crew of the Clevelander took the lifesavers' apparatus and continued the search. An hour after daylight the streets and paths leading to the scene of the disaster were packed with a stream of humanity. When the ill-fated scow was righted, hats, caps and dinner pails floated from underneath. Three bodies are still missing.

Time He Was Looked After.

Waterbury, Conn., July 18.—Michael O'Niel, while intoxicated, yesterday, beat his horse into a wild run in the center of the city. O'Niel was thrown out at the public square, and his maddened horse took to the sidewalk. Mrs. L. P. Winslow, aged 76, was knocked down and probably fatally injured. O'Niel was arrested for drunkenness and fast driving. Two years ago O'Niel ran down a man, who subsequently died from the injuries received. One year ago he seriously injured another man in a similar manner.

Dismissal Recommended.

Washington, July 18.—Judge Advocate General Lemly of the navy has received the report of the court-martial in the case of Assistant Paymaster E. B. Webster, stationed at Mare Island, Cal. The charge was that the paymaster took cash instead of a bond from a clerk as a means of indemnity, and did not return the money when the clerk left the service. The court found Webster guilty and sentenced him to dismissal.

WHACKING AT DE LOME.

Opinion That Washington Legation Might Be Profitably Abolished.

Habana, July 18.—La Lucha continues its criticisms of Senor De Lome, the Spanish minister at Washington. It is a new form of friendship, says this paper, to allow expeditions to leave the United States in open day and in sight of the authorities. This leads to the belief, it continues, that Americans have a certain interest in these expeditions, the secret of which is only known to the governments at Madrid and Washington and to Senor de Lome, who, nevertheless, remains at Washington impassive and as happy as if nothing was happening, without protesting either in the name of the government at Madrid or as the representative of Spain.

MINISTER DE LOME.

Well informed persons, says La Lucha, know that the Spanish legation at Washington costs the Spanish nation $30,000 a month, which is too much money to be employed in the way in which the Spanish representative lives. Senor De Lome, this newspaper asserts, ought to take unlimited leave to go to the watering place of Mondiz and re-establish his health.

Dreaming of Independence.

Montreal, July 18. — La Patrie, the French Liberal paper of this city, in defense of its agitation for a movement for the separation of Canada from the empire, says, in answering a contemporary: Does our conferee imagine that Canada is eternally destined to be a colony, and that Canadians should be prevented from dreaming of independence? That is a little too much, as it will find as many English as French who will declare sincerely that it is not common sense. Our interest are far from being identical with those of England, and we will be sacrificed each time that the interests of the empire are concerned. While remaining loyal and respected, it is surely allowed us to think of the future, to foretell the destiny of our country, and to ask if an independent Canada would not be more prosperous than a Canadian tutelage.

Next Time at Denver.

Milwaukee, July 18.—Denver was selected as the place for holding the Baptist Young People's union convention in 1898, and the following officers were elected: President, John H. Chapman, Chicago; first vice president, Rev. C. L. Seashels, Dallas; second vice president, F. L. Fouke, Ottawa; third vice president, C. E. Tingley, Lincoln, Neb.; recording secretary, Rev. H. W. Reed, Waukegan, Ills.; treasurer, Frank Moody, Milwaukee.

Whigham Wins.

Southampton, L. I., July 18. — H. J. Whigham of Chicago is now the amateur golf champion of the United States, an honor which belonged to another Chicago player, Charles B. Macdonald, for the past 12 months, he having won it at Newport, R. I., last year. Whigham won handily, with a score of eight up and seven to play.

Many Debts to Settle.

Providence, July 18.—It is said that the estate of the late Henry C. Cranston of this city is insolvent. Mr. Cranston died last May, leaving, it was supposed, upwards of $300,000. Claims against the estate amounting to $280,000 have already been filed, and there are more to hear from.

POPULISTS' QUANDARY.

North and South Do Not Quite Agree As to Head of a Ticket.

Bushnell May Declare War Against Sherman.

Whitney Declares That He Cannot Support the Chicago Platform.

Denver, July 17.—Advices received here by the Populist leaders indicate that there will be many difficulties to overcome in the Populist convention before the endorsement of Mr. Bryan for president can be secured. The main difficulty, it appears from these advices, will be found in securing the co-operation of the southern Populists in this movement, though many of the northern members of the party are also raising objections. There is especial apprehension as to the course of Senator Butler of North Carolina and of ex-Representative Watson of Georgia, who, with others of the southern Populist leaders, will, it is feared, hold out stiffly for the adoption of a straighht Populist platform, and the nomination of another candidate than Mr. Bryan.

The objection of the southern men is directed more against affiliation with the Democratic party than to the candidate.

They fear that an endorsement of the Democratic ticket would be interpreted as the abandonment of many of their principles and the disruption of their party. Some northern Populists appear to have the same apprehension about the fate of their party in case Bryan is endorsed, and many of them, who were formerly Republicans, are apprehensive of the fate of the tariff in case of Bryan's success.

A majority of the Populists in this section became such on account of the silver issue alone, and they are willing to accept the assurance that this will be made the paramount question in the campaign, and in the next administration in case of Bryan's election. They will probably go in for an independent nomination of Bryan at St. Louis rather than for his endorsement as the Democratic nominee, and will, in that event, place him on a platform of their own. There is little or no doubt that the silver party convention to be held at St. Louis at the same time as the Populist convention will take a positive position for Bryan.

OHIO FIGHT IMPENDING.

Governor Bushnell May Oppose the Re-election of John Sherman.

Cleveland, July 17.—A special to the Press from Zanesville more than hints at a renewal of the Republican factional fight in Ohio this year. It says: The Republican League club of Zanesville is to banquet Governor Asa S. Bushnell, at which time Bushnell's boom for the United States senatorship will be formally launched. The governor will be toasted as Senator Sherman's successor. Senator Sherman, it is known, has no intention of retiring, and he will, without doubt, fight for a re-election.

This will open up the old factional fight between the Sherman and Foraker forces in Ohio. If Bushnell goes into the senatorial fight it cannot but make an opening for Hanna and Sherman to contest for the recovery of the supremacy in the state, which they lost at the Zanesville convention.

Republican Advisers.

Cleveland, July 17.—Before the adjournment of the national Republican executive committee, the following were agreed upon as members of the advisory committee: Russell A. Alger, Michigan; S. W. Allerton, Illinois; H. C. Evans, Tennessee; Senator Shoup, Idaho; Senator Proctor, Vermont; ex-Governor Merriam, Minnesota; ex-Governor Long, Florida; Thomas Dolan, Pennsylvania; William H. Plunkett, Massachusetts. After the meeting, Mr. Hanna stated that no action had yet been taken relative to the appointment of a ninth member of the executive committee. It is reported that the committee, while at Canton, will make every possible effort to induce Mr. McKinley to make a trip through the west.

In the Bryan Column.

Minneapolis, July 17.—Silver men here are happy at the success of the state mass convention, called by the American silver organization, to name 30 delegates and alternates to the St. Louis convention, July 22. The great majority of those attending are Republicans, but this is not deprecated by the silverites, as they expect favorable action to their cause from both Democrats and Populists when they meet in their state conventions later on. The convention adopted resolutions commending Bryan as president, and presenting John Lind to the people of Minnesota as a candidate for governor. Lind is a well known free silver advocate.

Knights of Labor and Politics.

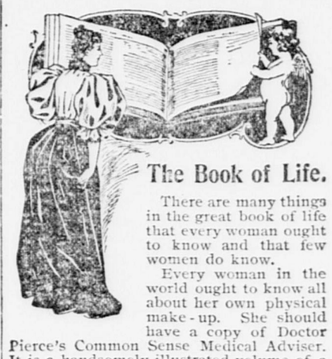
Washington, July 17. — Secretary Hayes of the Knights of Labor says the order has taken no action concerning presidential candidates, and that any action which may be taken will be after the Populist convention at St. Louis, to which Sovereign and Hayes and McGuire of the general executive board are delegates. After the convention it may be determined to address the local assemblies throughout the country with a view to polling the sentiment. The action of the order would then be shaped by the concensus of feeling among the locals.

Whitney a Bolter.

New York, July 17.—W. C. Whitney has sent the following dispatch to the press: "Will you be kind enough to correct the statement that I desire the endorsement by the state organization of the Chicago ticket. There are no possible conditions or circumstances that would induce me to vote for it or assist it."

New Brunswick Politics.

St. John, N. B., July 17.—Premier Blair, leader of the local government, handed in his resignation to Lieutenant Governor Fraser, and it was accepted. Mr. Blair will occupy a seat in the Dominion cabinet as minister of railways and canals. Provincial Secretary Mitchell has been called upon, and has accepted the leadership of the local legislature. He will at once reconstruct the government.



The Book of Life.

There are many things in the great book of life that every woman ought to know and that few women do know.

Every woman in the world ought to know all about her own physical make-up. She should have a copy of Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is a handsomely illustrated volume of a thousand pages, several chapters of which are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women. It is written in plain language, and contains over three hundred illustrations and colored plates. It is now offered, paper-bound, absolutely free to any woman who will send twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps to cover the cost of mailing only to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. If handsome, substantial, French cloth binding is desired, send ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all. A woman ought to know the vital importance of health. She ought to know that nothing can make her so miserable, or so useless in the world, as disease and weakness of the organs distinctly feminine. She ought to know that this disease and weakness can be prevented and can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There are three times in a woman's life when this great remedy reaches its best usefulness—when the girl becomes a woman—when the woman becomes a mother—and when the capacity for motherhood ceases. At these times the importance of a perfectly healthy condition of her system is of the greatest importance. "The Favorite Prescription" is a purifying, curative, tonic, which works directly on one set of organs, and on no other. It cures when doctors fail, and it cures without the humiliating examinations and local treatment, so invariably insisted upon by physicians. It will cure any case of so-called "female complaint." It soothes the nerves, makes the appetite and digestion good, and brings restful, refreshing sleep.

DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered — Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,

THE WEEK PAST.

There is disappointment among taxpayers that the tax rate of 1896 is to be so high. Anything above $17.60 will be a record breaker for Quincy, but the unfortunate part of it is, that it may go a dollar higher. It is probably too late now to reduce the tax levy order, for the appropriations have been made, and it is not business to contract a loan for any part of it. Every dollar of the appropriations for current expenses seems necessary, therefore we still maintain that the Mayor and Council are not careful in fixing the dates when debt shall fall due. The total debt of the city Jan. 1, 1896, was $264,895.61, and if one-tenth matured, as the law allows, the amount outside the water and park debts maturing this year would be only $26,500 instead of $49,980, and the tax rate would be $1.25 lower than now seems inevitable. With the great demand for improvements Quincy is paying its debt too rapidly. Here is a summary, showing years of maturing, the law allowing ten years:

In 1896,	$49,980.00
In 1897,	51,600.00
In 1898,	49,280.00
In 1899,	53,980.00
In 1900,	45,300.00
In 1901,	14,755 71
In 1902,	—
In 1903,	—
In 1904,	—
In 1905,	—
Total	$264,895.61

In view of the fact that the city has this year appropriated all if not more than the law allows for current expenses; is going to raise by taxation all the law allows, and may reach the debt limit, some taxpayers who were urged to vote for the present Mayor because of his financial business ability, are wondering if they could have been any worse off.

The fire this morning was the first since the Fourth, and furnished further evidence that Quincy has an efficient department in every way, and amply able to cope with any fire that may visit us.

The Board of Trade held its first really good meeting this week, and yet the discussion was rambling and there was no question before the members. The subject matter, if possible, should be stated in the call, and the committees should see that there was business. Timetables on railroads should interest boards of trade, especially where such radical changes were made as in June on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., yet the subject was not touched. Business of the City Council may well be taken up for discussion at each meeting. The Quincy Board of Trade needs to be pricked up a little if it is to be a success.

The advertised hearing in relation to the quality and price of the electric light furnished the city by the local company gave promise of interesting developments but the taking of back water by the Mayor and the demand of the company for a five years contract places affairs in a different light and it now looks as though the city had the worst end of the matter, and that the Electric Light Co. was in a position to dictate to the city. The officials, however, say they only desire to be treated in a business-like manner and not be subjected to any more unnecessary expense.

Baby Scalded.

The eighteen months old daughter of George S. Snowling of Ballou street, West Quincy, was badly scalded yesterday afternoon by falling into a tub of hot water. While she was absent the baby, who was playing about, fell into it and was severely scaled about the left side and neck. The child was in terrible agony all night and it was thought at one time that it would not recover. This morning it was reported as more comfortable and had a fair chance of recovery.

A THIRD CANDIDATE.

Dr. Everett Writes an Open Letter.

Says the Gold Democrats Should Make a Nomination.

Wants to Defeat Bryan, But Doesn't Care to Vote for McKinley.

Dr. Everett of this city who was in Chicago at the time of the Democratic convention in interest of sound money, writes to the press as follows, favoring another convention:

Having been present at several meetings of the Chicago convention, and at two conferences of the sound money Democrats, I desire to submit certain results of my observations.

The manifesto of the sound money Democrats of Illinois was adopted at a meeting where I was present, in company with citizens from several other states. The feeling exhibited in that paper for a third nomination by a sound money Democratic convention is earnest and emphatic in the West to a degree not understood in East. The Chicago platform, with Bryan and Sewall upon it, is felt not merely to be an outrage to national honor and credit, but peculiarly an insult to the Western Democrats, notably in Illinois, Michigan and Nebraska, whose delegates were or displaced by the silver majority.

Those who oppose the platform and the candidates, who believe in Mr. Cleveland and his work to maintain the nation's credit, are Democrats and desire to remain so. They have been fighting Republican candidates and Republican policy for years, sometimes against very great odds. It is easy to say: "Vote for McKinley, he is for sound money," but they cannot so easily renounce all their party ties, and find themselves without any organization. They desire to enforce their sound money views in this campaign as the true Democratic theories; but they cannot do so from a Republican platform, construed with doctrines to which they are opposed. They are desirous to nominate sound money Democrats for Congress; they cannot do so with no tickets in the field but those headed by McKinley or Bryan.

They would like still less to refrain from voting, as some sound money Democrats and independants will do here.

They Wish to Vote;

They wish to beat Bryan; they wish to crush "16 to 1" and the socialism and repudiation of Altgeld. But to this end it is not enough to swell the ranks of a party they have fought all their lives.

Whatever individuals may do—and many no doubt will do this—it will take all heart out of their campaign; whereas by a strong third nomination of men who are neither for McKinley nor for Bryan, they believe they can defeat the latter, and put the former on his good behavior by proper congressional nominations.

These views were exhibited in the strongest manner by Comptroller Eckels, who declared he would gladly stump the country for sound money against Bryan, but, of course, could never do so at Republican meetings. They were enforced at one or another meeting by men of weight from Iowa, Missourri, Minnesota, Michigan (which was the object of special insult by the silver men), Ohio, Texas, and even Georgia and Alabama. But Illinois is the strongest, as there they are offered a choice between Altgeld and Tanner, who is little better. That state is determined to have separate state candidates, whatever happens to the national ticket.

Eastern men do not understand the intensity of Western feeling. They do not understand that the silver men are utterly or conciliation. Our lamented governor did all that wisdom and friendship could possibly do in that direction. They are determined to carry things with the highest possible hand; the ordinary Eastern arguments about "a hishonest dollar" and "sound business principles" they know well, and think they can vote down.

Neither do we here understand the terrible earnestness of the sound money Democrats, who do not mean to have all the work of their lives suddenly swept into their opponent's territory because the organization river has changed its bed. They feel it is their duty to meet this heretical and lawless invasion of their principles and rights by positive and not negative action, drawing off from Bryan thousands of votes that never will support any organization calling itself Republican, and who, if they have nothing else to go with, will slip back into their old ranks.

They call on the East for help; shall they not get it? Will not Massachusetts and Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, Delaware and Ohio stand and be ranked with Illinois and Missouri, sound money and Cleveland's administration? Let a meeting be called by those who signed the sound money protest, looking to a third nomination.

BUY ·TEA· Of Boston Branch Grocery.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

WAS ALMOST A WRECK.

Strain at Chicago Was More Than Ex-Governor Russell Could Bear.

Citizens of Cambridge Desire a Public Funeral.

Statesman's Body Will Reach His Family Late This Evening.

Boston, July 18.—As soon as the first great shock caused by the receipt of the news of the sudden death of ex-Governor William E. Russell at Little Pabos, in the province of Quebec, some time on Wednesday night had passed away, there was a universal outburst of public sorrow and private grief over the untimely end of one of Massachusetts' most distinguished and best beloved sons, not only from every part of the commonwealth itself, but from all over the country, which had already learned to look to him as one of its most promising and able public men. Tributes to his worth and brilliancy came pouring in, and the general sorrow at his unexpected loss found expression in the display of flags at half-staff and in the tolling of bells.

To those whose privilege it was to see ex-Governor Russell at Chicago, while his death may bring as much sorrow and regret to them as to anybody else, still the announcement was not a surprise. When he faced the immense convention audience he looked anything but a healthy man. His last speech, now judged by the sad sequel, bespoke the feelings of a heart and mind thoroughly worn out by the exacting duties of the most exhausting campaign in which the Democratic leaders had ever engaged.

Mr. Russell said he did not feel in the best of condition when, in obedience to the call of President Cleveland and William C. Whitney, he hastened to the convention city. He spent night and day in conferences. He completed one task only to engage in another. He was tired and exhausted, and yet was untiring in his efforts. He had been accustomed to hard, arduous campaigns, but unaccustomed to defeat. His efforts in the past had always purchased commendation and encouragement, and victory. At Chicago his best reward was humiliation and defeat.

He lost his vitality during the persistent and determined fight. When he made his last public speech, to go on the records as his last for eternity, he was as yellow as saffron. He was nervous, overstrained and conscious of the inefficiency of his efforts.

He went to Chicago not in the best of health, and left heart-broken. As he put it, he had found that hell had not been confined to the portions of his satanic majesty. "I am going into the woods for rest," was the way he put it.

As showing the ex-governor's condition just before he made his final appeal in the convention, he was unable to keep his seat. He moved up and down the open space in front of the presiding officer, regardless of comment or scrutiny. He spoke like a man who had left all hope behind, and the following day he was away to the woods, far from the strife that had robbed him of all party hope. His speech at Chicago was a disappointment to his friends, who expected that he would answer, with all his old-time vigor, the assault made by Senator Tillman of South Carolina on his state. He disappointed them by pleading instead of demanding. Now his mildness can be readily accounted for.

His speech at the auditorium was such an effort as to necessitate any other speaker seeking a rest. Not so with him. He only left the platform to participate in a conference lasting far into the morning, and that ended only to give way to another, called so early that but little rest in the interval was possible. He kept steadily to his task, and only when the cause had been lost did he leave the convention city, in search of rest and recuperation. Every friend in Chicago was glad to hear of his departure, because the strain had wrecked him physically.

He made no complaints either against his party or against members of the delegation from his own state. He combatted the opposition wherever found, and with sorrow saw his best efforts overwhelmed by the silver men.

His last interview was brief. He said "We have fought for the dear old Democratic party and have lost. We will come four years hence and fight again."

No one heard him, even intimate, that he would not support the nominees. He seemed confident that time would bring the silver men back to first principles, and that defeat was robbed of its humiliation by the promises of the future.

There is genuine sorrow in the hearts of the citizens of old Cambridge. To them the death of William E. Russell means something more than the passing away of a distinguished son of the commonwealth. They have lost a neighbor and a friend—a man whom they loved and respected for his kindly qualities—one who had grown up in their midst from boyhood and endeared himself to one and all. He was a familiar figure on the streets and avenues of the university town, and even now these loyal associates and acquaintances cannot bring themselves to realize that death has taken him away.

Sterling worth is a quality that has marked the manhood of many sons of Cambridge, but none possessed that trait to a greater extent than the deceased. The boys of Cambridge speak in the most regretful manner of the sad event. They, too, knew the man, and he always was anxious to have them consider him their friend.

Last night lights were brightly burning in the home of the late ex-governor. Mrs. Russell, with her children, returned from Magnolia late in the evening. A consultation will be held today, in which Dr. Swan, Mrs. Elizabeth Russell, Mrs. H. E. Russell and Mr. Charles Theodore Russell will take part. They will determine as to whether the funeral will be public or private, and the result will be immediately announced.

The desire that there shall be a public funeral is unanimous among the citizens of Cambridge. The natural desire of the family is that there should be as little publicity as possible, and that the funeral be private. Still they recognize the fact that the departed belonged, in a certain measure, to the commonwealth, whose citizens desire to look upon his face once more.

If a public funeral is decided upon, then the body will lie in state at the city hall. It will be placed in the rotunda on the first floor, and the public will be admitted. The city hall will be transformed into a veritable conservatory with flowers and plants.

The funeral will probably not take place until Tuesday, and it is expected that it will be held in the Shepard Memorial church.

The body of ex-Governor Russell arrived at St. John, N. B., last night at 11 o'clock, and went forward by the "Flying Yankee" express this morning. The special train conveying the body to St. John was met at the depot by United States Consul Derby, Vice Consul Jewett, Mayor Robertson and a number of American citizens. Colonel E. H. Russel and Frank Peabody, Jr., accompanied the body.

The first official act of Mr. Blair, the new minister of railways in the Dominion government, was to telegraph Chief Superintendent Pottinger of the Intercolonial railway that flags be displayed at half-mast on all railway buildings when the body of ex-Governor Russell passed through New Brunswick.

Victim of Hydrophobia.

Manchester, N. H., July 18.—Israel Biscornet is in the throes of hydrophobia, and the doctors say he can live but a few days longer. May 26 Mr. Biscornet was bitten by his dog, a large and powerful shepherd. The teeth penetrated the hand and made three ugly wounds. Mr. Biscornet had the wounds cauterized, and in three weeks they had apparently healed. The police killed the dog. Last Monday, just 46 days after being bitten, Mr. Biscornet's hand became sore and badly swelled, and the wounds, which had apparently become healed, broke out afresh. Thursday morning he was seized with spasms, and was unable to swallow. Later on the sight of water threw him into spasms, and by night a slight breeze of fresh air would put him in a similar condition. Two physicians remained with him almost continuously yesterday. The patient had convulsions whenever water or any brilliant object met his gaze.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

Boston, July 18.—Etta Yoe, 17 years of age, attempted suicide by taking poison in the Salvation Army barracks, at the corner of Pine and Washington streets, last night. Drs. McRea and Williams were summoned and administered antidotes, and then sent the sufferer to the city hospital. The girl was accompanied by a girl friend, who became hysterical, and also tried to drink some of the acid. She was taken home by members of the army. Her name could not be ascertained. It is said that Miss Yoe has attempted suicide in a similar manner before. She will recover.

Embezzlement of $7500 Charged.

Haverhill, Mass., July 18.—Charles W. Morse of this city is under arrest on the charge of embezzling $7500 in connection with the settling up of the affairs of the Haverhill Aqueduct company, which concern was purchased by the city a few years ago. Morse yesterday returned from Denver. Morse was treasurer of the Aqueduct company, and it is alleged that when the city purchased the plant that all the money did not reach the stockholders. Morse was held in $7500 for trial, and was bailed by his brother.

Warren Putnam's Case.

Portsmouth, N. H., July 18.—The case of Warren F. Putnam, defaulting president of the Exeter National bank, for formal resistance to a term of five years' imprisonment for financial irregularities in connection with his office, will be heard here before Judge Aldrich July 28. This is made necessary by the decision of the United States supreme court, reversing one count of the two on which sentence was previously made.

Farmers Are Worried.

Hanover, N. H., July 18.—It is not evident that the army worm is so destructive in this neighborhood as at first reported. Farmers are very uneasy, however, and fear that if ensilage corn is invested with the pest it will be necessary to kill off stock, as fodder will be scarce in the winter. The army worm is more destructive across the Vermont line than on this side.

Fined For Abusing Wife.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 18. — William D. Camp, Jr., prominent in social and religious circles, was fined $50 and costs yesterday for assault and battery on his wife. The couple have been married but four years, and have a baby, but Camp has repeatedly assaulted her, and for the last eight months has refused to sit at the table or to occupy the same room with her.

Swam Pawtucket Falls.

Pawtucket, R. I., July 18.—James Knight created a sensation here last night, by swimming over both sections of the Pawtucket falls and down through the eddies, among the rocks at the foot of the dam. Half the population of the city gathered on the bridge which spans the falls, thinking the man to be either a suicide or the victim of an accident.

Touched Live Wire.

Brookline, Mass., July 18.—James D. Chisholm, a New England Telephone company lineman, was shocked to death by touching a live electric wire, while on overhead construction work, yesterday afternoon. His body was badly burned before brought to the ground.

Policy Creditors Get Nine Per Cent.

Hartford, July 18.—The receivers of the Continental Life Insurance company will distribute a part of the assets of the company next week. The sum amounts to $155,994. The policy creditors will receive a dividend of 9 per cent, and creditors 2.58 per cent.

New England Briefs.

Miss Eva Blythe of Johnson, R. I., committed suicide at Providence, taking arsenic.

Charles P. Shepard of Penacook, N. H., was tossed by an infuriated bull. He was badly wounded.

Curtis Burleigh, for many years a prominent hotel keeper, died at Sandwich Center, N. H., aged 70.

Horatio Treat, the pioneer comb maker of New England, died at West Newbury, Mass., aged 83.

Nellie Roach, aged 15 months, was struck and killed by a brewery wagon, driven by Simon Rock, at Boston.

A PÆAN TO THE PUMPKIN.

How dear to my heart
Is the old yellow pumpkin!
When orchards are barren
Of stuffin for pies,
When peaches and apples
Have both been a failure
And berries of no kind
Have greeted our eyes—
How fondly we turn
To the fruit of the cornfield!
Only fools these despise—
The old yellow pumpkin,
The mud covered pumpkin,
The big bellied pumpkin,
That make such good pies.

LOVE IN THE DESERT.

One day a boy came running to his father with a book. "What does this word mean?" he asked, for he believed that his father knew all the world and most of the things beyond. The parent believed that, too, and that is how the child had come to imbibe the idea. The man looked and saw the word "love." "Do you know what that word means, papa?" asked the boy.

"Oh, yes," said the father. And he began thinking. He thought for a long time, for there were so many things love is that he hardly knew where to begin defining. And the longer he remained silent the harder it seemed to find a beginning. "It is difficult to answer," he observed, and the boy interrupted him.

"When we find a difficult problem at school," he said, "we go to the rule. What is the rule about love?"

The father looked at him, but did not answer. He thought. Then he gazed anxiously about, and out through the window he saw a man passing.

"Ah," he said, "there is Mr. Brown, and I want to see him."

And he hurried out to speak to the man, and the boy never heard what love is or what is its rule.

* * * * * *

Ford, being quite satisfied that the story was a lie from the beginning and that his search for the wonderful lost desert tribe would result in no benefit to the Smithsonian institution, stopped to rest in the shade of the water wagon, the wheels of which were sunk 18 inches into the roasting sand.

"Look out," he yelled to one of the drivers, "or this Nevada sun will get action on you and you will pop like corn! Lord, isn't it hot!" And he looked about at the blistering white and blue and cudgeled out of his memory certain verses:

And when grim spirits come to that curs'd land,
To be where wanderers fell,
They look in terror at the burning sand
And hurry back to hell—

"And that's desert Nevada, and where we are driving and swearing and sweating through it to find the desert tribesman, who is a lie."

"By the powers, it isn't a lie!" yelled Graves, his assistant. "Look!"

"A Chinese boy!" roared Ford. "And, ye gods, a redheaded Chinese boy, and on a camel, and in Nevada!"

Hong Foy was a dismal failure. McGoggin told him so daily. He could not tamp Southern Pacific ties half as well as Yo Heave, or whatever the pockmarked Chinaman's name was, and Fon Kee could almost carry a "60 pound to the yard" rail by himself, while Hong Foy, being young and pale and calm, found it difficult to lug even the spike maul or the pinch bar. Wherefore the investment of the Southern Pacific Railroad company in Hong Foy was denominated by Mike McGoggin, the section foreman, as a weird and wonderful failure—only McGoggin used words of the same import, but of different pronunciation. Hong Foy, however, could cook, and he showed Maggie McGoggin how to make a soup out of potato sprouts which McGoggin declared to be the triumphant work of the devil. Soup, by the way, is a thing not to be experimented on when the section boarding house is at a place in Nevada where the water is brought in a tank from a station 80 or 100 miles away. McGoggin appreciated the soup, and because of it refrained for two weeks from discharging Hong Foy. But on a Saturday night of the month of June, in the year 1881, he threw a bolt at Hong Foy, hit him with a crooked spike and made a run to the toolhouse to get a wrench to kill him with. He had seen Maggie when she kissed the young Chinaman in the kitchen.

In the shade of the toolhouse, after McGoggin had retired, Hong Foy crept like a dog which had been whipped out of its kennel but knows not where to go. He knew two lines of steel over which Chinamen labored, while a redheaded white man swore volubly at them. He knew a blue horizon, and these things were all he knew in that land—excepting the sun. Where could he go? As he leaned dejectedly against the toolhouse and thought of his love making, he wept, and weeping, Maggie found him. Hong Foy had not dreamed of the future, and had not expected the coming of the girl. He had expected to sleep in the toolhouse that night and be beaten again in the morning. But Maggie had planned. The best part of her plan was that she had brought a huge bottle, and it had water in it. "We will go that way," she said, pointing out into the desert.

It is not so bad to walk all night through the desert if you are sure you are going to have shade in which to rest the next day. But the next day came, and as Maggie and Hong Foy looked about them all they saw was what a couple of ants in a plasterer's box of lime see. Far, far, far away, round about and near it was white. And it was so flat that they seemed to look up out of a basin to a brim which was white and blue, and the alkali and the sky nestled so close to each other and the sky arched over as though it were the roof of the plain in such wise that Maggie thought they might as well have been imprisoned in the shell of a monster egg—only it would have to be the biggest egg and biggest shell ever created, and there would be room for only one of such like in the world. The sun was beautiful in the early morning, and there were roses in the desert east just as there are roses in the east of the orchard land. The sun looked on them with a friendly rotundity for an hour, and then he frowned, and the frown was of white heat. And sleepily they plodded on, searching for a brush big enough to cast two square feet of shade.

They had no means of telling time other than by the sun, but the girl knew the secrets of the sun and knew it was 10 o'clock when the pale, calm face of Hong Foy looked into hers with a dumb piteousness, and he sank in a swoon. Hurriedly the girl uncovered his head and saw for the first time the great, jagged, ragged hole made by that bent spike thrown by her father. The iron had dug deep, but the Chinaman had plastered the wound with the clean waste taken from the toolhouse and had wrapped his cue around it. Maggie regarded the hurt with a little bit of womanly horror, and then she thought of how her lover had walked all that night through the sands with his head wrecked by her father's effort and had not intimated that he was injured at all.

"He is worth it," said Maggie. And tenderly she dressed the wound, washing it with the precious water Hong Foy had carried in the great bottle. "He is worth it."

If you would have to guess at the smallest part of that awful journey go out on the Southern Pacific to the place where the temperature is normally at 140 in June at 11 o'clock in the daytime, where the air is so hot that it curls itself up, where the alkali is baked into powder finer than the finest powder known to medicine, and without the slightest breath of air to agitate it sifts and scatters about over the face of the earth, being drawn up by the sun just as you have heard of water being drawn up. It will be an unpleasant ride to you, for you will leave your coat at Ogden and your raiment along the right of way with great persistence, until in the middle of the desert you will be a disgrace and will belong in the same epoch as Adam and Eve, but you will not think of Adam and Eve, for they lived where water was and grass and trees and blossoms, and it would make you insane to think of those as you looked out on the writhing blue lines of mountains millions of miles away. Mountains which you see here this moment and which are gone when you look again. And beating, beating, beating with a might that makes your head thump is the great world consuming sun.

Yes, if you would like to guess about Maggie and Hong Foy—the crippled Hong Foy—and their 12 days' parching, famishing, agonizing journey until they walked out of death and into a green line of paradise which ran along a clear river, you must go there and do it for yourself. And at the end of the journey, if you ever get to the end of it, perhaps you will fall fainting and deathlike at the margin of the stream as Hong Foy did, or perhaps you will drop on your knees and pray as did Maggie.

"The only thing in the cabin," said Graves, "which plainly was not made out of the things hereabout is a great bottle, which is apparently for water. I wonder where it came from?"

"I don't," said the driver of the water wagon. "What I want to know is about that there humpy lookin camel beast that the boy met us on. Tell me where that thing came from and I'll go home satisfied."

"They don't know themselves," said Ford. "They only know he came in here one day, and the woman says he was sent by God to help the Chinee haul wood in winter time, but the Chinaman insists that he was created out of the alkali or something, from what I gather in talking to him, as a special gift of his joss. The boy says nothing. I consider that beast the greatest object lesson in the conciliation of religious disputes that I ever struck, for while holding these different views they don't quarrel about him. The real explanation is probably that he is the offspring of some of those camels the United States government bought over from Africa several years ago for use in the Arizona army posts, but which turned out a failure and were let loose to roam where they would."

"I suppose," said Graves, "that you will say in your report that the redheaded, half Chinese kind is the natural child of the desert?"

"Yes. If this land of heat and hardship is ever to be peopled, I think that will be the breed for it!"

"Did it ever strike you," said Graves to Ford, after they had got back to civilization, "how that Chinese friend of yours and his wife and child out there in that desert are so fond of one another?"

"Graves," said Ford, "the word 'love' always seemed to me to be a sort of a sickly one for a grown man to use in talking to another, but do you know that is what I would call that case? I don't think I'd say fond."

"I don't understand it at all," Graves observed.

"Well, you know there's no rule for that kind of thing, old man. Love is something you can't cipher out like your latitude and your longitude."—Chicago Record.

A Mystery of the Mails.

In the mail delivered at his West Philadelphia residence the other day William May, the well known ship chandler, discovered a most remarkable document. It was an invitation to his own wedding, which occurred in 1867, and where the missive has been during the intervening 29 years is a matter of no little mystery. It was addressed to a friend of former years, who then resided at 333 Wharton street. Considering its age, the envelope is in a very good state of preservation, although completely covered with hieroglyphics added by postal officials. The invitation card, while yellow with age, gives little evidence of its 29 years of strange existence.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 19. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Books and reading; how to get good therefrom.—Prov. iii, 13-20; I Tim. iv, 13.

In each of the topical references there is an exhortation pertaining to wisdom—in the one a description of the blessings which true wisdom brings, in the other an exhortation to reading, which gives wisdom.

The importance and value of wisdom, and not simply religious wisdom, cannot be overestimated. Solomon, the wisest man of his age, looked upon the man as happy who had knowledge and understanding and declared wisdom to be more precious than rubies and excellent above all things that could be desired. The same is true today. Knowledge adds greatly to a man's happiness. He who has cultivated a taste for good literature may fairly revel in his enjoyment in these days of books without number.

Wisdom comes largely from reading and study. To be wise, therefore, we must read. What we read and how we read is a very important question, for the books, magazines and papers which we select as our companions not only determine largely the amount and character of our mental education, but they also largely influence our moral and religious characters.

The question of books and reading is particularly pertinent to young people, because it is while we are young that what we read makes the most lasting impression upon our minds.

There are two dangers today in the reading world against which we need to be warned. The first arises from the abundance of reading matter. From the vast numbers of books, magazines, papers, what are we to read to get the most good therefrom? We cannot read all. It would not be best if we could. To have but few books and thoroughly master them is better for our education than to have many books and read them hastily and carelessly. The Endeavorer who will pursue the following plan will not go far wrong: Read one good daily newspaper, one weekly religious paper of your own denomination; The Golden Rule, one first class monthly magazine, as many books as can be carefully read, alternating a book of fiction with a book of science, art or history, and last, but not least, the Bible as much and as often as possible.

It would be well for all young persons to select some subject of special interest to them and have their reading and studying as far as possible center around that. We should aim to be specialists in one branch of learning at least, and if we become that it will be wonderful how much universal information and knowledge we will gather up at the same time.

The second danger arises from the character of the literature of today. The popular taste clamors too much for the sensational, the unreal and even the immoral. We should carefully guard against being influenced in this direction. Literature was never so full of what is choice, lofty, ennobling and inspiring as it is today. Let us cultivate a taste for this kind of reading and we will have neither time nor inclination for the other.

Bible Readings.—Ps. xix, 8-10; xciv, 12; Prov. i, 1-7; ii, 1-7; viii, 10, 11, 33-35; xxiii, 23; Job xxviii, 12-28 Isa. viii, 19, 20; xxxiv, 16; Mal. iii, 16; Luke xvi, 29-31; John v, 39; Acts xvii, 11; II Tim. iii, 14-16.

Discovered In India.

Word has come from India through a letter from an English Baptist missionary in east Bengal that 35 Christian Endeavor societies exist among the villages within his limit. These societies recently celebrated their first anniversary, and all this has been unknown to the United society, although it is welcome news. Mr. Carey says that the greatest help has been afforded Indian students through the society and many throughout India have received spiritual uplift through its existence. And, strange to say, the pledge, which seems to be the great stumbling block in this country, is there maintained to the letter.—Selected.

Christ Is With Us.

Christ, the Spirit, is with us, and He is with us today. But are we in harmony with that Spirit? What we need today is contemplation, pious meditation. If we could take a morning hour and an evening hour and devote them to communion with God, did it ever occur to you what wonderful Christians we might be? The need of the day is that the pew and pulpit should have more time for contemplation.—Congregationalist.

Scope of Christian Endeavor.

The universal scope of the Christian Endeavor movement is well illustrated by a little volume in the possession of President Clark, which contains specimens of Christian Endeavor literature in 17 different languages. Most of the translations are from leaflets of Dr. Clark's own writings, and his name is on the title pages as author, although he cannot read a word of the text.

No Fellowship So Sweet.

Let us be "love constrained" workers. "In labors more abundant." There is no fellowship so sweet as that of Christ's service. None are so happy as those who are thus finishing their course with joy.—American Friend.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

A prayer meeting is held every evening in an upper room by the Christian Endeavor society in a school at Houlton, Me.

"People of good size, imitators of Christ," is the best translation that can be made of the name Christian Endeavor society in the Caroline islands.

No Bibles are on sale in Santa Fe, "the City of the Holy Faith," and the Christian Endeavorers of the city have planned to open a depository for religious literature.

THE INFINITE.

"O sea!" I said. "O restless sea!
What of the life that here we see?
What doth it hold for those who stand
As one upon thy wave beat strand,
Ere for the voyage they quit the land?"
Thus answered me the glorious sea,
With its mysterious melody:
"Infinity! Infinity!"

"O sea!" I said, "O beauteous sea!
What of the love that rests in thee?
Two forms thou foldest face to face.
They clasp e'en yet in fond embrace.
What of the love we here do trace?"
Thus answered me the glorious sea,
With its mysterious melody:
"Infinity! Infinity!"

"O sea!" I said, "O solemn sea!
For these can aught more ever be?
They lived, they loved, they rest at last—
What of the death to which they passed,
To anchor safe from every blast?"
Thus answered me the glorious sea,
With its mysterious melody:
"Infinity! Infinity!"

"O sea!" I said, "O wondrous sea!
What of thyself? Unbounded, free,
Thy trackless waters surge and roll.
What prescient, mighty, deathless soul
First fashioned thy stupendous whole?"
Thus answered me the glorious sea,
With its mysterious melody:
"Infinity! Infinity!"
—Beatrice Clayton in Somerville Journal.

My Soul and I.

What were you, soul, before that you were I?
Were you by death—some other form of death—
Unburdened from some other shape in some
Uncounted time which I almost remember,
A coexistent quantity with atoms of the stars?
Or were you but a sigh of nature's breath
And had to have embodiment to make death possible?

O passion bounded, sorrow tossed, poor soul!
What have you gained or what have lost
By wearing flesh's thrall?
Poor soul! What have you gained or lost?
Enough to pay the troublous cost
Of staying here, of coming here at all?
And if you were a soul and knew
You were, why hither journeyed you?
Was there not in vast space a place
More fitting for a soul?

Poor soul! If creeds are true, and you
Were fashioned by the mighty Maker's hand,
In his own image made,
A thing unsullied as the Maker's self,
White winged with countless millioned happy years
To sing his praises in, why came you here
To mix identities with me,
To worry through the toil and moil of many years,
To wash yourself in tears
And die at last sore wounded, sullied, too,
Your white wings scorched, just for the slender chance
Of getting back to where and what you were?
Poor soul!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

The New Woman In the Metropolis. Mark Hanna's Democrat Nephew. Fencing Off the Cyclists.

Verily these are the days of woman's advancement. If this sort of thing keeps up much longer, instead of the old question, "Are women our equals?" we shall soon be asking, "Are we the equals of woman?" For example, next season's plans of the League For Political Education show a marked advance in political woman's standing. In this city she has been willing to make haste slowly, and consequently her every step has told. To fit herself fully for what lies before her she intends to study every phase of the subject. The class in political economy will have a committee of nine women to watch important bills before congress, the legislature and the common council. Civil service reform comes in for its share of attention, and a bulletin class of the world's progress, especially giving light on domestic and foreign politics, will continue throughout the year. Saturday morning lectures will be on political and social topics, and the rest of the week's schedule would seem to fill every available hour. The league is rejoicing in the nucleus of a circulating library which it is intended shall be one of the features of the society.

Clara Louise Kellogg Still Rich.

A story gained currency here a couple of years ago to the effect that Clara Louise Kellogg's large fortune had been dissipated. There was absolutely no truth in the rumor, and its falsity was promptly exposed. Periodically, however, since then it has bobbed up in various forms in many sections. It has also reached London at last apparently, as a recent mail from London discloses the fact that several of the English papers have wasted a good deal of sentiment on this same unfounded rumor. One of them says that in times past Clara Louise Kellogg displayed remarkable business aptitude, and the writer cannot understand how she has been brought to such extreme poverty. As a matter of fact she is still a wealthy woman, and her appearance at a table d'hote was the only foundation that this story of her poverty had. She has entertained her friends in New York as usual this past winter, and at present she is at her country home in Connecticut, riding a bicycle whenever the weather will permit.

Mark Hanna's Democrat Nephew.

There are very few families the members of which are all of one mind on the subject of politics, and consequently marked differences of opinion on that subject in the home circle scarcely excite comment. Here is a case, though, which is attracting a good deal of attention by reason of the great prominence of one of the interested parties.

William Hanna, a hustling young Tammanyite of the Sixteenth Assembly district of this city, who is employed in the county clerk's office, is a nephew of Mark Hanna, the campaign manager of Presidential Candidate McKinley. The nephew is a stalwart Democrat and will work hard to defeat McKinley, whom his uncle will work equally hard to elect.

"My father," said William Hanna, "and my uncle Mark were brought up in the old Eleventh ward. During President Buchanan's administration my father, who was a redhot Democrat, was superintendent of the navy yard in Brooklyn. Uncle Mark went west when he was quite a young man."

The spirit of vandalism seems to be born in human beings. What boy is there to whose ear the rattle of a pane of glass broken by his bean shooter is not the sweetest sort of music? And although it is held in check as we grow older, doubtless, in a measure, through a wholesome regard for the law and the fear of personal retaliation, the spirit will manifest itself upon the slightest provocation. This is shown by what has happened within the last few weeks at Irvington.

Cyclists at Irving's Home.

Bicyclists have been making pilgrimages to Washington Irving's old home, Sunnyside, at that place, in such numbers that it has been found necessary to surround the house with a wire fence, as the building is already in poor repair and the hordes of wheelmen that swept down on it every Sunday and holiday threatened to do the place serious damage. It was bad enough to have the beautiful and well kept grounds strewn with lunch boxes and papers, but when the bicyclists began to make themselves at home on the piazzas and about the house the wire fence was put up. This summer, for the first time in many years, the house is occupied only by a caretaker. It has belonged for years to two nieces of the author, who are elderly spinsters. By a restriction in Irving's will they are prevented from selling the property to any one but a member of the Irving family, and unless they did this the place, at their death, was to become the property of the state. About a year ago Sunnyside was bought by a nephew of theirs, and it is said to be his intention to enlarge and entirely restore the old home. The first step in this work was to fence off the bicyclists, who would have succeeded after awhile in making such an undertaking very difficult.

Children as Expert Cyclists.

Have you ever noticed how much more readily children take to sports and exercise in which agility and self confidence are factors than do their seniors? Any physician can give you the scientific reason, but the fact impresses one as being none the less remarkable despite that. By far the most skillful of the bicycle riders who crowd the Boulevard and the asphalted streets these fine afternoons are children, little shavers of from 5 to 10 years. The boys of this age who ride travel alongside of the older bicyclists without any difficulty, and, in fact, seem able to make greater distances with less fatigue than the grown ups. JOSEPH RUSSELL.

HUMOR

AFTER MANY, MANY YEARS.

A Theosophical Incident Showing That Man Is the Same In All Ages.

"It's no use talking to me. I think that men are the most careless creatures on the face of the earth!" And Mrs. Claude Falls Wright stamped her pretty little foot with evident anger.

"Why, what is the matter?" asked her husband in surprise.

"Don't pretend ignorance," was the reply Mr. Claude Falls Wright received. "It is bad enough as it is without that."

"No doubt, my dear," assented Claude patiently. "But won't you tell me what it is?"

"Then you mean to assert that you do not know?" propounded the theosophical wife, with a flash in the cold, blue eyes that could look clear into the fourth dimension.

"Indeed I do," he protested.

"Well," said his helpmeet through countless ages, with grim sternness, "I met Carrie Kummergen this morning."

Mr. Wright still looked puzzled.

—"and I have found out," she went on, weighing well her words, "that you never posted that letter to her"—

Poor Mr. Claude Falls Wright began to understand it all now.

—"which I gave you to mail"—

He fairly reeled beneath the weight of the crushing accusation.

—"five thousand years ago!"—New York Journal.

A Sportsman to the Backbone.

The late Duke of Hamilton, who was nothing if not a sportsman, had a curious way of remembering events. He coupled the thing he wished to bear in mind with turf occurrences of the same year. This habit once led to a curious admission. He was making a large claim against the estate of Mr. Padwick, and there was a preliminary hearing in one of the rooms of the court.

The questions and answers were sustained on the following lines throughout:

"What year did your grace's mother die?"

"I don't remember the date, but it was Bluegown's year."

"Do you remember the month?"

"Well, the weights were just out for the Lincoln handicap."—London Answers.

It's Different Now.

"Proud!" she exclaimed. "Why, he was as proud as a boy with his first pair of"—

"Tut, tut," he said warningly.

"What's the matter?" she asked. "There's nothing wrong with that expression, is there?"

"Oh, no," he replied. "There's nothing especially wrong with it, I suppose, but it's a little ancient and not exactly what one would expect of a new woman."

"But it's expressive, and I don't know anything that would better convey the idea"—

Again he interrupted.

"How much stronger and better it sounds," he said, "to say, 'As proud as a girl with her first pair of bloomers!'"—Chicago Post.

He Wondered.

Little Clarence—Pa!

Mr. Callipers—Well, my son?

"I took a walk through the cemetery today and read the inscriptions on the tombstones."

"And what were your thoughts after you had done so?"

"Why, pa, I wondered where all the wicked people were buried."—Truth.

A Common Failing.

"Parke Playce is always preaching economy, yet he never practices it."

"Oh, yes, he does."

"In what instance?"

"When he gives money to his wife."—Buffalo Times.

A Shrewd Girl.

"I wonder why she acts so silly."

Perhaps she is afraid of being thought old enough to know better."

Motive was, after all, a fathomless ocean of uncertainty.—Detroit Tribune.

His Quest.

Hazlet—Hello, Wheeler. You've become quite prodigal of exercise since you got that wheel.

Wheeler—Yes. I'm out for the fatted calf.—New York Press.

He Drank.

She—And will you buy me a pony, dearest, when we are married?

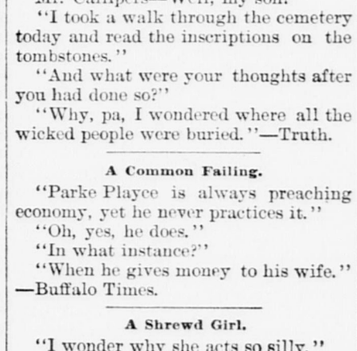
He (absently)—Wouldn't you rather have a schooner?—Detroit Free Press.

The Social Vacuum.

"Don't you find it dreary in town all summer?"

"Oh, no; so many bores go away!"—Chicago Record.

A Pair of Birds.



Phœbe—Does you love me?

Rastus—'Deed I does, honey!

"Let's fly!"

"Yes, angel, let's fly!"—New York Sunday World.

TEA, COFFEE AND COCOA.

Great Britain uses 18,000,000 pounds of cocoa every year.

Coffee can be grown successfully in all tropical countries.

The active chemical principle of cocoa is called theobromine.

Cocoa is made from the leaf of a plant closely resembling the holly.

The flake, or rock cocoa, is the cake made from the ground seeds.

India has now become, next to China, the largest tea growing country.

In Japan a favorite method of using tea is to grind the leaves to powder and drink them with the infusion.

The tea plant succeeds well in California, and a number of years ago extensive gardens were planted in that state by a colony of Japanese.

In 1664 the East India company made the queen of England a present of two pounds of tea, then considered so rare as to be fit only for royalty.

In 1554 coffee was first sold in the markets of Constantinople. It had probably been previously used by the Turks and was introduced by them as a beverage directly after the capture of the city.

Sassafras leaves contain so much mucilaginous matter that in some parts of the southern states when gumbo, or okra, is scarce the leaves of the sassafras are substituted in the making of gumbo soup.

The injurious effects of tea are supposed to be due to a volatile oil which it contains. In China no tea less than a year old is ever used, this length of time being necessary to allow the oil to escape from the leaf.

As much Mocha coffee comes from Brazil as from Arabia. The Brazilian Mocha consists of the small round beans growing at the tops of the branches. These are culled out from the others with great care and sold at a much higher rate.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PADDOCK AND TRACK.

Larabie has stepped a quarter in 33 seconds to road cart.

Matinee racing at Lexington, Ky., is becoming quite popular.

Charles Doble has Bravado, 2:10¾, in his string this season.

Comrade, 2:20½, is Onward's first contribution of the season.

It is rumored that $50,000 has been offered and refused for Adbell.

It is said that Joe Patchen, 2:04, will pull a 20 pound sulky this season.

Quadroon, the dam of Intrepid, 2:26¼, by Sherman, has a filly foal by Mambrino King.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS.

The naked savages of the south Pacific islands are to taste the delights of cycling. Oscar Pomare, prince of the island of Bora Bora, one of the largest of the Society group, having been educated in Europe and learned to cycle himself, has returned with a dozen machines, which he intends to introduce among the aristocracy of Bora Bora, to whom he will set the fashion as a wheelman. Here is an idea for the enterprising British trader! If the savage will not buy our cotton goods and blankets as much as before and looks askance upon our offers of cheap Bibles and hymnbooks, perhaps he will buy our machines. If the subject races of mankind were once bitten with the cycling craze, what tons upon tons of ivory and shiploads of oil and fiber might be obtained in exchange for a few pneumatics! It is perhaps unnecessary to say that Prince Pomare is not taking English machines out with him. His wheels are of American make.—St. James Budget.

A Boy Champion.

Little Conny Fergueson, or Cornelius Fergueson III, as he takes pride in writing his name, when 9 years of age was elected a member of the New Utrecht Rod and Gun club, one of the best known of the many shooting organizations that abound in and around New York.

Conny has shot several match races during the past year, the most notable being one against his father, at 50 birds. The contest proved to be one of main strength, for, while the boy was defeated, he led as far as the thirty-fifth round, when he began to tire. At the conclusion one member offered to back Conny for $500 against his father, under the same conditions, excepting that the number of birds be made 25. Fergueson, Jr., who recently won the Cobweb handicap, declined.

The most notable match was with Count C. F. Lenone of Passaic, N. J., in February last, the conditions being 30 birds each, the count standing at the 28 yard mark and Conny at the 26 yard line. He defeated the count easily, killing 28 of his 30, the count being able to grass but 18.

Conny Fergueson is without question the best live bird shot of his age in the world today—a fact that is conceded by all the authorities of the sport. He is a well bred, well built little fellow, of affable manner and the nerve of a veteran, which nothing disturbs at the traps.

Entertainment For Cycling Tourists.

In Pennsylvania a committee of the L. A. W. has canvassed the state in the interest of touring wheelmen. The result of the committee's labors is a list of about 150 hotels throughout the state which, distributed among the riders, will lead them to places where reduced rates will be given to riders showing membership.

A list of official repair shops is also being made up, covering about the same number of towns. To a touring rider it is often of the greatest value to know just where a reliable repairer can be found, and the list now in preparation will be of considerable use to such. That the committee may keep in touch with these repairers a nominal annual fee will be charged and each appointee will receive a formal certificate of appointment, which can be hung in the store or shop.—Exchange.

A Plea For Better Boxing.

In order to draw paying crowds the managers of the many athletic clubs will have to provide better attractions than they have been serving during the past season. This fact has been emphasized as show after show has placed a balance on the wrong side of the ledger. The clubs cling, however, to the idea that any old thing in the boxing line will draw a crowd as it did in the days when a pair of second rate fighters would attract a $10,000 house. As the patrons of boxing shows have become as good judges of the game as the managers, they are no longer disposed to buy the gold bricks offered by managers.—New York Sun.

Plays Baseball Without Arms.

A little negro lives near Uniontown, Ala., who is quite a freak in the baseball line. He lost both arms some time ago in a gin. He was so badly cut that they were both amputated near the shoulder. Yet he loves to play the national game. He generally is pitcher for his team, and his method of playing would paralyze a National leaguer. He throws the ball with his foot, and is said to be a good pitcher.

Sporting Notes.

A free yacht landing has been established in Gloucester harbor, Massachusetts.

Baseballist Anson vows that more bases are stolen these days than five years ago because the catchers are a poor lot of throwers.

President Young of the National Baseball league says that Lynch will remain an umpire as long as he chooses to.

The National Cyclists' union of England has suspended James Michael, the crack professional rider. He is charged with not racing honestly.

Daud, 2:28½, is the first Maine horse to get a mark better than 2:30 this year. He is a pacing son of Edgemark, 2:16, and Coral, by Nelson.

A yearling chestnut colt, by Rayon d'Or, out of Ballerina, the property of August Belmont, was sold in New York recently for $2,500.

Coyle, the lightweight jockey, was cautioned by the stewards of the Coney Island Jockey club recently for reckless riding.

Professor Peart, the Australian champion driver and swimmer, while essaying to plunge a distance of between 60 and 70 feet at Sydney recently, struck the side of the tank and received such injuries as to cause his death in a few hours.

GRIEF IS UNIVERSAL.

Sorrowing Thousands Pay Last Tribute of Respect to Mr. Russell.

Day Given Over to General Mourning at Cambridge.

President Cleveland Among the Distinguished Men to Attend the Funeral.

Cambridge, Mass., July 20.—The Russell obsequies are taking place in the city of Cambridge today, and the people who loved him so dearly are having an opportunity to gaze upon his face once more. Thousands are in the city to view the remains as they lie in state at city hall, or to attend the services in Shepard Memorial.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

President Cleveland, accompaned by Joseph Jefferson and Secretary Thurber, will attend the services at the church, and in addition there will be many distinguished persons of the commonwealth and nation.

At 11 o'clock private services were held at the late home of the ex-governor, and only the immediate members of the family were present. Dr. McKenzie spoke words of comfort to those here present.

Shortly before 12 o'clock a detail of 16 policemen, under command of Sergeants Pullen and Mullett of the Cambridge force, proceeded to the house. Eight of the policemen preceded the body and eight followed on its journey to the city hall, where it lay in state until 3 o'clock.

Arriving at the city hall the body was taken through a line of military to the rotunda on the first floor, where it was placed on a catafalque and underneath a canopy. The canopy was covered with black velvet.

Promptly at 12 o'clock the doors of the city hall were opened and the public admitted through the main entrance on Massachusetts avenue. They left the hall, after gazing upon the remains of the man they loved and honored, through two rear entrances.

The body will lie in state until 3 o'clock and then be conveyed directly to the Shepard Memorial church, where the services will be held at 4 o'clock, Rev. Dr. McKenzie presiding. After the services the body will be taken to Mt. Auburn cemetery and interred.

The casket is a fac simile of the one in which Governor Greenhalge was interred, and is known as a "state casket," and is made of Florida cedar, covered with black broadcloth, with extension bar handles of solid silver, and is lined with cream jewel satin tufted.

Upon the casket is a plain solid silver plate, 8½ inches by 4½ inches, and upon this is the following inscription:

BORN JANUARY 6, 1857.

WILLIAM EUSTIS RUSSELL.

DIED JULY 16, 1896.

The letters and figures are plain and are one-half inch in height.

The rotunda of the city hall is elaborately decorated with flowers and plants.

At the church, Warren A. Locke, organist of Appleton chapel, Harvard, and St. Paul's church, Boston, will officiate at the organ, and the music will be furnished by the boy's choir of St. Paul's church, Boston.

Ere another sunset, an honored son of an honored state will be borne to his last resting place beneath the oaks of fair Mt. Auburn. Through the great stone archway to where the marble shaft and sculptured urn mark the end of an early life, the funeral cortege will take its way.

Here is one of the many beautiful places in Cambridge where the late ex-governor delighted to visit. He used to say that it was a place where one could stand by nature's side and drink from the fountain of inspiration. Ofttimes as a boy he had wandered through this city of the dead, reading the inscriptions upon old tombstones, and in later years, he sought the place for the inspiration that gave him renown. Had he expressed a desire before he passed away it would have been that they place his body in this cemetery, where the summer flowers, the bright sunshine and the happy music of feathered songsters rob the dead of its gloom and sorrow.

The family of the dead statesman decided upon a burial lot on Grapevine avenue. It is in the southwestern part of the cemetery, where great oak trees stretch out their gnarled arm, and graceful birches bend to every breeze that blows. Many beautiful foliage plants adorn the green plots and flowering plants appear in radiant bloom. Here the ex-governor will be assigned to the grave, and later the body of the father, now in the receiving tomb, will be placed by his side.

A wreath of laurel suspended from the bell knob of the Russell home told the passer-by yesterday that an ex-governor had passed away. From early morn until late into the evening there was a stream of people passing and repassing the house. Patrolmen guarded the entrances to the driveway, and no one but the intimate friends and members of the family were allowed within. But the curiosity of the public did not overreach the limit. People spoke in subdued tones, and there was no loitering about the grounds; they were content to pass and repass, looking up to the front window of the chamber in which the body of their idol lay.

When the body reached the house late Saturday night the undertaker opened the casket and exposed the features. The features appeared lifelike in the extreme. "He looked," said one of the gentlemen who was present, "as though he was about to speak to us." The members of the family, including the aged mother, were sent for, and then, for the first time, they gazed upon the face of their dead. Mother, wife and brothers were grouped about the body of him now gone from them, and the grief of all was heartrending in the extreme. Kind friends were in the house of mourning and the afflicted ones were comforted with words of Christian kindness.

During the forenoon the undertaker visited the house and embalmed the body. The expression of the countenance was lifelike, and the characteristic smile lighted up the face as in the days gone by.

The death of ex-Governor Russell was the text of sermons from nearly every city pulpit yesterday, and many and eloquent were the tributes paid to the memory of Cambridge's favorite son. In his life and character were found the lessons upon true manhood and upon uprightness in public and private life.

Rev. Frank O. Hall of the North Cambridge Universalist church said in his sermon of Governor Russell: "Cambridge has always been proud of him, as the boy alderman, as the boy mayor, as the boy governor; but prouder of him than at any other time when he willingly sacrificed the noblest ambition that can fill an American heart rather than forfeit one item of principle to the achievement of that end. Alas, that a man of such intellectual ability, of such moral integrity, of such purity of character, should have departed life so soon. Let Cambridge mourn as a mother for her boy."

Rev. W. I. Haven of Brookline, at St. Mark's church, spoke on "The Three Governors of Mssachusetts—Robinson, Greenhalge and Russell," drawing lessons from the lives of these three men, whom death has removed within a few months. He said: "With the record made in the somewhat premature decease of the notable men who have died in and out of the office of governor of this commonwealth during the last few months—men like Ames, Rice, Robinson, Greenhalge and the favorite Russell—it is by such a necrology alone that we are warned that our public offices are unnecessarily draining off the priceless strength of our great and useful men."

Ex-Governor Williams Dead.

Augusta, Me., July 20.—Joseph H. Williams, ex-governor of this state, died at his home in this city yesterday, aged 82 years, from general debility. He was a graduate of Harvard. Afterward he entered the law office of his father, and was admitted to the bar in 1837. In 1856 he was elected to the state senate, being elected to the presidency of that body, and became governor when Governor Hannibal Hamlin was elected and became United States senator. Mr. Williams was in the legislature many years. He leaves a widow and daughter.

Trampled On by a Horse.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 20.—Clapp Spooner, ex-president of the Adams Express company, and one of Bridgeport's wealthiest citizens, was knocked down by a horse and trampled upon, as he was about to board a car near his home last evening. The man on the team gave his name as George Junior, and disappeared during the excitemnt. Mr. Spooner's right hip was fractured, and two ribs broken. As he is 73 years old, it is feared he will not survive.

Killed by a Fall.

New York, July 20.—At Washington park, N. J., yesterday, there were about 40,000 excursionists. As part of their amusement, Charlie Raymond, known as the "Boy Aeronaut," ascended in his balloon. Raymond cut loose his parachute, and in his descent amused the crowd with acrobatic feats. When he was about 200 feet from the ground he lost his hold on the bar and fell to the ground. He was fatally hurt.

Two Bad Boys.

Laconia, N. H., July 20.—Thomas and Joseph Lessard of Lakeport, aged 16 and 13 years respectively, were arrested Saturday charged with placing obstructions on the track of the Lake Shore road on April 12 last, when one man was seriously injured. They pleaded guilty, and were taken to jail in default of bonds for future appearance.

Held For Murder.

Exeter, N. H., July 20.—In the case of John M. Dow of South Seabrook, who was arraigned before Judge Shute of the local police court Saturday afternoon, charged with the murder Friday night of Josiah E. Brown of South Seabrook, contluance was granted until Wednesday upon the motion of John B. Young, who appeared for the state, and the respondent was committed to jail.

A Double Fatality.

Attleboro, Mass., July 20.—Francis O. Fitzpatrick, a brakeman on the Consolidated road, and a friend, Joseph Acton, were found dead on the top of a box car attached to a train upon its arrival here. The skulls of both men were fractured, and it is supposed that they were struck by an overhead bridge.

THE PLACE to get a good birds-eye view of the boats in a yacht race is upon the summit of Great Hill. From that height the whole white winged fleet lies at one's feet, and the eye takes in the position and course of the yachts.

Saturday was a perfect day for the boats. The club house is more attractive than ever, with its new grand piano; and again Quincy young people are fortunate in their surrounding.

WORDS AND tears come easily, but actions and a fresh brave life like that of Governor Russell's are rarely obtained. Apart from action in him that won universal respect and admiration, was a power of winning love of friends. Unless a lesson from his life is learned our words avail little. He will not have been the loser even in stopping just where life and the needs of his fellow-citizens held so much for him, if our young men who are in the battle these stormy days, will emulate his honesty and try to make their lives clean, and their motives clear. We need patriotism like his in these latter days, no less than in the early perilous days of our nation's life.

MANY FAIR ONES.

The Guests of the Squantum Yacht Club.

Ladies' Day on Saturday Successful and Enjoyable.

Parties Taken Out in Afternoon and Evening—Refreshments and Hop.

Bright cloudless skies and a cool easterly breeze were the elements that greeted the Squantum Yacht club Saturday at its ladies' day observance, and made it the most successful of any yet held by this club which is fast taking its place among the leading clubs of Boston harbor.

The guests began to arrive shortly after 2 o'clock when they were received by the committee, Mr. Benjamin Sargent, Dr. F. A. Locke and Capt. J. E. Drew, the latter being dressed in complete suit of immaculate white duck and looking as charming as ever.

Meanwhile the skippers of the several yachts in the fleet were busy getting their boats in trim to receive the fair guests, while waiting for the tide to rise enough for them to make the club float, and those at the club house were entertained with a concert by the orchestra. It was 3 o'clock when the first yacht arrived at the float and for the next half hour the skippers were busy getting their living freight on board.

At 3.30 the signal to get under way was given and the several yachts then passed in review, of Vice Commodore Hamilton Flood who was on the flagship Payomet, and then sailed away for a cruise about the bay.

The return was made about 6 o'clock, after which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served in the club house.

In the evening there was dancing at the club house, and those who desired were given a moonlight sail in the harbor.

The affair throughout was more than successfully managed and was very enjoyable to the many present, and will go down as a red letter day in the annals of the club's history.

Indians on a Tour.

In the woods at Milton there has recently been a camp of Indians consisting of three chiefs, two squaws, a 10-year old papoose, and a pale face who claimed to hail from Randolph. Saturday night they got possession of a lot of white men's fire-water, and all hands filled up and got gloriously drunk. During the early hours of Sunday morning they begun to have a kind of ghost-dance, and their shouts and cries could be heard for a long distance. Officer Farrington, who was on duty in that vicinity, sent in a call for the patrol wagon, and when it arrived on the scene the whole camp was bundled into the wagon and given a free ride to the little brick building near the Lower Mills presided over by Maurice Pierce. Maurice was not present when the party arrived, but Deputy McDermott and Officer Houghton did the honors of the occasion, and assigned them the best rooms the house afforded. The tribe remained indoors all day Sunday and enjoyed the regular bill of fare usually provided guests, and this morning they were given a carriage drive through the suburbs of Milton and East Milton to Quincy, where a stop was made at the Adams building. Here they were introduced to His Honor, Judge Humphrey, who was holding a reception. The party was presented individually by Clerk Churchill, and to each His Honor uttered these magic words: "Five dollars." The squaws paid, but as Mr. Churchill would not give credit the chiefs will journey on to Dedham, where they will put up in that large stone building provided by the county, as guests of Sheriff Endicott.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The bath room is closed this week for repairs.

Members of the Association and especially of the Cycle club were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Arthur Parsons, who has been a member of the Association for several years.

The open air service was held in front of the west building of the Quincy & Boston street railway on Sunday, through the kindness of Supt. Weeks. There was a good attendance and an inspiring address by Rev. Allan B. Hudson. Mr. Hudson spoke on the text "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Rev. Ira Price and Rev. E. N. Hardy participated in the service. The hour of the service has been changed to 4.30.

There will be a special meeting of the Cycle club tonight.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

Stone Cutters and Tool Sharpeners at Lovell's.

A Prominent Bicycle Racer Meets His Death.

Long List of Sports and the Winners of the Prizes.

The largest picnic of the season at Lovell's grove was the annual on Saturday of the Quincy stone cutters and tool sharpeners. It was a perfect day and the 2500 or more present enjoyed the sports, the dancing and the other diversions so numerous at this now popular resort.

One of the leading events of the day was a five-mile bicycle race on the track in the grove. It was an exciting contest and attracted a crowd. Arthur Parsons of Quincy in the flush of victory was thrown from his wheel by a boy who got in his way, and in his fall received his death blow. He was removed to the bowling alley and medical aid summoned. Dr. Gilbert and Dr. Hunting attended him at the grove, and desired his removal to the Quincy hospital. But by wish of his mother he was taken home. There he was attended by Dr. Hallowell and Dr. Hunting, but did not recover consciousness, and died before midnight.

The Quincys had it much their own way in the ball game defeating the West Quincys 24 to 9.

Considerable interest centered in the tug-of-war contests, in which the Swede team won two out of three from the Nova Scotians.

The other sports resulted as follows:

Throwing hammer—A. D. Martin first, J. C. Casey second. Distance 100 feet, 2 inches.

Putting shot—J. C. Casey first, Angus McPhail second. Distance 33 feet, 8 inches.

Running high jump, without weights—J. D. McNeil first, C. F. Moore second. Distance 5 feet.

Running high jump, with weights,—J. C. McNeil first, James McLeod second. Distance 5 feet, 2 inches.

100-yard dash—J. F. Ryan first, J. T. McNeil second.

Egg and ladle race—C. Moore first, J. McIntosh second.

Two-mile bicycle race—Arthur Parsons first, E. Opie second.

Boys' race—Wm. Smith first, Wm. Malcolm second.

Running hop, step and jump, without weights—J. F. Ryan first, W. J. Curran second. Distance 41 feet, 4 inches.

Running hop, step and jump, with weights—W. J. Curran first, J. F. Ryan second. Distance 41 feet, 6 inches.

Running broad jump, without weights—J. F. Ryan first, James McLeod second Distance 18 feet, 7½ inches.

BUY

-TEA-

Of Boston Branch Grocery.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

GRAND OPEN RAGE.

Annual of Quincy Yacht Club a Great Success.

Emma C., Swirl, Rooster, Alpine and La Chica the First Boats.

Many Entries, a Good Wind and Perfect Management.

The 130th and regular annual regatta of the Quincy Yacht Club was sailed off the club house at Houghs Neck on Saturday afternoon before an audience which taxed the club house and adjacent shores to their utmost capacity

It was an ideal day from a lady's point of view but not quite so from the racing skippers. The wind was dead east, light, but still strong enough to blow in the boats, in the larger classes over the course well inside of the time limit of three and a half hours.

It was a great race, 35 yachts starting, within four of the number which sailed at the city of Boston Fourth of July regatta. It was well managed, there was not a slip up from the beginning to the end.

The course for the first, second, third and knockabout classes was a long one. It was course No. 2:—Across the line between the judges' stand and flag-float, leaving flag-float on the starboard and passing between Sheep and Grape islands to Red Brush bouy No. 2 in Hingham Channel, leaving it on port; thence to Red Dolphin on Seal Rocks, leaving it on the port; thence leaving barrel off Sheep Island on the port to starting line, leaving flag-float on the port and repeat. Distance, 12 miles.

The course for the fourth class was shorter: Across the line between judges' stand and flag-boat, leaving flag-boat on starboard, to spar buoy between Sheep and Grape islands, leaving it on the starboard; thence to the buoy on Jacknife ledge, leaving it on the starboard; thence leaving White Spar buoy off Raccoon island on the port; thence to flag-boat near judges' float, leaving it on the starboard; thence to spar buoy between Sheep and Grape leaving it on the starboard; thence, to buoy on Jacknife Ledge, leaving it on the starboard; thence leaving White Spar buoy off Raccoon island on the port to judges' stand, passing between it and the flag-boat. Distance, seven miles.

At three o'clock the preparatory gun boomed out and the blue peter was run up on the judges' stand. At 3 15 the gun starting the first-class was fired. There was some handsome jockeying among the skippers of these big flyers for first place. The Beatrice took the lead. She put up a good race until off Sheep island when her shrouds showed signs of parting. It then became necessary to take in her topsail. With this down in such light air meant the loss of the race for her. The Emma C. and Ida J. pulled upon her and had a pretty fight of their own over the rest of the course.

There was more fun in the second class than all the rest of the classes put together. Henry M. Faxon was out for blood. So were "Bill" Daly, "Mel" Woods and Small. But the Swirl showed them all twice around the course. Young Sears protested everything that was in reach,—the Gleaner for fouling, and the Swirl, Gleaner and Privateer for not giving away when called upon to so do.

In the third class the Rooster cleaned out everything and had time to think about it afterwards.

Hull sent over its fleet of knockabouts. The La Chica was an easy winner.

In the fourth class the Alpine, of Lynn, beat the fleet, hands down. She came over Thursday to be on time for the race.

The Fantasy and Primrose protested their own measurements, so it will be some time before the prizes will be awarded.

The judges were: Commodore Charles F. Pettengill, James S. Whiting, John W. Sanborn, Eben W. Sheppard and Harrison A. Keith. The summary follows:

Amory-Gaudelet Wedding.

Mr. William Amory of "Seven Oaks" and Miss Louise Gaudelet were quietly married on Saturday by the Rev. Walter Russell Breed of Quincy, at the residence of Mrs. F. Gordon Dexter of 163 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Mr. Amory is of a well known Boston family and many have enjoyed his hospitality at his summer residence on Quincy avenue, the "Seven Oaks."

Miss Gaudelet formerly lived with her mother on Beacon Hill, Boston, and was known as an accomplished musician. Later she became secretary to Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, filling that position until the time of his death. She then went to live with her friend, Mrs. Gordon Dexter, the well-known society leader, with whom she had since made her home. She is a finely accomplished, broadly cultured woman, very handsome and attractive personally.

Mr. and Mrs. Amory were at Seven Oaks over Sunday, and their wedding trip will be a cruise in Mr. Amory's fine steam yacht to Bar Harbor.

—Sunday was a great day at Nantasket, the easterly breeze making it delightfully cool. Hotel Nantasket was the centre of attraction and did a thriving business. High tide was at 6.30 P. M., and there was considerable bathing all the afternoon.

—John M. Gamewell, the inventor of the Gamewell fire alarm system, died in Hackensack, N. J., on Sunday, aged 73 years.

—John E. Curtis, the superintendent of the shoe manufactory of Rice & Hutchins at Marlboro died Saturday night.

Mr. Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th street, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for her complete restoration to health.

A TRIANGULAR FIGHT.

Populists' Convention Promises to Be a Rather Lively Affair.

Some Kind of a Bolt Figured Upon as a Certainty.

Wide Diversity of Opinion Shown In Statements of Various Leaders.

St. Louis, July 20.—Few of the delegates to the Populist convention have arrived, but among the leaders who have reached the city a very bitter war has developed. They seem to be aligning themselves for a three-cornered fight; first, those who favor a straight endorsement or nomination of Bryan and Sewall, which will bring to the Chicago ticket the support of the Populists; second, those who enjoy a fusion electoral ticket, which will maintain the Populist party organization intact and place the leaders in a position to demand recognition in the event the ticket is successful; and third, what are known as the "Middle of the Road" Populists, who favor an independent platform and ticket and who oppose fusion in any form. The latter, if present indications count for anything, will eventually be overruled.

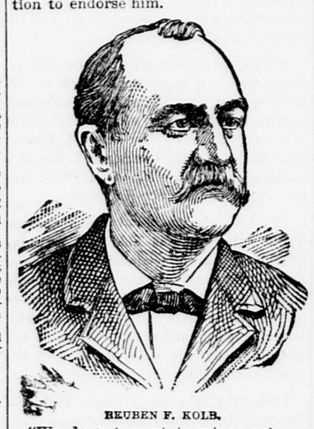
The "Middle of the Road" men, however, will prove strong and valuable allies of the leaders of the second class, who are determined to preserve their party organization at all hazards, but who express an earnest desire to combine all the silver strength if a way can be found to give them recognition. The real fight, it is believed, will come between this faction and those who are in favor of putting behind them for the present all pride of party for the sake of the cause of silver, to which they are pledged.

Chairman Taubeneck, the chairman of this middle wing, gave out a statement outlining the plan of fusion electors as the only condition on which he is willing to join hands with the free silver Democracy. But even with fusion electors he wants a set of Populist nominees, the purpose being, if his plan is carried out, to elect Bryan president and a Populist vice president. Taubeneck's interview met with a storm of protests from the faction which advocates a straight endorsement of Bryan and Sewall as the only chance of solidifying the silver forces and gaining victory.

Mr. Patterson of Colorado, who heads the regular Colorado delegation, came out in an interview, in which he denounced Taubeneck's plan as not only impracticable, but impossible. He declared that insistence upon such a plan would savor of a deal and jeopardize the cause of silver, to which all professed to be, and should be, devoted. While he counselled the maintenance of the Populist organization in the future, he went so far as to intimate that those who now sought to place it above the cause of silver were looking to their personal advancement, and such loaves and fishes as might come to them with the advent of a silver administration. Among those Populists who have arrived from the south there is much opposition to the plan of endorsing Bryan and Sewall without conditions.

What Kolb Says.

Reuben F. Kolb, who has become famous on account of the fights he has made for the governorship of Alabama, has arrived. He says he does not know just what action the Alabama delegation will take, but for himself, he has no objection to the nomination of Bryan, but does not want the Populist convention to endorse him.



REUBEN F. KOLB.

"We do not want to wipe out our identity," said he, "we must not efface ourselves." Mr. Kolb also declared that the Populists will want a part of the electors. This is quite a favorite idea of the southern delegates now here. The nomination of Bryan by the Populist convention, with an agreement that the electors in the south shall be divided between the Democratic and Populist parties, seems to be the demand that will be made by the southern leaders.

Senator Butler of North Carolina, who heartily favors harmonizing all the silver elements as the only way to win, points out the strong enmity between the Populists and Democrats in the south, and expresses the opinion that unless the Populist organization is recognized in the fight, through fusion electors, it will be impossible to secure the support of the rank and file of the Populists of the south for the Chicago ticket.

George F. Washburne of Boston, chairman of the eastern wing of the Populists, returned yesterday from a visit to Mr. Bryan at Lincoln, where he went presumably to confer with the candidate concerning his endorsement of the Populists. He was outspoken in his expression that the Chicago ticket should be endorsed and the people be given an opportunity to express a clear verdict on the issue.

All the indications are that the convention will be a lively affair, with the certainty of much bitter wrangling, the probability of some sensational incidents and of a bolt of larger or smaller dimensions, no matter what the ultimate decision of the convention is. Victory for silver is their slogan, and they oppose anything which will tend to cloud the issue or divide the silver strength. They expect by their action to exercise a strong influence over the other convention, especially as there seems to be a disposition to arrange joint compromises of the silver and Populist leaders.

Ex-Governor Lewellyn of Kansas is one of the energetic Bryan men to be seen at the Lindell. When asked as to the nomination of Mr. Bryan, he said: "I can speak for Kansas, I can speak for Kansas. That state is most heartily in favor of the endorsement of Bryan. We believe that the shortest cut to silver is the best. Our party stands for more than free silver, and we can obtain it with Bryan. The Chicago platform contains a great deal that we want. It is a pretty good Populist platform, Bryan is a pretty good Populist. The Democracy is regenerated. It is getting back to the principles of Jefferson. That is what the country needs."

Coxey's Suggestions.

Jacob S. Coxey, who is a delegate-at-large from Ohio, is not in favor of endorsing, or even taking the course pursued by a great many of the Populist leaders and "nominating" instead of "endorsing" Bryan. He thinks a straight ticket should be nominated, but is pushing a plan which he says will unite the silver against the gold vote.

J. S. COXEY.

It is to have electors selected pro rata according to the votes cast by the parties whose national conventions have declared for silver. That would give the Democrats, the Populists and the Prohibitionists each representation in several states. He wants these electors put on one ticket. When the electoral college meets the highest vote, he says, should name the president and the next highest vote the vice president. This would give the Populists the vice presidency, if the scheme should be adopted. General Coxey will press his plan before the convention.

FORAKER WILL BE BUSY.

Will Met Bryan In Debate If the Latter Insists Upon It.

Canton, O., July 20.—The one man who will make the greatest number of speeches for Major McKinley in the west this fall is Senator-elect Foraker of Ohio. He will assume the leading role of oratory which the Republicans will put forth in the west.

HON. J. B. FORAKER.

The longest single trip which any one man will make in the interest of the Republican party will be made by Mr. Foraker. If Mr. Bryan insists on a joint debate with the Republicans over the currency question, it is understood that Foraker will be the man assigned to meet him. At any rate, a trip is being arranged for him, in which he will follow the Northern trunk line from Minneapolis through to the Pacific coast.

Teller Offers His Services.

Lincoln, Neb., July 20.—That William J. Bryan will receive the support of Henry M. Teller of Colorado there can be no longer any doubt. Mr. Bryan has received a letter from Senator Teller, in which he assured him he would support him in his race for president. The letter received was as follow:

"I congratulate you upon your nomination at Chicago. I think the country is to be congratulated also. I need not assure you that your nomination was more than satisfactory to me. I think we shall be able to consolidate all the friends of free silver in your support, and if we do I believe you will be elected, although I do not overlook the tremendous power that will be put against us in this campaign.

"All the power of money and organized wealth, corporations and monopolies of all kinds will be against us. Justice is on our side, and this is the cause of the people. It is a contest for industrial independence and for freedom from the domination of foreign powers and foreign capitalists, and it does not seem possible that in such a contest before the American people that justice should fail and wrong prevail. I do not believe we shall fail. I think I can promise you the cordial support of the western silver men who have heretofore acted with the Republican party, and can you get that I think all of the western coast and inter-mountain states will be with you.

"I will not offer any suggestions to you, save to advise you that as you were nominated without pledges of favor to any one that you maintain that position and make no pledges or promises, so that you may go into the great office of president of the United States without the embarrassment that follows pledges and promises, even if they are such as may be properly carried out. It will afford me pleasure to place myself at the disposal of the national committee to make speeches in your behalf as my health will permit, where and whenever they may think I will do good."

All the delegates to the convention are expected to reach the city by tomorrow afternoon.

Camp to Be Shifted.

Cairo, July 20.—There were 392 new cases of cholera in Egypt on Friday and Saturday, and 338 deaths from that disease. Since the outbreak of cholera among the Egyptian troops between Assouan and Koshek, there has been a total of 260 cases and 165 deaths among them. Among the British troops there have been 23 cases and 18 deaths. It has been decided, owing to the increase of the epidemic, to remove the whole camp from the Nile river bank back into the desert.

Not Many of Them.

Manchester, N. H., July 20.—The Socialistic-Labor party held a state convention here yesterday. There were 18 delegates present. Harry H. Acton of this city was nominated for governor of the state by a unanimous vote. Four presidential electors were chosen by the convention.

Hermit Killed Himself.

Kennebunkport, Me., July 20.—A searching party yesterday found in the woods the body of Fred Brown, an eccentric hermit, who had been missing several days. He had committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Boys In a Stabbing Affray.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

WITH SIMPLE HONORS

The Body of Ex-Governor Russell Is Laid In Its Last Resting Place.

Many Thousands Paid a Last Tribute of Respect.

Cambridge, Mass., July 21.—The tears of heaven and the tears of a loving people were mingled at the graveside of the Bay state's dead. Ex-Governor William Eustis Russell sleeps in beautiful Mt. Auburn cemetery. Under the oaks, on a bed of pine tree boughs, and beneath a wealth of roses and laurel, the pride of Cambridge and the idol of a great people found the silence of the grave, and the peace that comes to all.

Men of every walk in life, those whose names are emblazoned on the tablets of American history, whose fame has traversed the great waters to foreign lands, laid aside the daily details of life and offered their personal tributes to the memory of one who has passed into and become a part of the perfect life.

From the national capital, from the great cities of the east, from the municipalities and distant hamlets of our own New England, old and young flocked to Cambridge, there to join in and become a part of that great throng, whose burden was the burden of sorrow. The president of the republic, Grover Cleveland, Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court, Governor Wolcott, congressmen, state senators, representatives and city rulers, all were there, and because they had known the dead governor in life and had therefore come to stand by the silent bier as a final duty and a final privilege to the memory of a pure manhood.

From the early hours of the morning until the shadows fell, the beautiful university town was thronged with "stranger friends" of the dead. They came long ere the first funeral exercises of the day were to take place, and they loitered about the places which the ex-governor had known so well in his boyhood. The walks, and even Brattle street itself, were crowded early in the day, and many gathered about the old Washington elm, gazing upon the ivy-clad Shepard Memorial church, from which the funeral cortege was to take up its final journey to the city of the dead.

About the home of the Russell family, on Brattle and Channing streets, thousands were assembled at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, when the private services were being held inside, and when the body was taken to the hearse at 11 o'clock it required a large detail of mounted police to keep the passage clear for the procession. At the home, Dr. McKenzie had spoken words of Christian comfort and kindness to the members of the family and a few intimate friends.

The body was taken to city hall just before 12 o'clock, and placed on the catafalque in the great rotunda. At noon the doors were thrown wide open, and the impatient people allowed to pass through and gaze upon the face of the dead. In two lines men, women and children walked past. One look, that was all, but it showed the smiling face of him whose cheering greetings in life were characteristic of the man.

Fully 30,000 people passed the bier ere the hour of 3 had arrived, and even then there were thousands waiting in line—all doomed to bitter disappointment. There were many touching scenes—involuntary acts, that bespoke the stricken heart. Gray-haired men gazed upon the well known face, and at once the tears coursed down their cheeks. Strong men were not ashamed to weep, and tender-hearted women had come to offer their tribute of grief for the man whose home life they knew to be pure and holy.

When the three hours had passed, and the limit of time came all too soon, the body was taken to Shepard Memorial church, where, beneath a mound of floral tributes, the casket was placed, in the presence of the people.

Here Dr. McKenzie spoke words of sympathy and prayer. He said among other things: "We are not here for eulogy. The smitten nerves, the broken hearts, are not yet still enough for us to tell in formal sentences the meaning of this life, and to gather the teachings which are its bequests. This service is for sympathy and prayer. In our bewilderment the first thought which touches our grief is the brevity of the years which are told.

"Gone 'ere his prime,' we say. Length of days would have indeed been length of influence and the extension of fame. Yet days cannot measure life, nor set bounds to its course. 'What thou livest, live well.' The life which is the same as his has flowed from its mysterious urn, a sacred stream not to disappear, but under other names to make the earth green and fruitful where it runs.

"Along the path he trod, others of less daring, will find their way. This is to live. Life is in three dimensions. What his lacked in one, being here, was made up in two. It was a cube, not a line or a plane. He has had length of years enough to disclose the secret of nobility and give it ample illustration."

As the body was borne from the church by the pallbearers, the entire congregation rose to their feet while the choir sang, "For all the saints who from their labors rest."

The members of the family sat behind a bank of palms, and listened to sweet music by a boy choir, and the kind remarks of a loving pastor. The family pew was vacant, and a string of smilax and roses across the entrance was eloquent in its silence. In one of the front pews, directly in front of the pulpit, sat President Cleveland, and oftentimes he was seen to wipe away the tears that came to his eyes.

Without 30,000 people and more filled the streets and the common, waiting for the end of the church services, and when the casket was brought to the hearse again, then to journey to the grave, the people followed, and could not be induced to depart until they knew it had been lowered to its last resting place.

Only the immediate family, with a few intimate friends, followed the remains to the newly-made grave in Mt. Auburn cemetery. The lot itself is a new one, and was purchased only Saturday by the Russell family. The body of the father of Governor Russell, Hon. Charles Theodore Russell, was removed from the tomb yesterday, and today father and son repose side by side beneath the outstretched branches of a sturdy oak tree.

The services at the grave were short, Dr. McKenzie reading only a portion of the regular service, and closing the impressive exercises of the day by a brief prayer.

A Maine Church Scandal.

Portsmouth, N. H., July 21.—Kittery is all agog over a scandal in the Free Baptist church at the Point. A short time ago Rev. A. S. Buzzell, the pastor, was asked to resign, and for the past two weeks Rev. Robert L. Dustin of this city has supplied the pulpit. Pastor Buzzell has held opposition meetings in Ames hall, and held an open air meeting at Government grove, which was largely attended. The trouble is said to have arisen over the fact that the pastor adopted a young boy whom the society did not think was of good parentage.

Rejected Lover's Alleged Crime.

Waterbury, Conn., July 21. — James Sullivan was arrested last evening, charged with arson, in setting Michael McSweeney's house on fire at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The attention which Sullivan has been paying to one of McSweeney's daughters have been rejected, and she declares that as a result of her expressed aversion to him he threatened several weeks ago to set the house on fire. It is alleged that he was seen coming out of the cellar of the house a few moments before the fire started.

Insurance Rates Advanced.

Middletown, Conn., July 21.—Insurance rates in this city have recently advanced, in some cases 25 per cent. Local merchants maintain that the cause is the poor condition of the fire department, and that the rates are predicated on the basis of the equipment and efficiency of of the fire department in a city of this size. The firemen do not know whether the volunteer service is to be continued or a paid department organized. This matter has hung so over a year, and is no nearer settlement than in the beginning.

Forced to Quit Work.

Melrose, Mass., July 21.—Contractor Everline, who has the contract to build a section of the local sewer system, and who has had much trouble with his Italian laborers, started work yesterday with a new gang. It was at work an hour when a party of strikers appeared and forced the men to quit. Mr. Everline applied to the selectmen for police protection, but he did not get it, and it is intimated that he has given up his contract because of the refusal of the authorities to protect his men.

Marine Exposition Opened.

Falmouth, Mass., July 21.—The marine and industrial exposition, the largest enterprise of the kind ever attempted on Cape Cod, was formally opened here last night, under the auspices of the board of trade. Addresses were made by Henry A. Thomas and Senator Roe. There was a large attendance. The fair will continue through this week, with special excursions from various sections of the state.

On a Serious Charge.

South Framingham, Mass., July 21.—A woman styling herself "Mrs. Dr. Lecuyer" was arrested here yesterday on the charge of attempted criminal operation on Maude Loveday of Holliston. The prisoner has been located on a farm run by one Moses Lecuyer, who is alleged to be her husband, on the main road from this place to Holliston. Miss Loveday is 21 years old.

WIELDED AN AXE.

Woman With a Bad Name Tried to Wipe Out a Whole Family.

Huntington, W. Va., July 21.—Mrs. Etta Robbins, a notorious character, is in jail here, accused by the verdict of the coroner of the murder of A. J. Call, his daughter Nettie, aged 25, and also of mortally wounding Lottie Call, a daughter 30 years of age, besides seriously wounding Ottie Call, aged 11, and Grace Call, aged 13. The scene was a shanty boat, moored six miles above here, of which the victims and murderess were joint companions. The facts, as related by the murderess, are that Call came to her apartment about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, with a double-edged axe, and assaulted her murderously, when she took the axe from him and killed him.

Grace Call's story is that she awakened, while sleeping with her father, and saw Mrs. Robbins cutting her father's throat with the axe. He was dead when she got up. Just then, Nettie ran in, and Mrs. Robbins chopped her to death. Grace then ran out to give the alarm, and was struck twice in her flight. Then the infuriated woman struck down Ottie, and pursued Lottie, striking her once before she jumped, and hitting her again while she was in the river. Lottie clung to the willows, and managed to get ashore.

Mrs. Robbins is the heroine of many atrocities, the latest was the dispersing of a baptismal party by flourishing a revolver and threatening to kill the preacher.

Call's head was nearly cut off, and so was Nettie's. Lottie's right arm is nearly severed at the shoulder. The others are less seriously hurt. Great crowds, wrought up all but to a lynching point, surround the jail.

Speaks of Forgery.

Washington, July 21.—The most important paper, it is considered, that has so far appeared in the Venezuelan boundary dispute, is Venezuela's brief, prepared by Counsel Storrow, which was presented to the Venezuelan commission and to the British counsel yesterday. For the first time a true divisional line, in accordance with the evidence, is laid down, and Lord Salisbury's contention as to settlements is shown to be a mere diplomatic quibble, utterly unsupported by law or fact, and unworthy of any consideration by the commission. Mr. Storrow demonstrates that there never has been any British sovereignty in the disputed territory; that the Dutch never gained the slightest foothold in the Orinoco basin, and, therefore, never transferred what did not exist to Great Britain, and caps his strong arguments by demonstrating that the Schomburgk line, as held by Lord Salisbury, was a forgery perpetrated by the English government 20 years after Schomburgk's death.

Serious Trouble Brewing.

Sullivan, Ind., July 21.—The situation among the coal miners of this district is a very serious one. The sheriff is at Starr City, and if all the imported miners from Taylorsville, Ills., are not out of the field today, loss of life probably will take place. At Starr City last night the imported miners were attacked by a crowd of the strikers, and one of the men was seriously injured. The sheriff was called on for protection, and left for Starr City with a number of deputies to protect life and property. The citizens are beginning to fear that the time is fast approaching when the military will be called out to restore order.

Burns 1796—1896.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The final word of interpretation and criticism has not been said, and will not be until—the final word is spoken. I have seen no tribute to Robert Burns which appeals to me with such return of satisfaction as does the ode to Burns written for today by Maurice Thompson. Out of its twenty-six stanzas I quote the eleventh, twelfth and last:

"No man shall sing again, as thou didst sing,
Clad as a clown, the plowshare following,
None heave the flail,
A slave to toil, as thou, yet slaving wring,
With sudden grip and force that cannot fail,
Out of Fate's hand the lute that Love did string,
And shame the nightingale.

"To the dry well-head never more returns
The sweet chill water. Not again O Burns!
A clod shall feel.
How from the soil unhindered Nature yearns,
How on the sky dream-splendors flare and reel,
And how a soul, inspired of Freedom, spurns
Convention's courtly seal.

* * * * * *

[Then for the last nine stanzas Theocritus and Burns are linked together, as though in two thousand years there were no intermediary after their kind. Some critics would make a triad by adding Bevanger, a lad when Burns died, but the universal suffrage has not so decreed.]

"But oh, for evermore the world shall keep
The shepherd's music in its bosom deep,
Remembering well,
The epochs surge and centuries grind and sweep,
The blithe Sicilian on his stony fell,
And him who made the heart of Scotland weep
From out his Ayrshire dell."

I respectfully submit that while a poem can hardly be fairly judged from a few fragments, yet the above stanzas in themselves are fit, fine and beautiful.

☞ The Commercial Advertising Critic, Nathl. C. Fowler, Jr., has the following to say in regard to "Acadia," a book which has just been issued by the Canada-Atlantic and Plant Steamship Company:

"'Acadia' stands in a class by itself. It reads like a poem of sense. Its corners are curved. Its sentiment is as pure and as bright as the brooks you write about. It's honest. You paint your pictures with nature's brush dipped in the sunshine. Above all, over all, and under all, remains one monumental fact, against which the cannons of criticism cannot penetrate—It 's a book the people want."—Savannah Morning News.

—It was a strange coincidence that the deaths of John M. Gamewell of Hackensack, N. J., the inventor of the fire alarm system, and Nehemiah S. Bean of Manchester, N. H., the constructor of the first steam fire engine, should come but one day apart this week.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The Appropriation for Adams Street Goes Through Flying.

But Copeland Street Must Wait for a Hearing in September.

Councilman Moxon Takes Exceptions to Chair and is Sat Upon.

Councilman Geary was the only absent member.

Petitions.

Councilman Lamb presented a petition that the tracks of the Quincy & Boston street railway on Copeland street, between Crescent and Water streets, be changed from the side to the center of the street.

The order was laid on the table, and later in the evening Councilman Lamb offered an order for a public hearing, August 17.

Councilman Field objected to the method of procedure. He would not say there was any underhand work, but he thought the petition should be referred to the Committee on Streets.

Councilman Lamb said there was no underhand work. If this hearing was held, the matter would then go to the Committee on Streets, and they could then turn on the X rays.

Councilman Pinkham moved to amend, that the hearing be held Sept. 14.

Amendment adopted.

The order was then passed by a vote of 10 to 8.

Reports of Committees.

The Committee on Finance reported a slight amendment to the order appropriating $4000 for rebuilding that part of Adams street between Whitwell street and Furnace brook.

Amendment and report adopted.

Councilman Moxon offered an amendment that the words "not exceeding five per cent." be striken out and the words "four per cent." be substituted. Adopted.

The rules were then suspended and the order passed to be ordained, Councilman Hayden alone voting in the negative.

COUNCILMAN HAYDEN.

The Committee on Streets reported ought to pass on order appropriating $520 for building a retaining wall on Willard street. The order was advanced a stage.

The Committee on Finance reported leave to withdraw on petition of Annie M. Wood for rebate of taxes. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass an order authorizing the tax levy of $202,500 and $2 on each poll by taxes. Passed to be ordained under suspensions of the rules.

The Committee on Finance reported that order for $17,000 for heating and ventilating apparatus for wooden school buildings be recommitted to Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Sprague asked the reason.

Councilman Claflin replied that no plans accompanied the order and it was impossible to get any data as to what it was necessary to do, and it was rather a question for the Committee on Public Buildings to look into.

Report adopted.

Upon motion of Councilman Nickerson the report of the Committee on Licenses on petition of M. R. Sparrow for a victuallers' license was taken from the table.

Councilman Nickerson then offered a substitute order granting the license which was partially "accepted and adopted."

Councilman Lamb moved to refer back to petitioners, which was voted.

He then presented a petition for the acceptance of Buckley street as a public way. To committee on Streets.

He also presented a petition to change the arc light from near Smith's polishing shop to Buckley street. To executive department.

Councilman Moxon asked if the Sparrow license had passed and being informed that it had he raised a point of order claiming that two motions were required to grant the license, one accepting the substitute order and the other to pass it.

President Bryant refused to take any notice of the point raised by Councilman Moxon and the council immediately adjourned. Time 8.12.

FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Card Given a Hearing for Death of Farmer Henderson.

The case against William Card for assault upon Charles L. Henderson at Braintree came up for hearing this morning. The original complaint against Card was for assault, but the developments at the inquest held Monday were of such a nature that a new warrant was issued this morning charging him with manslaughter, upon which he was given a hearing this morning, being represented by A. P. Worthen, Esq.

John S. Hallimore of Brockton, the first witness, testified that on the Saturday before Henderson died, Card came to Brockton and asked him where he could find Mrs. Henderson's son. Witness was suspicious, and he questioned Card, who finally admitted that he had had a row with Henderson and had broken his jaw. Sunday, Card came after him, saying that Henderson was dying. When he arrived Henderson was dead. Mrs. Henderson said he had died of pneumonia, and that he was a brute, and no one but she and God knew what she had suffered.

Arthur Cunningham of Braintree testified that on the day of the assault he was in his pasture, when he heard a woman screaming, and heard her cry out, "Oh! Will, don't, don't." He had seen Mrs. Henderson and Card out riding several times.

Officer Edward D. Howard of Holbrook saw Henderson the morning after the assault when he came for a warrant. His face was cut and he walked lame.

Charles H. Jameson of Braintree knew Card and the Hendersons. He had a conversation with Mrs. Henderson in the barn on Sunday after Henderson died. Mrs. Henderson told him that on Friday Henderson was very sick and she called Dr. Dearing who came several times. Sunday he died. Mrs. Henderson said he died of pneumonia. Witness had seen Card and Mrs. Henderson walking and riding together and had seen them at work together in the field. They worked awhile and then went into the woods where they remained about an hour then came out and went to work again.

The defendant waived the testimony of the medical examiner and offered no defence.

The court said the testimony of the medical experts at the inquest was that Henderson had died of pneumonia caused by violence, and that it had been proven that the violence had been inflicted by the defendant.

He then held Card in $5,000 for the Grand Jury.

Co. K at Framingham.

Co. K. of Braintree went into camp at Framingham Monday evening during a heavy rain. A regimental guard was soon established by the Fifth Regiment. The few sentries who were on duty remained under cover.

The Herald says: The camp of the Fifth regiment was looking exceedingly neat and trim, through the efforts of Quartermaster Wonson and his sergeant, Ramsey, who for the past two days have been working might and main to accomplish that aim. The headquarters never looked better than they did upon the arrival of the main body of the regiment, under command of Maj. Oakes, at about 10 o'clock last evening.

A Donation.

Among the mail received at Weymouth Monday was a letter addressed to Thomas Fitzgerald, Chief of Police, Weymouth, Mass.

Upon opening the letter two dimes and a nickel rolled out, also the following letter written on a Mellan House letter head:

FALL RIVER, July 19, 1896.

Mr. Fitzgerald: Inclosed find a small sum for the contribution of the party of free silver, hoping you will make a careful distribution. Truly yours,

SAMUEL GREEN, Mayor Fall River.

Whether this is the work of a crank or of someone who owed Officer Fitzgerald twenty-five cents is a matter conjecture.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The demand for tickets for the moonlight excursion this evening is so great that the Surf City has been abandoned and the William Morrison engaged.

The Y. M. C. A. Sloyd class has grown to such proportion that a second class is probable.

—The letter of Mayor Adams of Quincy, calling upon the Norfolk county towns to protest against the payment by the county of legal counsel of the county commissioners at the recent investigation, was before the board of selectmen of Franklin, last week, and the clerk was directed to reply to the effect that the members of the board were in sympathy with such a project, that if deemed necessary they would call a town meeting to get the sense of the citizens in the matter, and be instructed how to proceed to prevent the contemplated raid on the treasury of the county.—Franklin Sentinel.

—The smoking car, says the Boston Herald, is the only open car in New York, and the fair ladies of that metropolis are pretty mad because they are not allowed to ride on it unless they smoke cigarettes. All their blandishments to stop this car avail nothing with the gripman. He will not stop for any being wearing petticoats.

ROBERT BURNS.

The Centenary Today of Death of the Poet.

Tributes to the Memory of the Bard of Scotland.

A Sketch of His Life and His Works by a Quincy Writer.

Tis done: The powerful charm succeeds,
His high reluctant spirit bends;
In bitterness of soul he bleeds,
No longer with his fate consends,
An idiot laugh the welkin rends
As genius thus degraded lies;
Till pitying heaven the veil extends,
And shrouds the poet's ardent eyes.

The 21st of July, 1896, is a notable day for Scotchmen throughout the world. Upon this day one hundred years ago; after a fitful and stormy life career,—the close of which was tragic; Robert Burns passed, as Carlyle puts it:—"Not softly but speedily into that still country, where the hail storms, and fire showers do not reach; and the heaviest-laden wayfarer at length lays down his load."

About a month before the end came, when convinced that his illness would be fatal, Burns said to his wife:—"Don't be afraid; I'll be more respected a hundred years after my death than I am at present;" and time, that unerring test of prophecy, has proved that he was right.

The birthday of the poet is celebrated annually by gatherings of his admirers; not only in his native country, but wherever the English language is spoken; and his popularity has increased year by year, until now he occupies an eminence upon the ladder of fame; which it has been the lot of but few to attain, in any age or country.

Carping critics have sometimes said that Scotchmen give Burns a position, of which he is undeserving; but such is not the truth. All men know that he had faults and failings, but their existance only attested his common humanity; they did not detract aught from his genius.

Why should not Scotchmen be proud of Burns? He came upon the world's stage at a period when the song-lore of Scotland was in an almost hopeless state of coarseness and indecency; he purified it, and made it wholesome. Moreover, he added to it gems of the best and brightest, and by doing so conferred a benefit upon his countrymen, for which they might well revere his name.

But it is not Scotchmen alone who know the merits of Burns. French and German writers of established repute have given him words of highest praise, and Americans have frequently shown their appreciation of the rustic bard in a more substantial form than words. Year by year tourists from all climes visit the land of Burns, and look with interest undiminished upon the tomb and relics of him who, although a farmer and exciseman, yet was the phenomenon of his age.

For the reason of the popularity of Burns we have not far to seek. Of all poets he appeals most directly to the hearts of the common people. He sang of their joys and sorrows, and of their hardships, and pleasures, in plain, homely language, which they all understood. He did not, like many poets, draw his characters from an imaginary sphere, and endow them with impossible virtues and charms. His men and women are real, who work and sleep, and have their troubles, like ordinary mortals; and his pictures of rural life are likewise real. Burns was born and bred in the country, and his daily communings with nature, as he worked in the fields, enabled him to depict her glories and beauties with the hand of a master.

Intense humanity was one of the chief characteristics of Burns, both as a man and a poet. It flowed out in all directions, and to every living creature.

He addressed the humble mouse as his "earth-born companion and fellow mortal." And in the "silly sheep" and winged denizens of the forest, he found objects sufficient to call forth some of his most beautiful minor poems.

Throughout the greater part of his life the world looked gloomy and dark to the vision of Burns; but a spirit of philosophic contentment is often powerfully displayed in his poems. The wretched and forlorn can find solace in the poetry of Burns. He, as it were, takes his weary fellow man by the hand, and out of his own large compassion speaks to him words of consolation and hope.

No matter in what condition a man's mind may be, he will find an outlet to his feelings in the pages of Burns. Humor or sadness, pain or gladness, all find companionship there, and in language too, which has become to us "familiar as household words."

In his love songs Burns is peculiarly happy. Who has not read, or heard, his impassioned lyrics, inspired by numberless comparatively unknown divinities; or by Bonnie Jean, or Highland Mary?

This latter maiden, in life a simple dairymaid; now glorified by the genius of the poet; and ranged among the heroines of classic story!

It was upon the anniversary of Mary's death that Burns wrote that beautiful song, "To Mary in Heaven," which is in my opinion one of the very best of its kind in the language.

Among the more popular and universally known of the songs of Burns are: "Auld Lang Syne," "O' A' the arts the wind can blaw," "A man's a man for a' that," and "Ye banks and braes O'bonnie doon."

No Scottish gathering can ever be properly adjourned, without singing Auld Lang Syne; and it has been remarked by Professor Wilson that people join in singing "Ye banks and braes" who "have no more ear for music than a log, and whose voice resembles the creaking of timber yard upon a windy day."

Of the more elaborate poems of Burns "Tam O'Shanter," and "The Cottar's Saturday night" are generally admitted to be the best productions of his genius. But among so much that is good it is difficult to particularise; one must read and study the poet for himself, or herself, and as acquaintance ripens, beauties and truths will be discovered in his works, which will well repay the time thus spent.

In this very practical and matter of fact age, many think it is a waste of time to study poetry; but surely this is not the case. Besides its refining influence upon the human mind, poetry plays an important part in the affairs of the world; in truth if we take poetry out of the world, we take away nearly all that is great, or enobling in human nature.

There are poets with whose writings one gets wearied; the interest is not sustained, and their jingle becomes monotonous. Again there are others whose meaning is so hard to grasp, that one is sometimes led to wonder whether the writers themselves knew exactly what they were aiming at. But Burns belongs to neither of these classes. He is vigorous and trenchant, tender, or mirthful, as his subject demands; always full of interest; and his meaning so clear that almost literally it might be said, that "he who runs may read."

Burns was emphatically the poet of the people. For a century his poetry has held sway in their hearts with a power which time cannot diminish, nor criticism change; and so long as his songs are sung, stirring the souls of men to deeds of patriotism; as melting the hearts of women by their pathos; so long will the name of Robert Burns be honored, and exalted, and his memory kept green, among men and womenkind.

I opened this brief article with a quotation from Roscoe, and will close with two stanzas from Campbell's eloquent tribute to his brother-poet:

"And see the Scottish exile tanned
By many a far and foreign clime,
Bend o'er his home-born verse and weep
In memory of his native land,
With love that scorns the lapse of time,
And ties that stretch beyond the deep.

Farewell, high chief of Scottish song
That could alternately impart
Wisdom and rapture in thy page,
And brand each vice with satire strong,
Whose lines are mottoes of the heart,
Whose truths electrify the sage."

KITE FLYING.

A Flight Sent Up from Blue Hill Lands in Quincy.

A flight of kites was sent up on Blue Hill Monday that reached the highest recorded height ever attained before with such instruments. The top kite of the line reached 7200 feet, or nearly a mile and a half above the sea level. The result is the culmination of a long series of experiments, often leading to troublesome setbacks, which have been finally overcome. On one occasion, when the conditions seemed perfect, the string broke when a height of about 2000 feet was reached, and the stray kites and attached instruments were found in Quincy, over three miles away.

These experiments have for their main object the study of the upper air, for which purpose a very ingenious instrument, recording the temperature, wind force and barometric pressure, is attached, to the string and raised to great heights, under conditions yielding more satisfactory data than if stationed on a mountain. Only a long series of such records, obtained in varying conditions, will afford enough data for general formulus, bnt many individual records already obtained are full of suggestion to the trained observer and reveal many curious and unlooked for relations in the distribution of heat, vapor and wind velocity in successive layers of the atmosphere.—Herald.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.:

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am so years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:
County of Comanche, }

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

A. M. RAMSEY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this, August 4th, 1891.

—Bryan is the first delegate in a Democratic national convention since Horatio P. Seymour in 1868, to receive the nomination for President.

BRYAN IN THE LEAD.

At Least That Is the Claim of His Supporters In Populist Ranks.

"Middle of the Road" Men Will Probably Bolt.

Chairman Jones Doing Active Missionary Work In Behalf Democrats.

St. Louis, July 21.—The Populist situation does not crystallize rapidly. The leaders are at war over the question of endorsing or nominating Bryan. Some, like Governor Llewelling, Senator Allen of Nebraska, John B. Weaver of Iowa (who was the Populist candidate for president in 1892), Reuben Kolb of Alabama (who claims he was twice defrauded of the governorship of his state), Tom Patterson and Governor Waite of Colorado, are earnestly striving for an endorsement of the Chicago ticket; Chairman Taubeneck, Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota, Senator Butler of North Carolina, ex-Governor Buchanan of Tennessee and Jacob Coxey of Ohio, want to endorse Bryan under terms laid down by them, while "Cyclone" Davis of Texas, Paul Vandervort of Nebraska, Frank Burkett of Mississippi, and others, want to keep in the middle of the road and nominate an independent ticket on an independent platform. Each faction asserts that it desires to preserve the autonomy of the party organization, and that its way is the way. Shipwrecked hopes and a bolt seem inevitable, no matter what the ultimate outcome is.

The Bryan supporters claim to be the majority. They are well organized. Their leaders are shrewd and sagacious—many of them are experienced politicians—in addition to this they have the open and active support of the silver party leaders, whose convention is likely to be simply a Bryan ratification meeting, and of Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who is here with lieutenants striving to this end. Their strength spreads over the entire country west of the Missouri. Many of the delegates from this section, like Llewelling of Kansas and Patterson of Colorado, declare that if Bryan is not nominated or endorsed for president, nine-tenths of the Populists will support him, and the identity of the Populist party in the west will be destroyed.

The "Middle of the Road" Populists are mostly from the south, where for several years, they say, it has been war to the knife and knife to the hilt in their battle with the Democracy, and they have nailed their banner to the mast. They will have neither surrender or fusion. They have captured scattering votes in the west, and quite a number from the Pacific coast. In California they claim a majority of the delegation. They are extremely radical. Their headquarters at the Laclede are constantly filled with a pushing, noisy mass of people. The walls are placarded with mottoes and editorials from Populist papers demanding the repudiation of the Chicago ticket, and several orators are usually talking to the crowd at the same time.

An irredeemable currency and direct legislation are proclaimed to be the foundations of their faith. The initiative and referendum scheme, which is to originate all legislation with the people, and refer it back to them for endorsement, is the keystone of their arch. "We want to do away with the supreme court that sits above the people," shouted one of the orators yesterday afternoon. "Then we will remonetize silver, have government ownership of railroads and telegraphs, enact immigration and income laws, and crush the monopolies and trusts that have us by the throats."

Prospects of a Bolt.

These men will probably bolt in any event, although there are evidences of a split in some of the southern delegations, like that of Texas. The basis of representation is one delegate for each senator and representative, and one for each 2000 Populist votes cast. Under this apportionment Texas and North Carolina have the largest delegations, 95 each out of a total of about 1300. In North Carolina the fusion Populist and Republican votes are counted, and these two delegations, it will be seen, comprise almost one-sixth of the convention. Georgia, which is also claimed by the "Middle of the Road" faction, has 61. The largest of the Bryan delegations is Kansas, with 91. Alabama, which is for Bryan, has 54, and Nebraska 51. The Bryan people claim, on a preliminary canvass, that takes no account of some delegations which have not yet put in an appearance, 423 votes. Their claims, however, are disputed in several quarters.

The real fight appears to be between the Bryan supporters and those who insist upon a compromise that will give official endorsement of the Populist organization. A great many plans for this compromise have been suggested, the basis of all of which is the adoption of a separate platform and a division of the electors. As to the rest the plans differ. Some desire a separate ticket, others are willing to accept the Chicago nominees. There was a movement in favor of the division of the ticket yesterday, Bryan to head it, and some Populist, preferably from the south, to be his running mate. All these plans are more or less impracticable, as they would create complications which would be hard to straighten out before the campaign could begin.

Chairman Jones has rejected the proposition to throw Sewall overboard, and the Bryan supporters in the Populist party take a positive position in opposition to it; but it is thought that a division of electors in some of the states, like North Carolina, Nebraska, Minnesota and Texas, could be arranged by the state committees, which alone would have the power to enter into any agreement. Chairman Jones has conferred with such of the Populist leaders as have called on him, and has pointed out that the battle is between McKinley and the gold standard, and Bryan and the silver standard. He says that the Democrats do not want to absorb the Populist organization, but it rests with the latter to endorse Bryan in the interests of the silver cause, or endanger success by declining to do so. The responsibility, he says, rests with them, and he does not hesitate to say that he believes the rank and file of the Populists will desert their leaders on the issue if they refuse to accept the opportunity. He takes them to the top of the mountain and shows them the promised land of silver.

He and his friends deny that any pledges are being made, but Senator Allen of Nebraska, whose position gives him great weight in Populistic councils, is proclaiming to his friends, that if Mr. Bryan is selected, all who rally to his support, whether Democrats, Populists or Republicans, will be on an equal footing. It is intimated that a selfish interest perhaps actuates some of the "Middle of the Road" leaders from the south. They have been fusing with the Republicans for local offices and for members of congress, and if Bryan and Sewall should be endorsed they would necessarily cut off their political allies. The "Middle of the Road" people suggest Vandervort of Nebraska and Burkett of Mississippi as a good ticket.

JAMES B. WEAVER.

The Bryan people are closely organized for effective work. General Weaver is at the head of their steering committee, and they are laboring with all the incoming delegates. The main thing they have to contend with is the all-pervading dread among the rank and file that they will be swallowed up by the Democracy. They declare they were first in the field with the cry for the restoration of silver. "The Democrats stole our thunder," says Ignatius Donnelly, "and now they want to bury us."

The convention is a peculiar political gathering. There is a total absence of brass bands and a scarcity of flags and bunting, but lack of music and trappings does not dampen the ardor of the delegates. There is noise enough to satisfy any frequenter of conventions. They crowd the hotel corridors. All of them are debaters, with strong convictions, and they take into their confidence all within the sound of their voices.

The fact that few of the delegates are young is another noticeable feature of the assembling Populists. Most of the whiskers are dotted with gray, many of the delegates are far into the sere and yellow, but they are full of fire and enthusiasm. It is not believed that over half of the delegates are yet on the ground.

In case Bryan is nominated or endorsed, Chairman Jones has agreed that the Populists shall have two representatives in the national committee, and the silverites one representative. The two southern men suggested for vice president, in the event of a compromise, which would give the Populists a place on the ticket, are Judge Walter Clark of North Carolina and Colonel Mimms of Tennessee. At midnight, however, the difficulties in the way of accomplishing such a compromise were generally recognized as almost insurmountable, and this scheme was in a measure abandoned. The indications that the compromise and Bryan factions were getting closer together continued, and the general belief among the best informed on the inside was that the situation would clear tomorrow, and the nomination of Bryan is reasonably certain.

Working For McKinley.

Philadelphia, July 21.—A business men's campaign committee to promote the election of McKinley and Hobart was organized in this city yesterday, with John H. Converse, president of the Baldwin locomotive works as chairman. Hundreds of men enrolled themselves as members, and it is expected that before the week closes the committee will have a membership of 5000. The names of a number of the leading business men of this city are attached. Rudolph Blankenburg goes to Boston tonight to confer with men in that city, who propose to start a similar movement. Later in the week he will meet a committee of New York business men who will organize a movement for McKinley and Hobart in the metropolis. Afterward committees of business men will be organized in all the large cities. It is proposed to make them non-partisan.

Bryan Colors at Masthead.

Lawrence, Mass., July 21.—A sensation has been caused here in journalistic circles by the course of The Daily Sun, which up the present has been Republican in national politics. The Sun has just come out in favor of the Chicago candidates and platform. Editor Murray has nailed the colors of Bryan and Sewall to the masthead, in opposition, he declares, to the "conspiracies of the oligarchy." He mercilessly assails the bolting Democrats.

Who Was the Statesman?

London, July 21.—The Daily News this morning publishes a long talk had by its representative yesterday with "a distinguished American statesman," regarding the proposal for an arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States. This gentleman asserts that American politicians are sometimes compelled to play to the gallery, but that they would never dream of a war with England, He was fairly convinced, he asserted, that an arbitration tribunal would be established.

Bequest For Altgeld.

Chicago, July 21.—Governor Altgeld will soon be $40,000 richer than he is now. He brought the will of the late John W. Lanehart into the probate court and filed it yesterday. Lanehart was the governor's cousin, and died on Thursday last, and when the will was offered it was found that he had left $40,000 of his $55,000 estate to Altgeld, his widow getting only $15,000. The will names the governor as executor.

A Twenty-Eight Rounder.

Memphis, July 21.—Billy O'Donnell and John Lawson (the Terrible Swede) met here last night in a finish fight, and the Swede's seconds threw up the sponge after 28 rounds of fighting, lasting one hour and 51 minutes. In the early part of the fight O'Donnell punished the Swede severely. The Swede was very game and showed wonderful endurance. A great many fouls were committed, especially by O'Donnell.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Dry Pastures Are Responsible For a Great Shrinkage In Milk.

Hay Crop Is Short but of Excellent Quality.

Apples Are Dropping, but There Are Indications of a Good Crop.

Boston, July 21.—The New England section of the United States agricultural bureau issues the following bulletin for the past week:

Showers were general during the early portion of the week, but were light. They were, however, beneficial. Most sections would be greatly benefitted by showers. Haying is well under way or completed. The yield is short, but of an excellent quality. Grains generally are doing well. Corn is looking exceptionally well in most sections. Oats are being cut green to save it from army worms. Some barley has matured and is early. Vegetables have progressed well, though blight and potatoes bugs have caused some damage. Dry weather has caused apples to drop, and though a good crop is assured, it is feared the crop will not be as large as anticipated. Pasturages are drying, and in consequence cows are shrinking in milk.

Showers prevailed in Maine on the 14th and 15th and appear to have been of advantage, yet most correspondents state that more rain is needed. The temperature was about the average, with a fair amount of sunshine. Haying is well under way in most sections, while in others it is about over. All correspondents agree that the crop is short, but of excellent quality. Corn is tasseling quite generally, and was benefitted during the week. More warmth would be of advantage. A large yield is anticipated. Green peas and early garden truck are abundant, and early potatoes are being shipped to market. In some sections potato bugs have made their appearance and are doing damage. Blueberries are plentiful, and blackberries are ripening, the latter promise an abundant crop.

Showers in New Hampshire on the 14th and 15th, though light. While beneficial and well distributed, more rain is needed. Haying is being pushed rapidly in sections where it is not finished. The crop is considered light. Oats are being cut green in Cheshire county owing to the ravages of the army worm. The warm weather, aided by the lack of rain, is causing apples to drop in some localities, and it is feared that the crop will not be as large as anticipated. Corn is doing well, and other grains are heading nicely. Potatoes are progressing, but the potato bug has made its appearance in some sections with considerable damage. Blueberries are affected by the dry weather, and blackberries are ripening fast. Pastures are dry and cows shrinking.

Showers fell during the early portion of the week in Vermont and were favorable to crops. Seasonably warm weather has prevailed. Haying is about over, and while not a full crop, the majority of correspondents affirm that it is better than was expected. Corn is slow in some sections, but generally is looking exceptionally well. All fruits are progressing finely, apples especially looking fine. All vegetables are doing well, with the exception of potatoes, for which rain is needed. Pastures are dry, and cows are shrinking in milk in consequence.

Precipitation in Massachusetts was badly distributed the past week, the western portion of the state receiving the most. Showers were needed, and therefore the reports from the latter section are more favorable. Correspondents report that rye is being harvested and looks well. All grains are doing well. New potatoes are in excellent shape. Blackberries are ripening fast. Green worms have appeared in the tobacco fields. In the southern portions of central Massachusetts fine showers have benefitted all growing crops. In other portions the soil is very dry, vegetation being at a standstill. Army worms are spreading. Barley is maturing a week early. In the eastern portion rain is needed for cranberries; an average crop is promised.

Rhode Island reports show that all crops are doing well. Wild berries are plentiful and of good quality. The army worm has appeared in scattered localities, but little damage is reported. A heavy shower passed over Providence county, and the wind blew down considerable corn on the 13th, but it is up again and looks well.

All crops have made good progress in Connecticut, and are generally in fine condition. Hay is well matured, and haymaking is progressing very rapidly. Tobacco is doing well, but some pieces will need topping soon. The stand is considered good, but is uneven in places from cut worms. Oats are very tall and are filling well. The signs of blight in potatoes has disappeared in some sections. Apples are ripening and blackberries promise an abundant yield.

No Let Up to the Fighting.

Athens, July 21.—There has been continuous fighting in Crete during the last few days. The Turks have been trying to capture the heights on the Kissamo Selino road. If they could capture this position they would cut off the western portion of Crete from the rest of the island. A letter from the front states during the fighting the Turks lost 200 killed and 600 wounded; the Creten loss was 26 killed and 60 wounded. The deputies absolutely refuse to meet until they receive a reply to their proposition from the sultan.

All Old-Timers.

Hingham, Mass., July 21.—The New England Association of Mexican War Veterans held a pleasant reunion for the 48th time at Nantasket Beach, yesterday. General Chamberlain of Barre Plains, Vt., and General Nelson Vialle of Cranston, R. I., were re-elected commander and lieutenant commander, respectively, together with the old board of officers. Apart from a brief business session, the day was given up to reminiscences and dining.

Peralta-Reavis Sentenced.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 21. — In the United States court, Judge Laughlin sentenced James Addison Peralta-Reavis, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the Peralta land grant case, to two years' imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $5000.

Once in a while a man surprises the watchers by sitting up in his coffin, and asking why in the world they put him in there. Such things, when they happen, are published far and wide. They are considered well nigh miraculous. Is it any less wonderful when a man is cured of a disease presumed to be fatal? When physicians say to a man that he cannot live, he considers himself just about as good as dead. He can almost feel the coffin closing upon him. And yet, frequently these men who are sentenced to death by their doctors, are raised up out of their sickness to perfect, hearty health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has lifted thousands of men and women right out of the grave. After doctors had given them up, they have in desperation turned to this great remedy, and to their great astonishment have found themselves getting well.

Skepticism in regard to this wonderful medicine has cheated many a man out of his health. If people could only be made to believe the truth about the "Discovery," half the sickness could be avoided and cured. The "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption. This great "Discovery" will also cure all of the things that lead to consumption—lingering coughs, throat and bronchial troubles, general debility, loss of flesh, loss of sleep, loss of appetite, loss of nerve force. Its effect is immediately seen. As the patient begins to feel better, he begins to look better, and the hollows and wrinkles are filled out with sound, firm, healthy flesh. Druggists sell it.

If you want to know the great secrets of health, send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, and receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. 21 cents in paper covers, 31 cents in cloth. It is a complete medical library in one volume. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

AWFUL CRIME AT SEA.

Captain, His Wife, and Second Mate Hacked to Death With an Axe.

First Mate Suspected of Being the Murderer.

Tragedy Occurred on Barkentine Herbert Fuller, an American Vessel.

Halifax July 22.—Barkentine Herbert Fuller, Captain Nash, from Boston, July 8, for Rosario, Argentina, put into Halifax yesterday, flying the Stars and Stripes at half-mast, with a black flag immediately beneath. A few moments later the Fuller was boarded, and it was learned that Captain Nash, his wife, Laura, and Second Officer Bamberg had been killed in their bunks while asleep.

The triple murder was committed on the night of the 13th inst., and the affair, so far, is wrapped in mystery, notwithstanding the fact that there were seven other men on board at the time, besides a passenger, named Lester H. Monks of Boston.

Monks says he knew nothing whatever of the crime until he learned of it from the first mate. During the night, he says, he heard one scream, which he supposed was uttered by Captain Nash's wife, but he heard no further sound, and paid no attention to what he thought might be fancy. In the morning, when he went on deck, the first mate informed him that the captain, his wife and the second officer had been murdered in their berths, and asked Monks, who slept in a cabin between the cabin occupied by Captain and Mrs. Nash and one occupied by the second mate, if he had been alarmed by anything during the night. Monks told him that he had heard one scream. The murders were committed with an ax, and the victims were butchered in the most sickening manner, blow after blow being struck, to make sure the work was completed. Monks says he assumed charge of the vessel, and, with the assistance of the mate, brought her into port.

According to his story, he questioned various members of the crew, as to what they knew about the tragedy, but each one professed entire innocence and ignorance. Monks ordered the bodies to be taken out of the cabin and placed in a boat and towed astern. On arriving here, the Herbert Fuller came to anchor in the stream, and Monks reported the affair to the police, who immediately took charge of the vessel and arrested all on board. Four officers were placed in charge of the vessel. The motive for the murder is a complete mystery.

United States Consul General Ingraham advised Monks not to tell his story of the affair, so the man is not going into details for publication, though his account of what took place on board is no doubt fully known to the police. The members of the crew maintain a rigid silence. The Herbert Fuller was owned principally by her captain, C. I. Nash, and was engaged in general trading between the United States and South American points.

It seems to be pretty well settled that the first mate, Thomas Bram, did the killing, and that his motive was either robbery—both the captain and young Monks having considerable money—or else it was a diabolical attempt on the honor of Mrs. Nash, the captain's wife.

It is said that blood was found on Bram's shirt and also on his suspenders. Charles Spencer, the colored steward, is of the opinion that something was in the wind from the day the vessel left Boston, as the mate had three large jars of whisky with him, something very much out of the ordinary. Charles Brown was first arrested. He was the man at the wheel on the night of the murder, the mate being in charge, two other sailors, who were forward on the deck, constituting the watch at the time. Bram's actions were very suspicious, as he wanted to take the Fuller to South America instead of Halifax, and after the mate's arrest, Brown said he saw the mate killing the captain with an axe, by looking down the companionway, while at the wheel. The axe was found covered with blood, hidden under some of the lumber on deck, and was thrown overboard for fear it might be made use of for the second time. It is believed that the captain was murdered first, then the second mate, and lastly the captain's wife.

The roster of the officers and crew of the Herbert Fuller is as follows: C. I. Nash, master; Thomas Bram, first mate; August W. Bramberg, second mate; Jonathan Spencer, cook; seamen, Frank Lohez, Charles Brown, Henry Siler, O. Anderson, William Haggerty and Henrik R. Perook.

Captain Nash was a native of Harrington, Me. He was 40 years old. His father was Alonzo Nash, a well known shipbuilder, who was killed a few years ago, being struck by a falling timber. Mrs. Nash was also a native of Harrington. The bark Fuller was built six years ago in Harrington.

The facts are gradually filtering through the wall built around the tragedy by the police authorities and the United States consulate, and they all go to show that the murderer was First Mate Bram; that the motive was either robbery of the captain and Lester Monks, the passenger, or else it was criminal assault upon Captain Nash's wife.

THE STETSON WILL.

Witnesses to the Signing of the Documept Give Their Testimony.

Boston, July 22.—The second day of the hearing on the will of John Stetson, Jr., began before Judge Grant. Dr. O. G. Cilley, one of the signers of the will, was present. Dr. W. W. Noyes, who was one of the witnesses of the will, was the first witness placed upon the stand. He acknowledged his signature, and said that Mr. Stetson was of sound mind.

Dr. O. G. Cilley was the last witness of the day. Dr. Cilley received a severe reprimand from the court for disregarding the summons to attend the first hearing. Dr. Cilley said that at the time Mr. Stetson signed the will he was of sound mind, but that just before, and just after, his mind wandered. In May, 1895, he had an apoplectic shock, from which he never fully recovered. For a long time after this he could not write his own name. He was not the John Stetson of old. For some days after he was taken sick his mind was not right, and he constantly talked in his wanderings of other persons besides his wife. Dr. Cilley was questioned as to who these other persons were, but he appealed to the court, and the questions were not allowed. One morning he seemed rational, and, Mr. Pattee being present, the will was produced and signed. At Mr. Stetson's suggestion, the initial "S" was inserted in his wife's name. An hour after the will was signed, Stetson was not in condition to understand what was said to him.

Collision Off Cape Cod.

Boston, July 22.—In a dense fog which hung over the Cape Cod shore, a collision occurred off Nausett light, between the steam collier Williamsport and the St. John (N. B.) schooner Greta. The steamer cut down the schooner's starboard side below the water line, and she filled immediately. Had it not been for her deckload of lumber she would have sunk. The collier towed the schooner into the lower harbor. Captain MacKinney says the collier was to blame for the accident. The collier was uninjured.

WHICH IS RIGHT?

How Should Substitute to a Report be Put?

President Bryant Puts the Substitute and Report Together.

Councilman Moxon Believes Two Votes Necessary as on Amendment.

The little incident at the close of the City Council meeting last Monday evening is causing quite a little talk among those present and among those reading the DAILY LEDGER report. Not so much as to the question raised as the treatment of Mr. Moxon by President Bryant.

Councilman Moxon raised a point which President Bryant not only did not entertain but which he entirely ignored. He neither ruled the speaker out of order, or the point raised out of order, but solicited a motion to adjourn and rushed it through, to the surprise of all.

Right or wrong, there are few who will say it was courtesy or good practice.

President Bryant, when interviewed, said Mr. Moxon was out of order; that there was no motion before the meeting, and no appeal from the chair.

Possibly not in so many words, yet all reports of the meeting say Councilman Moxon "raised a point of order." He obtained from the chair his ruling, and then took exception to it. He said "the question might as well be settled now as any other time," and maintained that separate votes were necessary, one to accept the substitute, and the other to adopt the substituted report.

President Bryant maintains that one vote is sufficient for substitution and passage, and generally puts substitutes that way.

What is a substitute?

A manual of rules of order says it is the same as an amendment. And again an amendment may be either (1) by adding or (2) striking out words or paragraphs; or (3) by striking out certain words and inserting others; or (4) by substituting a different motion on the same subject; or (5) by dividing the question.

Thus in two ways we are told that a substitute is simply an amendment. There are those who will put an amendment and upon its adoption declared the order passed, but of course this is not parliamentary. Is it not the same with a substitute? When an amendment is adopted the chairman should announce the result, and then say: "The question now recurs on the report," or "on the report as amended," as the case may be.

Whether President Bryant is right or wrong in putting his motions, the general opinion is that he used Councilman Moxon mean.

A councilman calls attention to another slight, at least it so appears to him, and that is the failure of President Bryant to appoint Councilman Moxon on a standing committee. The latter was elected to fill a vacancy, and it is generally supposed that he will be on the Committee on Streets, inasmuch as Councilman Rinn was on that committee, and there is no Ward Six member on it as the rules provide. But there has been no appointment in open meeting, and if a member there is some doubt about the chairmanship, that position having been held by the late Councilman.

The next meeting of the City Council will be held August 3, and more may be heard on this method of procedure.

From Our Window.

At the same hour each night a pretty picture can be seen from our window. A father returns from his day's work with a luncheon pail and basket. Regularly, two, and often three children run down to meet him, the youngest a pretty chubby little girl of less than six always taking his bag or basket to carry. We see with gladness, the pleasant smile and greeting from this father as he stops for one word before they all pass out of sight.

There are also two little girls who go up and down continually. As the electric cars are at the edge of the narrow street sidewalk, there is danger to these young children, but the elder of the two guards her baby sister like a mother, always watching over her, saying "if she does not get over close to the fence, I just poke her over with this parasol."

Another wee girl who is always so happy to meet her father who is motorman on the cars, was sent on an errand, and probably charged not to forget it. So she walked along saying audibly, "pound beef meat" "pound beef meat" all the way. All the children on the streets during vacation are not as attractive.

NATHANIEL ARTHUR PARSONS.

Funeral of the Unfortunate Bicyclist from Congregational Church.

The funeral of Nathaniel Arthur Parsons, whose death resulted from a fall from his wheel at Lovell's grove last Saturday, was held Tuesday afternoon from the Centre Congregational church and was largely attended by many of the friends and acquaintances of the deceased.

The several societies of which he was a member, which included Boston Commandery, Uniform Rank, Sons of St. George under Col. Rapson, Granite lodge Sons of St. George, a delegation from the local branch of the Granite Cutters National Union, and the Triangle Wheelman, escorted the remains from his late residence on Washington street to the church, the local lodge of Sons of St. George acting as pall bearers.

Arriving at the church the body, which was encased in a handsome oak casket, draped with the English flag, and having the helmet, sword and belt of the deceased upon it, was borne down the centre aisle and placed in front of the altar.

Here it was almost hidden beneath the many beautiful tributes, among which were a pillow from Boston commandery, a pillow from Granite lodge, Sons of St. George, a mound from the Granite Cutters' National union, and a tri-colored triangle from the Triangle Wheelmen, and besides these there were many bouquets from the family and dear friends.

The services at the church were conducted by Rev. E. N. Hardy, who spoke briefly of the deceased, and of the lessons to be found in occasions of this kind, leading us to so live and apply our hearts and minds that when the Angel of Death shall come he shall find us waiting and watching for him.

During the services a ladies' quartette sang "One Sweetly, Solemn Thought," and a choir from the Sons of St. George sang two selections.

At the conclusion of the services an opportunity was given those present to take a look at the remains, after which they were escorted to Mt. Wollaston cemetery by the several orders, where the remains were interred with the burial ceremony of the Sons of St. George.

Golden Rod.

The commencement number of this welcome paper came to us this morning. The mature thought and lucid expression of the salutatory and valedictory addresses, by Misses Pitts and Garrity, show us the difference between the Quincy High school of 1855 and 1895.

In 1855, for the first time in the history of this old town, were girls to receive a High school education. This was also the first course beyond the Grammar grade instruction for boys in Quincy; but boys' High schools had been carried on in other places.

In Newburyport about that time Mr. Putman generously endowed the first girls' High school there, known for years as the Putnam Free School.

The writer was by birth eligible to an education there, but her father about that time was elected cashier to the old Quincy Stone bank, so she came into the second year's course of the then new Quincy High school, in the lane back of the Episcopal church, near Capt. Crane's house.

The pleasantest part to us of the school was the presence of some fine old elm trees, a bit of rough green yard, and an outlook from the windows beyond the boundary of books.

Mr. Asa Wellington's earnest plea each morning that God "would give us teachable dispositions," fell on heedless ears perhaps, but the prayer has borne late fruit on the dignified lives of some of that class, of forty-seven boys and girls, ex-Mayor Porter being the youngest in years, only twelve years old.

Women have, as the salutatory young woman orator well said, advanced in all directions. Her address which is commended to the readers of the LEDGER tells its story. The courage that declares that "this graduating class entered as children but hope they graduate men and and women," is the kind that makes strong men and women. Our High school, its able master, its efficient teachers and its pupils deserve as Shakspeare says, "High commendation, true applause and love."

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

Getting at the Bottom.

Funny, when you come to think of it, that the only way for a merchant to get to the top is to get at the bottom—in prices.

It isn't every retailer who gets the bottom.

Sometimes he knows where the bottom is, but can't reach it for some reason—lack of capital possibly.

A good many times his eyes aren't sharp enough to see the bottom—so he doesn't buy low enough.

We don't like to boast, but we know that our "bottom prices" are the genuine thing.

We guarantee the

BUY
·TEA·
Of Boston Branch Grocery.
WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

GROCERS' DAY.

A Local Holiday Next Week—The Programme Outlined.

The Quincy Grocers' Association holds its annual outing next week Thursday and the committee in charge have outlined a programme that can not fail to be enjoyable. Instead of going to Scituate as usual the steamer Surf City has been chartered for the day.

The party will leave Quincy Point during the early morning and steam down the harbor toward Minot's light, where the party will try their luck at hooking fish. From here the steamer will steam to Nantasket where Landlord Wade will provide one of his best dinners.

After dinner the steamer will again be taken for a sail around the harbor and will return to Quincy Point in the early evening.

A band will furnish music during the day.

Piazza Whist Party.

Quincy is a lovely summer resort as our stay-at-homes find. The wise ones do not exchange broad piazzas and all the luxuries of home for the doubtful comforts of even a big hotel.

Two society ladies have each exchanged drawing room whist for piazza whist. This game is good mental exercise and with the accompaniments of this season's beautiful toilets, dainty teas served so charmingly, polite conversation, this social pleasure refines and really elevates, still in the corner of an unfashionable piazza in the shadow of our Public Library, an unfashionable party reads and dreams over Lovell's "Mid Summer Revery," and suggests a session of that some fine afternoon, leaving whist for winter amusement and profit. Let us make our pleasures seasonable.

Notes from Camp.

Co. K of Braintree had 55 in camp Tuesday, and the Fifth regiment 695.

The Globe says the Fifth did better work than the Eighth, showing greater experience and equaling similar ceremonials executed by this well-balanced command.

The officers of the Fifth and the cavalry called on Gen. Dalton and Gen. Peach at headquarters Tuesday night.

The Journal says "The Fifth Infantry was first in the field Tuesday and was followed by the detail of the Eighth, that of the Ninth Regiment being last. But though late to come on, the detail of the Ninth was the first to complete its ceremony and march off. Its formation was prompt and snappy; inspection moved rapidly, and the march past was very even as to distance and alignment.

The Herald says, "Col. Bancroft and his men of the 5th were alert to improve the opportunity to gain strategical and marching knowledge, and got through some good work. During the parade hours of the morning Capt. W. W. Stover and his men of company A were gaining valuable experience in the construction of shelter pits for skirmishing. Three sections of rifle pits were hastily constructed on the arsenal grounds, so that they could be used as shelters for the skirmishers in their attack upon an imaginary enemy. There were three trenches, arranged for lying down, kneeling and standing. The 5th regiment is to do more or less work in this line during the encampment."

New York is the wealthiest of the states. The value of its real and personal property reaches the enormous aggregate of $2,651,940,006.

Dig down to the cause of your sickness, if you want to get well and stay well. Most likely it's indigestion. The irritating poisons of fermenting, putrid food, left in the stomach by indigestion, cause headache, neuralgia, nervousness, dizziness, stomach-ache, nausea, irritability, and all the other well-known symptoms of indigestion.

They also cause many pains and disorders which are often laid to other causes and hence are not easily cured. But as soon as the poisons are removed, all these symptoms and disorders disappear, because there is nothing left to cause them. Nothing succeeds in this like Shaker Digestive Cordial, because it prevents the undigested food from fermenting in the stomach and helps the stomach to digest its food.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Many Improvements In New England During the Past Year.

Much Work Done on Boston's Main Channel.

Summary of What Has Been Accomplished In Other Places.

Washington, July 22.—Major G. W Lockwood, in charge of river and harbor improvements on the south coast of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and part of Connecticut, in his report of operations for the past fiscal year, says the harbor refuge at Nantucket, Mass., has rapidly progressed, the east jetty being now nearly a mile long, of which 995 feet were put in during the year.

Dredging has not yet commenced. Dredging was continued in New Bedford (Mass.) harbor, and it is expected that an anchorage 18 feet in depth will shortly be secured. In Taunton river the improved channel is now completed from the head of navigation down to the mouth of Three Mile river, and all that remains to be done is the widening of the channel at a point below and the removal of one rock ledge, which will be done next year.

In Pawtucket river, 2345 cubic yards of rock were removed, and the only work yet to be done is to straighten the channel in the lower part of the river, and to deepen it at points where it has shoaled, and through the ledge to the full depth of 12 feet and width of 40 feet.

In Providence river and Narragansett bay dredging was continued on the main 25-foot channel. Modifications of the sewer system of the city of Providence, and the removal of Green Jacket shoal, at the mouth of Seekonk river, will, it is thought, materially aid in the maintenance of the channel.

Two acres of Green Jacket shoal was deepened by dredging during the year, and this work will be continued. Considerable progress was made in the work of removing Springle rock in Newport harbor. Additional jetties outside of Goat island, and the removal of obsructing portions of Spindle rock are contemplated in the future. The new breakwater of the Point Judith harbor of refuge is now over a mile long, 237,315 tons of stone having been placed in it during the year. It is now more than half completed, and will steadily progress next season.

At the Block island harbor of refuge, on account of lack of appropriation, little was done. The main breakwater needs repairs, and the enlarged inner harbor ought to be dredged to 10 feet.

In Pawtucket river dredging and the removal of boulders have given a channel 8 feet deep and 100 feet wide below the wharves at Westerly, R. I., and to a width of 40 feet between the lower and upper wharves. A wider channel of 10 feet depth is contemplated.

At Stonington harbor the channel has been dredged across Noyes shoal. The breakwater is to be continued 600 feet at its eastern, and 700 feet at its western end. No work was done during the year at Hyannis, Edgartown harbor, Vineyard Haven and Wickford harbor.

Lieutenant Colonel Mansfield reports to the chief of the army engineers that the preservation of existing improvements on Boston harbor consisted in repairing breaks in sea walls at Deer island, at a cost of $8000. The free use of the 27-foot main channel was restricted by reason of ledges uncovered by dredging. This was remedied for a space 550 feet wide between Lovell's and Galloupe's islands, 1121 cubic yards of the ledge having been removed. The channel is now 1000 feet wide up to Bug light, then 800 feet to the passage, and 550 feet wide through the ledge, which will eventually be widened to 1000 feet.

During the year work at Newburyport harbor has been confined to extending the south jetty, which is now 1540 feet long.

Nothing was done in the Merrimack. In Pow-Wow river, where the improvement is only begun, dredging progresses rapidly. The completed port of the Sandy Bay harbor of refuge, Cape Ann, is in fair order, and the breakwater is steadily advancing. This is to cost ultimately $5,000,000. Dredging has been completed in Gloucester harbor, and the improvement will be finished by existing contracts on the breakwater. The outer channel and basin at Lynn are finished, and the inner channel completed for 4100 feet at its southern end. The Saugus river (west) channel is 4000 feet long, and the proposed training wall alone remains to be appropriated for. Scituate harbor south jetty is now 450 feet long, completed. The north breakwater, the entrance channel and the anchoring basin are unchanged from last year, and large appropriations are needed.

Alleged Forger Captured.

New York, July 22.—A message was received at police headquarters from the chief of police at Boston, last night, stating that George F. Gadden, Jr., had been arrested in that city at the request o the New York police, on charge of having forged checks. Gadden is also known by the name of "Loner" Burke, or Brooks. He is 25 years old, and his father is George F. Gadden of San Francisco. On April 6 Gadden was released from a penitentiary in Pennsylvania, where he had served a term of imprisonment for forgery.

Tailors Decide to Strike.

New York, July 22.—After several months of agitation a strike of the various organizations constituting the Brotherhood of Tailors has been declared. It involves about 12,000 hands in New York, Brooklyn and Brownsville. It is alleged by the tailors that wages have been cut 20 to 25 per cent, and that they are compelled to work more than 10 hours a day.

WOMEN DISCOURAGED.

Good and Sufficient Reasons for the Blues.

Doctors Fail to Understand Symptoms That Are Danger Signals.

A marked trait in woman's character is to place implicit confidence in her physician.

A man must work entirely from theory in the treatment of female diseases, for unfortunately facts based upon actual knowledge, belong to the female sex alone. Many women who periodically suffer with attacks of faintness, dizziness, extreme lassitude, "don't care" or want-to-be-left-alone feeling, do not at first realize that these are the infallible symptoms of womb trouble and the forerunners of great suffering.

Soon they grow to feel that the doctor does not understand their case. Then they remember that "a woman best understands a woman's ills," and turn to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter is but one positive illustration of this fact:—

"Four years ago I began to suffer with great weakness of the generative organs. My womb was prolapsed; I suffered with continual backache and all the other pains that accompany that weakness. I tried doctor after doctor, had operations. The final operation after which I became a total wreck, was scraping of the womb. A friend, one day, recommended to my husband your Compound. He bought me a bottle. The relief I experienced after taking it, was wonderful. I continued its use, and I am glad to say my recovery is a perfect surprise to everybody that knows me."—MRS. B. BLUHM, 4910 San Francisco Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

PREDICTIONS UNSAFE

As to the Outcome of the Populist Convention at St. Louis.

Bryan Proves to Be the Chief Stumbling Block.

Delegates From West and South as Far From Agreement as Ever.

St. Louis, July 22.—The Populist and Silver conventions convened today, the former in the hall in which the Republican national convention was held five weeks ago, and the latter in Music hall, where Grover Cleveland was nominated in 1888. Interest in the Silver convention has been completely eclipsed by the bitter struggle among the Populists, of nominating or endorsing Bryan. The program of the Silver convention is cut and dried. There is no division of sentiment. Congressman Francis Newlands of Nevada is temporary chairman, and William P. St. John, the New York banker, permanent chairman. They will deliver their speeches, a platform of a single plank in favor of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 will be adopted, Bryan and Sewall will be endorsed, and the convention will adjourn.

The Populists, on the other hand, are rent and torn by internal dissensions, and the contending factions will plunge immediately into a fierce and determined fight, which may be prolonged for four or five days, and which, from present indications, will probably result in a bolt, no matter which faction prevails.

The heterogenous composition of the convention, the conflicting interests, and the conditions that hedge the situation about, would stagger the oldest political prophet were he to attempt to forecast the result with anything like detail. The Bryan men still appear to be in control, and the leaders are very confident that they are in the majority. Practically all the trained and experienced generals are aligned with them; they have the advice and counsel of Senator Jones, and the shrewd Democratic managers, who are watching every point in the battle, and able allies in the Silver bolters, and the delegates to the Silver convention. They have a very thorough organization for systematic work. Yesterday they were reinforced by the arrival of 500 Bryan Populist workers from Nebraska, headed by Governor Holcombe, 150 energetic Populist workers from Kansas, and many from other parts of the west.

Bryan Arguments.

They are impressing on the "Middle of the Road" delegates the view that the situation presents the single issue, McKinley or Bryan; that the western Populists insist on grasping the opportunity to vote on the silver issue where their votes will count, and that failure to nominate Bryan will split the party wide open and cause dissensions that will never heal. They confront the southern delegates and scattering squads from other sections, who want to keep in the middle of the road, and have "no truck," as some of them express it, with either of the parties, especially the Democratic party, with which they have been at war. While strong of conviction and vociferous in their determinations that they will never surrender, the "Middle of the Road" delegates are practically disorganized. They keep up a great deal of enthusiasm, and loudly claim as high as 600 majority in the convention, but their claims of victory cannot be pictured out on paper unless the final contestants, who insist on compromise, should side with them.

In certain quarters, however, they appear to have unquestionably gained strength. They argue that they have disrupted both the old political parties, and with four more years of old party rule they will be able to sweep the country. Their meetings are the feature of the convention thus far. At the meeting yesterday some one raised the cry that a man named Silas Ross of Buffalo was here in the interests of the Republican managers to prevent the endorsement of Bryan, and a fight was only averted by the discovery that the man at whom the assault was levelled was some one else. The National Reform Press association is backing the "Middle of the Road" delegates with all the power it possesses.

Signs of Weakening.

Despite the claims of the shouters, it is apparent that some of the leaders are weakening. They are talking in a more temperate strain, and are suggesting compromise as the best way out of the tangle.

"Cyclone" Davis, for instance, prepared a resolution, which he said he would offer, declaring that in order to defeat McKinley and the gold standard, the Populists should agree upon common electors. Rifts in the lutes of several of the southern "Middle of the Road" delegations were also discovered, notably in Texas. The out-and-outers, if they should control, are at sea as to a candidate. Paul Vandervoort of Nebraska and Eugene V. Debs are about the only names canvassed since Congressman Minke arrived and announced himself for Bryan. Although the Bryan managers seem confident of success, they are by no means out of the woods. The compromise propositions passed upon were the principal source of their anxiety.

Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina is essaying to compromise, and all his energies are bent in that direction. He believes that both factions could be harmonized, and that the integrity of the Populistic organization preserved by the adoption of a Populist platform, a division of electors in certain states, and the nomination of Bryan for president and a southern Populist for vice president. He claims that at a meeting of representatives of all the southern states, yesterday, there was an unanimous agreement on this compromise, and that it will have behind it 488 votes from the south. Senator Butler argued that this was the only way of uniting the silver forces, so far as the south was concerned, because it was the only way of maintaining the autonomy of the Populist party in that section.

The Bryan men assert that this is utterly impracticable, and the Democratic managers refuse to listen to any proposition involving the withdrawal of Sewall. The latter say they are firmly convinced that three-quarters of the Populists of the north and west, and many in the south, will vote the Chicago ticket on the issue presented, no matter what this convention does. This does not mean there is any indifference.

Chairman Jones is using all his energies to secure the nomination or endorsement of the Democratic ticket. He says to all who approach him that the silver forces should get together on the issue and let by-gones be by-gones, and they should, he urges, fraternize the same cause. He refuses to make pledges in Bryan's name, and Governor Holcomb, who came direct from a visit to Lincoln, said that the Democratic candidate declined to enter into any compact, but that the Populists, as well as others, must rely upon him for fair treatment.

Altogether, sizing the situation up, it seems reasonably certain that Bryan will be endorsed. Beyond that nothing can be safely predicted.

The meeting of the national committee selected Senator Butler of North Carolina for temporary chairman. He was put forward as a compromise, and will be accepted by the Bryan people, but there is vague talk that he will be opposed by the "Middle of the Road" delegates. The Bryan managers repudiated General Field of Virginia and withdrew his name. The "Middle of the Road" men did not name a candidate. They desire the selection of Jerome Kirby of Texas. Last night they demanded a statement from Butler, and when he announced himself for Bryan, they decided to fight his selection in convention.

A reporter asked Senator Jones the direct question last night, whether, if the Populists should nominate Bryan and a Populist vice president, he thought Bryan would accept the nomination. He did not think he would, and advised them against it. Senator Jones was the moving spirit at the Democratic national convention. This statement can be received as being semi-official.

The Bryan advocates last night announced their purpose of accepting the action of the national committee in the selection of Senator Butler for temporary chairman. They say that while Butler is really not in accord with them, he is satisfactory to them in the main, and that therefore they prefer to reserve their strength for division on the more important question of the selection of a candidate.

Sutro's Advice.

The following was received last night from Adolph Sutro, mayor of San Francisco:

"To the Editors of the St. Louis Republic:

ADOLPH SUTRO, MAYOR OF SAN FRANCISCO.

"The people's struggles against the oppression and despotism of the combined corporations of the United States are those of the hour, and to carry the coming presidential election the Populist party must first unite with the Democrats, nominate Bryan as its president, and adopt the portions of the Democratic platform not in conflict with the principles of Populism.

"Second, in the Populist platform the ratio between gold and silver must be omitted; that should be left to congress for future legislation. The restoration of bimetallism would largely improve the nation's condition and deeply interest all. The establishment of a low ratio between the two metals only concerns the owners and manipulators of silver mines and a small portion of the population of the United States. To insert the arbitrary ratio of 16 to 1 in the Populist platform will cause the unrelenting opposition of a large and influential portion of the Democratic and other parties, and the election may be lost. Let not the zeal of ambitious leaders misguide you. The enemy is hard at work with its money sacks, and eager to split the Populist party. Above all things, do not forget a rousing plank against that greatest crime of the age, the refunding of the Pacific railroad debt."

"Cyclone" Davis' Compromise.

"Cyclone" Davis has prepared, and will offer in the convention, the following resolutions:

"Whereas, McKinley and the Republican party represent the existing gold standard and its perpetuation, which means that the national banking system is to be rechartered for 50 years, and that our national debt is to be refunded and made a gold instead of a coin debt, and the bonds to run 60 years, and

"Whereas, this system is to be fastened upon the country by a treaty with foreign nations, under the false pretense of an international conference, which means the ultimate enslaving of the masses to complete the establishment of the classes.

"Resolved, that to defeat this measure, and insure McKinley's defeat, so far as our vote goes, we pledge ourselves to unite with the Democrats on one set of electors in each state."

Mr. Davis will present this to the convention as the sentiment of compromise and unity, as far as the "Middle of the Road" people are willing to go.

Brown For Vice President.

E. G. Brown, member of the Populist national committee from Massachusetts, will be presented as a candidate of practically the whole of the New England delegation for vice president. While silent as to who they will support for the first place, they will not lend their aid to Mr. Sewall. Mr. Brown is the editor of the Brockton Diamond, the organ of the Populists of Massachusetts. He is called by some the father of the Populist party, having made the motion in committee on rules, at the Cincinnati conference, which resulted in the foundation of the party.

The presiding officer of the Populist convention will wield a 16 to 1 gavel. It was presented to the national committee by S. D. Walton, a colored delegate from Georgia, as the gift of J. T. Young of that state. The gavel has 16 tips of silver and one of gold. It is made of walnut, oak and ash wood, collected from 17 states—16 southern and western, and one eastern state. Mr. Walton presented the gavel in a neat speech.

At Burns' Home.

London, July 22.—At Dumfries, Scotland, yesterday, the 100th anniversary of the death of Robert Burns was celebrated in an international way. The town was profusely decorated, and the anniversary was observed as generally by the inhabitants of the place where Burns died, as by the representatives of the Scottish societies of Great Britain and the United States, who went thither for the purpose. The address of the day was delivered by Lord Roseberry. Forrest MacLee of New York replied to a toast on behalf of the visiting delegations at luncheon. Rev. Dr. Lorimer of Boston also spoke.

Nine Persons Drowned.

Frankfort, Ky., July 22.—Nine lives were lost as the result of Monday night's flood, so far as heard from. A half dozen or more county bridges have been washed away. Hundreds of acres of crops are totally ruined. The destruction to property in many parts of Franklin county is complete. Damage is estimated at $100,000 at the lowest figure, and is probably a great deal more.

Rebe's Trounced.

Cape Town, July 22.—Sir Frederick Carrington attacked one of the rebels' strongholds in the Matoppo hills and shelled the rebels out of their laager, yesterday, and carried their position. The fighting lasted several hours. It is estimated that 60 of the Matabeles were killed. Three of the British force were killed and 11 wounded.

Crisis Has Passed.

New York, July 22.—Yesterday was the ninth day of Cornelius Vanderbilt's sickness. The crisis has passed. With the dawn Dr. McLane found his patient in good spirits and greatly improved. All apprehension of relapse is over.

BUY

-TEA-

Of Boston Branch Grocery.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

POPULISTS FOR BRYAN

But Unwilling to Accept Sewall on the Tail of the Ticket.

"Middle of the Road" Men Are Suspicious of Treachery.

No Startling Developments at Either of the St. Louis Conventions.

St. Louis, July 23.—The hall in which the Populists met was the same in which the late Republican convention was held last month. The decorations were not elaborate. The delegates began to straggle in before 10 o'clock, but the spectators were slow in arriving. When the pit was half filled there were not 200 people in the galleries. In this respect the usual order of things in conventions of the old parties were reversed. As the air in the hall grew oppressive, the delegates did not hesitate to shed their coats. Some of them came to the hall with their coats on their arms. Others removed coat and vest, and hung them on the back of their chairs. Many of the delegates wore neglige shirts, and quite a number wore neither collar nor cravat.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the chairman's table, a pitcher of ice water and an oak gavel was carried to the platform. About this time some one nailed a portrait of Peter Cooper above the speaker's stand. Below it were the words: "National prosperity cannot be restored by the enforced idleness of a large portion of our people." The portrait did not seem to be recognized, at least it was not applauded.

There were over 2000 delegates and attendants in the pit, but by a liberal estimate not over 600 spectators in the galleries when Chairman Taubeneck stepped to the front of the platform, at 12:37, and called the convention to order. Quiet came with the drop of the gavel. Rev. W. L. Smith of the Third Baptist church of this city delivered the invocation. Mr. Taubeneck's gavel again descended upon the conclusion of the prayer. There was some surprise when the chairman introduced Governor Stone of Missouri, with the announcement that the governor would make a welcoming address. Mr. Stone did not speak at great length. His welcome was most cordial. He ventured upon a few general remarks upon the propriety of freedom of opinion of the press, of speech and of the ballot, which must, he said, be preserved at all hazards.

Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota responded to Governor Stone's speech. His appearance aroused the "Middle of the Road" element to a burst of enthusiasm. Mr. Donnelly paid a high compliment to St. Louis, eloquently describing the Mississippi and the vast country tributary to it, but avoiding adroitly any allusion to the subject upon which the delegates below him were divided. The movement which this convention represented, he said, was a growth of the farm. It had been conceived in the distress that prevailed among the producers of the country. "God save the people," said he. "Upon that we stand. We are devoted to their cause. Let us never forget in our work that we are a band of brothers waging war against the enemies of mankind."

Mary Ellen Lease got a demonstration as she ascended the stage, just before Chairman Taubeneck introduced Senator Butler as temporary chairman.

Introducing Senator Butler, Mr. Taubeneck said that he had been selected by the national committee without a dissenting vote, and he added his belief that when the convention adjourned it woud be found that it had acted with as great unanimity as had the committee in choosing the temporary chairman. Senator Butler was greeted with great applause.

"We are here," said the senator, "because there is need for us to be here." He referred to the fact that two national parties had already held their conventions. These two parties had had charge of the government for 35 years. The people had during this time done their duty in the matter of the creation of wealth. They had caused the country, so far as they could, to blossom as the rose. But these parties had been unfaithful to their trust, and had brought the country to the verge of bankruptcy. The leaders of both had been unfaithful to their trust. Hence the need of the People's party.

Mr. Butler made an earnest appeal for the cessation of petty prejudices. He had heard it intimated by one that Mark Hanna was running the party, and by another that the Democratic party was doing it. As for himself, he had enough faith in the integrity of the party to feel convinced that the party would not make itself an annex to the Democratic party. This statement gave the "Middle of the Roaders" a chance to cheer, but the Bryan followers were afforded an opportunity to shout when he added that there was a grave danger that it might be made a Republican annex. "One danger," said he, "is as great as the other. Let us find the truth in the middle way."

This was the keynote of the senator's speech, but it was noticeable that there was no especial applause at this evident suggestion of a compromise. The party, he continued, should be true to itself. "If this convention," he shouted passionately, "does not follow its own teachings, it is unworthy to represent its own people."

"Hurrah for Bryan," cried an Alabama delegate. "Put him out," yelled several Texas delegates in chorus.

"What shall we do?" asked Senator Butler, as he essayed to resume his speech.

"Nominate Bryan," replied the same Alabama delegate.

"Shut up," "Put him out," cried several voices. "Is he a Democrat?" called out some one.

"Yes," "No," were the intermingled cries, while others continued to shout, "Put him out."

The interruptions became so frequent that Senator Butler, after waving his arms appealingly, to secure quiet, said that whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad. "Every time you interrupt me," he said, "you endanger your cause. This convention has not been crushed by either of the old parties, and will not be stampeded. Our duty is to approve what is right and condemn what is wrong. I am telling what you will find out when you get home," he went on. "I have been down among the farmers of my state, and I know what I say is true, when I tell you that they expect us to rise to the level of patriotism and travel in the path of consciousness. If you waver from your position of principle, then you become no better than the old parties."

It was the duty of all Populists to stand by what they had taught in the past, he said. He believed that the convention was going to do what was wisest, and added: "It is going to stand together; it is not going to split." Concluding, he said: "We shall stand together, go away united, strip our coats off for the fray, and be prepared for any emergency, however great. Remember that you are Populists; remember that you have accomplished more in four years than the other parties, and remember that if you do your duty now, you will soon be the party of the majority."

Mr. Butler closed amid vigorous applause, among those who shouted most lustily for him being Congressman Howard of Alabama, who had been shouting for Bryan during the progress of the senator's speech. Chairman Butler then assumed the gavel, and the states were called for members of the committee on credentials. At the conclusion of the call, the convention, at 2:10, took a recess until 8 o'clock.

At 8:30, "Cyclone" Davis mounted the stage and tried to secure order, but the crowd refused to listen until some one held a lighted candle in front of his face. As his tall form and his broad, sweeping sombrero came within the narrow light from the tallow dip, the delegates immediately recognized him, and there were shouts of "Shut up," "Keep quiet," "Listen to 'Cyclone.'" When he could make himself heard he announced that the electric wires were disaffected, but that they would be all right in a few minutes, whereupon there were cheers of approval, and the band struck up another tune.

Delegate Webster of St. Louis moved that a committee be appointed to wait upon the officers of the convention and ascertain why they were not present. A chorus of voices seconded the motion, but nobody moved, and no committee was appointed. One disgusted delegate cried: "Let us go to Chicago and hire a hall." This suggestion also seemed to meet with approval. Then the band in the gallery broke out with the strains of "Dixie," and the old southern song was answered by the roar of 1000 throats.

MARY E. LEASE.

Mrs. Mary E. Lease came to the stage and was appealed to to make a speech, but she declined to talk in the dark. "Wait until they turn on the lights," said she, "and I'll talk to you all night."

At 8:45, Chairman Butler appeared on the stage. The band played, "Put Me Off at Buffalo," and then Senator Butler called the convention to order. He announced that the committee on credentials was not able to report, and that as owing to an accident there was no light, he would declare the convention in recess until 10 o'clock in the morning. The delegates, many of them with evident reluctance, then quitted the hall. The convention had only been adjourned two minutes when the lights were turned on, but every delegate had gone before there was a glimmer.

When 8 o'clock arrived, the hour for the convention to reconvene, the hall was in darkness. The delegates were huddled in the seats in front of the platform, while ghastly groups of forces swayed in the light of the few candles that flickered on the press tables. About this time some shrewd "Middle of the Roader" thought he discovered that the refusal to turn on the lights was part of a scheme of the Bryan people to prevent the straight-out element from controlling. The suspicion that the lights were out in the interests of a faction, as they were turned out at the Cincinnati convention in 1876, by the opponents of Mr. Blaine, aroused a storm of protests, and the "Middle of the Roaders" were charging about in the dark to discover the cause of the unprecedented situation.

"Its a scheme of the Bryan men," the Texas delegation shouted. Some one mounted the stage, and yelled, "The Bryan people have put out the lights, but if they nominate Bryan we'll split this convention wide open."

"Your a disgrace to the party," came emphatically from the black cavernous depth of the hall.

By this time the aisles were choked with delegates pushing and groping their way about in the dark. There began to be some apprehension of some sudden alarm, which might stampede the delegates and cause a disaster, and they began discussing the advisability of adjourning the convention until morning. The band, under instructions, kept up a constant fusilade of airs to allay the fears of any who might be alarmed. Whenever the band played a hymn, the delegates joined in the chorus. Some of the other rollicking songs, like "John Brown's Body" and "Marching Through Georgia," were also sung.

A Bad Mix-Up.

The "Middle of the Road" men, through their steering committee, took action last night which will probably have a very important effect on the convention. Early in the evening they selected Ignatius Donnelly for their candidate as permanent chairman, and sent a committee to notify him of his selection. Mr. Donnelly accepted, and it was given out. Later, the steering committee held another meeting and selected J. E. Campion of Maine as their candidate for permanent chairman. The committee realizes it is in a very awkward position, having notified Donnelly and secured his acceptance, but the reasons given for substituting Campion are that the Minnesota delegation and the delegation which the steering committee represented made a great protest against Donnelly's election, many declaring they would not vote for him. It was also stated by members of the committee that Donnelly was a possible candidate for president, and ought not to be presented for permanent chairman. It was also stated that his election was very obnoxious to the anti-Catholic element, as it was believed he was a Catholic. Many of the leaders of the "Middle of the Road" think a great mistake has been made, and that the action of the committee will lose the "Middle of the Road" men many votes in the convention.

SILVER CONVENTION

Planning to Make Arrangements For a Compromise With Populists.

St. Louis, July 23.—The conditions governing entrance to the Silver convention were almost as rigorous as at Chicago on the opening day of the Democratic convention, although the demands for admittance were so few that at 11:55 there was no one in the gallery but the band, and on the floor scarcely more than 20 persons, including visitors. Temporary Chairman Newlands and Mr. Towne of Minnesota, one of the bolting Republicans, appeared, and took seats on the platform. They were soon followed by W. P. St. John, slated for permanent chairman, who was not recognized by the people present, and so received no recognition.

At 12:30 Chairman Mott called the convention to order, announcing that proceedings would be opened with the reading of the call for the convention by J. M. Devine, secretary of the Bimetallic league, which was accordingly done. At this time there were probably 400 delegates in their seats and two-score spectators.

At 12:35, Dr. Mott introduced Francis G. Newlands, representative in congress from Nevada, as the temporary chairman, who addressed the convention. He said that England's wealth consists of gold. Our wealth consists in property and products. England is a creditor nation, the United States is a debtor nation. England is interested in having money dear and products cheap. We rely upon good prices for our products in order to pay our foreign debts.

After Mr. Newlands' speech, the roll-call of states was begun, to ascertain the names of delegates appointed to committee on resolutions, national committee, permanent organization, and vice presidents of the convention. Following this the convention adjourned until 4:30.

It was 5 o'clock when the convention was called to order after the recess. There were about 500 people in the hall, including the delegates. A committee was appointed to notify the Populists that they would be admitted without tickets. The committee on credentials reported that there were no contests and approved the motion that all delegates be allowed to cast full votes. The report was adopted. The committee on permanent organization recommended that W. P. St. John of New York be selected for permanent chairman, Charles A. Towne of Minnesota chosen for vice chairman and R. E. Dufendorfer of Pennsylvania for secretary. The report was received with cheers and adopted. A committee was appointed to escort Mr. St. John to the platform.

Mr. St. John made a speech in behalf of silver, which was loudly applauded. A motion was made that a special committee, consisting of one delegate from each delegation, be appointed to confer with a like committee of the Populists, for the purpose of settling the differences between the two factions. Half a dozen men began to debate the question, and much confusion prevailed. The general trend of all the speeches was that the great object was to secure an endorsement of Bryan and Sewall for president and vice president. The motion was finally adopted. The roll of states was then called for the names of the men selected for the conference committee, and the convention then adjourned until today.

State Highways.

It is reported that the State Highway Commissions propose to expend $29,600 in Norfolk county this year as follows: Holbrook-Weymouth, $4,100; Norfolk, $7,000; Norwood, $5,000; Walpole, $7,000; Weymouth, $6,500.

In the Holbrook-Weymouth case, the line crosses a small part of Weymouth which can be reached only by going through territory of Holbrook. In this case, the towns have relinquished their rights to do the work by contract themselves.

The commission has reserved out of the $600,000 which the state gave them this year about $75,000 for office work and contingencies, leaving $525,009 for the construction of roads. Petitions for new roads have been coming in during the year thus far at the rate of three or four a month, and taking this year with the last, the demand is far in excess of the ability of the state to supply. Some 270 towns or all in the state but about 50, have petitioned for a piece of state road and most of them will have to wait for a considerable time before their turn will come.

Under the law the money is to be spent equally, as far as may be, among the different counties.

SILVER WEDDING.

A Hall the Happy Scene of the Festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland Twenty-Five Years Married.

A Wedding March, Musical Programme, and Dancing.

A goodly number of the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland of Pierce street, Norfolk Downs, gathered in the hall near the depot Wednesday evening to extend congratulations and to assist this worthy couple in observing their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland were united in marriage at East Boston in 1871, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Clark, since deceased. Five children have been born but two of whom are now living, W. F. and Austin. Some few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland came to Quincy taking up their residence in the suburb known as Norfolk Downs where they have since resided.

The guests began to arrive shortly before 8 o'clock and they were received by the ushers: Mr. W. F. Sutherland, Mr. Austin Sutherland, their two sons, Mr. Frank Bugbee and Mr. William A. Betts. These guests did not come empty handed for they brought with them many beautiful presents to testify of their good wishes for future happiness.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, to the sweet inspiring music of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, executed on the piano and violin by Miss Winship and Miss Thomas, the party marched in from the side room, led by Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, and after encircling the hall the bride and groom of twenty-five years ago halted in front of the platform and received the individual congratulations of those present.

The platform was very prettily decorated with large potted plant, among which were several banquet lamps with delicate shades which made a very pretty picture.

After the march there was a short musical programme, consisting of piano solos, Miss Winship, violin solos by Miss Thomas and cornet solos by Mr. Arthur Murphy.

At the conclusion of the musical programme an adjournment was made to the banquet hall where the wedding supper was served by Caterer Nash.

The remaining hours of the evening were passed in social intercourse, and in dancing, music for the latter being furnished by Messrs. Frank Bugbee and Arthur Metcalf.

Probate Court.

At the Norfolk county probate court in Hyde Park Wednesday wills were allowed as follows: Marion Sherburne, Wrentham; J. H. Litchfield, Quincy; G. M. Rice, Hyde Park, W. B. Rice, executor, bond $100,000; C. H. Allen, Weymouth; Sarah Smith, Sharon; Harriet Bates, Cohasset; H. C. Alden, Randolph.

Administrations were granted on the estates of John L. Souther of Quincy, Warren Thayer of Weymouth, Ruth Jones of Weymouth, R. C. Snow of Dedham, Sarah Mayoury of Braintree, Mary Holmes of Dedham, Eleanor Bullard of Medway, Rev. George Hill of Norwood, Owen Corr of Weymouth, C. L. Henderson of Braintree, W. T. Thayer of Weymouth, Mary Gilroy of Franklin, Lydia Cross of Brookline, C. S. Stowell of Weymouth.

Among other business was the appointment of Caroline Craig as guardian of Ethel Craig of Quincy. Caroline Russell, guardian of Harry Russell of Quincy, was granted leave to sell real estate. The first and final account of A. F. Bussell, as guardian of Laura Tirrell for $12,440 was allowed.

Golden Cross Officers.

Granite Commandery, U. O. G. C., installed these officers at Faxon hall Wednesday evening, the installing officer being Deputy Grand Commander Dove of Ashmont:

GRAND LAWN PARTY.

Wollaston Unitarians Have a Gathering at Councilman Bryant's.

Councilman Bryant's ground, which are always beautiful, was transformed into a veritable fairy land Wednesday evening. Over six hundred Japanese lanterns were used in illuminating the drives and walks.

THE HOST.

Mr. Bryant very generously tendered the use of his grounds and magnificent stable to the Wollaston Unitarian Society for the purpose of a lawn party.

The arrangements were placed in the hands of a committee, consisting of Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, Mr. F. A. Page, Mr. W. E. Simmons, Mr. Eugene H. Sprague, Mr. Walter J. Wellington, Mr. Walter M. Hatch, Mr. Charles M. Bryant, and Mr. Charles T. Baker.

There was plenty of amusement to keep the large crowd busy. There was dancing in the barn, Sparrow's ice cream to eat, candy to chew on, Duck's Nest beer to drink, and Al. Williams.

The evening was perfect for an out door gathering. The moon now and then poked her silvery head through the Rhode Island fog, which lazily drifted over.

MILTON.

The Congregational church will be closed until September first.

William Kelley is seriously ill at his home in East Milton.

William Leavitt, William Clark and F. Maynard, three local fishermen, made a big catch at Braintree Great pond one day recently.

Rev. A. S. Gilbert, pastor of the Congregational church, has gone west on his vacation and when he returns he will bring a bride with him.

The union picnic of the Congregational and Baptist churches at Lovell's grove last week was a very enjoyable affair.

TODAY'S COURT.

To the Maine Coast and Return $1.50.

Excursions seem to be the popular mode of entertainment for the summer, and the favorite resort to which many Boston people travel is Old Orchard, and well that they should, for at Old Orchard there are many ways in which one may pass a few delightful hours. The surf bathing is unexcelled. The shore dinners of sufficient delicacy to please the epicurean, while the camp ground or Orchard Beach Railroad offer enticing inducement for pleasure. Arrangements have been made by the Boston & Maine Railroad for a popular excursion to Old Orchard on Tuesday, July 28th, and leaving Boston Union Station at 8 A. M., on the special train, one will have several hours for enjoyment at the beach leaving Old Orchard at 4.45 P. M. Boston will be reached in the early evening. The rate for the round trip is $1.50 and tickets are obtainable only at the City Ticket Office, 322 Washington street, Boston.

Notes From Camp.

It was hot and close at Framingham on Wednesday; maximum temperature, 88; relative humidity, 82.

The details of the Fifth, says the Journal, came on to the line well together. Formation was prompt, requiring no material rectification of alignment. The Lieutenant of the Guard drew his sword a little prematurely. The march past and manual were good. There were 72 men in the detail.

The Fifth repeated the good work performed Tuesday, says the Globe, and mounted a guard of 72 men. Steadiness, good alignments, snappy manual and excellent cadence in the march characterized the ceremony.

Senator Flint.

It is perhaps a little early to think about candidates for senator from this district, but the name of Representative James H. Flint of Weymouth is being prominently mentioned throughout the district and is meeting with almost universal approval. The nomination rightfully belongs to Weymouth and no better or stronger candidate can be found than Judge Flint.

They All Come Back To

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine continue the whole year round, steady as a clock.

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

Friend, and take your watch to a place where they have every modern tool known to the trade, and work with a thinking cap on.

Household Economy.

There's a splendid opportunity to display business enterprise in managing your household affairs. Be careful of your own interest.

It has always been the object of this store to serve its patrons in the very best possible manner. Substantial, attractive, made-to-wear furniture and carpetings, at prices that are low to begin with and economical to end with. Getting at the Bottom.

Funny, when you come to think of it, that the only way for a merchant to get to the top is to get at the bottom—in prices.

It isn't every retailer who gets the bottom.

Sometimes he knows where the bottom is, but can't reach it for some reason—lack of capital possibly.

A good many times his eyes aren't sharp enough to see the bottom—so he doesn't buy low enough.

We don't like to boast, but we know that our "bottom prices" are the genuine thing.

The Philadelphia Inquirer gives this receipt for clam chowder: Twenty-five clams, one half pound of salt pork, six medium sized potatoes and a pint of milk. Cut the pork in pieces about a quarter of an inch square and put on the fire to brown, then add three pints of boiling water and the potatoes and onions chopped fine; cook until tender; it will take almost an hour. If the water boils off add more, and stir often to keep from burning. When almost done, add the clams; when they have cooked about 15 minutes put on the back of the stove and pour the milk in, add a pound of fresh water crackers, broken fine, and pepper and salt to taste. Do not let it boil after the milk has been added or add the salt until the last thing, or it will curdle.

YOUNG MONKS' STORY

Of the Awful Tragedy Aboard the Barkentine Herbert Fuller.

Many Indications That the Mate Was the Murderer.

Keeps His Mouth Shut, Except to Deny Knowledge of the Tragedy.

Halifax, July 23.—The intense excitement occasioned by the news of the triple murder on the barkentine Herbert Fuller, the arrival of the bodies of the three victims and the arrest of all on board the vessel, has in no wise abated. The remains of Captain Nash and his wife have been sealed up and await the arrival of the dead captain's brother.

The story that Leslie Monks, the passenger, will tell on the stand, will be substantially as follows: When Mrs. Nash's screams awoke Monks he realized that something was wrong, and put his clothes on. Then he loaded his revolver and went out in the companionway. He did not see any person as he emerged from his room. He took a look into the chart room and saw the captain lying on the floor, and he also observed blood. He thought that some mishap had befallen the captain and went forward to call the captain's wife to come to the assistance of her husband. On reaching the room a horrible and sickening sight met his gaze. The horribly mutilated body of the captain's wife lay on the floor. It then dawned on Monks what had happened to the captain, and he hastily proceeded to the second mate's room, only to find that he, too, had been murdered.

Monks now trembled, with fear, as he did not know what to do, or how many of the crew were implicated in the tragedy. At first he started aft, and was about to go on deck, but then he thought that the murderer, or murderers, might be waiting for him to come up and kill him. So he retraced his footsteps, and went up the forward companionway. No sooner had he placed his head above, than a billet of wood was hurled at him by Mat Bram. Monks levelled his revolver at the mate, and the latter begged him not to shoot. Monks was suspicious of the mate, but he did not say anything to him.

The crew were then aroused, and they were horrified at what had taken place. After consultation had been held, Wheelman Brown was placed in irons, and the mate assumed command of the vessel. Suspicion, however, rested very much upon the mate.

Monks says he and Charles Spencer, the colored steward, talked the matter over afterwards, and that they proceeded to look for the captain's revolver, which, up to that time, could not be found. They searced the chartroom, but it was not there. They then looked in the captain's room, in which Monks had been sleeping, and it was found underneath the mattress. It was loaded when they found it, and Spencer took it to protect himself against any further outbreak, as Monks had his revolver.

Both Monks and Spencer seemed to gain in each other's confidence, and they worked together. Spencer was very suspicious of the mate, and he frequently told Monks of it. Monks says the mate was very cool through the whole affair.

Bram suggested that the bodies be thrown overboard and the cabin and rooms cleaned up, but this Spencer and Monks declined to allow being done. After the bodies had been removed from the room, Monks locked the doors and took the keys and kept them himself. The mate Monks says, never touched the bodies, but others helped fix them up and put them into the small boat.

During the morning after the murder, Spencer and Mate Bram had a conversation, in the course of which Bram asked him if a certain washing powder was good to wash clothing with, and Spencer said it was, as his wife used it at home.

Later on, Spencer watched Bram, and he saw him get a shirt, which he wore on the night of the murder, and put it in a bucket of water and throw a large quantity of this washing powder on top of it. Then Spencer became more suspicious. No steps were taken at that time, however, but the same close watch was kept on the mate.

The mate had full charge of the ship all this time, and was navigating her himself, but Monks and Spencer did not think he was steering her for the nearest port.

Monks consulted the chart, and found that the mate was taking the vessel off her course, and was heading in another direction altogether. Monks and Spencer then came to the conclusion that they would have to place the mate in irons, and Spencer first seized hold of Bram, while Monks stood over him with a loaded revolver. The mate did not resist. All hands were ordered on deck, and remained there all the time, as it was feared that some of them were in league with the mate Bram.

The mate is the only one of the crew who keeps his mouth closed, and when questioned regarding the affair pleads that he knows nothing concerning the tragedy.

Twelve Thousand Left Shops.

New York, July 23.—About 8000 tailors in this city and 4000 in Brooklyn went on strike yesterday in obedience to the orders of the union officials. The strike is directed against the contractors, but is really against the manufacturers. It is against the task system and a general reduction of wages from 15 to 20 per cent.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health. Yours truly,

JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Scrofula, which is hereditary and deep-seated in the blood can be cured by P. P. P. It is the one and only positive cure for this dread disease.

Sufferers from kidney troubles find immediate relief when they take P. P. P. as it cures all irregularities and restores to nature her proper functions.

CHOKED HIS CHILDREN.

James Murphy Thought Them Dead Before He Desisted.

Had Repeatedly Threatened to Take Their Lives.

Cambridge Man's Violent Temper Has Got Him Into Serious Trouble.

Cambridge, Mass., July 23.—James Murphy, living with his wife and four children at 8 Porter street, last night choked two of the children, John, aged 4 years, and Lizzie, aged 18 months, and left them for dead. He was arrested, and is now locked up on the charge of attempted murder.

At about 7 o'clock last night, Mrs. Murphy ran screaming from the house. Her husband was killing the children, she said, and had cut their throats with a razor.

As the woman ran into the street an expressman was passing, and she implored him to carry her to station 3. She hurriedly told her story, and the driver of the team whipped up the horses, and at their utmost speed went through Gore street to the station house. The woman fell, rather than jumped, from the wagon, and ran into the police station, where, to Sergeant Corcoran she stated that her husband, who had before repeatedly threatened to kill their four children, had at last done so. He had a razor in his hand when she ran from the building, she said, and she had no doubt but that the little ones were cold in death.

The sergeant immediately dispatched the patrol wagon to the scene, but before it arrived at the house Officer Sculley, upon whose route the affair occurred, had heard of it, and running to the house placed Murphy under arrest.

When arrested, Murphy had a razor in his hand. He was going to shave himself, he said, but the police claim that his face was clean shaved, as if that work had been done in the morning.

When Patrolman Sculley arrived at the house he found both of the children lying on the floor, pale, as if dead, and their heads turned to one side. Their tongues were hanging out, and there were dark marks on their throats.

After placing the father under arrest, the man was handcuffed and the officer attempted to resuscitate the children. He ran from the house into the large crowd that had gathered about, and just at this juncture a carriage containing a physician, whose name is unknown, passed. The doctor immediately rendered assistance, and after he had worked some moments on the children they revived. Grave doubts are expressed, however, as to their ultimate recovery.

The other two children, one aged 2½ years and the other 3 months, were also playing in the house, but were uninjured.

Murphy was taken to the police station, and there he stated in answer to questions from Chief Cloyes, that he had "done nothing." He stated he was an electrican, and employed at Atkinson's restaurant in Boston, but he is unknown at that establishment.

Murphy bears a bad reputation among the police. They say that he has a very violent temper, and that he has been before placed under bonds to keep the peace, and that he has repeatedly threatened to kill the children.

Mrs. Murphy states that last evening she purchased some pigs' feet, and when she placed them on the table her husband picked one of them up and threw it at her, and stated he was going to kill the children. Then she ran from the house.

Judge Grant In Doubt.

Boston, July 23.—The Stetson will case came up in the probate court, before Judge Grant, yesterday, and after a short hearing was adjourned until next Monday. Dr. Cilley, the only witness who testified narrated circumstances which attended the execution of the will. The court felt in doubt whether there was a proper attestation of the will by the witnesses, and whether the three witnesses signed in the presence of the testator, and desired counsel to submit legal authorities as to their views of the matter, according to the evidence. The signing of the witnesses on the desk, 12 feet away from where the testator was lying, and where it was doubtful that he could see them sign, with his frequent lapses into sleep, as testified to by Dr. Cilley, raises the question.

Williams In New Hampshire.

Manchester, N. H., July 23.—A largely attended ratification meeting was held in Mechanics' hall last night by the Democrats of this city. The hall was crowded, and on the platform were a number of prominent Democrats of the city and state. George F. Williams of Dedham, Mass., was one of the guests, and the principal speaker of the evening. His arrival was greeted with a salute of cannon. A torchlight procession preceded the meeting. The Republican party and the bolting Democrats, and Democratic press, came in for some severe rating, as did also the Republican organs which advocate the St. Louis platform.

Firebugs at Work.

Lynn, Mass., July 23.—After a hearing on the supposed incendiary fire in the confecetionery store at 360 Essex street, Deputy Fire Marshal Shaw ordered the arrest of Miss Kate Higgins, who occupied the store, on suspicion of incendiarism. An attempt was made to set fire to a 3-story wooden block, occupied by eight families, on Cambridge street, yesterday. A man extinguished a blaze on the first floor, where kerosene oil had been copiously sprinkled in the unoccupied rooms.

Grave Charge by Counsel.

Haverhill, Mass., July 23.—The case against Fred Hamell, the Ashland street lad who was charged with assault and battery, came up again yesterday, but was not heard, a sensational statement being made by Mayor Brickett, his counsel, that witnesses had been tampered with and got out of the way.

Cohen Was Murdered.

Clinton, Mass., July 23.—From the evidence at the inquest and the report upon the circumstances attending the death of William F. Cohen, whose dismembered body, badly charred, was found in the ruins of his home on May 10, near Cotter, Judge C. T. Stowes has reported that Cohen was murdered by some person or persons unknown, and his body, after being hacked and mangled, the limbs being cut off, was left in the house and the house fired to conceal the crime.

All Bars to Be Closed.

Concord, N. H., July 23.—It is reported here that orders, presumably from the Law and Order league, have been issued to all of the hotels in the White mountains, prohibiting their serving of liquors to the guests of the hotels. Hotel keepers and druggists, and other parties in the northern counties of the state, have, it is said, declared that if they were to be deprived of the privilege of selling liquor, mountain hotel proprietors should not be permitted to serve their guests with the fluhibited liquors, and it is possible that they may have inspired this new movement for the enforcement of the laws.

Now Both Are Dead.

Springfield, Mass., July 23.—A fire, which broke out at the home of Louis Chamberlain, at Chicopee, yesterday, badly scorched the dead body of an infant girl, who had died several hours before, and had been prepared for burial. A twin sister, who was sleeping in an adjoining room, was killed by inhaling the smoke. The fire started from a candle, which had fallen to the floor and ignited a lace curtain.

Dow In Court.

Exeter N. H., July 23.—John M. Dow, charged with murder in the first degree in killing Josiah Brown at Seabrook, last Saturday, was arraigned yesterday. The state had a large number of witnesses present. No defense was offered at this time, and the prisoner was ordered committed to jail until the October term of the supreme court.

Worms on the March.

South Sudbury, Mass., July 23.—The dreaded army worm has appeared in Barre and Rutland, Vt., the adjoining town, and is making sad havoc with the oat and corn fields. In West Rutland, in one day, the pests completely ruined a four-acre oat field, one of the finest in Worcester county. The worm are moving northward from Rutland and Barre.

A New Kind of Boycott.

Cleveland, July 23.—The Central Labor union met last night to discuss the Brown strike. After a score of radical speeches had been made it was decided by a unanimous vote to boycott every firm in Cleveland which furnished employment to members of the state militia. A committee was also appointed to consider the advisability of calling out all the union men in the city in sympathy with the Brown strikers.

Steinway's Charity.

New York, July 23.—William Steinway has generously apportioned the $5000 which he will receive for his services as rapid transit commissioner among various charities. This is the second distribution of the kind he has made. Although Mr. Steinway has not yet received his $5000, he has already forwarded his check to the various charities for their share of the fee.

A Queer Convict System.

Atlanta, July 23.—Governor Atkinson has cancelled the lease of about 500 state convicts, and they will be removed from the coal mines to the brickyards and lumber camps of other lessees. These convicts had been leased by Julian Brown, who refused to pay the fine recently imposed by the governor for mismanaging the prisoners. The governor takes the convicts away from him.

A ROYAL WEDDING.

Prince Charles of Denmark Weds Princess Maud of Wales.

London, July 23.—Princess Maud of Wales, youngest daughter of the Prince of Wales, was married yesterday to Prince Charles, son of the Crown Prince of Denmark. The ceremony took place in the Chapel Royal, Buckingham palace. The West End was profusely decorated with flags, flowers, etc., and there was a conspicuous blending of the British and Danish flags. The Life Guards and the Coldstream Guards lined the route from Marlborough House to Buckingham palace. A cavalcade of heralds and equerries escorted the bridegroom, who was accompanied by his parents, the Crown Prince of Denmark and Princess Louise, and his brothers Christian and Harold. The Prince and Princess of Wales, and all of the queen's children, with their families, were in carriages, except Princess Beatrice of Battenberg and her children, who were absent on account of their mourning for the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg. The queen passed into the chapel from Buckingham palace. Rev. Edward White Benson, archbishop of Canterbury, officiated, assisted by the bishops of London and Winchester. The Prince of Wales gave the bride away.

Key West, July 23. — Advices from Habana state that Rios and Montaner, the two men who were imprisoned on account of the discovery of arms in San Rafael street, have been barbarously whipped by the Spanish police. The first one was tortured. A lady who was arrested has been confined for three days in a cell with no furniture, except a chair.

An umbrella of perfect digestion will keep off the shower of disease germs that is constantly falling. If digestion is rapid and thorough, the germs will not stay long enough in the body to make very much trouble. When the digestive action is sluggish, when the bowels do not act, and poisonous, effete matter is retained in the system, there is every chance for the development of all sorts of sickness. The blood becomes impure, and all the distressing symptoms of indigestion are apparent. Constipation causes biliousness, sour stomach, flatulency, heart-burn, dyspepsia, headache, foul taste in the mouth, sleep without rest, and many other distressing symptoms. It can be cured—simply, easily, quickly and permanently by using Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One little "Pellet," is a gentle laxative, and two, a mild cathartic. They are sold by most druggists, and no honest druggist will attempt to sell you a substitute. There is nothing else in the world that has the same action as the "Pleasant Pellets." They are absolutely natural in their work, do not gripe, nor cause any other unpleasant symptoms.

Dr. Pierce's great book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," tells people how to keep well. It is a large, handsome, 1000 page, illustrated volume, and is a complete medical library in itself. It has had a greater sale, at its regular price of $1.50 per volume, than any other medical work that was ever published. It is now offered, paper-covered, absolutely free to any one who will send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only. Those who would like to have the book in French cloth covers, should send ten cents extra (thirty-one cents in all) to pay the extra cost of this more handsome and durable binding.

GOING ALONG SLOWLY.

Populists' Choice of Allen For Chairman Is In Bryan's Favor.

Conviction Will Settle Down to Business Today.

Currency Question, Land Grants and Direct Legislation Considered In Platform.

St. Louis, July 24. — There was two sessions of the Populist convention yesterday, a morning session of two hours, and an afternoon session of six hours. The latter carried the convention into the night. Both were turbulent and noisy, but the tumult was confined to the delegates on the floor, the galleries being practically empty. A bitter feeling manifested itself among the "Middle of the Road" faction, which found vent in several wild demonstrations.

The morning session was a virtual blank, so far as business was concerned. The report of the committee on credentials was not ready, and the convention listened to a baritone from Oklahoma and a sweet singer from Arkansas render some campaign parodies on popular ballads. There was also a dramatically arranged "Middle of the Road" demonstration, which failed to arouse much enthusiasm, despite its theatrical accessories.

At 10:16 yesterday morning, Senator Butler called the convention to order. Rev. Mr. Smith offered a short prayer. The chairman then called for the report of the committee on credentials, but that committee was still unprepared to report, and was given further time.

The roll of states was then called for the names of committeemen on organization, resolutions and notification of nominees.

A motion was made for an inquiry as to why there was so much delay in presenting the report of the committee on organization, but a member of the committee stated that the report was being typewritten and would be presented as soon as possible. After a few speeches had been made the convention adjourned until 3 o'clock.

The Bryan and the "Middle of the Road" Populists came together last night for their first test of strength, and Bryan's friends won, their candidate for permanent chairman, Senator Allen, being victorious by a vote of 758 to 564 for Campion of Maine, and 1 for Ignatius Donnelly.

The announcement of the vote caused a duplication of the scene following Bryan's nomination at Chicago. Delegates stood on seats and yelled; others marched around the hall in tumultuous procession, bearing aloft state guidons, the band in the gallery played, a score of enthusiasts sung the "Doxology," and the Cook county (Ills.) delegates mixed up in a general free-for-all fight over seats.

After many minutes comparative quiet was restored, and the selection of Mr. Allen was made unanimous, with a whoop.

Then the delegates began to cheer again, and when Mr. Allen stood on the platform he was given a magnificent reception.

Senator Allen, on taking the patform, spoke at some length, being listened to with a great deal of interest. He spoke extemporaneously, not having had time to prepare himself. In the senate, he never reads a speech, and last night his utterances flowed freely. He was frequently interrupted with applause. Senator Allen complimented Temporary Chairman Butler upon his fairness. He denied the charge that the Populists were anarchists. He next endeavored to show that the Populists had broken down Mason and Dixon's line, thus doing away with sectionalism, so far as north and south are concerned. Among other things, he said:

"I have no doubt that in Wall street this moment there is a hope that this great convention will split to pieces, and that the Populist party will be disrupted and absorbed principally by the Republican party, because this is the party that will be supported by Wall street this fall. I have no doubt that in this building at this moment the minions of Wall street can be found. They have gone to the hotels at night, clothed in badges, with a lie upon their lips, saying that they were delegates, representing some state in this Union, in the convention."

Chairman Allen was repeatedly interrupted by his enemies, as well as by his friends. He gave his views of the economic and financial questions of the day at considerable length. It was 9:30 when he concluded.

Several attempts to secure an adjournment were made, but Senator Butler, acting as a delegate, moved the appointment of a committee to confer with the committee of the Silver convention. There were many and loud cries of "No, no," and Mr. Branch of Georgia moved to table the motion. The noes seemed to be in a large majority, and the motion to table was declared lost. Senator Butler's motion was carried with a loud cheer of ayes. The Bryan men were apparently in full control of the convention.

A Tennessee delegate offered a resolution declaring that free and unlimited coinage of silver was paramount, and directing the conference committee to take steps to bring it about. The resolution went to the conference committee.

The committee on rules then made its report. Little interest was manifested in it, and before the convention had acted upon it, Lafe Pence moved an adjournment. At 10:09 the convention adjourned.

The Bryan men are jubilant, and there is practically no doubt but that the convention will ratify the nomination of the Democratic candidate, at least.

As for Mr. Sewall, there is not so much talk being heard against him, and it would surprise few if he was also given an endorsement.

The Proposed Platform.

The sub-committee of 25 of the Populist committee on resolutions was at work at midnight on the platform to be reported to the full committee today. It had at that time agreed upon a preamble, and financial and land planks, and upon some minor matters. As the sub-committee comprises a majority of the entire committee, it is more than probable that its recommendations will be accepted. So far as the platform has been completed, it is as follows:

The People's party, assembled in national convention, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles declared by the founders of the republic, and also to the fundamental principles of just government, as enunciated in the platform of the party in 1892, but recognizes that through the action of the present and preceding administrations the country has reached a crisis in its national life, as predicted in our platform four years ago, and at present, prompt and patriotic action is the supreme duty of the hour. We realize that while we have political independence, our financial and industrial independence is yet to be attained by restoring to the people's government the constitutional control and exercises of the functions necessary to that end, which functions have been basely surrendered by our public servants, to corporate monopolies. The influence of European money changers has been more potent in shaping legislation than the voice of the American people. Executive power and patronage have been used to corrupt our legislatures and defeat the will of the people, and plutocracy has thereby been enthroned upon the ruins of democracy. To restore the government of the fathers, and for the welfare and prosperity of this and future generations, we demand the establishment of our economic and financial system, which shall make us masters of our own affairs, and independent of European control, by the adoption of the following declaration of principles:

1. We demand a national currency, safe and sound, issued by the general government only, a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and without the use of banking corporations; an honest, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people, and through the lawful disbursement of the government.

2. We demand the free and unrestricted coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States, without waiting for the consent of foreign nations.

3. We demand that the volume of circulating medium be speedily increased to an amount sufficient to meet the demands of the business and population of this country, and to restore the just level of prices of labor and production, and thereby establish prosperity and happiness for the people.

4. We denounce the sale of bonds and the increase of the public interest-bearing debt, made by the public administration, as unnecessary and without authority of law, and we demand a law absolutely prohibiting the sale of bonds and increase of the public debt except in accordance with an act or acts of congress authorizing the same.

5. We demand such legislation as will prevent demonetization of the lawful money of the United States by private consent and private contract.

6. We demand that the government, in payment of its obligations, shall use its option as to the kind of lawful money in which they are to be paid, and we denounce the present and preceding administrations for surrendering this option to the holders of government obligations.

7. We demand a graduated income tax, to the end that aggregated wealth shall bear its just proportion of taxation, and we denounce the recent decision of the supreme court in regard to the income tax, as an misinterpretation of the constitution and an invasion of the rightful powers of congress over the subject of taxation.

8. We demand that postal savings be established by the government for the safe deposit of the savings of the people, and to facilitate exchange.

A true policy demands that the national and state legislation shall be such as will ultimately enable every private and industrious man to own a home, and therefore the land should not be monopolized for speculative purposes. All agricultural and grazing lands now held by railroad corporations, in excess of their actual need, should by lawful means be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only, and private land monopoly should be prevented by state and national legislation. We condemn the fraud, the land grant of the Pacific Railroad company, which, through the connivance of the interior department, robbed multitudes of actual and bona fide settlers of their homes and minors of their claims, and we demand legislation by congress which will enforce the exception of mineral land from such grants after, as well as before, patents.

We hold that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and in order that the consent of the governed may be clearly ascertained, we favor direct legislation, under proper constitutional safeguards, so that a 5 percentage of the citizens shall have the right of initiating, framing and preparing laws, and of compelling the submission thereof, whether proposed by national, state or local legislatures, to a direct vote of the people for their approval of rejection.

Being a means of exchange, and a public necessity, the government should own and operate railroads in the interest of the people; to the end that all men may be accorded the same treatment in transportation, and that the tyranny and political power, now exercised by the great corporations, which result in the impairment, if not the destruction of the political and personal liberty of the citizen, may be destroyed. Such ownership is to be accomplished gradually, in a manner consistent with sound public policy.

The interest of the United States in the public highways, built with public monies, and the proceeds of extensive grants of land, known as the Pacific railroads, should never be alieniated, mortgaged or sold, but guarded and protected for the general welfare, as provided by the laws organizing said Pacific railroads. The foreclosure of the subsisting liens of the United States on these roads should at once follow default in the payment thereof by the debtor companies, and at the foreclosure of said roads, the government shall purchase the same, if it becomes necessary to protect its interests therein, or if the same can be furnished at a reasonable price, and the government shall operate said railroads as public highways for the benefit of the whole people, and not in the interests of the few, under suitable provisions for protection of life and property; giving to all equal privileges, and equal rates for fares and freights.

We denounce the present infamous scheines for refunding these debts, and demand that the laws now applicable thereto be executed, and administered according to their true intent and spirit.

The telegraph, like the postoffice system, being a necessity for the transmission of news, should be owned and operated by the government, in the interest of the people.

The Silver Forces.

St. Louis, July 24.—Chairman St. John called the Silver convention to order. Charles A. Towne, vice chairman of the convention, discussed at some length the silver question. He urged that the gold standard was backed by men who used epithets and abuse instead of arguments. The speaker attempted to show how hard times would vanish when free silver appeared. When the Free Silver party got control of the government, he said, the robbery of thrift for the benefit of idleness would cease.

Ex-Governor John P. St. John of Kansas was called upon to speak. He told how corn was worth 10 cents a bushel, oats 8 cents in Kansas, and potatoes 6 cents a bushel in Minnesota. This was one of the reasons so many farmers believed in free silver. Free silver at 16 to 1, he declared, would sweep the nation. The people had arisen and would defeat "the corrupt gold power." But to do this, a vast deal of missionary work must be done. The speaker said that if all the silver in the world was dumped in this country and coined it would make $60 per capita, and that was not too much. Should this be done, it would make this the most prosperous country in the world.

FOR A NEW TICKET.

Gold Standard Democrats Have Decided to Call Another Convention.

Chicago, July 24.—The meeting of gold standard Democrats, called to consider the advisability of issuing a call for a national convention, was held last night at the Auditorium annex. The meeting convened shortly after 8 o'clock, and was held in secret, the public and press being excluded.

Comptroller Eckles did not appear, and the meeting, after waiting some time for him, went into session. General E. S. Bragg of Wisconsin was elected chairman, and C. A. Ewing of Illinois secretary.

WILLIAM F. VILAS.

The conference definitely decided that a convention should be called, the only question being whether the meeting in session should issue the call, and on this a lively debate ensued. G. M. Davis of Kentucky presented the principal resolution, calling for a convention to be held in September, in Detroit. H. S. Robbins of Illinois did not favor the issue of a call by the meeting here, and R. W. Knott of Kentucky spoke strongly in favor of calling the convention at once.

Senator Vilas of Wisconsin violently opposed the issuing of a call by the conference. His speech was frequently cheered, although the general sentiment of the meeting seemed to incline the other way.

After a long debate a resolution was adopted to the effect that it was the sense of the meeting that a Democratic convention should be held, a Democratic platform enunciated, and candidates for president and vice president chosen, and that the said convention should be held not later than Sept. 2. A committee of one from each state represented was appointed by the chairman to draft a call for the convention, with orders to report to the general meeting today.

Beneath His Notice.

Cleveland, July 24.—M. A. Hanna says he will pay no attenion to the charges that he is using money at the Populist convention to prevent the endorsement of Bryan. "The people who say these things are beneath my notice," said Mr. Hanna. The chairman says he will be back and forth between New York and Chicago all through the campaign.

A Mink at Large.

There is a mink in the vicinity of Rogers street who has formed quite an attachment to the hens owned by John Henry, and as his brood was nightly growing less he determined to extinguish his minkship.

Accordingly he loaded his gun with buckshot and Wednesday night watched for the unwelcome intruder, who soon put in appearance Mr. Henry took aim and pulled the trigger but the cap failed to explode. A new cap was put on the gun but it was no use he could not discharge it. Meanwhile the mink who seemingly had been waiting patiently to be shot, got tired waiting and wandered away.

Mr. Henry being somewhat disgusted with the gun carried it into the house and placed it behind the kitchen door. The next morning the family were startled by a loud report, and upon investigation it was found that for some reason the gun had been discharged and the charge of buckshot had torn a large hole in the ceiling. The mink is still at large.

The Case of the Sphinx.

The Massachusetts Yacht-Racing Association desires to hear from Mr. Arthur Keith of Quincy. The executive committee held a session Thursday afternoon at Young's, and considered Circe's protest against Sphinx, both being boats in the fourth class. The protest is in regard to sailing length, and effects five or six races. Mr. Allerton was present, representing Mr. Pigeon, the owner of Circe. Mr. Keith, the owner of Sphinx, was not represented.

It appeared from the testimony that the owner of Sphinx had done just what some members of the association had prophesied would be done if the rules were not made to fit it; that is, he had built a boat with a broad, square stern, carried his ballast aft when measured, and then trimmed his crew so as to gain a longer water-line measure when racing. The committee took no action, but notified Mr. Keith of its desire to hear his statement.

Open-Air Service.

The Young Men's Christian Association will continue its open-air, evangelistic services next Sunday. The meeting will be held at the junction of Washington and Hancock streets. Those who come early will be provided with good seats in the shade. Mr. Geo. B. Critchley will play the cornet, Mr. T. B. Emery will lead the song service, and Rev. A. A. Brown will speak on the subject, "Our Young Men." The hour of these service has been changed to 4.30, so as to avoid the heat of the day. Everybody will be made welcome.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Teamster Knocked Into a Quarry and Dies at Hospital.

Patrick Mulhall, a teamster employed by Fallen & Sons, met with a frightful fall at their quarry this morning.

The unfortunate man left his team standing on Quarry street and walked to the quarry, and stood on the bank looking in, when the derrick boom swung around and striking him in the back knocked him into the quarry.

He fell a distance of 85 feet striking with a dull sickening thud on the rocks below. He was taken up in an unconscious condition and removed to the City Hospital. At the Hospital it was found that his skull was fractured, and that he was cut and bruised in a horrible manner about the body.

The unfortunate man lived about an hour after being taken to the Hospital. He was 32 years of age, unmarried, and boarded at 81 Copeland street.

STRIKE AT CONCORD.

Granite Cutters Out Today Because of Disagreement.

The granite cutters of Concord, N. H., went out on a strike today. A dispatch to the Herald under date of July 23 says, Between 130 and 140 cutters and tool sharpeners, the whole force of workmen at the New England granite works, will quit work tomorrow morning. The strike arises from a question of interpretation of a clause of the bill of prices which was agreed upon in March, 1895, to continue two years.

The men claim that the price figured by the company for cutting a certain kind of stone is $2.76 less than it should be according to the bill of prices, and that this amount represents the loss in wages which each man suffers each week, and is consequently a violation of the agreement on the part of the company.

The company contends that the price is figured strictly upon the basis of the bill of prices, and that the men have no agreement.

The cutters and tool sharpeners held a conference at the works at noon today, and voted to submit the question to the Concord branch of the union, which held a meeting tonight to consider the subject. The matter was discussed at length behind closed doors, and as a result the union voted to sustain the workmen.

The Globe adds, "The misunderstanding was in regard to measuring what are termed "rabbits," or holes in the stones. Six or seven men refused to cut the stones for the prices paid according to the measuring of the officers, who instead of referring the matter to a committee of arbitration, stated to the men that they could either cut the stone according to their measurement or quit work. They refused to submit to arbitration, and the men dropped their tools and left the employ of the company.

The officers continue to measure the stone according to their system, and a meeting of the cutters was held to determine whether or not they should continue work at the prices paid.

The Fifth regiment has had considerable sport at camp at the expense of a green recruit of company B, Cambridge, who has been sent to nearly every officer on the field to obtain his pay for escort duty done at the funeral of ex-Gov. JUDGE COOK.

A New Special Justice of East Norfolk Court at Quincy.

Ex-Representative Louis A. Cook of Weymouth was nominated by Acting Governor Wolcott on Thursday to be special justice of the District Court of East Norfolk holden at Quincy. He succeeds Judge James H. Flint also of Weymouth who resigned some months ago that he might accept the office of Representative to the General Court.

Mr. Cook has been a resident of Weymouth since 1872, when he became principal of the Bates grammar school at South Weymouth. In 1879 he was elected to the Legislature from the Quincy-Weymouth district, and was also a member of the House in 1889 and 1890, when he was styled the leader of the temperance wing. He afterward studied law with Aldrich & Jenckes of Woonsocket, Hon. James Humphrey, and the late Judge Jesse E. Keith of Abington. He was admitted to the bar in 1884, and is a member of the law firm of Cook & Coughlan.

The new justice was born in Blackstone, May 4, 1847, and, singularly enough, his father, mother, grandfather and grandmother all bore the name of Cook before marriage. Aside from the public school instruction, he attended the Phillips Exeter Academy.

He taught at different places before going to Weymouth. He has served on the school boards of Blackstone and Weymouth, and has been a park commissioner and moderator in the latter town.

Judge Cook is also a promient Odd Fellow, being a past grand master of Massachusetts. A few years ago he delivered an address on Odd Fellowship in this city. He was married in 1876 and has three children.

The Boys Sloyd School.

Seventeen boys are already members of the Y. M. C. A. Sloyd school, and new members are joining every session. It has been decided to divide the class, putting the young boys in a separate class for elementary work. The advance class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays and the beginners' class on Wednesdays and Fridays. From nine to eleven are the hours for both classes.

Four more boys can be accommodated in each class. They can begin next week and will be charged only for the twelve lessons. Boys from nine to sixteen years will be admitted.

The Association furnishes benches, tools and material free, charging only for the exact cost of instruction, except where the boys are old enough to belong to the junior department when they are expected to pay one dollar for a year's membership in the Association, which entitles them to many other privileges.

There are many boys spending the summer on the streets, learning bad habits, who would not only enjoy the hours spent in the class but at the same time would receive a training, which in some instances have proven more beneficial than years of school training. Sloyd is a pleasant combination of mental, physical and moral training.

Parents and others who visit the class, especially those who have never seen the boys at work, are much surprised at the interest and enthusiasm shown by the boys.

The following boys are now registered: Thorpe Babcock, Joel Sheppard, Charles Bosworth, Richard McGrath, Freeman Higgins, Frank Higgins, Alfred Wason, Norris Wason, Carl Doble, Arthur Hultman, Kenneth Albee, Eugene Durgin, Carl Prescott, Carl Sheppard, Morton Smith, Avard Sproul.

BRAM THE MURDERER.

Seaman Brown Saw Crime Committed on the Barkentine Fuller.

Had Good Reason For Keeping Quiet About It.

All Concerned Will Probably Be Taken to Boston to Testify,

Halifax, July 24.—The inquiry held at the instigation of Consul General Ingraham, into the Herbert Fuller tragedy, was concluded last evening. The "star chamber" proceedings adopted from the beginning were carried out to the end. The evidence, however, it is stated, developed nothing particularly new in addition to what has already been said. The testimony of Seaman Thomas Brown was the most important, for he swore positively that he saw Mate Bram kill Captain Nash with an axe, and he afterward heard cries and groans from the captain's wife.

Brown also gave a fairly reasonable excuse for not making it known at the time. He was afraid the mate would kill him if he disclosed this, but he communicated it to one of the crew, and said as soon as he reached port he would tell it all. It was through this man's imparting the information to Spencer, who told Monks, that led to the mate being placed in irons. The more the matter is investigated, the clearer it becomes that Mate Bram alone did the killing.

Bram does not seem able to reconcile some of his statements, but persists in his assertion that he is innocent of the crime. He saw no one doing the killing, but thinks it was Brown. He bases this opinion on the ground that nobody else but Brown could have done so. Many people think Bram committed the awful act solely for the prospect of financial gain, that this for the time had actually crazed the man.

On the recommendation of the medical examiner, the city stipendiary will begin an investigation this afternoon. It is expected this will not have proceeded far before it is discovered that the magistrate has no jurisdiction, and then the matter will be dropped and all concerned conveyed to Boston. All have expressed a willingness to go, including Bram, who sensibly says that he is in the hands of the law, and objection would only mean delay. It is likely a warrant will be sworn out by the United States consul or some one acting for him, and this will be the authority on which the men will be taken.

Young Monks was released last night on the recognizance of his father, Frank H. Monks, who has given a pledge to produce his son in court when wanted. Stewart Spencer, who is entitled to as much credit as Monks, thinks it hard, and with apparent good reason, that Monks should be free while he is kept in a cell.

The bodies of Captain and Mrs. Nash were sent forward last night to Maine.

Monks, in his statement, said shortly after he heard the noise in the room in which the captain was, he heard the captain's wife cry, "Oh, Oh." He heard no noise from the second mate's room, and it is therefore certain that Brandberg was the first victim.

Grand New England Dinner.

Cleveland, July 24.—A grand "New England dinner" was served yesterday on the campus of Adelbert college, under the management of the New England Society of Cleveland, the members of which are all lineal descendants of the settlers who came from New England to the western reserve early in the century. Everything in the menu was characteristic of the occasion, and guests were present from every town in the western reserve. Governor Coffin of Connecticut, General Joseph R. Hawley and Morgan G. Bulkeley were present. Major McKinley was driven to the scene, where a great assemblage of men and women, from the rural districts of the reserve, gave him a hearty welcome.

Lawyer Hadlock Sued For Divorce.

Boston, July 24.—Mrs. Alvine D. Hadlock, wife of the well known lawyer, Harvey D. Hadlock of this city, instituted divorce proceedings by filing a petition for a separation in the Suffolk county superior court. Mrs. Hadlock names two New York women as co-respondents in her libel. The dates cited correspond with those on which the lawyer had an altercation with a hack driver in New York recently, and was compelled to appear in the police court to settle the case the next day. The libel is based on statutory grounds, and names as co-respondents one New York and one Brooklyn party. The libel asks for the custody of the 8-year-old child, Webster Deming Hadlock.

Uncle Sam In Earnest.

Washington, July 24.—The United States has again called upon the government of the United States of Colombia, demanding that the government reply immediately to the two notes recently addressed to it, in regard to making amends for the outrage committed on the American schooner Whitford, in March last. The Whitford, while trading between Colombian ports, was overhauled by the Colombian gunboat Cordova, and taken to Colon, where, after considerable delay, she was released.

At Gray Gables.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 24.—President Cleveland had a visitor yesterday in the person of Mr. Eustis, ambassador to France, who called to pay his respects. He stayed for lunch, and in the afternoon went to Falmouth and visited Secretary Olney, returning to Boston in the evening, accompanied by Mr. Olney. It is stated that there is no political significance in Don Dickinson's visit at Gray Gables.

Jin Takes Soh's Place.

Washington, July 24.—A cablegram received at the state department from Seoul, Corea, states that the new minister to the United States, Ye Pong Jin, started yesterday from Seoul for Washington. He will relieve Pom K. Soh, now in this city, who is recalled to Corea to become president of the royal privy council.

Bicyclist Killed.

Waltham, Mass., July 24.—F. E. Stanley, of Stanley Bros., dry plate makers, was thrown from his buggy yesterday by a frisky horse he was driving. The horse, running away, overhauled Herbert Johnson, who was riding a bicycle. The latter was thrown, and died from his injuries. He was 35 years old.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY.

One of the busiest men in Washington these hot days is Congressman J. W. Babcock of Wisconsin. He is chairman of the Republican congressional committee, and he has before him the task of educating several million voters up to the views of his party on the money question. In order to do this properly Mr. Babcock has arranged to send out 10,000,000 documents, including speeches, pamphlets, etc. This will make several tons of reading matter, and the job of distributing it to the "intelligent voter" in various parts of the land is no small one. While the national executive committee looks after the campaign as a whole the congressional committee is intrusted with the fate of the candidates for congress, and it takes a veritable political sage to master all the intricacies of the different conditions in the various districts. Chairman Babcock, however, is an experienced hand, having occupied the same position in the last presidential campaign, and the fact that he was reelected shows that the leaders of his party have confidence in his ability. He is a wealthy lumberman, and his home is in Necedah, Wis.

CONGRESSMAN J. W. BABCOCK.

Chile's New President.

Frederico Errazuriz, the new president of Chile, is a skilled and clever politician and a man of much wealth. He is the second of the name to be the chief executive of that lively South American republic, for his father, from whom he inherits both his wealth and his political instinct, at one time held the office. The new president is a leader of the Liberals, who are opposed to the Balmacedists, but he at one time held a portfolio under Balmaceda. This, however, was before the latter had attempted to make himself dictator. Later on, when the government had been restored, he accepted a place in the MacIvor ministry under President Jorge Montt, whom he now succeeds. He is elected for a term of five years and draws a salary of $18,000 a year. According to the Chilean constitution, a retiring president is not eligible for re-election until at least one term shall have intervened.

"Buck" Hinrichsen of Illinois.

One of the men who was brought into prominence at the recent Chicago convention was the Hon. "Buck" Hinrichsen, secretary of the state of Illinois and the trusted lieutenant and right hand man of Governor Altgeld. William H. Hinrichsen has risen steadily from a rural politician and a country editor to be a figure at a national convention. He was born of German parents in Morgan county, Ills., about 45 years ago. At the age of 21 he was made justice of the peace. From that he rose to become sheriff of the county, chief clerk of the lower branch of the legislature, and finally was elected secretary of state. He is a good story teller, and is popular in his party. He started his political career in Jacksonville, Ills., a little town in which Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas were at one time rival attorneys.

A Trick of the Profession.

As two eminent physicians were strolling, arm in arm, along the boulevard one of them bowed to a lady who crossed their path.

"A patient, eh?"

"Oh, not a serious case! I attended her lately for a pimple—a mere speck on her nose."

"What did you prescribe?"

"Prescribe? Nothing at all, though I absolutely forbade her to play the piano."

"The piano? For a pimple on the nose? I don't see that."

"Ah, I ought to tell you, perhaps, that my rooms are just below hers!"—Paris Libre Parole.

All the World a Stage to Him.

The Actor—I say, forester, does the game enter right or left?—Fliegende Blatter.

He Was Just Wondering.

A small boy in Alameda found a lovely sand heap in front of his father's house the other morning, and he built roads and houses until he was tired of playing in the dry sand. Then he carried a bucket of water and mixed up a beautiful mud puddle. It was a warm day, and the wet sand appeared so cool and soft that he sat down in it.

The boy's mother happened to be brushing her hair at that moment, and, glancing out of the window, observed him cooling himself. She led him around to the wood shed by the ear and found she would have to remove his clothes before she could take him into the house.

"It seems as if providence had designed it," she mused as she glanced at the half naked boy and the hairbrush, so she proceeded to bring the two together in vigorous style. Then she took him in, put a clean pair of trousers on him and made him sit on a chair. He did not cry, but sat scowling defiantly.

"Now, look here, Frankie," said his mother, "I don't want you to sit there and sulk. I don't like to punish you, but I had to do it."

"'Tain't that," he replied promptly. "I was just wondering if women that lick their little boys with hairbrushes go to heaven."—San Francisco Post.

What Prevented Her.

The young man picked up his hat and looked sadly at the lining.

"There is no hope for me?" he asked faintly.

"None whatever," replied the beautiful girl, her eyes filled with compassion.

When he reached the door, he turned toward her again.

"I have to thank you for one thing," he said bitterly.

"What is that?" she inquired.

"You have not told me that you would be a sister to me."

"I thought of that," she rejoined hurriedly. "But I suddenly remembered."

"What?" he asked shortly as she stopped.

"That I promised this morning to marry your father."—Brooklyn Life.

Treacherous Man.

"So your engagement is broken?" said her dearest friend.

"Yes," she replied sadly. "I never was so deceived in a man in my life. He made all sorts of vows and promises, and then"—

"Why don't you sue him for breach of promise?"

"No use," she answered, with a shake of her head. "That's the way I was deceived in him. I thought he was good for a breach of promise suit, and at the last minute I find it would only be money wasted."—Chicago Post.

What It Recalled.

Willie Wibbles was giving an example of his elocutionary abilities. He had just quoted an imitation of an actor they both knew:

"Oh, what a fall was there, my countrymen!"

Then he paused for admiration and said:

"There, Miss Cayenne, does that remind you of anything."

"Yes," she answered, "my bicycle."—Washington Star.

It Comes Back.

Mime—I don't see how you can spend your time writing poetry and sending it to the magazines.

Rime—My dear fellow, that poetry is my daily bread.

Mime—Oh, I see. It is a case of "cast thy bread upon the waters and it shall return after many days."—Brooklyn Life.

It Makes a Difference.

One night, in simple, guileless way—
'Twas stupid, I must own—
I asked her to attend the play
Without a chaperon.

She smiled a pitying smile at me,
I longed to leave the town,
It seemed to me eternity
Before I'd lived that down.

But when one day upon the beach
I asked her if she'd stroll
Where there might be no one in reach,
Behind a distant knoll,

Why, I can almost hear her still,
As, tossing back her hair,
She murmured low, "Why, yes, I will
If you're sure no one is there."

COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world

BIG STREAM OF GOLD.

Banks and Trust Companies Replenished the Reserve Fund.

About $15,000,000 From New York Institutions.

An Assurance That the Reserve Will Be Kept Unimpaired In Future.

New York, July 24. — Through the amounts of gold turned into the subtreasury yesterday and Wednesday, the treasury gold reserve was restored to the $100,000,000 point and carried nearly $2,000,000 beyond that "limit of safety." Better than all is the assurance that, through the bankers' syndicate, the reserve will be maintained unimpaired until after the storm of the political campaign.

The yellow metal was fairly poured into "Uncle Sam's" coffers during the day, and at nightfall it was announced that the subscriptions of the banks and trust companies of New York alone amounted to $15,000,000.

In addition to the New York deposits, which are made up of coin, gold certificates, assay office receipts and clearing house gold certificates, came the assurance from Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago of similar action by banks in those cities. As a result of the day's operations, the net treasury balance, as given out from Washington, stood at $101,881,770.

The withdrawals during the day were $239,400, all for hoarding purposes. No gold was taken for export, and the only amounts that will be shipped Saturday represent early withdrawals, which could not be cancelled, and, in any event, the shipments will be less than was expected.

Frederick D. Tappan, president of the Gallatin National bank, and William Sherrar, manager of the clearing house, continued their work of personally visiting the banks of the city and requesting them to turn some of their gold to the sub-treasury. The success of Mr. Tappan's efforts was most gratifying, and he said last night that not a single bank had demurred.

Manager Sherrar said that every national bank in the city had now been visited, excepting four, and that these would in time be waited upon. That the movement is contagious and is the result of patriotic promptings is illustrated by the action of the trust companies. They are not members of the Clearing House association, and no requests have been made of them, yet they have made large contributions of gold.

The committee of foreign bankers appointed at the meeting held in J. P. Morgan's office, Wednesday, to formulate a plan to check the gold exports, is not expected to make a report for two or three days.

In reply to questions, it was said the committee had not concluded its labors, and that no report would be made until a decision had been reached. Although no details of the plan are known, the following statement of the general outline and purpose of the bankers is pronounced a fair representation:

The report that foreign bankers have agreed to sell exchange not to exceed £15,000,000, and have promised not to ship gold for two months, is hardly correct. Foreign bankers having no money to remit could not make such a promise, as it would in a way be for them, in their foreign relations, a practical suspension of payments. They have, however, been assured of a supply of exchange, not to exceed £15,000,000, in the next two months, to be provided by a syndicate comprising powerful local and international interests, at a price lower than the cost of exporting gold to Europe.

The details of this agreement have not yet been arranged, and it cannot be positively stated that the agreement has been already closed. But this is the general idea on which the bankers will work. The loss entailed by the operation, if any, will be sustained pro rata by the members of the syndicate.

As a direct result of the bankers' meeting, the rates of exchange were reduced a ½ cent yesterday. The exchange market was weak throughout, indicating that the buyers were waiting the result of the bankers' conference. The stock market was irregular during the day, opening weak on lower London quotations and shading at the close, but showing general average net advances, except in the grangers and certain minor securities.

Start For Home.

Liverpool, July 24.—The Cunard liner Servia sailed yesterday for Boston, having on board the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, who arrived here two weeks ago on a visit to the Honorable Artillery company of London, and whose stay in this country was marked by extraordinary demonstrations of British friendship for the United States.

Laborers Want Their Pay.

Melrose, Mass., July 24.—George R. Jones, who took 100 affidavits of the dissatisfied Italian strikers here, filed them with the town clerk yesterday. The Italians all deposed that Contractor Eveline owed them money. The sewer commissioners say that no money is due the contractor, so that the action taken to trustee money supposed to be held by the city will have no effect.

New Silver Certificates Out.

Washington, July 24.—The new $1 silver certificates made their first appearance yesterday, and $40,000 in new notes was paid out over the treasury counters. The new note is artistic in appearance, but from its marked difference from the old notes, may not be at first well received by the conservative element.

An Easy Victim.

Concord, N. H., July 24.—Daniel S. Gault of Bow, a farmer, aged 80 years, came to this city Tuesday and drew $1200 out of the bank, which he loaned to a young man whom he met at a circus in Suncook. The stranger offered to give him $2000 in a week for the loan of $1200. Mr. Gault says he has been buncoed.

Talked All Night.

London, July 24.—The house of commons discussed the Irish land bill through the entire night, and adjourned at 4:40 a. m., after passing the measure through the committee stage.

DIAMONDS GONE.

Guest at a Narragansett Pier Hotel Minus $30,000 Worth of Gems.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 24.—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coogan of New York attended a hop at the Casino Wednesday night, at which Mrs. Coogan wore a costly diamond sunburst, diamond necklace and hair ornaments. On her return to the Mathewson House, she placed the jewelry in a case, and laid them inside her trunk, but neglected to lock the trunk. While dressing for dinner yesterday, she discovered that the box of jewelry was missing. The authorities were at once notified, but as yet there is little or no clew. The hotel people disclaim any responsibility for the loss. According to Mrs. Coogan, the diamonds were valued at over $30,000.

Two Years In Jail.

Laconia, N. H., July 24.—For attempting to wreck a train, Judge Odell sentenced Napoleon and Thomas Lessard to two years in Manchester jail. These young men put a lot of iron, stone and earth on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad and the Lake Shore branch, with the intention of wrecking the early morning passenger train, but a work car, with a lot of men on it, which preceded the passenger train, was wrecked, and several of the men badly injured.

Market Overstocked.

New Haven, July 24.—Notices were posted in the Candee rubber footwear factory yesterday, that the works would be closed for three weeks, commencing Aug. 1, thus giving over 1000 hands a compulsory vacation. It is said that this order is to be followed by all the factories of the United States Rubber company. The trust has a large stock on hand, and business is reported as being very dull.

Knows Nothing About It.

Plymouth, N. H., July 24.—Daniel C. Remich of the New Hampshire Law and Order league, in reply to a correspondent regarding his intended action toward closing the barrooms of the various summer hostleries in the White mountains, sent the following answer for publication: "Was not aware that I had any proposed action regarding the things you state. Some one has been guying."

Murphy Takes Portland Club.

Portland, Me., July 24.—The directors of the Portland Baseball association, yesterday, turned the franchise of the club over to Director Murphy, who will for the balance of the season conduct the club. Director Murphy agreed to carry the club through the rest of the season. The attendance here this year has been very small.

Held In $5000.

Cambridge, Mass., July 24.—James P. Murphy, who was arrested Wednesday night for attempting to murder his two children, Lizzie, aged 3 years, and John, aged 18 months, was arraigned yesterday, and was placed under $5000 for further hearing next Monday.

Haverhill Blacksmith Missing.

Haverhill, Mass., July 24.—Oswald J. Wightman, a blacksmith doing business here, is missing. He has been worried since the sensational disappearance of his wife a few months ago with a coal contractor and builder, and brooded much over his troubles.

The cornerstone of the new Trinity Methodist Episcopal church at Newton, Mass., was laid before a large audience of parishioners. The building will be erected at an expense of about $15,000.

The 18 months' old boy of Richard Lassor was run over by a train at Skowhegan, Me. His head was cut from his body. The boy's mother ran to save her child, but fell in a ditch, and was so saved from being run over herself.

It is stated that the examination at the Harvard medical school of the body of the cat which bit several persons in Cambridge, Mass., was unsatisfactory in point of determining whether or not the animal was suffering from rabies.

Whitney's Warning.

New York, July 24.—Hon. William C. Whitney, in an interview, warns the Republicans that the sound money vote cannot be united "if Democrats must vote for McKinleyism as well as McKinley," and that the present course of things makes a sound money Democratic ticket inevitable.

OH! WHAT A RELIEF.

"I suffered with terrible pains in my left ovary and womb. My back ached all the time.

"I had kidney trouble badly. Doctors prescribed for me, and I followed their advice, but found no relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Oh! what a relief it is, not to have that tired feeling day after day, in the morning as much as at night after a hard day's work, and to be free from all pains caused by Ovarian and Womb troubles. I cannot express my gratitude. I hope and pray that other suffering women will realize the truth and importance of my statement, and accept the relief that is sure to attend the use of the Pinkham Medicine."—MRS. BUY ·TEA· Of Boston Branch Grocery. WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

Our Ponto.

One cold winter's morning, nearly seven years ago, a Blue Belden setter, hungry and shivering, came to the editor's door and begged for admittance. He was fed and warmed for which he was extremely grateful and immediately became much attached to the members of the family, especially his new mistress. We called him "Ponto" and from that day to the time of his death he seemed to grow more affectionate, more lovable and intelligent.

He took a deep interest in all the doings about the house, knew every member of the family by name, and always welcomed them every morning when they arose, and when they returned home. He was the handsomest dog of his kind we have ever seen, at times the expressions that would play over his face were almost human.

It was he who frightened the burglars when they entered our house, and to the boy of the house he was a most honest and lovable companion. He was never cross or sulky, always happy and ready for a frolic. He had a highly developed brain and extremely sensitive temperament, responding quickly to every call of his master.

The worst punishment that could be given him was a cross word. The happy hours spent with him by our son will never be forgotten Only those who love dogs can know how much we miss him.

Last Sunday he became over heated and died in a fit within twenty minutes. Monday afternoon he was buried on a beautiful hill in New Hampshire under a group of balmgilead trees. Many men could learn a valuable lesson from the life of a faithful dog.—Braintree Observer.

BUY

·TEA·

Of Boston Branch Grocery.

WHY?

For several reasons, all good, practical ones.

1st. Our experience for twenty-five years in selecting and handling TEAS of all kinds, both wholesale and retail, enables us to select goods with merit and reject the spurious so common in the market, and which the inexperienced dealer cannot distinguish.

2d. Our TEAS are bought direct from the importer, and the profits that usually go to the Broker, the Wholesaler, and the Jobber, three or four in all, WE give to our trade direct.

3d. The large quantity of TEA which we sell enables us to be often in the market as buyer, and any advantage to be had by any cash buyers we get.

4th. Because we can refer you to hundreds of families in Quincy and vicinity who have used TEA purchased from our establishment with satisfaction.

5th. Because we never sold more than at present time and never with better results.

6th. We never give prizes, preferring to give the value in the goods.

There are more reasons but above will show that we mean business.

We will gladly give a generous sample for trial to any lady calling at our store or by sending a note by messenger with name and street number of lady sending same, otherwise no samples will be given to children.

SCOOPED.

It was high noon in the Rockies. The bright, scorching rays of the western sun stole over the ragged edge of the Cœur d'Alene range down into the narrow valley below, where they lighted on the head of a solitary traveler, tired and dust worn from his long journey since daybreak. Bob Long was not accustomed to such jaunts as this—that was evident. Yet in a measure he was enjoying it. In any event, after coming into Rocky Canyon for the privilege of "roughing it," he had no intention of going back on the venture at this stage of the game. A two weeks' vacation, during which he need not turn in a line of copy, did not come but once annually, and it was not to be wasted in backward glances. But he was tired, and the little beast under him did not possess the most restful of movements. Then, too, the road was lonely—fearfully so. Bob began to wonder how he had managed to miss all the camps, for he knew he was in the heart of an extensive mining district. He kept traveling simply because he could not be satisfied to stop until he had arrived at some definite understanding with himself in regard to his location. Now he was all at sea.

The narrow trail wound around the side of a craggy mountain, then dipped into the valley again. The elevation disclosed to view an approaching horseman riding with the ease of long practice. Five minutes later the men halted to exchange greetings.

"Hello, stranger! Prospectin?"

"Well, yes, a little. Prospecting for pleasure."

"Sorry to disappoint you, stranger, but you won't find it in these 'ere diggin's. Rocky canyon don't produce nothin but hard work and disappointment. Don't even roll out 'nough dust to keep a feller in chawin tobaccer. I can testify to that. Been here goin on three year now."

Bob looked incredulous.

"Your report doesn't agree with the rumors that find their way out of this canyon."

"Fact, jest the same. Mighty poor place fer a stranger to locate."

Bob began to surmise his presence was not desired in Rocky Canyon by this experienced inhabitant.

"How far is it to the nearest mining camp?" he asked.

"Jack Doolan's is down there a spell. But I'd advise you to keep out o' Jack's camp fer the time bein. Feller murdered there this mornin, and there's a mighty warm reception waitin fer any stranger that happens to turn up durin the next three days. Better give 'em a chance to cool off a little."

Bob's reportorial instincts took a lively turn.

"Who was he?" he asked.

"Jim Smith."

"Man of any prominence?"

"You bet he was. Owned half the claim."

"Wealthy?"

"Somewhat," meaningly.

"Who killed him?"

"That's what they're tryin to find out down to Jack's."

"What induced the act?"

"Can't tell you any more. Jest advise you to keep clear o' Jack Doolan's till some other cur'us fool's paid the penalty. Good day, stranger."

But Bob was not to be frightened into abandoning his trip. Besides, here was a scoop for The Meteor, and the value of a scoop to that enterprising sheet was not to be ignored. Bob resolved to go on and trust to luck and his own adroitness to save his neck. The stranger had shown too much anxiety for his peaceful departure for him to give full credence to the story, and before Bob had ridden a mile he had thoroughly convinced himself that he had conversed with the real murderer provided that the whole thing was not a fake, and that by continuing his journey he would be the means of the capture and punishment of the escaping criminal.

Another mile and he came to a camp. That part of the traveler's information was correct at least, and inquiry quickly proved that it was Jack Doolan's. Contrary to his expectations, Bob met with a hospitable reception without any suggestion of suspicion. True, Jim Smith was murdered there that morning, but Jim Smith's murderer had already been apprehended, and, from the bootless feet Bob discovered dangling in the breeze back of the camp, had evidently met with lofty treatment. At any rate, some one had paid the penalty, and Bob had nothing to fear.

It made a great story for The Meteor. Being on the ground, Bob got all the details, and they needed no embellishing. He did not rest until he had the story on the wires, though it necessitated an extra ten miles on horseback to Jimtown, the nearest telegraph station. But The Meteor appeciated it, and that was sufficient.

The next day Bob returned to Jack Doolan's, prepared to continue his vacation that had been so suddenly interrupted. He had hardly entered the camp, however, when the man who had given him the main facts in the murder story called him aside.

"Say, stranger, do you want another story? Since you're in the biz you might as well have all that's goin, and there's a cussed lot of it round these diggin's jest at present. We're suspicionin, Jack and me, that thay's a gang o' counterfeiters back in the mountains some'ers. You know that feller you met on the road yesterday? Well, he's one o' 'em, er I miss my guess. He didn't want you up here. Mistook you fer a government chap. See?"

Bob grew interested. He wasn't particularly anxious for another scoop, but neither was he in the habit of letting a good story escape him. The result was a quiet investigation, eliciting proof that the miner's suspicions were correct. Several days later a scare head topped a three column article from The Meteor's correspondent at Jimtown. Then followed a visit to Rocky Canyon of a posse of government officials and a raid on the den. The Meteor had a scoop daily, and The Telegram and The News felt themselves obliged to send correspondents to this interesting scene of action. But Bob had the advantage of precedence, and the rival scribes found themselves unable to get at the facts which The Meteor published regularly.

The close of Bob's vacation found him in the midst of the government raid, and a telegram from The Meteor's managing editor complimented him on his good work and requested him to remain at Jimtown until further orders.

One night a belated traveler was sleeping peacefully, rolled up in a blanket under a tree, nine miles from Jack Doolan's mining camp. His horse was tethered near by. Toward morning the sleeper was gently aroused by the sudden tightening of a rope about his waist, pinioning his arms to his sides. He looked up to see four men, two of whom might have been recognized as members of the counterfeiters' gang, who had somehow escaped the ends of justice, and for whose recapture a heavy reward was now waiting. The others were strangers to him in the main facts in the murder case, and remained in the background, though no one of the four seemed at all timid about being observed.

The prisoner saw at once that he was known, but he waited silently for the announcement of his fate.

"So you're the chap who brought the bobbies down on we uns, air you?" began the recognized leader tauntingly. "Come up here and spied into what wus none o' your d——d biz and reported it. Do you know the fate o' the spy?"

The man remained silent.

"Well, they says their prayers; so if you've got any messages to wire up'ard you better be about it, 'cause this 'ere station closes in about three minutes."

The prisoner felt the rope slipping toward his chin. Already the other end was over a limb of the tree under which he lay. He set his teeth firmly, threw out his arms in a final, desperate, almost unconscious struggle—then it was over.

* * * * * *

The Meteor went to press early. The Firefly and The Rocket held open late for further particulars of a mysterious lynching that occurred in the Rocky Canyon district the previous night. The Meteor knew nothing of the event until the rival papers announced in leaded lines that another horrible crime had been committed in the celebrated Rocky Canyon. A gentleman, whose name had not been ascertained, but who was thought to be a government official, had been found by members of Jack Doolan's mining camp hanging to a tree several miles from Jimtown. Indications pointed to the escaped counterfeiters as the perpetrators of the deed.

For the first time The Meteor's correspondent at Jimtown was scooped. The Meteor couldn't understand it. Message after message, wired to Bob Long, Jimtown, was reported undelivered. The Meteor's editor grew desperate. Then, as it neared time for another edition and no story came of the lynching, he determined to satisfy himself and his readers on one point at least. He sent a brief message to the operator at Jimtown, "Who was that jay who was lynched up there the other night?"

Immediately the wires ticked back, "Bob Long"—Brooklyn Citizen.

The Beech.

There are some of our best native trees which seem to be systematically ignored in park and lawn planting. One is the beech, than which there is no better or more beautiful lawn tree. The branches are long and graceful, the leaves have a peculiarly bright color, the buds are long, pointed and polished and the bark of the trunk and larger limbs lights up the shade of the thick foliage in dark days and shines in the winter with a pinkish light under clear skies. It requires a good deal of room to develop its greatest beauty, but thrives on most soils, and is not subject to attacks of insects. We plant its foreign relative, the copper beech, solely for the color of its leaves, and our native, handsomer tree is utterly neglected. For a small lawn tree there is no better than the near relative of our common beech. It is generally called blue beech, or iron wood, and makes a nice shaped tree 10 or 15 feet high. It is far prettier than the mountain ash or horse chestnut, both foreign trees and very liable to attacks of insects. As far as ordinary observation goes no leaf cutting insect troubles the blue beech. The leaves are smaller and darker in color than those of the common beech, but in shape and veining are similar.—Buffalo Express.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 26. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Claiming the promises.—Isa. xl, 25-31. (A promise meeting.)

The Bible teems with precious promises of God to His people. The most precious thing about all these promises is the absolute certainty that they will be fulfilled. "God is not a man, that He should lie; neither the Son of Man, that He should repent." Some promises are unconditional, and they will be unconditionally fulfilled. Other promises are conditional, and they are absolutely certain of fulfillment if the conditions are fulfilled.

The importance of claiming the promises of God is apparent to all. Unless we claim them they will not be fulfilled toward us, and therefore might as well have never been given so far as we are concerned. To have the possibility of power and not to use it avails us no more than if we did not have it. The power may be there, but the important thing is to use it.

We are encouraged to claim the promises of God for two reasons. 1. Because God has the power and ability to fulfill all he has promised. If one would promise us $1,000 who did not actually possess 1,000 cents, it would be useless to claim that promise. God has promised and he has the ability to fulfill all He has promised. This fact Isaiah impresses upon Israel to lead them to wait upon the Lord in their trouble. God is not an idol made by man's hands. He is everlasting, the Creator, the Unwearied. He has made all things and controls all things. His power is unlimitable. 2. We are encouraged to claim God's promises because God is not only able, but willing to fulfill them. The prophet calls him "Unwearied." Men may become weary of the petitions and requests of their friends, but God is so willing to help His own that He never wearies. He has said through Christ, "Ask and ye shall receive; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you." And again Christ has told us that His Heavenly Father is more willing to give His Spirit to those that ask Him than earthly parents are to give good gifts to their children.

God has the power. God is willing. It all rests with us. Do we believe God's promises? Do we act as if we believed them? Do we claim their fulfillment? If we do not we should. Let us take God at His word, and in trouble, in discouragement, in temptation, let us wait upon the Lord and renew our strength.

Bible Readings.—Gen. xxxii, 9-12; Num. xxiii, 19; Deut. vii, 9; Joshua xxiii, 14; Ps. lxxxix, 1-5; Isa. xliii, 26; Rom. i, 1-3; Gal. iii, 21; Eph. iii, 6, 7; Titus i, 1, 2; Heb. vi, 17; viii, 6; x, 23; II Pet. i, 4.

Christian Martyrs.

A summary of the ways in which some early disciples are said to have met death is given as follows by The Religious Herald:

Matthew is supposed to have suffered martyrdom or to have been slain with the sword at the city of Ethiopia.

Mark was dragged through the streets of Alexandria, in Egypt, till he expired.

Luke was hanged upon an olive tree in Greece.

John was put into a caldron of boiling oil at Rome, but escaped death. He afterward died a natural death at Ephesus, in Asia.

James the Great was beheaded at Jerusalem.

James the Less was thrown from a pinnacle or wing of the temple and then beaten to death with a fuller's club.

Philip was hanged up against a pillar at Hieropolis, a city of Phrygia.

Bartholomew was flayed alive by the command of a barbarous king.

Andrew was bound to a cross, whence he preached unto the people till he expired.

Thomas was run through the body with a lance at Coromandel, in the East Indies.

Jude was shot to death with arrows.

Simon the Zealot was crucified in Persia.

Matthias was first stoned and then beheaded.

Barnabas was stoned to death by Jews at Salania.

Paul was beheaded at Rome by the tyrant Nero.

Honestly Laying Hold of Him.

On the other hand, if we have honestly laid hold on Christ, even though our faith has reached only to the hem of His garment, like the sick woman, we are made whole, and from the somber scenes of the passion we can go on joyfully to participate in the brightness of the resurrection, while with steadfast eye we look for Him to appear with all His saints.—Episcopal Recorder.

"Truth."

Truth demonstrates its genuineness by its wholesome effect upon men—by the fact that it makes men better and happier. Falsehood does the very opposite of this.—Religious Telescope.

Virtue and Vice.

Virtue, if not in action, is a vice, and when we move not forward we go backward.—Loth.

Purpose.

A sunbeam sent out on a mission
  Came down to the earth in its flight.
It thought not to question the order,
  But sped on the wings of the light.

It found in the crest of a snowdrift
  A white flake and quick to it flew,
And then not a moment it lingered
  Nor wondered what others might do,

But down on the snowflake's soft bosom
  Its glow and its warmth did it lay
And kissed the white wings of the beauty
  Until they were melted away.

When, lo! in the place of the snowflake
  A drop of pure water hung there
And just for a moment reflected
  The face of the sunbeam so fair.

Then dropped to the rill as it rippled
  And joined with the thousands in streams
Which flowed that day from the snowdrift—
  The work of the countless sunbeams.

At length the great snowdrift was melted,
  Its race to the sea had begun,
And up in its place sprang sweet flowers—
  Behold what the sunbeams had done!

—Pierson H. Bristow.

Here are a few words from a woman to women. There is no theory about this letter. There is nothing about it that cannot be readily proven. It is a voluntary statement from a woman who has been restored to health and strength, and who wishes that her own experience may be duplicated by the experiences of others.

Mrs. L. Dedmon, of Fair Grove, Greene Co., Mo., writes: "In July 1895 I was confined. My confinement was premature. About six weeks after, I was taken with severe flooding. I had the best doctor the country afforded. I took medicine for about two months but got no better. I was very weak—could not do any of my work. Could scarcely lift a chair. Suffered with pain in my back and hips and had soreness deep, low down across me. I had inflammation and ulceration—so the doctor said. I concluded I would consult Dr. R. V. Pierce. I wrote to you giving you a full description of my case. You advised me to take your 'Favorite Prescription.' I began taking it at once. In three days I could see a change. I took three bottles and the result was, a complete cure. It has been six months since I used your medicine, and I feel no return of the disease at all. I wish also to say I had not been strong for many years. I had taken patent medicines and been attended by doctors but got no better. Today there is not a stronger woman in the country than I am. I suffer no pain at all, can work all day and not be tired at night. I can cheerfully say that I believe I owe my health to the use of your valuable medicine, and your good advice."

Mrs. L. Dedmon

If a copy of Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medica Adviser" was in every house in the United States, half the sickness in the country could be prevented. This great work of over a thousand pages is completely illustrated with over three hundred pictures. It contains many simple inexpensive receipts for curing the common ailments which arise in every family. By following its advice, simple home treatment may be given for many little ailments. Serious sickness may be prevented and many doctor bills saved. Nearly 700,000 copies have been sold at $1.50 per volume, and now an edition, paper-bound, of half a million is being distributed absolutely free. It will be sent post-paid to any one who will send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want French cloth binding, send 10 cents extra, 31 cents in all.

Good Report From Quincy Boy.

The LEDGER is pleased to note the success of a Quincy boy. The Buffalo Times says, "An interesting case of rare talent supplemented by untiring diligence is found in the person of James S. McDonnell of Prospect avenue, son of the late John Q. McDonnell, whose innumerable friends will be pleased to learn of his son's remarkable success at Mahattan College in New York City. Although but eighteen years of age, Mr. McDonnell was recently graduated with the highest honors. Today he is the happy possessor of the four gold medals presented for general proficiency during his time at that institution. At the recent Manhattan Commencement at which he graduated, Mr. McDonnell was at the head of a large class which received the degree of Bachelor of Arts; he received the gold medal for excellence in the senior class, and was "next in merit" to the winners of the Kelly medal for philosophy and the Hoguet medal for mathematics.

While at St. Joseph's College, this city, he entered a contest in mathematics along with some 200 others. Of this large number but five were successful—Mr. McDonnell, his brother and three more. He will take up the study of law and eventually expects to continue his father's business."

Back From Camp.

Co. K of the Fifth regiment arrived home from camp this afternoon. Yesterday was Governor's day, and it was also a rainy day which somewhat interfered with the pleasures. Speaking of the parade, a Boston paper says: Then came the "dandy 5th," with the soldierly Col. William A. Bancroft and his handsomely mounted staff at its head. Col. Bancoft's salute was given at the proper moment, and with snap and precision. The band was grinding out a good step, 120 to the minute, and the regiment came down at a good swinging step with heads erect and distance and alignment well maintained.

The review concluded, the regimental commands took possession of the field. The 5th regiment was first, and formed in line of battle, with double line of battalion, with the gatling in the centre and a battalion in reserve. The gatling belched forth its fire, and the boys fired at will—without ammunition. The reserve was sent forward, and made more fun for the spectators.

Norfolk Investigation.

Judge T. E. Grover of Canton, who appeared as counsel for the Norfolk county commissioners with R. M. Morse before the investigating committee of the legislature, was at the State House on business on Wednesday, and was interviewed in relation to the failure of the county commissioners to make a legislative return for expenses incurred in relation to that investigation.

He claims that the commissioners are in no way bound to make a legislative return in this instance. There was no pending legislation in the matter of the investigation, he says, and therefore no return is required.

Whether the secretary of state or the attorney-general, in whose hands the matter now is, holds the same view as Judge Grover does, remains to be seen. At present the commissioners are on the roll of deliquents for not filing their return.—Brackton Enterprise.

—The rate of taxation in Weymouth this year will be $17.70 on a thousand, an increase of 20 cents over last year. The Gazette says the valuation is something more than last year on real estate but the gain in that direction has been nearly offset by a depreciation in personal property.

August Magazines.

The Cosmopolitan for August has for an opening article "The Story of an Ancient German Burg," illustrated by G. Frank Dewey. There is also an article on "Golf and the New Woman, "Cordova, the City of Memories," "A Daughter of Folly," "The Avenger of the Seven," "The Story of a Famous Expedition," "Some Examples of Recent Art," "Under the Shadow of Tyburn-Tree, "Count Frontenac in New France," and others of interest.

The August number of The Delineator is called the Midsummer number, and the superb colored lithographic plates of Dress Modes and Millinery begun in the July issue again form a brilliant feature of its illustrated fashions. The vastly improved quality of the general and literary matter of the Delineator is attested anew by articles from such well-known writers and authorities as Prof. Xaver Scharwenka, Julia Magruder, and Mary Cadwalada Jones.

Godey's Magazine for August contains lots of entertaining reading for the summer time. Half a dozen pieces of fiction in as many keys give a very readable variety in that line, and something stranger than fiction is told in Albert L. Parkes' anecdotes of Anna Bishop, in the series of "Great Singers of this Century." It seems that this prima donna was under the control of M. Bochsa, the harpist and musical director, in much the same way that Trilby, the tone-deaf, was dominated by Svengali.

The Quincy Granite Manufacturers at Nantasket.

The Granite Manufacturers' Association are holding their annual outing today at Hotel Nantasket and while the morning was not as pleasant as one would wish when going to the sea shore, yet with congenial company with plenty to eat and smoke and music, time will not hang heavily on their hands. White Mountain Resorts.

Picturesque and fascinating scenery and inviting retreats together with numerous other attractions have placed the White Mountains in an eminent position as a summer outing place. The natural embellishments which surround every locality in northern New Hampshire are marvelously beautiful, and the advantages which are at hand for visiting and viewing this display of scenic grandeur are unsurpassed.

The lines of the vast Boston & Maine system encircle the White Mountains in such a complete manner, that every point of interest in the entire section is reached several times each day by the various express trains which leave Boston at convenient hours.

The hotel accommodations at all White Mountain resorts are fully equal to the best Metropolitan Hostelries, and the cusine is of the very best.

During the summer season, the Boston & Maine railroad places on sale at principal stations, excursion tickets to all seashore, lake and mountain resorts, of which you can learn a great deal through the medium of an excursion book which is issued by this company, and which is sent free upon application to its general passenger department, Boston.

John Harris was fined $5 for drunkenness at Milton.

The continued cases against William P. Finnigan, Patrick J. Glynn and Stephen J. McDonnell for the larceny of fifty cents from Maurace J. Pendergrass in a bath house at Lovell's grove came up this morning. Finnigan was fined $8 and Glynn and McDonnell $6 each.

To the Maine Coast and Return $1.50.

Excursions seem to be the popular mode of entertainment for the summer, and the favorite resort to which many Boston people travel is Old Orchard, and well that they should, for at Old Orchard there are many ways in which one may pass a few delightful hours. The surf bathing is unexcelled. The shore dinners of sufficient delicacy to please the epicurean, while the camp ground or Orchard Beach Railroad offer enticing inducement for pleasure. Arrangements have been made by the Boston & Maine Railroad for a popular excursion to Old Orchard on Tuesday, July 28th, and leaving Boston Union Station at 8 A. M., on the special train, one will have several hours for enjoyment at the beach leaving Old Orchard at 4.45 P. M. Boston will be reached in the early evening. The rate for the round trip is $1.50 and tickets are obtainable only at the City Ticket Office, 322 Washington street, Boston.

MRS. LEASE SPOKE UP.

Incidents of One Day In the Kansas Joan of Arc's Visit to St. Louis.

"Stop that elevator! I say, you, stop!" It was a female voice. It was at the Southern hotel, and the elevator had just started up stairs with a great big load of freight.

The rule is that once started the elevator must not stop except to let off passengers, but that voice put terror in the youth who was running the machine, and he stopped. An instant later the well known figure of the Kansas Joan of Arc appeared at the elevator door.

"Young man," she said, "can you tell me where the porter of this hotel is?"

"I don't know, ma'am," said the elevator boy.

"Oh, you don't know," said the Joan of Arc. "You don't know."

"I—I—I think, ma'am, that maybe he is down stairs," said the youth.

"Oh, you think he is down stairs. Well, when you get down you just go and see him and tell him to come right up to the dining room and see me. I am going into the dining room now to dinner, and you tell him to come up right away and see me."

The elevator started down stairs. "Gosh!" said the youth who was running it. "They won't let the porter in the dining room. She is a corker, ain't she?" And the men on the car, who were all in a hurry to get down stairs, all admitted that she was.

Mrs. Lease was interviewed by a local reporter. She denied that she had any idea of entering the ministry, denounced the newspapers and finally said:

"I mustn't talk for publication, because I am here representing a newspaper syndicate myself. Very happy to have met you, brother."—New York Sun.

ADOPTED NINE GIRLS.

Hartman Took Them to Keep His Nine Sons Company.

Leon Hartman of Dubuque, Ia., is a widower, the father of nine sturdy boys, and is worth $40,000. He is also a big hearted man, and he adopted nine fatherless girls to keep his boys company and agreed to give their mother a home.

The mother is the widow of his brother, who lately died abroad. She arrived at Ellis island, having crossed the ocean from Rotterdam on the Netherlands-American steamer Spaarndam. The first person she met was her brother-in-law, who had come all the way from Iowa to greet her. The children, ranging in age from 3 to 15 years, are all bright eyed, rosy cheeked girls, and they so completely won Mr. Hartman's heart that he at once offered to adopt them.

The mother was willing, so were Ellis island officials, and the papers were at once drawn up and signed by the interested parties. Then Mr. Hartman, accompanied by his nine daughters and their mother, left Ellis island and took an afternoon train for Dubuque, where nine sons will give them a rousing welcome. The mother is possessed of considerable money in her own right, and it is more than likely that she will marry her brother-in-law.—New York Journal.

CURED OF LOCKJAW.

J. W. White's Jaws Were Securely Locked For Over Twenty Years.

J. Wallace White, the McKeesport carpenter who has been a sufferer from lockjaw for nearly a quarter of a century, has returned from a hospital at Chicago, completely cured. The case has attracted widespread attention.

An attack of fever over 20 years ago left Mr. White with both jaws securely locked. While able to converse with his friends in a way, it was an extremely difficult matter to understand what he was saying. He had several teeth extracted, and through the openings thus made he forced especially prepared food into his mouth. In that manner he sustained life, although at times it was not an easy matter. Notwithstanding his affliction White learned the carpenter trade and worked at it steadily.

All these conditions have been changed since his trip to Chicago. He was kept on the operating table for eight consecutive hours. An incision was made in the cheek, and it was discovered that the jawbones had grown together. They were sawed apart, and now White can use his jaws and teeth as well as any one, and he does.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Judge Bryan and the Smokehouse Thief.

From his farm Judge Bryan was in the habit of supplying the preachers of all the different churches with flour, corn, hay and vegetables free of cost. He also kept the country supplied with venison from the herd of deer which he kept for many years. He built a big smokehouse in the rear of his grounds. One night, unseen himself, he saw a man emerge from the smokehouse with a side of pork on his shoulder. He recognized the intruder, but said nothing.

A week afterward the fellow approached him, saying:

"Judge, I understand you had some meat stolen from your smokehouse?"

The old judge raised his hand deprecatingly and said:

"Sh! No one on earth knows anything about that but you and me."—Chicago Record.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember

BRAINTREE.

A surprise party was given Miss Annie M. Tracey at the Brunswick hotel, Wednesday evening. Friends from Abington, Holbrook, Randolph and Quincy were present in great numbers. After an hour devoted to games and music the party marched to dinning room where they were served to the best the house afforded.

The "Happy go Lucky Club" of South Braintree went to Highland park in a hay rigging Thursday night. Among those who went were, Miss Mary F. Shay, Josie Coffee, Lena Shay, Lucy Shay, May Shay, Nellie Cogan, Nellie Branley, Stella Barnes, Helen Branley, Agnes Branley, Nellie Moran, John Harrigan, Herbert Dwyer, John O'Brien, Thomas Donovan, Frank Jackson, Annie and Sarah Bracken. They had lots of fun with the driver and on the way home they were joined by the Lime Kiln club of Randolph.

It has been reported that the railroad management proposes to fence in their property at the Braintree station so that no one can approach the station or crossing, unless the gates are up.

The New England Kennel club will open its new club-house today. A large number of guests have been invited, and it is proposed to make the event a grand one. Lunch is to be served at one o'clock, and the afternoon sports begin at two.

It is expected that our tax rate will be a little lower than last year.

About twenty-five from South Braintree went on the excursion to Newport, Friday.

Rumor says that Mr. Cook of the High school has had a flattering offer to go elsewhere.

Mr. John Hayward, who many of our citizens will remember, and who some twelve or more years since went to reside in California, died at his home in Almeda, California during the 4th of July week, after a painful sickness caused by congestion of the brain. He leaves a widow and three children; the oldest, a girl 17 years old, a boy who is 15 and the youngest, a girl, who is 12. At the last moments on earth his mind was here, at the old home on Tremont street, and he called the name of his dear grandmother, Mrs. Eveline Hayward and others here.

A large number of veterans attended the adjourned meeting of the Veteran Fire Association Tuesday evening. It was voted to attend the annual muster of the New England Veteran Firemen's Association, which will be held at New Bedford, Aug. 18. The following field officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Foreman, Edward Shay; first assistant, Eli Eddey; second assistant, J. Willie Hayden. An invitation was extended to the Holbrook vets, and the Union vets, of East Braintree, and Randolph vets.

Mr. Fred Goodnough killed a black snake Thursday afternoon, five feet long.

The Cottington Thayer estate was sold at auction on Tuesday, to N. E. Hollis, for $6,109, and two years taxes.

The Story of the Treasure Tower of Bagdad—Breathing on the Bicycle. A Year of Great Men.

Every schoolboy knows that Bagdad was the seat of Arabic learning in ancient times, and that its name often appears in that most delightful book "Arabian Nights' Entertainments" with that of the caliph, the good Haroun-al-Raschid. That famous personage died long before Marco Polo visited Bagdad, but the stories of the Arabian Nights were commonly believed by the people of those parts. In Marco Polo's day Bagdad was known as Baudas, and one of the chapters of Marco's book of travels, as given by St. Nicholas, runs thus:

Baudas is a great city, which used to be the seat of the caliph of all the Saracens in the world, just as Rome is the seat of the pope of all the Christians. A very great river flows through the city, and by this you can descend to the sea of India. There is a great traffic of merchants with their goods this way. In Baudas they weave many different kinds of silk stuffs and gold brocades and many other beautiful tissues richly wrought with figures of beasts and birds. It is the noblest and greatest city in all those regions.

Now, it came to pass on a day in the year of Christ 1255 that the lord of the Tartars of the Levant, whose name was Alau, brother to the great khan now reigning, gathered a mighty host and came up against Baudas and took it by storm. It was a great enterprise, for in Baudas there were more than 100,000 horse besides foot soldiers. And when Alau had taken the place he found therein a tower of the caliph's which was full of gold and silver and other treasure—in fact, the greatest accumulation of treasure in one spot that was ever known. When he beheld that great heap of treasure, he was astonished, and, summoning the caliph to his presence, he said to him:

"Caliph, tell me now why thou hast gathered such a huge treasure? What didst thou mean to do therewith? Knewest thou not that I was thine enemy, and that I was coming against thee with so great a host to cast thee forth of thine heritage? Wherefore didst thou not take of thy gear and employ it in paying knights and soldiers to defend thee and thy city?"

The caliph wist not what to answer and said never a word. So the prince continued, "Now then, caliph, since I see what a love thou hast borne thy treasure, I will e'en give it thee to eat!" So he shut the caliph up in the treasure tower and bade that neither meat nor drink should be given him, saying, "Now, caliph, eat of thy treasure as much as thou wilt, since thou art so fond of it, for never shalt thou have aught else to eat!"

So the caliph lingered in the tower four days and then died like a dog. Truly his treasure would have been of more service to him had he bestowed it upon men who would have defended his kingdom and his people rather than let himself be taken and deposed and put to death as he was. Howbeit, since that time there has been never another caliph either at Baudas or anywhere else.

How to Breathe on the Bike.

The mere fact of being mounted upon a bicycle does not insure perfect enjoyment. There are many little things to be taken into consideration, such as the matter of adjustment, the knowledge of pedaling and proper dress. But Golden Days thinks that more important, perhaps, than any other one thing is the matter of proper breathing, which often counts as much as muscular strength. The easier a person breathes the easier he may ride, but by ease of breathing should be understood long, regular respirations, avoiding any tendency to short, quick breaths. Those troubled with nasal disorders are often compelled to breathe through the mouth, and when riding at a good rate rapid exhalation is almost unavoidable. This manner of breathing is always injurious and is more than apt to lead to heart or lung trouble. The mere rapidity of movement is not in itself sufficient to bring about this "shortness of breath," as it is familiarly known, but must be accompanied by intense muscular effort in order to produce it, and may, therefore, be attributed to general muscular fatigue. When a rider begins to feel a weakness of this kind, he should at once reduce his pace, or dismount and rest, making at the same time a practice of breathing through the nose with slow exhalations through the mouth.

A Fine Day at the Seashore.

If you had seen us coming down
The steps toward the sea,
With spade and pail and boat to sail
As quiet as could be,
You'd never think of all the things
A sunny morning sometimes brings.

When we were tired of building heaps
And digging trenches, too,
We sailed the boat in pools until
Our feet were quite wet through.
We fished for flounders in the tide,
We had a penny donkey ride.

A boatman said he'd take us cheap,
If we would like a row,
So off we went for half an hour,
But, ah, the time seemed slow!
We soon went back to land once more,
For we felt better far on shore.

We played at being robbers next,
And in a cave we sat.
Nurse couldn't find us when she came,
But she is used to that.
If we were good for one whole day,
She'd hardly know us, I dare say!

A Year of Great Men.

The year 1809 ought to be made a note of as being fruitful in great men, for it was the birth year of the poet Tennyson, the naturalist Darwin, the statesman Gladstone, President Lincoln and the genial philosopher Oliver Wendell Holmes. Of these five, three belonged to the old world and two to the new. Four of them have joined the "great majority," but the fifth is, happily, still with us.

URBINO'S QUEER WILL.

Body to Be Cremated and Buried In a Plain Pine Box.

Wanted to Cross Silent River Without an Obituary.

Glad to Meet Death, Which Is Simply a Consequence of Life.

Newton, Mass., July 25.—A dispatch from Philadelphia states that a certified copy of the will of the late S. R. Urbino of this city has been filed with Register Smithers, for the purpose of administering to some property belonging to the estate located in this commonwealth.

After making a number of private and public bequests, including a number of charitable organizations located in Boston and vicinity, he directs that his body is to be cremated, and no religious services are to be held over the body.

In a codicil the testator directs: "The following is to be strictly adhered to: My body is to be cremated, and the ashes put into the earthen pot which I keep for this purpose, and interred by the side of my wife. I do not want a stone or anything else to mark my grave. No other body or ashes shall ever be interred in the line with ours. My funeral is to be private; no religious service in any form; everything in the simplest way; no coffin, only a plain pine box; no carriages; instead of them distribute $50 among worthy needy old people and widows with small children, Germans of Boston, in sums of not less than $2 each.

"I do not want anything gloomy about either, everything bright and pleasant, as I consider death simply the consequence of life; besides, I am glad to go, as the last years of my life were a disappointment, and anything but pleasant.

"No information to the newspapers; I do not want my name there. The reporters are a nuisance meddling with private affairs.

All my wearing apparel, of every description, upper or underwear, and books, are to be given to the poor; my best suit, black, perhaps to some poor student, and the fur coat to some poor older man."

Pool Room Case In Court.

Providence, July 25.—The case brought by the manager of the Electric News and Money Transfer company of New Jersey, against the police officials of Pawtucket, known as the "pool room case," came up before Judge Colt yesterday. The company claims to have suffered much inconvenience in Pawtucket on account of the interference of the police, and the hearing was on the company's petition for an injunction to restrain the officers from interfering with the business of the concern. After evidence on both sides had been presented, the court took the matter under advisement.

He has signed a contract which provides for a long engagement on the boards, at $1000 a week. Parson Davies came here yesterday from Chicago, in behalf of Colonel Hopkins, for the purpose of signing Sullivan, and was successful in his mission. Sketches are now being written by McKee Rankin and Mr. Burnham, and a selection will be made in time to begin rehearsels early in August.

Granite Cutters' Grievance.

Concord, N. H., July 25.—The Granite Cutters' union yesterday voted to arbitrate with the New England granite works on the question of the quality of stone. On the question of the price paid for work, the cutters say they have nothing to arbitrate. They will not return to work until the disputed matters are satisfactorily settled.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 25.—The Coogan diamond robbery is a sensation, which has concerned the entire summer colony. All sorts of theories are advanced as to the whereabouts of the gems, but no clew is forthcoming. The value of the diamonds is now placed at between $15,000 and $20,000.

This step was taken as a means of finding out how many bicyclists he could muster. The duke himself, two generals and several other officers were present and mounted on bicycles.

A Combine on Tobacco.

Louisville, Ky., July 25.—The tobacco combine has been effected at last, and at a meeting of the warehouse men it was decided that the consolidation should go into effect on Sept. 1. Representatives from 12 of the tobacco warehouses in this city were present. The deal involves about $1,000,000.

Constantinople, July 25.—Rev. Mr. Baird has been furnished with a passport to Bitlis, where he goes as successor to the American missionary, Rev. George P. Knapp, who was expelled, having been accused by the porte of encouraging seditious movements among the Armenians.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Business Very Dull, With No Prospect of an Immediate Revival.

New York, July 25. — Bradstreet's says: Telegraphic and mail advices from commercial and industrial centers indicate a more unsatisfactory state of trade. Jobbers and retail houses show still further caution in the matter of securing supplies, buying for actual needs to a degree not heretofore reported. There is no outlook favoring an early revival of trade, while the volume of sales continues light and prices low, with a further restriction of credits. The general money market is dull, due not only to caution on the part of the bank in discounting, but to a falling off in demand.

The industrial situation is somewhat more depressed, particularly in iron and steel, prices for most varieties of which, notably southern pig iron, are shaded. The encouraging feature in iron and steel is the extent to which stacks have been blown out. There is an increase in the number of striking employes in several lines, but the new scale of wages asked by the iron and steel workers has been largely acceded to. Production is materially curtailed among manufacturers of woolens and cotton, as heretofore, and in locomotive, hardware, silver, jewelry and lumber industries.

Shoe factories are busy, mostly on old orders. Eastern wool dealers report no demand, and some leading houses refuse to increase stocks, either by purchase or consignment.

The principal activity in the dry goods trade appears to consist of preparations to show fall goods.

Death and Disaster.

Denver, July 25.—A cloudburst sent a flood of water down Morrison canon, 18 miles west of Denver, late yesterday afternoon, and it is believed many peopeople drowned near that town. Campple lost their lives. Morrison reports 25 ers and summer tourists from Denver and other points were located in tents and cottages along the canon for several miles. Old residents and ranchmen rushed down to the camps when they realized the extent of the storm, but they were too late. It is impossible at present to say what the loss will mean in either property or life.

Concerning Cardinal Satolli.

Washington, July 25.—The report that the pope has offered Cardinal Satolli the choice of returning to Rome or remaining at his present post, and that the latter course had been decided on, is denied by Cardinal Satolli. It is officially stated that it is almost a certainty that Cardinal Satolli will go back to Rome after the assembling of the next consistory, when his successor will be appointed.

Saved His Neck.

Nay's Landing, N. J., July 25.—John Rech, on trial for the murder of his wife, Bessie, last March, was last night convicted of murder in the second degree, and was immediately sentenced by Judge Ludlow to 20 years in the state prison. BROUGHT NO MESSAGE.

Gold Democrats Expected Eckles to Give Cleveland's Views.

Will Issue a Call For an Anti-Silver Convention.

Four Cities Have Already Put In Bids to Entertain the Delegates.

Chicago, July 25.—The committee of one from each of the states, represented at the anti-silver Democratic conference, with General Bragg added as chairman, met at the Auditorium hotel yesterday. Comptroller of the Currency Eckels arComptroller of the Currency Eckles arrived, and he was welcomed on account of supposed confidential relationship to President Cleveland and his cabinet.

The gold committee decided to hold a national convention not later than Sept. 2. Where this convention will be held, and how the delegates will be selected, remains to be decided. The national committee, in whose hands will be left the selection of the place of holding the convention, will meet in Indianapolis, Aug. 7. The question of the representation of states will be decided by an executive committee of five, which will be selected from the national committee at its Indianapolis meeting.

That a radical difference of opinion existed as to what methods be adopted in the furtherance of the common interest, was shown by the fact that majority and minority reports were evolved from the deliberations.

GENERAL BRAGG.

The majority report, which was adopted by the larger conference at its adjourned session, provides for the holding of a national convention of sound money Democrats not later than Sept. 2, and reads in full as follows:

To the conference:

Your committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution: In view of the revolutionary action of the recent Chicago convention, its repudiation of all Democratic platforms and principles, and its condemnation of the national Democratic administration,

Resolved, first, That it is the sense of this conference, composed of Democrats from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Missouri, Michigan, Texas, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska, that a thoroughly sound and patriotic declaration of Democratic principles be enunciated, and that candidates for president and vice president in accordance therewith be nominated.

Second, That the Democrats in the several states, who are in sympaty with this recommendation, and unalterably opposed to the declarations and tendencies of the Chicago platform, be requested to arrange a member of a national Democratic committee.

Third, that the national committee thus selected meet at the city of Minneapolis, on Friday, August 7, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of issuing a formal call for a national convention, to be held not later than Sept. 2, at such place, and to be constituted and convened in such manner as said national committee may determine.

Fourth, that an executive committee of five be appointed by the chairman of this conference, of which he shall be one, with authority and directions to name a suitable person in each state, where necessary, to take appropriate steps to cause state meetings to be held, with all convenient speed, for the purpose of selecting members of such committee, or if no committeeman be selected in any state, in time for said committtee meeting, to designate a member to represent such state temporarily. Respectfully submitted.

Edward S. Bragg, Chairman.
George M. Davie, Secretary.

A committee of two, Henry S. Robbins of Chicago and W. D. Bynum of Indiana, was appointed to open headquarters in Chicago and begin an aggressive hard money campaign. The committee then adjourned.

There is a vigorous rivalry between the cities, not less than four being contestants for the honor of entertaining the gold standard Democrats. Indianapolis telegraphed an offer to provide all necessary funds. The friends of Don M. Dickinson are working for Detroit. Minneapolis has asked for it, and the claims of the northern city are seconded by St. Paul. Chicago is also a claimant.

The arrival of Comptroller Eckles, fresh from Washington, has done considerable to strengthen local gold standard men. The Whitney interview from New York acted as a dampener to some extent, but Eckles soon dried it out by his utterances, as the meeting believed that he is close to the feelings of the administration, despite his declaration that politics had nothing to do with his present trip west.

"I am just on my way to Ottawa," said the comptroller of the currency. "There is no politics in my visit at all. No, I am not the bearer of a message from the president. So far as a choice for presidential and vice presidential candidates goes, I don't think he has made any expression. I know of no one who is likely to be made the repository of such confidence.

"For myself, any sound Democrat is acceptable. It is an odd thing, however, that in all the tickets which speculation offers us, one name is almost invariably used. It is always Palmer and somebody. Palmer's name, by an almost universal choice, seems to be made

Awful Slaughter.

Constantinople, July 25.—The latest accounts received here are to the effect that 40 prosperous villages around Van have been destroyed, and every male over 8 years of age killed. The total killed are placed at 12,800.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Cool Rooms a Tonic For the Nerves—Fancies In the Use of Flowers. Baked Blackberry Pudding.

For the warm days in every home a cool room is needed—that is, a place where tones and tints are not highly colored or flashy, where the hues selected are of a delicate nature, and where the atmosphere, by its apparent coolness, is a tonic to the nerves. We are told there are two colors which act on the physical frame—blue and green. And so, when a room is finely equipped in either, it becomes a boon, a treasure for the tired woman whose solace is rest and quiet.

For which reason The Decorator and Furnisher declares that of all colors this season the delicate green is the inspiring one; these charming tones act as a wonderful helper when the thermometer is up in the nineties.

In the furnishing of all rooms the authority mentioned suggests that the woodwork should be the first consideration and the basis on which the general treatment is given. If green is the one selected, the lightest of tints is the best—that regular old time apple green, so comfortable to the eye, so clean and cheerful. With this the wall covering next presents itself. The market overflows with designs and patterns in this same tone—artistic specimens for a mere song. Many of these are in cream white, in which a vine leaf or a conventional design is the scheme, and when hung is a charming background for pictures and the like.

Now, if the ceiling is low, beware of the frieze. A gilt rail is all that is necessary. Low ceilings should be treated carefully. A cream paper with dot or silver star makes a capital scheme and adds to the general effect.

Still there are other methods which can be adopted for the furnishings of side walls. A cretonne in green can be hung instead of a paper, in some small figure or running vine on a cream ground. This looks exceedingly well with the woodwork, and when completed has a cool appearance and gives to the room a dainty look.

The next step is the floor covering. For this cool room there are three ways to furnish. The first is a shellac for the plain pine boards. In some artistic houses this has been done with great success. Over this floor can be placed small or large rugs of Japanese make. For this season the wood fiber rugs are the novelty. They come in every color, with deep fringe at ends, are very attractive in appearance and are also at a price most reasonable.

Washing Summer Materials.

Put a tablespoonful of sal soda to a gallon of cold water for rinsing blue and purple lawns. Use a teacupful of vinegar in a gallon of water to rinse green and pink cottons, as it will improve the color. Black and navy blue lawns, etc., should be washed in warm suds containing a cup of salt; rinse in very blue water and dry in the shade; then immerse in very blue and thin starch, and when nearly dry iron on the wrong side with a moderate iron. Dry all cottons in the shade and use very thin warm starch on them. Always iron on the wrong side and with a moderate iron. Never soak them overnight. Wash gingham and percale in only warm water, and use salt in each water to set the color.

Clean French and domestic sateens by placing them in a lather of luke warm soapsuds containing a cup of salt; rinse in water and salt; dip in very thin, warm starch and wrap in a clean sheet; in two hours iron on the wrong side over a well covered ironing board. Iron embroidery on the wrong side and over a soft, padded ironing board.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Fancies In Flowers.

Foliage plants are being much used for fireplaces just now. The unsightly grate, which looks so particularly unfriendly when there is no fire, can be hidden with a collection of these, which will harmonize with the general appointments of the room and go very well with most things, or a graceful trellis can be covered with ivy, which wants comparatively little attention beyond being kept well watered.

In flowers for the table the favorite coloring for the hot season is pink; it is fresh and a certain amount of light is attached to it without being suggestive of heat. That is a point which is not always observed, and yet there are some colors which make one feel decidedly hotter than others.

Buttonhole bouquets are not large this year, but are very generally worn, and ladies' sprays not much larger than these are much used for outdoor entertainments, races, etc.

An Idea In Making Lunch Cloths.

Here is a nice idea from The Ladies' Home Companion for cloths to put upon small tables. Use four gentlemen's hemstitched handkerchiefs of large size. Join these with heavy linen insertion and put heavy linen lace around the edge. These are easily laundered, are always fresh and clean looking and do not collect dust. The round thread linen is a good material for lunch cloths, and it is well to try pieces before buying, as some linens wash slimsy.

Baked Blackberry Pudding.

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of butter and half a cup of sugar and stir to a cream; add a cup of milk; then stir in 2½ cups of flour into which 2 heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder has been sifted; add the beaten whites of 3 eggs; finally add a quart of berries; pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven three-quarters of an hour and serve with hot sauce.

Breadbox In Hot Weather.

During the hot weather the breadbox requires special attention to prevent bread from molding. The box should be scalded twice a week and aired in the sun for an hour before fresh bread is put in it. A tin box is much better to use for holding bread than a stone crock.

SEWALL TURNED DOWN

Watson of Georgia Gets Populist Nomination For Vice President.

Maine Man May Get Out of the Way, 'Tis Said.

Convention Adjourns Without Reaching a Decision on Presidency.

St. Louis, July 25.—The Populists have done the very thing that the men who have been fighting Candidate Bryan hoped they would do. They nominated Tom Watson for vice president, and this, too, right in the teeth of a telegraphed declaration of Mr. Bryan that, unless his companion on the Democratic ticket should be endorsed, he would not accept the Populists' nomination for the presidency.

The result is that a straight Populists' ticket may be the outcome. The "Middle of the Road" men went wild over their vice presidential success, but the convention, as a whole, seemed as if chilled by a wet blanket.

The telegram which Mr. Bryan sent was in answer to one sent by Senator Jones, which read:

"The Populists have decided to nominate the vice president first. If it is not Sewall, what shall we do? I favor your declination in that event."

Within 16 minutes after he sent his message, he received the following reply:

"I agree with you fully. If Sewall is not nominated, have my name withdrawn."

The convention began its morning session with a discussion of the majority and minority report of the order of business, the main point of difference being the provision of the latter that the vice presidential candidate be nominated first. The discussion was dragged along full of bitterness and personalities.

EUGENE V. DEBS.

The most exciting scene of the day occurred when the committee on platform submitted its report. Bartholomew Vallette hails from Providence. He stalked up the aisle, and sought the speaker's side, and some one in the audience remarked that the Declaration of Independence was to be read by the gentleman from Rhode Island.

This had a tendency to incense Mr. Vallette, who answered the scoffer with the statement that the document was more than a declaration of independence—it was a declaration of life, liberty and a few other things in a similar line.

Some one started to read his resolutions, which started out with "When in the course of human events," and continued along the lines of the original declaration. The crowd hooted and howled, and after 15 minutes' amusement, at Vallette's expense, it was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This made him angry, the suggestions of the chair being treated with contempt. Allen grew firmer, and declared that the gentleman was out of order. But even this did not seem to stop him.

Waving the document over his head, he declared that he had a right to be heard—would be heard—and then added something about shedding the last drop of blood in his body before he would move from the exact board in the speaker's platform on which he had taken his stand.

The police were called on to remove him, and it took the combined efforts of four sturdy bluecoats to tear him, fighting and struggling, from the platform and out of the hall.

The only thing accomplished all day of any significance was the decision of the convention that while it was ready to accept Bryan, it would not have Sewall.

It was supposed that an arrangement had been made by which the Bryan men were willing to accept a Populist from the south in lieu of Sewall, but this turned out to be a mistake. The "Middle of the Roaders" rushed through a resolution to nominate the vice president. This forced the issue on Sewall, and he was beaten.

Nominations for vice president were begun at 6 o'clock, and at midnight the roll of states for candidates was not completed. Everybody wanted to make a seconding speech, but had to do it over the yells and cat-calls of delegates and galleries.

But this did not disconcert the orators. They kept on yelling, and most of them were bombarded with balls of paper.

After nominating Tom Watson of Georgia, who made himself famous by "calling down" "Where-am-I-at-Cobb," the convention adjourned.

A Debs Sentiment.

The corridors of the Lindell hotel were filled with excited delegates and interested spectators early this morning. The convention had just adjourned amid scenes of darkness and confusion, the former on account of the failure of the electric lights, and the latter owing to the almost universal opinion that Bryan would not accept the nomination for president after the defeat of his running mate, before the completion of the roll-call on the first ballot. Who is the man to lead us now was the cry. Texas shouters were anxious to head the ticket with the tail they had just selected, and then cast around for another tail. Georgia, and a portion of Texas, Wisconsin and Illinois, were shouting for Eugene V. Debs for president, while others declared that the convention should declare for Bryan, regardless of his official acceptance or refusal to accept the nomination of the "New United Populist party," as they are styling themselves.

The sentiment is not crystallized sufficiently to predict any considerable move in the direction of the man from Indiana, and prominent delegates refused to permit the use of their names, wishing first to learn the sentiment of their respective delegations that are canvassing, either officially or unofficially, in secret. It seems certain that the Hoosier leader will show his hand in the councils, and that this afternoon his name will be on the rollcall and bulletin boards of the country, to the surprise of many who, up to the adjournment, did not consider the name of Debs even as a possibility.

Mr. Sewall has telegraphed persons in authority here that he will not stand in the way of an alliance between the Populists and Democrats.

The speaker was ex-Governor Barnett Gibbs of Texas. He was asked: "Do you believe that Mr. Sewall would be willing to withdraw from the Democratic ticket?"

"I am informed," continued Mr. Gibbs, "that he wired to one of the most influential men here that he would not stand in the way if it was thought Bryan and a man from the Populist party would make a stronger ticket. I cannot tell you to whom the telegram was sent.

"I think Mr. Sewall will resign if this convention nominates a Populist for vice president. If he does, however, it will be his voluntary act. There will be no force used. He will then be the hero of the hour, and can have anything within the gift of the two parties. He could be secretary of state or anything else he might want. It is a peculiar situation, and the national committees of the two parties may have to step in to settle the matter."

The Platform

Following is the platform as adopted by the convention:

The People's party, assembled in national convention, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles declared by the founders of the republic, and also to the fundamental principles of just government as enunciated in the platform of the party in 1892. We recognize that, through the connivance of the present and preceding administrations, the country has reached a crisis in its national life, as predicted in our declaration four years ago, and that prompt and patriotic action is the supreme duty of the hour. We realize that, while we have political independence, our financial and industrial independence is yet to be attained by restoring to our country the constitutional control and exercise of the functions necessary to a people's government, which functions have been basely surrendered by our public servants to corporate monopolies. The influence of European money changers has been more potent in shaping legislation than the voice of the American people. Executive power and patronage have been used to corrupt legislatures and defeat the will of the people, and plutocracy has thereby been enthroned upon the ruins of democracy. To restore the government intended by the fathers, and for the welfare and prosperity of this and future generations, we demand the establishment of an economic and financial system which shall make us masters of our own affairs and independent of European control, by the adoption of the following:

1. We demand a national money, safe and sound, issued by the general government only, without the intervention of banks of issue, to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private; a just, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people and through the lawful disbursements of the government.

2. We demand the free and unrestricted coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of foreign nations.

3. We demand that the volume of circulating medium be speedily increased to an amount sufficient to meet the demands of business and population, and to restore the just level of prices of labor and production.

4. We denounce the sales of bonds and the increase of the public interest-bearing debt made by the present administration as unnecessary and without authority of law, and demand that no more bonds be issued, except by specific act of congress.

5. We demand such legislation as will prevent the demonetization of the lawful money of the United States by private contract.

6. We demand that the government, in payment of its obligations, shall use its option as to the kind of money in which they are to be paid, and we denounce the present and preceding administrations for surrendering this option to holders of government obligations.

7. We demand a graduated income tax, to the end that aggregated wealth shall bear its just proportion of taxation, and we regard the recent decision of the supreme court relative to the income tax law as a misinterpretation of the constitution, and an invasion of the rightful powers of congress, over the subject of taxation.

8. We demand that postal savings banks be established by the government for the safe deposit of the savings of the people and to facilitate exchange.

1. Transportation being a means of exchange and a public necessity, government should own and operate the railroads in the interest of the people, and on a non-partisan basis, to the end that all may be accorded the same treatment in transportation, and that the tyranny and political power now exercised by the great railroad corporations, which result in the impairment, if not the destruction and political rights and personal liberties of the citizen, may be destroyed. Such ownership is to be accomplished gradually in a manner consistent with sound public policy.

2. The interest of the United States in the public highways, built with public moneys, and the proceeds of extensive grants of land to the Pacific railroads, should never be alienated, mortgaged or sold, but guarded and protected for the general welfare, as provided by the laws organizing such railroads. The foreclosure of existing liens of the United States on these roads should at once follow default in the payment thereof by the debtor companies; and at the foreclosure sales of said roads the government shall purchase the same if it becomes necessary to protect its interests therein, of if they can be purchased at a reasonable price; and the government shall operate said railroads as public highways for the benefit of the whole people, and not in the interest of the few, under suitable provisions for protection of life and property, giving to all transportation interests equal privileges and equal rights for fares and freights.

3. We denounce the present infamous schemes for refunding these debts, and demand that the laws now applicable thereto be executed and administered according to their interest and spirit.

4. The telegraph, like the postoffice system, being a necessity for the transmission of news, should be owned and operated by the government, in the interest of the people.

1. True policy demands that the national and state legislation shall be such as will ultimately enable every prudent and industrious citizen to secure a home, and, therefore, the lands should not be monopolized for speculation purposes. All lands now owned by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs should by lawful means be reclaimed by the government and held for settlers only, and private land monopoly as well as alien ownership should be prohibited.

2. We condemn the frauds by which the land grant Pacific railroad companies have through the connivance of the interior department robbed multitudes of actual bona fide settlers of their homes and miners of their claims, and we demand legislation by congress which will enforce the exception of mineral land from such grants after as well as before the patent.

3. We demand that bona fide settlers on all public lands be granted free homes, as provided by the national homestead law, and that no exception be made in the case of Indian reservations when opened for settlement, and that all lands not now patented come under this demand.

We favor a system of direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, under proper constitutional safeguards.

1. We demand the election of president, vice president and United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

2. We tender to the patriotic people of Cuba our deepest sympathy in their heroic struggles for political freedom and independence, and we believe the time has come when the United States, the great republic of the world, should recognize that Cuba is, and of right ought to be, a free and independent state.

3. We favor home rule in the territories and the District of Columbia, and the early admission of the territories as states.

4. All public salaries should be made to correspond to the price of labor and its products.

5. In times of great industrial depression, idle labor should be employed on public works as far as practicable.

6. The arbitrary course of the courts in assuming to imprison citizens for indirect contempt and ruling them by injunction should be prevented by proper legislation.

7. We favor just pensions for our disabled Union soldiers.

8. Believing that the elective franchise and an untrammelled ballot are essential to government of, for and by the people, the People's party condemn the wholesale system of disfranchisement adopted in some of the states, as un-Republican and un-Democratic, and we declare it to be the duty of the several state legislatures to take such action as will secure a full, free and fair ballot and an honest count.

9. While the foregoing propositions constitute the platform upon which our party stands, and for the vindication of which its organization will be maintained, we recognize that the great and pressing issue of the pending campaign, upon which the present election will turn, is the financial question, and upon this great and specific issue between the parties we cordially invite the aid and co-operation of all organizations and citizens agreeing with us upon this vital question.

For Bryan and Sewall.

St. Louis, July 25.—The Silver convention yesterday voted to defer the adoption of a platform and nomination proceedings until late in the afternoon. Senator Stewart of Nevada eulogized Bryan at some length. It was decided to organize war veterans of the party for campaign purposes. Mrs. Gougar of Indiana announced that a woman's national silver league would be formed. At 12:37 p. m. the convention adjourned until 3:30.

The delegates as usual came together slowly for the afternoon session. At 3:35 p. m., Chairman St. John rapped for order, and introduced Rev. Mr. Hagerty. At the conclusion of the invocation, G. W. Baker was called on for a report from the conference committee. He said that the time was too short to reach a satisfactory conclusion. There were not more than 100 men in the conferences, and only two hours in which to discuss the method to be pursued. He read the resolutions, which were adopted at the conference. On motion of Mr. Turner of Kansas, the report was accepted and adopted by a unanimous vote.

A motion to adopt the platform was made. Mr. Hess of Illinois objected, and a wordy wrangle followed. It ended in the adoption of the platform. It was decided by the chairman that the recommendation regarding the nomination was not a part of the platform, and should be acted upon separately. Mr. Page of Nebraska moved that the convention proceed to the nomination of a presidential candidate. It prevailed. General Warner said it would be necessary to nominate a candidate, rather than endorse, in order to avoid some of the peculiarities of state ballot laws.

E. E. Little of Kansas nominated William J. Bryan of Nebraska. There was loud and vigorous applause at the conclusion of Mr. Little's speech. Colonel L. C. Pace of Nebraska seconded the nomination of Bryan.

A number of other speeches were made, and then the rules were suspended and Mr. Bryan was nominated by acclamation. The wildest confusion followed, and the wild and howling delegates marched around the hall, waving hats, umbrellas and handkerchiefs. This was continued for 10 minutes. Mr. Baker of California then moved that the convention proceed to the nomination of a vice president.

Mr. Troup of Connecticut placed the name of Arthur Sewall of Maine before the convention. He made no speech. H. T. Niles of Ohio seconded the nomination. It was moved that Mr. Sewall be declared the vice presidential nominee by acclamation, and the motion prevailed. The band played "America," and the delegates sang. Then they sang the doxology.

When quiet was restored, Mr. Baker of California moved that each delegation select a member of the committee to notify the nominees. The motion was agreed to.

Colonel Pace offered a resolution, declaring that as the Democratic party had arranged to notify Bryan and Sewall in New York, the Silver party notify them in Bryan's home at Lincoln. The motion was agreed to. Thereupon the convention adjourned sine die.

Bryan Taking It Easy.

Lincon, Neb., July 25.—Pending the deliberations of the St. Louis convention, Mr. Bryan has steadily declined to be led into a discussion of its work or its probabilities. Outside of a few telegrams from his friends, who have gone there from here, he has received the advices from St. Louis only by bulletins given the public, which are telephoned from the telegraph office. Mr. Bryan has no appointments for the near future.

Bananas Shut Out.

Habana, July 25.—United States Consul General Lee has been denied the request made, on behalf of the United States government, that the exportation of bananas from Cuba should not be prohibited. The grounds for the refusal is that custom house regulations made in time of peace are not binding in time of war.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Li Hung Chang is the son of a village woodcutter, poor and illiterate.

It is reported that the Prince of Wales altogether netted $250,000 by his Derby victory.

Alma Tadema, the celebrated artist, is now 60 years old. He was born in Holland.

Webster, Mass., has a fat girl. Her name is Elsie Lucia Bates. She is 13 years old. She weighs 320 pounds and is still growing.

In all probability Queen Victoria will never hold another drawing room in person, the fatigue being too great for her at her advanced age.

The emperor of China is editor in chief of the Peking Gazette, a daily that has been published for the last 800 years, and no court gossip ever gets into the paper.

The death of Jules Simon leaves only two surviving members of the government of national defense—namely, General Trochu, the president, and M. Henri Rochefort.

Colonel North was particularly proud of the fact that he once beat John Roberts in a game of billiards. Roberts allowed his opponent 95 points in 100 and lost by two points.

Charles D. Woods of the Storrs (Conn.) experiment station has been elected professor of agriculture in the Maine State college and director of the experiment station.

Dr. Eliza M. Mosher of Brooklyn, a former Vassar professor, has accepted the position of associate dean of the arts and literary department in the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

It is not generally known that the ex-Empress Eugenie is partly an Irish woman. On one side she was descended from an Irish soldier of fortune who made a name and place for himself in the interminable Spanish wars.

Lord Roberts has become an indefatigable cyclist. He may be seen any day careering through the outside cars and general traffic of the Dublin streets. Neither he nor Lady Roberts has enjoyed very good health in Dublin.

Andrew Lang says, "A difference in taste in books, when it is decided and vigorous, breaks many a possible friendship." He indicates the passport to his favor by telling us that "he or she who condemns Scott and cannot read Dickens is a person with whom I would fain have no further converse."

Kaiser Wilhelm has changed the trim of his mustache, which he no longer curls up at the ends, but wears perfectly straight. This gives him a more benignant and less ferocious aspect. They say that, like his prototype, Ludwig II of Bavaria, he is growing very fat, owing to overeating and too little exercise.

THE FASHION PLATE.

Pale yellow and pink batiste waists that are not embroidered are effectively trimmed with rows of narrowest black velvet ribbon.

The tendency is still toward very short basques and jacket bodices for nearly every figure, and the effect on slender forms is trim, chic and Frenchy.

Glace silks are very much used for bodices above skirts of silk lined grass lawn. These silks have a shimmering sort of appearance that accords well with the amber airiness of the lawn.

The pretty corduroy silks come in Persian and Algerian stripes and in gay tricolors—green, gold and English rose and various other bright combinations that render them most desirable for dressy gowns.

Separate waists of embroidered batiste to wear with various skirts just as silk waists are worn are very popular this season. The embroidery is in all over designs, and the waists copy all the models now fashionable.

Materials for transparent gowns are sold this year in greater variety than ever, and although the majority of these dresses are rendered very elegant and elaborate by rich laces and silk linings exceedingly simple and charming toilets are made with linings of batiste, lawn or ribbon cloth.

For waists alone embroidered grass lawn is continually developing some new and beauutiful attraction. The prettiest and latest patterns are very delicately embroidered in fine, beautiful Marie Antoinette effects, the stems, tendrils and scalloped edge of the trimming being formed of very fine gold thread.—New York Post.

DAINTY TRIFLES.

Attractive toilet sets come in canary yellow opaque glass, set in silver.

Empire fans lead the fashion, and when quite up to date dangle at the end of a long gold chain.

Belts of white kid, jeweled with turquoise, give instance of the expense lavished on this accessory to summer dress.

Included in the opulent traveler's outfit is a billbook which holds letters of credit, and is made of elephant's hide, with gold mounts.

Nothing more dainty can be imagined than some of the silver coffee sets which include Coalport china cups and saucers in new colorings and designs.

A novelty for the table is a silver spoon with long handle in vine pattern and shallow bowl perforated in a leaf design for serving green peas.

The artistic tendencies of designers is pleasingly illustrated in the newer tortoise shell articles for the toilet and writing tables. Their intrinsic as well as artistic value is enhanced with gold or silver mountings.—Jewelers' Circular.

SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1896.

A Tour of Italy.

BY DR. C. O. YOUNG.

I had just arrived at Pontebba, on the Italian border. It was about 10 o'clock in the evening. The conductor cries: "Aussteigen! Two hours' stop before next train for Venice!" Oh, but for this tedious waiting one might well travel in Europe. What am I to do? I must wait. The heavens are overdrawn with a dark-blue cloud. It is quite dark; the jagged peaks of the eastern Alps behind Pontebba are scarcely to be seen. The darkness of the night shuts out the view. Ah, darkness, thou art the father of crime and the robber of all that is beautiful.

The conductor's voice awakens me out of my melancholy reverie: "Come along; only five minutes' walk to Giovanni's inn. The best of wine; in Rome none better."

He said this with a rapture that would certainly have whetted my appetite had I been a lover of wine. However, I hope my friendly relations with Quincy's temperance apostle will not suffer from my accepting the invitation. Such an opportunity of studying the life of an Italian inn is not always at hand.

We grope our way through the darkness and stumble over some rubbish in the middle of the street. Well, what of it? Life is also only a stumbling over difficulties; an eternal stumbling toward an undesired goal—the grave. But, why these melancholy thoughts?

We enter the said inn. By the open fireplace, in the background of the room, stands a stout woman, the keeper's wife, occupied with the preparation of a steak, to which she has added an undue amount of strong-smelling garlic. In the middle of the room hangs a lamp which spreads a sparing light over the whole. A sunburnt, black-haired man, a carpenter in the village, is expounding lessons in politics to those who care to listen. His features are almost concealed under a dirty, wide-brimmed hat. His tongue is almost paralyzed from "Giovanni's splendid wine." He speaks loudly, and accompanies his phrases with sweeping gestures.

"This African campaign," he thunders, "is foolishness! Non e vero? But, once begun, it must be brought to an end; victorious, of course. Jes, if only Garibaldi was living! But thus—Batovini—Baldissera." The wine has evidently lamed his tongue. From his interrupted sentences one can catch, that Crispi ought to be put in charge of affairs. "Hurrah for Crispi," he cried, but is unable to talk further.

At a side table are seated some of the dignitaries of the place, who smile knowingly.

Shortly, the speaker awakens to consciousness again, and becomes more and more loud, his harrangue at the same time becoming more radical. The men at the table show signs of uneasiness. As the speaker cries out, "Hurrah for the republic!" one of the men, a millionaire, as I was told, arises and leaves the room. His example is shortly followed by the other two, a railroad official and a secretary of a company in the place. The political carpenter becomes more and more heated, from his own words, and closes breathless, with the exclamation:

"Hurrah for King Humbert; hurrah for Italy and Crispi; hurrah for mankind!"

According to an old Latin saying, "In vino veritas,"—(truth speaks through the wine). Giovanni's good wine made this political haranguer confess that he himself did not know what he wanted. This type of men are anything but scarce in our days.

The innkeeper stretched out and yawned. We took the hint and left. In the meantime the storm had passed over, and the moon seemed to smile ironically at men who, unnecessarily add to their thousand other worries, those of politics.

It was midnight as we arrived in Venice. The man in the moon seemed to smile at our embarrassment as we stood surrounded by a half dozen hotel men without being able to speak to any one of them. We entrust ourselves to one of the best appearing, and he conducts us through narrow, winding streets, across numerous small bridges, to our albergo (hotel). We climb a narrow flight of stairs which leads to our room on the first floor, and are happily surprised at its neatness. In fact, during our whole stay in Italy we were not troubled with the much descried uncleanliness of the Italians. It seems to have been banished from the better class of hotels. But when we came to settle our bill we were made acquainted with the Italian method of overcharging foreigners. They make it a rule to thrible the price as soon as they notice that they are dealing with a foreigner.

As an illustration, let me relate an experience which my friend had. He bought some views of Venice from a man on the street. The man had originally asked twelve liros for the book, but finally sold it for five. My friend came laughing to me, who was getting impatient, and showed what a bargain he had made. Shortly afterwards we saw the same views in a show window, marked three liros.

The next day we went out to see the city. Map in hand, and guided by the sun, we succeeded in finding our way to Piazza St. Markus. This is the centre for the life in Venice. Open-air concerts are held here three times a week. The band had just struck up one of those lively Italian airs which makes one's steps sprightlier, as we approached. How interesting is a crowd of men, if you study them, not as a crowd, but as individuals. I have always had a special fondness for the study of men. I suppose that explains why I am a doctor. What a variegated crowd had congregated here this Sunday afternoon. Rich and poor, high and low, from near and far; all were here. Dark complexioned men, with lean faces, poorly clad, wrapped in wide, blue capes, which they had slung over their left shoulder to shut out the cold, and women and children bearing the stamp of poverty in dress and features, were to be seen strolling about the piazza or standing in groups around the music stand.

Here I beheld the Italians in their Sunday clothes, but I have never seen an American tramp so poorly clad as most of them. At the tables before the coffee-houses which line the piazza tourists are sitting, chatting or reading their Boedskers.

In the evening we went down to the seashore to see the city by moonlight. What a beautiful picture! The wind had subsided and the sea was calm. Not a sound is to be heard except the occasional splashing of the oars of some belated gondolaman steering his course homeward after his long day in the lagoons. The Palace of the Doges is reflected in the deep blue waters at our feet. Yonder, in the shadow between the palace and the gray prison on the right, is the "Bridge of Sighs." Surely, you merit your name. How many poor prisoners, having just been sentenced, have not from you sighed farewell to light and life.

A Venetian air is heard over the waters. It comes from a man-of-war lying at anchor in the harbor. The melody is full of longing, almost melancholy, as it sounds through the still night. A gondolaman has caught the strain and joins in the chorus. There is a peculiar charm in these Venetian airs which is only to be understood by hearing them sung on the sea and lagoons at Venice.

Venice, thou ancient and singular city! It really makes one's heart ache to see thee, thou once so powerful and gay, now so poor and insignificant a city! On the old palaces, the streets, everywhere, is to be seen the traces of past glory; mournful relics of a once blooming municipality which now has to live from the strangers who visit it.

Still, in her decay Venice is full of charms. She still deserves her name, "The bride of the sea." Grown up out of the sea, she still bears traces of her, origin. Of Venice, as well as of her citizen one can justly say they are amphibious. The city is built on hundreds of islands, and is cut through in every direction by as many lagoons. Through these channels the life of Venice pulsates from early morn till late at night. In Venice one does not hear the rumbling noise of vehicles. During my stay in Venice I saw only a single horse, and that was on the stage.

Venice is a combination of land and water, and the observant visitor will soon see that originally the land must have been the lesser of these two constituents. The place for building was, therefore, naturally very limited. It therefore became necessary to build the houses high and closely together. Saving of every foot of earth, they left no more space for streets than necessary to afford a passage and to separate the rows of houses.

One can scarcely conceive how crowded everything is without having seen it. In most places one can measure the width of the street with outstretched arms.

ACCIDENT. Clarence Marland, while running an elevator in Boston, Tuesday, caught his leg in such a way as to receive quite a painful injury. He was discovered in time to prevent more serious results.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NEW USE FOR BICYCLES.

Morning Rides Will Cure Hay Fever, Says Mr. Solomon.

Bicycle riding will positively cure hay fever, according to the statement of S. Solomon, a man well known in the wheeling world, who claims to have made this remarkable discovery. Mr. Solomon is not a manufacturer of bicycles and he does not say that one make of wheel is better than another as a remedy for this annoying disease. Any bicycle that can be ridden will do, from the lowest priced machine to the high grade wheel, so Mr. Solomon says, and he appears to be in earnest about it.

"For 17 years I suffered from hay fever," he began in true patent medicine ad. fashion, speaking of his discovery, "and I can tell you 17 years is a long time. I bought enough so called cures to stock a chemist's shop, just as thousands of others have done. I joined the Hay Fever club, too, and spent a great deal of time in the mountains—the only place where even slight relief was to be found. I bought a wheel two years ago, but did very little riding until last season. I found out that the fever did not annoy me much as I rode along, but this year I find that bicycle riding has cured me completely. I usually ride about two hours a day in the early morning. Any sufferer from hay fever who will follow this plan is sure to find relief in a few days and a positive cure in a reasonable time. At least a dozen men of my acquaintance have been cured in this way."

Mr. Solomon is preparing a paper on this subject, which he will read before the Massachusetts Medical society next month.—New York World.

MARS WILL BE STUDIED.

Important Astronomical Expedition Leaves Chicago For Mexico.

The principals in an astronomical expedition which men of science say is the most important one planned for more than half a century have left Chicago for Flagstaff, A. T., to go eventually to Mexico. The gentlemen carried with them the best lens in the world, those of the Lick telescope and the unfinished Yerkes telescope excepted.

Under the favorable atmospheric and climatic conditions to be found in Arizona and Mexico, the best known to astronomers on this continent, they expect to add to the history of the planet Mars and make the most systematic survey ever attempted of the sidereal systems which whirl through space around the southern hemisphere.

Percival Lowell of Boston heads the expedition. He will make observations on Mars. Dr. T. J. See of the University of Chicago goes along to study the stars, particularly the double ones, and to make a complete survey of the southern heavens, an almost virgin field for the astronomer. Mr. Lowell will be assisted by A. E. Douglass, formerly of Harvard, and W. A. Coggeshall of Grand Rapids, Mich. D. A. Drew, formerly of the University of Chicago, will assist Dr. See.

Alvin G. Clark, the only surviving member of the old optical instrument making firm of Cambridge, Mass., goes to put a new 24 inch telescope in place and may remain some time with the expedition.

MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER HURT.

Wife of the Salvation Army Commander Struck by a Bicycle.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker, wife of the commander of the Salvation Army, was seriously injured in front of her home, in Orange, N. J., some time ago, and strenuous efforts have been made to keep the matter secret, but the facts have just leaked out.

Mrs. Tucker was in the street watching the efforts of a Salvation Army lassie to learn to ride a bicycle. The young woman managed to start the wheel down the street at a good pace, when she lost control of the machine, and it swerved, striking Mrs. Tucker squarely and knocking her down. She was unconscious when picked up and was carried into her house, where Dr. M. Herbert Simmonds was called.

He found that Mrs. Booth-Tucker's right wrist was broken, and that she had received a number of bad bruises and some internal injuries. With careful treatment, the patient's condition improved, but she is still very weak.

From Orphan Asylum to Fortune.

Thomas B. Watts, Jr., a young farmer living in the suburbs of Galveston, was notified by the attorneys of his uncle, Thomas B. Watts, Sr., of New York, now deceased for three years, that after a careful search they find him the nearest living heir to his uncle and that he will as a consequence come in possession of the Watts estate, aggregating $18,000,000. The lawyers also sent him transportation to New York. Young Watts was placed in an orphan asylum at the age of 8, ran away and has since hustled for himself. He has a mother and brother in Virginia, both of whom are deaf and dumb and are teachers in an asylum there.

Valuable Invention In Music.

Dr. S. A. Hageman of Cincinnati has applied for a patent on an invention which promises to create a sensation among musicians. It is a mechanism to be applied to the piano for the purpose of correcting false tones of the instrument, which have hitherto been regarded as a necessary evil. The invention makes the piano as true as the violin, and it accomplishes the result by a sort of mechanical fingering similar to the human fingering on the violin. Competent musicians say the problem has been successfully solved. The inventor is a half brother of the late Professor David Swing of Chicago.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—Colonel Waring has found that in New York, waste material valued at $700,000,000 is thrown away annually, and carried to the dumps. The waste that is going on in all cities and towns is immense. This, together with the great extravagance, in all classes, is enough to make the country poor.

—As the Boston Advertiser points out, the free-silver movement threatens to rob the savings bank depositors of the country of $900,000,000; but what do the free-silver men care for that? asks the Somerville Journal. Bank books are scarce with them.

—Dr. Samuel Filmore Bennett, author of "The Sweet By and By," is living the self-sacrificing life of a country doctor in Richmond, Wis., a little town of about 500 inhabitants. He served throughout the war as Lieutenant Bennett of the Fortieth Wisconsin Volunteers.

—Brother White of the News is getting wealthy and fleshy. He says he can get a full bag of peanuts for four cents in Mansfield, when they charge five in Boston.

—A young woman has been arrested in Hoboken who is liable to imprisonment for one hundred and twenty years. After that she will be eligible for the ballet.—Boston Home Journal.

—The Boston Standard, the organ of the A. P. A., has suspended publication. The paper was started in 1895, and since its first issue has been a losing investment. It did not receive the support which it was thought it would, and after struggling for a year yielded up the ghost.

—Hyde Park is making progress on a sewer system. The board of sewer commissioners have advertised for proposals. Percy M. Blake is the engineer.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

IN RUSSELL'S MEMORY.

His Life and Character Held Up as a Model For All People.

Was Truly Spoken of as the Old Bay State's Idol.

Tributes to His Worth Expressed at a Memorial Meeting at Sandwich.

Sandwich, Mass., July 27.—The life and character of the late ex-Governor William E. Russell was honored in the memorial meeting held here yesterday. That which was noble in his life was eulogized by Charles S. Hamlin, assistant secretary of the treasury, and an immense audience listened to his eloquent words. The Casino, where the memorial service was held, interiorly, had been garbed in sombre drapings, while, as a background to the speaker's platform was an American flag and an ivy wreath, which encircled a likeness of the dead governor. Among those seated with the speaker of the occasion were the selectmen of Bourne and Sandwich, and visitors from Boston and other cities.

The opening exercises were of a musical nature. The invocation was made by Rev. T. B. Flagg.

William L. Nye, as chairman, in introducing Mr. Hamlin, spoke of the fervency and nobility of the life of Mr. Russell, and how that life had grown into the hearts of the people, so that in his death every person of the commonwealth seemed to have lost one they loved.

Mr. Hamlin spoke of the difficulty in expressing in a short period of time the worth of the life and services of Mr. Russell, a life that was uprightness itself and services which were given unsparingly and sacrificingly to the people, the party and the country he loved. He spoke of the reception tendered to President Cleveland in this Casino four of five years ago, when the dearly departed—for he was dear to all, whatever our political views might be—stood in this very place, representing the commonwealth, and in glowing words, and with an eloquence which won admiration, welcomed the chief magistrate of our nation. It has been truly said, "He was an idol of the commonwealth."

Mr. Hamlin spoke of his personal relationship with Mr. Russell, and how he had been with him in defeat as well as in success, in each of which conditions he showed himself to be a remarkable man. Above all qualities manifested in his character, sincerity was the most pronounced. One trait was many times manifested, and that was his habit of never attempting to evade an expression of opinion, and freely showing by pronounced word his position on whatever subject was at issue.

"Every town and hamlet is now mourning the loss of a devoted son," said Mr. Hamlin. In closing, he emphasized the moral in Mr. Russell's life as being that no cause, if a thoroughly good one, is hopeless. When he found truth, he followed it earnestly and religiously. "If we follow as he followed, we shall be free from prejudice, and we can maintain our nation."

Rev. W. H. Wood made a brief address in a similiar line of thought. After remarks by T. B. Flagg, General C. H. Taylor was introduced. In his tribute to Mr. Russell, he said that not since the death of Governor Andrew had such a tribute of praise and love been paid as was shown since Governor Russell's death. Twenty-five years ago, the general said, the governor of our state had no strain socially upon him as at present, for then the governor went to one public event, where today the governor has 50 calls upon him.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, We, the citizens of Sandwich, desire to manifest our share in the general sorrow, therefore be it

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of his excellency, the late Governor W. E. Russell, nevertheless remembering, with consolation, that he brings not back his shield himself, yet he is borne upon it.

Resolved, That we here, and now, devote our best endeavors for the good of humanity, of our country and of the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Resolved, That these resolutions be forwarded to Mrs. Russell.

Bad Bicycle Mix-Up.

Malden, Mass., July 27.—Cyrus W. Coombs, a bicycle manufacturer, had just completed the construction of a tandem, and he and Harry Dutton, an employe, were out at 10 o'clock in the evening, trying it. On Commercial street they collided with James Kearnes, aged 17, and all three were thrown. The machines were wrecked, and the riders of the tandem were badly cut and bruised about their faces and heads. Kearnes landed on his head, and it is thought he is suffering from concussion of the brain. Beside these injuries, he sustained a fracture of the left knee and had his right shoulder dislocated. It is thought the chances for his recovery are slight.

Boy Kidnapped.

Fall River, Mass., July 27.—A strange case of kidnapping was reported to the police yesterday by James M. Manchester, a farmer at Tiverton, R. I. He says his 5-year-old boy, John Philip, was playing in the road, when three men drove alone in an open wagon. The boy's mother was running after him, and when the men saw her they picked the little fellow up and drove rapidly toward the city with him. His father gave chase to them, but lost all trace of them at Stafford road. A car conductor says he saw men, answering the description given, driving toward Flint Village, but the police cannot locate them here.

They Have Not Met.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 27.—The president, as is his usual custom on the Sabbath, remained at home yesterday. There were no callers. It has been reported by several seamen that the yacht Albatross, with Senator Hill on board, has been cruising off Marion. The senator has not landed at that place, however, nor has he visited President Cleveland.

For Revenge Only.

Haverhill, Mass., July 27.—Ex-Burgess McLuckie of Homestead, Pa., addressed the Central Labor union here yesterday in the interest of his crusade against the Carnegie company, against which he is endeavoring to secure an indictment, because of the defective armor plates put on United States vessels. He said he was not actuated by love of country, but was working against Carnegie for the sake of revenge. He incidentally stated that the workingmen of Homestead had 3,800 rifles, and that they were in the hands of men who knew how and were willing to use them if occasion required.

Beer at Bottom of It.

Waterbury, Conn., July 27.—The property of the officers of court Abraham Lincoln, Ancient Order of Foresters, has been attachhed for $5000 by 21 of the members, who have also attached $1000 of the funds of the court in the bank. It is alleged that the officers have mismanaged affairs, and failed to make a statement of the finances. The row is the outcome of a split in the court over the question as to whether or not beer should be served in the lodge room at meetings.

Merry-Go-Round Had a Rest.

Haverhill, Mass., July 27.—Affairs at the Pines, in Groveland, were much the same yesterday as on previous Sundays, despite the recent prosecutions for Sabbath breaking. There was the usual crowd, and the concert was given as usual, while the cafe was still open. The merry-go-round did not go round, as in the past, and that was about the only change.

Had a Close Shave.

Lynn, Mass., July 27.—The catboat Georgie, owned by Samuel Holden of the Lynn Yacht club, capsized off Sandy Point, Lynn harbor, yesterday afternoon. Six men, who were on board at the time, were thrown into the water. They clung to the bottom of the boat for 25 minutes, until released by Captain Allen of the steamer Canasatota.

Sought Death In Vain.

Burlington, Vt., July 27.—Domestic troubles caused Mrs. Bruno Riley of South Burlington to attempt suicide. She at first intended to allow a freight train to run over her, but on the approach of an officer she jumped 60 feet into the river, but she was rescued and taken to the hospital.

Chalifoux Would Accept.

Lowell, Mass., July 27.—There has been a suspicion here that Joseph L. Chalifoux was a candidate this year for some state office. It is now stated, on good authority, that he will accept the nomination for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, if it is tendered him.

Maine Hotel Burned.

Auburn, Me., July 27.—The Maine hotel was destroyed by fire last night. It was one of the oldest houses in this part of the state, and had been occupied as a hotel for nearly a century. The buildings were valued at from $12,000 to $15,000. Contents valued at $4500.

Broke Into Stores.

Greenfield, Mass., July 27.—John Corliss, aged 16 years, was arrested charged with breaking and entering the stores of Lowell & Fiske, Jacob Rist and Richard O'Hara. He obtained $26. He confesses to entering two of the stores.

MYSTERY OF THE DEEP

Partially Explained by Wreckage From the Clipper City of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 27.—Information just received from Stanley, Falkland Islands, under date of June 9, proves conclusively that the ship which foundered off that locality May 14 last, was the Philadelphia clipper, City of Philadelphia, and that Captain Johnson, his wife and family, one passenger and a crew, numbering in all 25 men, perished. The articles saved by the salvors have been described minutely, and have been recognized by the shippers as the identical goods shipped to San Francisco by the City of Philadelphia, which sailed from Sandy Hook early on the morning of Feb. 2.

The hope that rose from the report made several days ago by Captain Tulloch of the British ship Brenda, which had just reached 'Frisco, has given away to despair, and there can no longer be any doubt that the well known clipper met her end off the Falkland islands, over two months ago. Captain Tulloch reported sighting the City of Philadelphia, May 1, in lat. 57 south, long. 68 west, and this position, if correctly given, would place her well past the Falkland Islands. It seems almost impossible that she should have been driven back again. The general belief here yesterday was that the master of Brenda was mistaken in the ship, and that no further hopes can be had for the unfortunate clipper.

The news of last week, which led to the belief that she was safe, was the cause of general rejoicing, but now the friends of the captain have abandoned all hopes. Even the clothing of the female who drifted ashore from the wrecked ship is described by the wreckers in the Falkland islands, and while they claim the woman was about 18 years of age, it can be none other than the wife of Captain Johnson.

No loss within recent years has attracted such attention as the reported sinking and safety of this ship. Over a month ago, it will be remembered, that London speculators insured the City of Philadelphia at 90 guineas premium, and it may be depended upon that at this time there was in their possession almost conclusive proofs of her foundering, else such enormous figures would not have been paid for her reinsurance. Messrs. Hagar & Co., her owners, could not be seen yesterday, but they will, no doubt, give her up on learning of these conclusive proofs.

The City of Philadelphia was built in Bath, Me., in 1875, for the late Philip Fitzpatrick, who sold her several years ago. She was always regarded as a small craft, seaworthy and staunch in every respect.

Mistaken For a Burglar.

Chicago, July 27.—Daniel Shroyer, well known resident of Park Ridge, was shot and killed yesterday by his son-in-law, George K. Pottinger, a prominent Chicago real estate dealer, who mistook him for a burglar. Mr. Shroyer had been Pottinger's guest. Mr. Pottinger was aroused about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and took his revolver and started to investigate. He was about to enter the kitchen, when he saw the form of a man approaching, and he fired one shot. The bullet struck Mr. Shroyer in the groin, and he died in an hour. Mr. Pottinger is almost distracted, and his wife is prostrated.

Czar's Visits Doubtful.

Berlin, July 27.—The dates of the czar's proposed visits to the principal continental capitals, if, indeed, they have been fixed, are being kept very dark. Recent announcements have been made that his trip is becoming more uncertain daily, and nihilism seems to be the spectre which is standing in his majesty's way. All that is now known of his intention is that it is his purpose to visit Vienna, Berlin and probably Paris, but when the visits will take place it is impossible to say.

WE READ in a July number of The Nation that Quincy is the second banner town, or city, in having the smallest proportion of fiction taken from its shelves for distribution, Los Angelos, California, being first on the list. This is rather surprising, and may be partially due to the fact that our schools, clubs, church societies, etc., take many books of reference; or it may be that we have very zealous librarians who assist the boys and girls in selection of good books; but the fact remains and scores another for Quincy.

WE READ that in Albany, New York, which has an immense public library, books are sent out to hospital wards and engine houses, where always brave firemen are waiting at their posts. Waiting loses its tediousness with a good book, and the suggestion is a good one for some kind citizen to act upon. Mr. G. W. Morton's effort to have books and periodicals contributed to our City hospital proved a success. Who will take the LEDGER'S hint and make an effort to send entertaining reading to our engine stations for our firemen?

THE ADDITION of a number of windows on the smaller of the Codlington school houses is a good thing. There is not much light in short days. Two windows close together, replace single windows, and our children's eyes will be the gainers by this change.

Good News For Atlantic.

Long live Mr. H. H. Faxon, to set the church bells ringing in our city. Sunday the pastor of the Memorial Congregational Church, Atlantic, announced to the congregation, that Mr. Faxon had authorized the committee of that church and society to order, at his expense, of the Blake Bell Co., of Boston, such a bell as they desire for their church, the quality and tone to be of the best. The society will proceed at once to erect a tower at the front of the church to receive the same So it is anticipated that in a few weeks Atlantic will enjoy the music of its own church-bell, and Ward Six will answer back to the other wards of the city the greeting of the Sabbath morning. The people of the congregation received the announcement with great pleasure. The beautiful gift will answer a great need and do noble service in Atlantic. In due time suitable acknowledgement of it will be made. In the meanwhile, Mr. Faxon, all hands are up to say, I thank you.

Our Boys.

Is there any law that makes it a violation for small boys to smoke cigarettes?

A prominent physician says "it stunts both body and brain."

On Saturday three small boys with cigarettes sat on the wall on Granite street. Seeing a LEDGER reporter coming, they hid the cigarettes, as they thought, behind them.

Our boys need occupation in vacation. There is hardly room enough for them. They should not be allowed to smoke on our streets or at home.

ANNUAL DINNER.

Granite Manufacturers' Association of Quincy.

Saturday was the day designated for the annual dinner of the Granite Manufacturers of this city, and Hotel Nantasket the attractive place selected for the happy reunion.

Friday night it rained all night and Saturday morning it was wet and unattractive; the clouds were passing thick and fast and drops were falling; so much so, that many of the brave business men were in doubt, whether it would be wise to brave the storm and go to the beach, or stay at home.

But it began to brighten somewhat before the hour of leaving the square, and at 10.20 the time the cars left the City Hall, there were enough to fill two cars.

The Quincy and Boston Street railway company carried the party to East Weymouth; and from there to the beach they went in the electric cars of New York, New Haven and Hartford.

It took about forty minutes to go to East Weymouth, and twenty from there to the beach; but there was a wait at the East Weymouth depot of some twenty or more minutes; and it was about 12 o'clock when they arrived at the Nantasket, the most beautiful and attractive hotel on the beach.

In a few minutes after their arrival the dinner was ready, and when the company had filed in and taken their seats, it was found that there was a larger gathering than the association had ever had. Some had come by the steamers, others by the steam cars; and there was a large jolly gathering present. And as the members began to appreciate the excellent menu, served by the popular proprietor, Edward F. Sturgis, many jokes were cracked, and merriment followed. The menu:

Clam Chowder.

Steamed Clams.

Baked Stuffed Bluefish, Wine Sauce.
Fried Perch, Tartar Sauce.
Boiled Schrod, Maitre d'Hotel.

Two hours were delightfully spent at the tables, and when the solid granite men left the dining room with their jackets well filled, they found a clear sky and the blue old ocean before them. Many wandered along the beach, viewing the many schemes devised to draw away the dimes; while others enjoyed the merry-go-round, roller coaster, billiards, nine-pins, etc.

It proved to be an excellent time, and all returned to their homes much pleased with the outing.

First Church.

Large bunches of yellow tansy, so pungent and aromatic, were put before the pulpit yesterday. The solid color of these composite flowers, showed well with its graceful green, and with the pulpit for background, was a symphony in color. Rev. Mr. Butler gave a welcome theological sermon on Christ.

His able discourse, simple yet strong in the light that nineteen centuries have shed upon christianity, was one to be remembered. He said that the central facts of theology were not touched by dogma or superstition, that the space of eternity was not broad enough to hide from our eyes the light that still comes to us from the eyes that have shone on us and that we have lost awhile.

He told in strong tender words the stories of two of the saints in the great Roman Church. The little sister of the poor who saved the children committed to her care from a mad dog, by sacrificing herself, and of the brave Father Damien, whose memory all revere. Beautiful lines from Tennyson illustrated his subject.

Nature seems in a religious mood in midsummer, and during service the officers of peace repress outside disturbance, so that nowhere can better rest and more congenial elements for worship be found than in the Stone Temple, whose doors are open to all of whatever faith and whose creed is free as air and sunshine.

Large Liquor Seizure.

Chief of Police Hayden, accompanied by officers McKay, Ferguson, Canavan, George A. McKay and McAloon made a descent upon the premises of Frank Shatzel on Willard Street about 11.30 Saturday night. When the officers arrived they found a dance in progress and the party, all of whom were more or less intoxicated, having a high old times. They found four half barrels of wine under the cellar-stairs and three full quarter barrels and one quarter barrel half full of wine in an old unused well. Besides this the officers seized a quantity of empty bottles, tumblers, beer strainers, etc., all of which were safely lodged in the police station, although at one time the party gathered about the wagon and it looked at though there might be trouble. But the crowd lacked a leader which was all that saved some of them from broken heads and arrest, for the officers were all ready for trouble.

WILFUL ASSAULT.

Judge Humphrey has filed the following return of the inquest held by him to ascertain the cause of the death of Charles L. Henderson at Braintree, July 12, and for which William Card is now in the Dedham jail awaiting trial for manslaughter.

He finds "that Henderson came to his death by injuries wilfully and unlawfully inflicted upon him by William Card on July 10."

Continuing Judge Humphrey says "the testimony at the inquest showed that Card was employed as a farm hand by Henderson, and that the relations between Card and Mrs. Henderson to have been intimate, and Card's relation to Henderson as unfriendly."

That July 10, in the morning, after angry words, Card struck Henderson a severe blow in the face and broke his jaw. While down Card kicked him on the chest and side, fracturing two ribs, and this injury induced pneumonia, which resulted in death the second day after the assault."

WOLLASTON RACES.

The Muddy Streets Caused Several to Drop Out of Contest.

After much discussion as to the condition of the roads, the ten mile road bicycle race under the auspices of the young riders of Wollaston was called shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The course was three times over the following route, Beale street to Adams street, to Newport avenue, to the starting point.

There was a large crowd of spectators and plenty of enthusiasm at the starting line. Several practical prizes were put up.

There were sixteen entries for the race but owing to the bad condition of the roads but six started, and only four of these finished. Andrew Johnson captured the first prize, a pair of tires; W. J. Cornell, the first time prize, a new departure bell; Robert E. Jones, second time prize, a hair cut; and W. Prouty, fourth prize, a stick of graphite.

Dumb Animals.

Constable Furnald, agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, killed a horse Saturday owned by Timothy Mullen of Randolph. Mullen drove out from Boston a week ago and his horse gave out on Willard street, and was put in Mr. Trask's stable, where he was kept by orders of Constable Furnald, who notified Mullen to take him home if he wanted him, but he was forbidden to use him as he was played out. Last week Mullen came after the animal, but was only able to get as far as the Dr. Simond's farm, when he gave out again. The animal was turned into the pasture, where he was shot Saturday by order from the society.

Officer Furnald continues his good work for dumb animals.

A few days ago two small boys drove up early in the morning from Houghs Neck, with a skinny, lame horse that could hardly hold himself together.

On Sunday one, evidently tired horse, that had done duty all the week, staggered down there with eleven people in a wagon.

We almost need two officer Furnalds during Summer.

Strayed to Quincy.

Officer Murray found a young woman on Neponset bridge at midnight in an apparently demented condition and took her to the police station. She gave her name as Annie Higgins and said that she had been stopping with her uncle at South Boston.

She further said that they had tired of her, and as they intended to place her in an insane asylum she had resolved to do away with herself and not cause her uncle any more trouble. She said her uncle lived on Sixth street, South Boston, but refused to give the number, but said he was employed at the South Boston car shops.

She was taken to the Almshouse pending an investigation. This morning word was received that a young woman answering her description was missing from Newport.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Campaign Notes.

John V. Scollard of Braintree, the representative of the Quincy-Braintree district on the Democratic State Committee, voted in favor of endorsing the nominees and platform of the Chicago convention. The matter was deemed not within the jurisdiction of the State Committee, and the fight will be carried into the caucuses to be held in September.

The Democratic City Committee of Quincy is planning for a monster ratification meeting in Hancock hall at an early date. Hon. George Fred Williams will be invited to speak, and he will undoubtedly accept the invitation.

The matter of endorsement of Bryan and Sewall will soon come up in meeting of the City Committee and the prospective "bolters" will be given an opportunity to present their side of the case. If the committee should refuse to give its support to the nominees a club will be immediately formed to carry on the work of the campaign.

Mr. Frank A. Hobart of Braintree was in attendance at the meeting of the Bryan and Sewall enthusiasts, held in the Parker house, Boston, on Saturday. The meeting was held for the purpose of forming a campaign club and upon the temporary organization Mr. Hobart was elected a member of the general committee.

Mr. Burke of Weymouth, the Populist, is out with a challenge for a joint debate to any exponent of the gold idea, Representatives Flint, Wentworth, or ex-Representative Cook preferred.

Open Air Meeting.

The evangelistic meeting held by the Y. M. C. A., Sunday, at the junction of Hancock and Washington streets, was one of the best, so far as interest was concerned, of any of the outdoor meetings yet held. After a short but effective talk by Rev. A. A. Brown, a testimony meeting was held, a number participating. During and after the meeting a number of the members of the Association were busy distributing button tracts to cyclists and others who stopped to listen to the speakers.

As is customary, a prayer service was held in the rooms previous to the regular service.

This evening the committee will meet at 7 o'clock to plan for further meetings. It is proposed to secure the best gospel speakers available.

These meetings are evangelistic in character, and already there is evidence that good is resulting from them.

Winslow Declines Democratic Nomination For Governor of Maine.

Too Much Difference of Opinion In the Party.

Cannot Harmonize With Both Go'd and Silver Under Any Circumstances.

Portland, Me., July 27.—The following letters were made public last night by Hon. E. B. Winslow, the Democratic nominee for governor. They are self-explanatory:

Portland, Me., July 24.

Hon. Edward B. Winslow, Portland, Me:

Dear Sir—The pleasant duty has been assigned us of formally announcing to you that the Democratic state convention, which met in Portland on the 17th inst., made unanimous choice of you as its candidate for governor, to be voted for at the approaching state election.

We are well aware that this honor was unsought by you, and that your unblemished character, your well-known reputation for integrity and fair dealing, the signal ability displayed by you in the conduct of the large business operations, your activity and enterprise in all matters of a public nature, as well as your loyalty to Democratic principles, attracted the attention of the delegates to the convention and caused them to feel that in you they would have a candidate well worthy of the suffrages of the people and who, if elected, would discharge the duties of the high office of chief executive of the state with the same ability and success which have marked your honorable business life.

We confidently assure you that you will receive the loyal support of the Democratic party of Maine, and urge you to accept the nomination which it has unanimously tendered you. Respectfully yours,

Charles F. Johnson,
S. C. Gordon,
John W. Deering.

Portland, Me., July 23.

To Hon. Charles F. Johnson, Hon. S. C. Gordon, Hon. John W. Deering:

Gentlemen—Your letter of June 24, informing me of the action of the Democratic state convention held in Portland on June 17, which made me the unanimous choice of the convention as candidate for governor, to be voted for at the approaching election, was duly received, and in reply would say, while I deeply feel the honor conferred upon me, and am profoundly grateful to the Democrats of Maine for the confidence they placed in me in placing me in nomination as their standard bearer, I deferred answering this letter until after the national convention held at Chicago, July 17. I regret very much the complications which have arisen and which will make it impossible for me to see my way clear to accept this nomination so kindly extended to me.

The platform adopted by the state convention, which has declared for a single gold standard, is plain, and it was upon that platform that I was nominated, and I could not, even had I so desired, accept this nomination under any other circumstances than to stand firmly upon the platform made by the Democratic party of Maine. The Democratic national convention adopted a platform declaring for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and there was a strong pressure brought to bear to have me announce myself in favor of the national convention, which I did not consider was right to do in accepting the nomination as it was tendered to me by the state convention. There have been many expressions on the part of the Democrats of Maine in regard to my duty, but it has been plain to me at all times that there was but one thing for me to do, and that was to stand firmly by the Maine platform.

Since the Democratic national convention it has been thought advisable to hold some meetings of conference with the members of the state committee and the leading members of the Democratic party, that full and free expressions might be obtained, and it was plainly shown that a wide difference of opinion existed, and many of the Democrats of Maine thought it my duty to come forward and endorse the Democratic national platform. I have given no expressions up to the present time as to what I should do, but have given the matter a great deal of thought and study and see but one thing for me to do, and stand, as I wish to, with the people of Maine, and that is to decline the nomination so kindly tenderd me, and I assure you that no one regrets this more than I do.

I wish to return my thanks for the many warm congratulations from my friends throughout the state, and had harmony existed in the party it would have been a great pleasure to me to accept the nomination. It is very evident from the free expressions of opinion that if I wish to secure the vote of the Democratic party I shall be obliged to harmonize with both gold and silver platforms, and that I cannot do under any circumstances. There is but one thing for me to do, and that is to thank you, and through you the Democrats of Maine, for the high honor conferred upon me, and most respectfully decline the nomination. Yours very truly,

Edward B. Winslow.

The Colorado Flood.

Denver, July 27.—The terrible effects of the cloudburst in Clear Creek canyon, above Golden, last Friday, are still coming to light. Last night four more bodies were found among debris several miles below Golden. There is also a report of eight men, employed in a Denver brewery, who passed through Golden a few hours before the storm, en route to Idaho Springs, for an outing. They have not since been heard from. Colonel H. C. Merriam, commandant of the United States troops at Fort Logan, has detailed 100 of his men to assist in searching the wreckage for bodies.

Spain Is Hard Pressed.

Madrid, July 27.—It is stated that the government has paid the enormous price of £700,000 each for the two war vessels recently bought at Genoa, while a contract has just been given for two torpedo boat destroyers at £60,000 ($300,000), which was dearer than the tender of a first class English firm, on the ground that quicker delivery would be secured. Nothing short of a panic can explain such extravagance.

Murderous Work Goes On.

London, July 27.—London papers publish details of the massacre, in the vicinity of Van on June 15, of thousands of Armenians. It is stated that over 40 villages were destroyed, and that every male person more than 8 years of age has been killed. On account of this last massacre of the Armenians, societies interested in relief work in Aisa Minor have appealed once more to the public for additional funds.

HOUGHS NECK.

Sunday was an ideal day at the beach and thousands enjoyed it at Houghs Neck.

Thomas Butler & Co., the owners of the steamer Old Colony informed the DAILY LEDGER that the large boat will be fired tomorrow or Wednesday. There is yet considerable to be taken out of the boat, and it may be impossible to get it out today. It is the largest vessel to be burned at Nut Island, and many will doubtless like to witness the application of the torch.

During the heavy blow on Friday morning the jib and mainsail yacht Gleaner, which was moored to the Quincy Yacht club's big float, dragged the stern anchor, swung around on the tender float and stove a large hole in her planking. The Moondyne also had a narrow escape from getting smashed up.

The annual illumination at Winthrop beach will take place Labor day.

Dropped the Anchor.

The "rocking chair fleet" at the Quincy Yacht club's house had a good joke to talk over Saturday evening.

It seems that during the Hull Yacht club's open race on Saturday afternoon the wind fagged out when the second class boats got down near Jack-knife, and in order to prevent drifting out of the course it was necessary to anchor for a few minutes.

On some of the yachts it is not customary to have the line bent on to the anchor. It is that way on the Swirl.

Henry Faxon, with his usual good judgment, knew exactly when he wanted to let go, so, without making any preliminary talk, he said:

"Mac, drop that anchor overboard!

"All right," said the Braintree lad, as he made a grab at the anchor, minus the line, and, without a moment's hesitation hove it with a herculean effort to the bottom of Weymouth Fore river.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

The influence of women upon the civilization of the world, could never be measured.

Because of her, thrones have been established and destroyed. The flash of her eye, the touch of her hand, and we have the marvellous power of women, glorious in the possession of perfect physical health.

Lydia E. Pinkham, by her wonderful discovery of the "Vegetable Compound," has done much to place this great power in the hands of women.

She has lifted thousands and thousands out of the misery brought by displacement of the womb, and all the evils that follow diseases of the uterus.

The "Vegetable Compound" restores natural cheerfulness, destroys despondency, cures backache, strengthens the muscles, restores the womb to its normal condition, and you are changed from a physical wreck to the joy of your home and friends.

By the way—the leading druggists tell us that the demand for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply beyond their power of understanding, and what is best of all, it does the work and cures where the best physicians utterly fail.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

POPULISTS FINISH UP.

Nominated Bryan For President Notwithstanding Expressed Objections.

Doubt as to Whether the Nebraskan Will Accept.

What Leading Men In the Convention Have to Say About It.

St. Louis, July 27.—Almost all the delegates to the national Populist and Silver conventions, which met in this city last week, have left for their homes, and nobody remains except a few of the leaders of both parties. A majority of the delegates went out on Saturday night's trains and others at various times yesterday. Among those who are still here are ex-Chairman Taubeneck and ex-Secretary Turner of the Populist national executive committee, who will remain long enough to close up the headquarters and transact whatever business they may have in regard to convention matters with the Business Men's league. Chairman Butler and Secretary Edgerton, the new officers of the Populist national committee, appointed last week, and a majority of the members of the committee are still at the Lindell hotel. They held a meeting yesterday, but did little else than talk over the situation. Last night a statement was issued over the signature of Chairman Butler, outlining the policy of the party.

William J. Bryan was, on Saturday, made the standard bearer of the Populist party by a vote of 1042 to 321. The Democratic candidate was nominated in the face of his own protest, in the shape of a telegram directing the withdrawal of his name, sent to Senator Jones; sent after Sewall, his running mate, had been ditched for the vice presidential nomination, and Thomas E. Watson of Georgia had been named for second place on the ticket. It was also made in the teeth of an opposition so bitter that after the convention adjourned some radicals held "rump" conventions.

As to the future, all is problematical. None of the wiseacres pretend to predict with certainty what the result will be. Whether a fusion can be arranged, or upon what basis, is of course speculated upon. Whether Bryan will decline the nomination is canvassed. The shrewdest of the political observers, and those who are most anxious for a union of the silver forces, can see this result only in the withdrawal of one of the vice presidential candidates. There has been, for some days, talk of Sewall's voluntary withdrawal, but after the stand Mr. Bryan and Senator Jones have taken this is not considered probable. It is strongly intimated that Watson may be induced to withdraw in the interest of such a union. It should be said, however, that this is intimated by those who wish it most. By conferring upon the national Populist committee plenary powers, those who are so earnestly striving for actual consolidation of the strength of the silver forces created the machinery by which any sort of terms can be arranged. But what will happen, the future alone can discuss.

Governor Stone, member of the Democratic national committee for Missouri, and the man who brought Bryan's second telegram to the Populist convention, says: "The result of the Populist convention ensures the election of William J. Bryan for president. It is certainly remarkable that a man should be nominated by three conventions, and the man who gets three nominations ought to be able to secure one election. It is plainly evident that there is a great popular uprising of the people in favor of Mr. Bryan. I would have preferred that the Populist convention should have endorsed or nominated the whole Democratic ticket, as it would have greatly simplified matters in the coming campaign. I have no intention of abandoning any part of the Democratic ticket or the Democratic platform. I have no doubt that before the campaign is far advanced there will be an adjustment of the interests of the parties representing the people, which will make defeat impossible."

At the conclusion of a statement written for the press, Ignatius Donnelly said: "If the Democrats do not withdraw Mr. Sewall, there will be no election of vice president at the ballot box, and the matter will go into the United States senate, where the Populists hold the balance of power, and will compel the election of Mr. Watson."

General J. B. Weaver, in a signed statement, said: "We are living in the midst of political miracles. Who could have anticipated such a prodigious change in the sentiments of the people as has taken place since the action of the Chicago convention. It is unprecedented. The century is destined to close with a tremendous triumph of the people over the plutocracy of the world."

Permanent Chairman Allen, in a signed statement, said: "There is not the least doubt of the election of William J. Bryan as president. His nomination in the face of a published declination of the nomination, receiving more than 1000 votes of the people's chosen representatives, shows the force of the great reform movement that is sweeping over the country. Mr. Bryan is a gentleman, a man of the people, and will not spurn or scorn the nomination which was such a compliment to him. The people of the United States have taken charge of the politics of the nation, and no man can stand in the way. The inevitable tide of progress will sweep all opposition. The people seize the means to accomplish their ends. Mr. Bryan has been seized by the people of the country, who are pressing forward the greatest cause of a quarter of a century. There will be no bolt from the convention. There are malcontents in every party, and men in every convention who are dissatisfied. The nomination of Mr. Bryan was the will of the people."

"Cyclone" Davis, in a signed statement, said: "There were two People's plans of union started in with here at the beginning. Mr. Taubeneck, the national chairman, and I were considered the founders of the plan which contemplated a straight ticket on a straight Populist platform, and then provided for a union of the electors. The other was considered the plan of Mr. Rankin of Indiana, the treasurer of our committee, and Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina. It contemplated the nomination of Bryan for president and a straight Populist for vice president. This would throw the responsibility on the Democrats either to withdraw Sewall or to be responsible for the division of the electors through the country. We left our opportunity in the defeat of our candidate for chairman. The plan was to nominate Burkett of Mississippi or Donnelly of Minnesota for temporary chairman, but at a caucus one evening, without my presence and without Donnelly or Burkett being present, nominated Campion of Maine for president. Having no personal following, he could not nearly poll the "Middle of the Road" vote, as against Senator Allen. The election of Allen as permanent chairman demoralized our forces, and gave considerable accretion to the opposition. Our flank movement was then to accept Allen, to make our fight for the nomination of a vice president and adopt the Butler and Rankin plan. We reversed the rule reported by the committee on rules, and adopted the plan of nominating the vice president first. We did so with the result as now made, that is: Bryan for president and Watson for vice president. If Sewall is withdrawn and the campaign is centered with Bryan and Watson as representatives of the issues, I believe there will be a wave of enthusiasm within a few weeks, and the south and west will be completely united and the wave will then move east, and by election day will round up on the Alleghanies and eastern seaboard with something like 6,000,000 votes."

A "Straight Tip."

Chicago, July 27.—Among those who returned from St. Louis here, was a gentleman who saw and read the suppressed dispatch from Mr. Bryan to Senator Jones, chairman of the national Democratic committee. He possessed a fairly good memory, and gives the following as the substance of the document about which there was so much talk and excitement during the last day of the Populist convention. What is subjoined may be relied upon as being substantially correct:

"Considering all the circumstances and conditions, wired Mr. Bryan, I have concluded that the Populist convention should not consider my name for the presidency, but if it determines to nominate me, notwithstanding this declaration, that there may be no misunderstanding, I desire, in advance, to say that I shall not during the campaign discuss any other issues than those outlined in the Chicago platform. I desire above everything else to be instrumental in having enacted into the laws of the United States the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1, without awaiting the consent of any other country.

The Republican platform adopted at St. Louis asserts that the bimetallic system should be restored, but that the American people are helpless to bring about bimetallism for themselves until foreign nations are willing to assist. The American people cannot afford to surrender the right to legislate for themselves on all questions, and so long as the right is disputed, it surpasses all others in importance.

The Populist platform presents several new issues, to discuss which during this campaign will, in my judgment, endanger the success of our cause. I am not willing to be a party to anything which will divert attention from the money question. Nor am I willing to be placed in the attitude of securing help from other political organizations by sacrificing my associate upon the ticket. He is squarely upon the Chicago platform, as I am myself, and he defended the cause of bimetallism against much greater opposition than have the men of the west and south. I desire to be left free to support Sewall during the campaign.

"It is due to myself and the Populist convention that there should be the most outspoken frankness between us."

"To this dispatch," said the gentleman, "there was attached a postscript, asking that the statement be read to the convention before the balloting was commenced. The dispatch was not read, because of the objections of Senator Allen, chairman of the convention.

Kept Secret.

Lincoln, Neb., July 27.—Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, arrived from St. Louis yesterday. From 5 o'clock until 9 p. m., the chairman and Mr. Bryan were closeted in the latter's parlor. When they emerged, Mr. Bryan assured the press representatives, in waiting, that there was nothing to give out. "We have been discussing plans, but we have decided upon nothing that can be given to the public."

Still In the Race.

Bath, Me., July 27.—Regarding the Populist convention and the nomination of Mr. Watson, Mr. Sewall says he is the nominee of the Democratic party, and the action of the Populists will make no change in his plans.

One Succeeded, One Did Not.

Chicago, July 27.—About 8 o'clock Saturday evening two young men entered the jewelry store of C. M. Robertson, on North Clark street, and asked to be shown several articles of jewelry, which they endeavored to pocket. Mr. Robertson, however, got the drop on his visitors, and, locking the door, held them at bay until the police came. The men gave their names as James Robinson and Frank Harper. Robbery No. 2 was successfully carried out about an hour later, when the "Long" and the "Short" combination entered the grocery store of James O'Reilly, at 154 Morgan street, and while one man held a revolver under Mr. O'Reilly's nose and robbed him of his watch, the other grabbed $15 out of the money drawer, and both then escaped.

Austria Won't Have Him.

Washington, July 27.—No answer has as yet been received by the state department from Edward P. Thammond, United States consul at Buda-Pesth, who has been asked to resign. State department officials decline to discuss the statements that charges have been filed against the consul, but merely say that his resignation has been asked for because he "was not acceptable to the Austrian government." Friends have intervened in Mr. Hammond's behalf, but the department recognizes the right of foreign governments to insist on the withdrawal of officials who may be obnoxious to them.

Punished For Hazing.

West Point, N. Y., July 27.—For the offense of hazing a "plebe," the court-martial which tried Cadet Rand a few days ago has imposed the severe punishment of confinement to his quarters for a year and loss of all privileges during that time. The cadets strongly disapprove of the sentence.

PLANS OF POPULISTS.

Provisional Committee Appointed by "Middle-of-the-Road" Men.

Democrats of the Empire State In a Quandary.

Interesting Bits of Political Gossip Gathered From Many Sources.

St. Louis, July 28.—The "Middle of the Road" delegates to the Populist convention have appointed a "provisional national committee" to decide upon the future action of the Populists, in case Mr. Bryan should not accept the nomination tendered him, or endorse the platform adopted by the convention. Henry L. Call of New York city, until recently of Kansas, delegate-at-large from the state of New York to the People's party national convention, and a prominent "Middle of the Road" Populist, has been appointed chairman of this provisional committee. He said last night, that in order to be in readiness to act in such a contingency, the following letter has been addressed to delegates in each state:

"Please furnish me the names and addresses of all prominent Populists in your state opposed to the nomination of William J. Bryan. Also keep me advised of sentiments of the party and of any steps taken or decision reached toward independent political action."

This letter was sent out in pursuance of a motion adopted by the temporary organization of the dissenting delegations of the convention. The resolution follows:

"That the committee heretofore appointed to ascertain the decision of William J. Bryan, relative to his acceptance of the nomination for President of the United States, tendered him by the Populist party in convention assembled, and, further, to ascertain his willingness to endorse the platform adopted by said party in said convention, be required to report within 10 days.

The provisional national committee, consisting of one member from each state, shall be appointed by the chairman of this meeting, which committee shall receive the report of the aforesaid committee, and shall thereafter confer with each other and with the delegations from the various states relative to what further action shall be taken. That each member of said committee shall be ex-officio chairman for his state of this temporary organization."

Among the speakers who will take the stump for the Populist ticket will be Senator Butler and ex-Chairman Taubeneck, Eugene V. Debs of Terre Haute, Ind.; Robert Schilling of Milwaukee, Senator Allen of Nebraska, Senator Peffer of Kansas, Governor Llewelling of Kansas, Mrs. Mary E. Lease of Kansas, Mrs. Roberts of Georgia and many others, including Coxey and Carl Browne. The currency will be the chief question, and the women who will be sent out will make that their special point of attack.

EMPIRE STATE DEMOCRATS

Not Quite Certain What Will Be Done at the State Convention.

New York, July 28.—The Democratic state convention will be held at Saratoga on Sept. 17—that is the consensus of opinion here with at least two-thirds of all the state committeemen here to attend the meeting of the state committee.

It is also asserted by leaders that the attitude of the Democracy of New York concerning Bryan and Sewall will not be mentioned. It is argued that they never have heretofore taken any action as to the endorsement of a national ticket. In 1892, no mention of the ticket was made in the committee, the matter being left for the state convention. The committee will simply meet, name the date and place for holding the convention and adjourn. The matter of declaring the attitude of New York state on national issues will therefore be left to the state convention. Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, the national committeeman from this state, predicts that the state convention will put itself in the curious position of endorsing the candidates of the Chicago convention and reaffirming the platform of the last state convention, which was unequivocally for gold. Just what sort of a condition this will put the state Democracy in, Mr. Sheehan is not prepared to say. Mr. Sheehan claims that he does not know anything about the printed statement that he is to be retired from the national committee, because of inactivity in the cause of Bryan and Sewall. Contrary to expectations, Senator Hill is in the city. He declines, however, to talk about the action of either the state committee or the state convention on national subjects.

Wants to Act For Himself.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—Mr. Bryan last night made the following authoritative statement: "Mr. Bryan received a number of telegrams during the day containing suggestions in regard to the action of the Populist convention. He has replied to all that he will act with deliberation, and that nothing will be done which can be justly criticised by those who are interested in the success of bimetallism. He begs all friends of the cause in all parties to refrain from harsh criticism of those who, however much they may differ, agree in desiring the immediate restoration of free coinage. He feels sure that a solution of all difficulties will be found in due time, and that the solution will be honorable to all parties, as well as satisfactory."

Voters Looking For Facts.

Washington, July 28.—At both Republican and Democratic congressional campaign headquarters there is an unprecedented demand for campaign literature. Singularly enough, the requests for gold standard literature come largely from the doubtful middle-western states, while on the other hand, the greatest interest is shown in silver literature in such of the eastern states as are believed to be reliably Republican. This is especially true of New York, Pennsylvania and New England.

Silver Men Shut Out.

Chicago, July 28.—One of the political developments of the day is that, so far as Illinois is concerned, the Silver party convention recently held in St. Louis might just as well not have been held. Under the Illinois election laws, the silver electors cannot get on the ticket. Having never been tried at the polls, the ticket cannot be recognized as entitled to the privileges of having its convention nominees go on the official ballot. The electors cannot go on by petition, as the men they would name are already on through the action of the convention, and, under the election laws, a man cannot get on the official ballot by convention and by petition also. This practically stops the Silver people in the states where the Australian ballot system prevails.

Waiting For Hanna.

New York, July 28.—Mark A. Hanna has started from Cleveland, and as soon as he arrives here he will receive a call from ex-Senator Frederick S. Gibbs, who will place at his disposal the New York Republican machine. Mr. Hanna comes to select the New York national headquarters and map out the plan of campaign in the east. He will meet Joseph H. Manley, W. M. Osborne, Matthew S. Quay, Powell Clayton, and probably most of the eastern members of the national committee. Mr. Hanna, some time ago, engaged rooms in the Waldorf, and these quarters are ready for him. A large bundle of letters and telegrams has accumulate for him.

Watson Not a Factor.

Washington, July 28.—Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans in this city regard Tom Watson, the Populist candidate for the vice presidency, as a factor to be seriously considered in the pending fight. At the headquarters of both the congressional committees the Watson boom fell flat, and it is believed that the Georgian will not know that he is in the race when the votes are counted next November.

On Silver Lines.

Bath, Me., July 28.—Arthur Sewall, in an interview on the prospects of another Democratic state convention, says there will be another convention, and it will pass resolutions endorsing the Chicago platform. As to another gubernatorial candidate, to take Mr. Winslow's place, Mr. Sewall has nothing to say.

Havoc In the Rockies.

Denver, July 28.—As a sequel to the series of cloudbursts, there is a new and serious trouble confronting the people. It will take a month, or even more, for the railroads reaching several of the most important mining camps to make sufficient repairs to enable the running of trains. All of these camps depend on Denver for their daily supply of provisions, and the local merchants keep no reserve stocks. General depopulation of the towns, and a suspension of mining operations, until such time as the railroads are able to care for the requirements of the residents, is not improbable.

Big Shipyards Wiped Out.

Belfast, July 28.—The great shipbuilding yards of Harland & Wolff in this city were the scene of an extensive conflagration yesterday. The yards cover an area of nearly 80 acres. The firm employed upward of 8000 hands, and the compulsory idleness of a large number of them will cause much inconvenience, if not suffering, among their families. A conservative estimate of the loss is $1,250,000.

Two Fishermen Rescued.

Quarantine, S. I., July 28.—The Kidy brothers, Alfred and William, arrived here on the steamer Georgia, from Stettin, which on July 22 picked them up in a dory. The brothers belonged to the fishing schooner G. H. Ernest of Lunenberg, N. S., and lost their vessel during a fog. For nearly two days they were without food, and with but little water.

Want Old Wages.

Weymouth, Mass., July 28.—Thirty-six stitchers of the shoe manufacturing firm of H. B. Reed & Co., most of whom are women, struck yesterday, because of a reduction in wages. The strikers claim that the prices paid are lower than any factory here. They say they will stay out until the firm agrees to restore the old rate of wages.

To Strengthen African Possessions.

London, July 28.—The Uganda railway bill passed its second reading in the house of commons yesterday by a vote of 239 to 66, after Mr. Curzon had urged that if Great Britain did not make a railway to the Victoria Nyanza, Germany would do so.

New York Bonds Go Begging.

New York, July 28.—Comptroller Fitch opened bids yesterday for the purchase of $400,000 city bonds. Only $121,000 of the $400,000 offered were bid for. The bonds were all 3½ per cent.

Chinamen Taking It Easy.

Boston, July 28.—Twenty-two Chinamen, of all ages, have just left Boston for a year's trip to their native land. They are all representative business men of Chinatown, and are merely going for a vacation. They are for the most part the men who came here years ago and started the laundry business. Almost without exception the laundries are owned by this "trust," who let them to the men people see working at all hours of the day and night.

THE MATABELE REVOLT

Much More Serious Than British Officials Are Willing to Admit.

Additional Imperial Forces Needed In Rhodesia.

Subscriptions Being Raised In London to Help Restore Peace.

Cape Town, July 28.—Intelligence received from Buluwayo is that the Matabeles are again massing around that place. The situation seems no better than it was last April, when Buluwayo was practically besieged for weeks, and it was only possible to keep open the line of communication and possible retreat to Mafeking in the south by hard service and constant watchfulness on the part of the forces in Buluwayo. Upon the arrival at Buluwayo of Earl Grey, who succeeded Dr. Jameson, he calmed apprehension by his reports that all danger was over, and that the reenforcements there and on the way from Mafeking were ample to cope with the situation. The arrival at Buluwayo of General Carrington, who had been ordered from Gibraltar to take charge of the imperial forces in South Africa, afforded a still greater feeling of assurance that the Matabele revolt would be speedily crushed.

Various operations, some of them reported as highly successful, have been conducted against the insurgent natives, but they were apparently ineffectual in stamping out the disaffection. The news received yesterday of Captain Nicholson's positive reverse in the Matoppo hills, and the withdrawal or retreat of his forces, deepens dissatisfaction with the state of affairs in Rhodesia. Captain Nicholson is remaining at Buluwayo in order to guard the laager, and pickets around the town have had to be largely increased, owing to the massing of hostile natives in the neighborhood.

A telegram from Gwelo says that Major Hurrell left there on July 12, to join the force at Fort Victoria. He had a sharp engagement with the enemy at Belingwe, which lasted for four hours. Three of his troopers were killed, and Major Hurrell afterward joined the forces of Fort Victoria, and proceeded from there toward Ndema's kraal. Heavy firing has since been heard, but the result of the engagement was not known when the telegram was sent.

News from Rhodesia renews the suggestion for the dispatch of additional imperial forces to assist against the Matabeles. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has shown himself loth to agree to this step, it is believed on political grounds, owing to the jealous fears certain to be aroused in the Transvaal. These would not be lessened if the imperial re-enforcements were to be sent at this time, by the fact that Cecil Rhodes is on the ground, and with practically a free hand.

Interested Parties to Contribute.

London, July 28.—One of the Chartered South Africa company's subsidiary companies yesterday voted £5000 ($25,000) to assist the Chartered South Africa company in suppressing the Matabele revolt. This subsidiary company also resolved to ask the other companies to join in raising £150,000 ($750,000) for the purpose. The press correspondents at Buluwayo, in their dispatches this morning, complain that the authorities are hushing up the details of the recent fights, which are said to be not so favorable to the British forces as the reports allowed to be sent indicate. These correspondents assert that persons arriving at Buluwayo from the front report that the Matabele rebels manifest extreme confidence and display great arrogance, jeering at the whites and calling them cowards.

Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

At this season, large numbers of people go to the cemetery, generally carrying flowers. To go there simply to study mural architecture is an education. Among all the monuments of our fine granite, so various in design, a single shaft of white, at the grave of Israel W. Munroe stands prominent. Delicate carving is upon it, the base forms a fitting support and it is noticeably beautiful in purity and simplicity.

As one enters and turn a little to the left several paths terminate in a wide space with a bed of flowers. Diagonally to the main path is a large lot rather triangular, a low broad sarcophagus open in the middle part, arrests one's eyes. The longer one stands the more its perfect symmetry and beauty of outline grow. It is made of Amherst, N. H., granite that is capable of very fine work. At the corners are polished lines, graceful in outlines. A polished cross is cut on the open ball. The letters of the name Holden are of graceful shape. A fine base of Quincy granite gives dignity to this beautiful piece placed at the grave of an old citizen. Dr. Holmes said, "Partial culture leads to the ornate, extreme culture to simplicity," and nowhere in our cemetery is this better exemplified than in this monument so simple and so chaste in form and ornamentation.

Yacht Sphinx Measurement.

The much mooted measurement dispute relative to the Sphinx of Quincy, owned by Arthur Keith, was settled Monday by the executive committee of the Yacht racing association of Massachusetts.

The committee's session, the third one held to discuss the matter of the Sphinx' measurements, was at Young's, L. M. Clark presiding.

The decision reached was that the official measurer's figures be sustained. It was determined however, to disqualify the yacht in the South Boston and Columbia club races of July 1 and 3. In all other races in which she has competed the measurement were sustained.—Globe.

MONDAY'S HEARING.

Street Railway Rights to be Investigated.

Shall the Turnouts on Hancock Street Be Ordered Up?

Other Sections in the Order for the Council Hearing.

An important hearing has been advertised to be held next Monday evening by the City Council, relative to certain locations now held by the Quincy and Boston street railway.

In the rebuilding of the Quincy Point line the company, which had been refused locations for turnouts on Washington street, took the liberty to put in spurs, both at Edwards street and North street. The order before the City Council asks the company to show cause why said spurs should not be removed.

The company has also put in recently two turnouts on Hancock street that it might run cars every fifteen minutes between Quincy and Neponset. One is near the entrance to Merry Mount park and the other north of Squantum street near the Church of Sacred Heart. The company claims the right to put in these turnouts under the original grant from the Selectmen of the town, which is a broad one containing a clause, that said company "may put in all necessary turnouts, etc." This the company construe to mean for all time, but others differ and the City Solicitor is in a quandary, and had not given an opinion a week ago.

To meet the contingency, in case the City Solicitor decides the company had the right to put in the turnouts, there was inserted in the order for the hearing this clause: "And further to show cause why so much of the location of said Quincy and Boston Street Railway company in the streets of said city of Quincy as enables said Company to put in sidings, turnouts, spur tracks or turn-tables, other than those already in, shall be revoked."

The City Council should not allow any corporation to "run the city," and it is entitled to respect. Neither should the City Council stand in the way of progress and the development of the city. A street railway is a great developer, and in general the city government has pursued a liberal policy toward the local company. Valuable franchises have been freely given, and in general have not been abused. The city as a whole has been developed and the valuation increased, but the taxpayers have been put to some direct expenses for street widenings and improvements, and others are demanded, largely because of street railway location.

Of late, both in 1895 and this year, the City Council has apparently blocked the advance of street railway improvements. The company contemplated the reconstruction of the Houghs Neck line at a cost of about $10,000, but because of the failure of the City Council to grant certain petitions, work has been delayed. If the company had been allowed to put in turnouts, cars would now be running every fifteen minutes, and making surer connections with trains of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

President Graham of the Quincy & Boston company is said to have had a conference with Mayor Adams before the turnouts were put in on Hancock street. The clause in the original grant was then discussed, and pending an opinion from the City Solicitor, the Mayor allowed the turnouts to be put in. With the understanding, however, that they should be taken up within 24 hours if the decision was adverse.

Public necessity and convenience now seem to demand that the turnouts remain, that cars may be run every fifteen minutes.

President Graham stated at the hearing that through cars would be run from Neponset to Braintree, and East Milton to Quincy Point, for one fare, if the company was allowed to put in a double track on Hancock street or more turnouts. The city should not object to the benefit this would confer.

The street railway should be careful, however, not to arrogate power or attempt to run the city. It should anticipate its wants, impress upon the Council the necessity of prompt action when occasion requires, and not put in tracks which it never intends to use. When it means business the Council will generally do the proper thing.

HOUGHS NECK.

The steamer Old Colony which is being torn to pieces at Nut island was to have been set afire this morning at ten o'clock, but up to 1.30 the torch had not been applied, and chances are that she will not be fired today unless the wind changes, as the smoke would be blown ashore and would make it unpleasant if not dangerous for the cottagers at Houghs Neck.

White Mountain Resorts.

Picturesque and fascinating scenery and inviting retreats together with numerous other attractions have placed the White Mountains in an eminent position as a summer outing place. The natural embellishments which surround every locality in northern New Hampshire are marvelously beautiful, and the advantages which are at hand for visiting and viewing this display of scenic grandeur are unsurpassed.

The lines of the vast Boston & Maine system encircle the White Mountains in such a complete manner, that every point of interest in the entire section is reached several times each day by the various express trains which leave Boston at convenient hours.

The hotel accommodations at all White Mountain resorts are fully equal to the best Metropolitan Hostelries, and the cusine is of the very best.

During the summer season, the Boston & Maine railroad places on sale at principal stations, excursion tickets to all seashore, lake and mountain resorts, of which you can learn a great deal through the medium of an excursion book which is issued by this company, and which is sent free upon application to its general passenger department, Boston.

Charles Hall of Quincy Point entered Mollie June in the last class, and won the first heat in a class of ten, but in the next three was 3, 4 and 5. Saxon won the second and third heat and Etta L. the fourth. The time in the first heat was 2.20¼, and in the other heats 2.20¼, 2.30 and 2.28¼.

It seems good to see Quincy granite entering into the construction of the business blocks of the city. The O. T. Rogers Company already has on the spot several pieces for the new Savings bank building, and some of them are beauties. It is more appropriate than the Ohio sand stone in the adjoining block. If Quincy people have not public pride enough to use Quincy granite, they cannot expect other cities to do it.

THE BETHANY.

The New Name of the Evangelical Congregational Church.

Recently Incorporated and the Charter Just Received.

The Benefits of Incorporation—New By-Laws, Etc.

A change in one of our center churches of general public interest and of considerable importance to itself has taken place. For some time the Evangelical Congregational church has been considering the advantages of incorporation.

The anomoly of the two headed organization—church and parish—was realized. Hitherto the church has had no legal standing, the parish held all the property and the major part of the church members had no voice in directing the financial affairs and in the custody of the property.

Taking advantage of the new law on incorporation the church has successfully and harmoniously reorganized in accordance with the provisions of the law and have received their charter. The church can now hold property and doubtless very soon the parish will convey to it all the property. The parish as a separate organization will then cease to exist and the work it is now doing will be merged in the church. All the new churches of the Congregational order are now thus organized.

The advantages of the change are obvious. The business affairs of the church must necessarily be conducted in a business-like way. The financial, moral and spiritual responsibilities, as well as the privileges, are now placed where they naturally belong, in the hands of the individual church member.

The creed of the church remains unchanged and her relation to it is in no wise affected. A new code of by-laws has been adopted, according to the provisions of the law, and made necessary by the growth of the church, the increasing members, and the more diversified activities. The changes are not radical but rather in the way of expansion, system and unity.

The desire for a more distinctive name resulted in the choice of Bethany. The board of deacons have been increased from four to six. The custody of the property is placed in the hands of a special committee; two new committees have been created, finance and music. The annual meeting has been changed from April to January thus obviating the necessity of two statistical and financial reports of the various organizations. The whole work is carefully systemized and will greatly facilitate the purpose and aims of the church.

THE CONCORD TROUBLE.

New England Granite Co. Concedes Measurement and Pay.

The People and Patriot of Concord, N. H., had the following resume yesterday of the granite trouble in that city:

The differences between the Concord branch of the Granite Cutters' National union and the New England Granite Co., have been amicably adjusted and the men returned to work this morning.

The trouble arose over a question as to how a certain class of work should be measured for payment. The stones in question were what are known as pier stones and are cut with notches or "rabbits." The men claimed that under the terms of the bill of prices the stones should be measured their entire length, and that $14.99 should be allowed in payment for each; while on the other hand Superintendent Craig contended that the stone should be measured between the notches and that only $12.24 should be allowed in payment.

The trouble was precipitated by the suspension of a cutter who refused to handle one of the stones after notice had been given the office that no more of the stones would be taken up until the differences had been adjusted.

This act was looked upon by the men as a suspension of the entire force in direct violations of the agreement entered into between the union and company which provides that in case of differences there shall be no strike, lockout or suspension pending a settlement.

Friday morning the men, by vote of the Union, remained away from the sheds and efforts were made to effect a settlement but without result, the offer of the company to arbitrate the matter of price being refused.

Saturday morning, at a meeting of the Union another committee was appointed to confer with Supt. Craig. The conference was held in the afternoon, and at an adjourned meeting of the Union, held at 5 P. M., the committee rendered its report, which was adopted.

The outcome of the trouble is that the company concedes the demands of the men both as to measurement and pay for the class of work in question.

Identity Unknown.

The girl found on Neponset bridge Sunday night by Officer Murray is still at the Almshouse. She absolutely refuses to give her right name or where her home is but says that if they will release her she will take the cars and go home. After some persuasion she agreed to allow another party to accompany her to her home and Inspector McKay will probably be her escort this afternoon. The girl is evidently not well and she gives as her reason for not divulging her name and her friends that she does not wish to cause them any more trouble.

Lawn Party.

Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., held a very enjoyable lawn party Monday evening on the grounds of Mr. George Crane on Washington street. The spacious estate were brilliantly illuminated with hundreds of Chinese lanterns and as the party was attended by nearly two hundred the whole formed a very pretty picture. A good sized dancing board had been built on the lawn and here the young people enjoyed dancing, while in the parlors of the house those who desired passed the hours at cards. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were for sale during the evening, and as stated above the affair was very enjoyable.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ANARCHISTS IN EVIDENCE.

Created a Riot Because Labor Socialists Wanted to Expel Them.

London, July 28.—The fourth international Socialist Trades congress opened here yesterday, 800 delegates from all parts of Europe and the United States, Australia and the Argentine republic being present.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Cowey, a Northumberland miner, who made a speech welcoming the foreign delegates. Upon its conclusion the delegates rose and cheered, and then sang the "Marseillaise," in which the audience joined. The report of the sectional meeting was read. A large majority of the delegates voted against the admission of anarchists when the question of whether they should be received as delegates was mooted in the plenary congress. These anarchists, who were present with their credentials as trades unionists, insisted upon the right of speaking. The English and German delegates warmly opposed their being allowed to air their views on any subject before the congress, and clamored for an immediate vote on the question of their expulsion.

A prolonged uproar followed, the anarchists and their supporters being apparently determined that they should be received as delegates. Finally the anarchists tried to storm the platform, and then occurred a most disgraceful scene. Their opponents rallied in front of the platform and hurled the anarchists in a fisticuff encounter. The delegates of the British Independent Labor party sided with the anarchists in their efforts to command recognition. James K. Hardie, who formerly represented the Labor party in the house of commons, was conspicuous for his personal threats against the chairman. It having been found impossible to restore even a semblance of order, the chairman declared the congress adjourned until today, and ordered the hall to be cleared.

the supreme court for $16,953, based upon a claim for services rendered in transforming Mrs. Leslie Carter from a society beauty into an actress. The ground of appeal is that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and excessive.

The Castle Island Disaster.

Boston, July 28.—Judge Fallon, in his inquest finding on the drowning accident, wherein four children lost their lives at Castle Island, holds William E. Sheldon, the lessee of the float, principally responsible for the loss of life by the capsizing of the float, as Sheldon knew the float was unsafe and did nothing to remedy the defect. The court also holds the city of Boston partially responsible, while the historical society, which had charge of the celebration, does not escape the censure of the court.

Crowd of Shipwrecked Fishermen.

St. John's, N. F., July 28.—Twenty-one Frenchmen, belonging to the schooner Annie Marie of St. Pierre, which was run down by the schooner Pacifique on Thursday last, and sank within an hour, arrived here on the schooner Effie. The Pacifique held on her course, heedless of the cries for help from the sinking vessel. The Annie Marie's crew took to their boats, and were saved by the Effie. The schooner Bonus yesterday brought in 15 other Frenchmen, the crew of the schooner Elted, which foundered on the banks. No lives were lost. There are 77 shipwrecked bank fishermen at this port.

Turkish Troops Hard Pressed.

London, July 28.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from its Athens correspondent, reporting that the fighting has been renewed in the vicinity of Retimo, in the Island of Crete, and that the insurgents have been successful in their encounters with the Turkish troops. The latter are hard pressed, and have telegraphed to Canea for re-enforcements.

The Van Massacre Victims.

Constantinople, July 28.—Miss Kimball, an eye witness of the massacre which occurred at Van last month, estimates the number of killed at 500. Ten thousand persons, she says, were rendered homeless and destitute, and were furnished protection at the American mission. Fifteen thousand took refuge under the British flag, and remained for several days.

The Plant Strike.

Lynn, Mass., July 28.—Union pickets at the Plant works, yesterday, intercepted five Armenians on their way to the factory. The situation was explained them, with the result that all consented to return to Boston. Twenty-nine Italians, who arrived yesterday, were shipped off to New York. At a meeting last night a general strike was ordered.

Wanted Child Wife.

Marysville, Kan., July 28.—John Salvage, a young farmer, shot and killed the 13-year-old daughter of David Hafman, and then killed himself, near Afton. The girl's parents had forbidden her to accept the attentions of Salvage. The murderer left a letter saying he could not live without the child.

Death-Dealing Cyclone.

Pittsburg, July 28.—A wind and rain storm of unusual fierceness visited this section last night, causing the loss of three lives and doing immense damage to property. Several dwellings were completely demolished and others partially wrecked. Eight or 10 churches had their roofs blown off and otherwise damaged. Telegraph, telephone and electric light poles were swept away, mixing the wires in an inextricable mass in the streets, making travel in many sections of the city impossible. Lightning and high wind accompanied the storm. It is estimated that $100,000 will hardly cover the loss in this locality alone. In Allegheny, 12 people were struck by lightning. They are in the hospital, and considerd by the physicians to be in a critical condition.

NEURALGIA

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

Everybody's Garden.

All along the wayside is everybody's garden;
There the wild rose blossoms through the summer days:
Bounded by field fences and ever stretching onward,
It is God's own garden. For it give him praise.
'Tis gay with goldenrod,
There blooming grasses nod,
And sunflowers small and yellow turn ever to the sun;
Quaint darky heads are there,
And daisies wild and fair,
In everybody's garden each flower's the loveliest one!

All along the wayside is everybody's garden.
Come out and gather posies; the very air is sweet.
Come out, with hearts of gladness, ye big and little children,
Into our Father's garden, made for our strolling feet.
The flitting butterfly,
The fragrant winds that sigh,
The tiny clouds that hover above us in the blue,
The bird's song high and clear
Make heaven draw more near.
In everybody's garden the world once more is new!

—William Zachary Gladwin in Independent.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Past Week Has Been Warm With an Abundance of Moisture.

Reports From All Sections Are Encouraging.

Grain, Fruit, Vegetables and Berries Being Pushed Rapidly Along.

Boston, July 28.—The United States agricultural bureau, New England section, issues the following bulletin:

The weather in New England for the week ending July 27 has been warm, with plenty of moisture for all crops. The rainfall during the week was from one to two inches throughout our district. In the north there was much sunshine, and haying has been pushed, but in the south it was cloudy and little hay was cured. Pastures are improving and all crops are growing fast.

Correspondents pronounce the weather for the week in Maine to have been just right, and say that all crops are growing well. It has been warm and wet. Rather "catchy" for haying, but that work has been pushed along, and in southern counties the crop is nearly secured; the quality is very good. Potatoes are bottoming well, and those that are in the market are large and of good quality. Corn is excellent and growing well. Grain is growing very rank and is beginning to ripen. Oats are rusting slightly in Oxford county. Pastures are good. Raspberries are dropping considerably. Blackberries are very good. A number of correspondents say apples continue to fall badly.

There has been plenty of rain and sunshine in New Hampshire, and all crops are pushed ahead fast. Pastures are showing considerable improvement. The best of the hay crop is generally secured, and is in fairly good condition. There is a good deal of meadow land yet to be cut. Spring grain crops are all heavy. Many fields of oats are being cut for fodder. Corn is growing fast. The rain has put the potato crop beyond injury from drought in most places. Potatoes are being dug for the table in southern counties. Blueberries continue very abundant and fine. Blackberries are growing fast and beginning to ripen. The high wind of Thursday whipped off some apples, but the outlook for the crop is excellent. Many newly set strawberry beds are being ruined by the white grubs.

The rain of the 25th did not reach northwestern Vermont, but that of the 20th and 21st was heavy all over the state, and all crops have taken a new lease of life. Haying is being pushed fast, and many farmers have finished. Winter rye now being cut is of excellent quality. Oats and barley are doing finely, and there is prospect of more than an average crop. Apples show up unevenly, but most orchards are well loaded. Small fruits are fine. The army worm has reached Hartland, Windsor county, and farmers are cutting grain, to save it from the pest.

The continued warm weather, and short but frequent rains, has been favorable for all growing crops and for grass roots in Massachusetts, but has delayed haying. The second crop has a good start and promises well. The high winds on the 16th broke down and lodged considerable corn and grain and injured apple trees in the Connecticut valley. In some sections only the surplus apples were whipped off, but in others trees were badly broken. Early potatoes are of good quality, but not yielding well generally. One correspondent in Barnstable county reports that "few potatoes and one pint of grub worms was secured from 22 hills of potatoes." Corn is growing very fast. Pastures are generally in fine condition. Early apples are in the market. Tobacco looks well, and much has been topped.

There is considerable overripe grass standing in Rhode Island, and some hay was injured by the rains of the week. The muggy weather has been favorable for fungus diseases; potatoes are considerably affected. Beans have been spotted badly in central counties also. Corn is growing well. Grain is a good crop. Potatoes, early sweet corn, onions, late peas and string and shell beans are being marketed. The army worm is still doing damage.

It has been too cloudy and wet in Connecticut for curing hay, and the grass that is standing is getting overripe. Cabbage setting and turnip sowing has taken the place of haying. Many fields of grain are ready to be cut, but weather will not permit. Grain is very good. Corn is growing unusually fast. Potatoes are ripening, with few signs of blight and with a good crop promised. In western Connecticut the huckleberry crop is pronounced the largest for years. Blackberries are very plenty, and are ripening. The army worm is very destructive locally. They are especially thick in parts of Litchfield county.

Lewiston's Sensation.

Lewiston, Me., July 28.—The city government has appointed an investigating committee to look into what looks now to be most important to the people of Androscoggin county. The order, as presented, alleges, without giving any names, that moneys have been paid to the deputy sheriffs of the county for empty liquor vessels seized within the limits of the city, and that these moneys ought to have been paid into the city treasury. Lively developments are looked for. Those who were instrumental in having the order introduced say that they have abundant proof to substantiate all charges made. In 2½ years the deputies have turned into the city treasury the sum of $1250 for receipts from the sale of empty liquor vessels. It is claimed that it can be conclusively shown that the amount actually received was much more.

He then laid down in front of a freight train, but was saved in time. He broke away from two men who rescued him and again dove into the mud. He was again rescued and conducted toward his home. Again breaking away, he ran in front of a freight train, but was saved with a whole skin. By this time a crowd of volunteers undertook to get him home, and after a struggle he was safely housed. He was apparently crazed by liquor.

Reverse For Spaniards.

Habana, July 28.—An important engagement has been fought between General Linares and the insurgent forces under Calixto Garcia, in which the Spanish losses are admittedly heavy.

Many a man would defend his money with his life, and many a man does this very thing without knowing it. There are thousands of men who decline to defend their lives with their money. They are so intent on money-getting that they forget their health. The health cannot be trifled with. The body resents neglect. Little disorders become big ones if they are allowed to run on. The man whose digestion is poor, pretty soon finds that he is losing flesh. He doesn't weigh as much as he did. He doesn't realize that he is losing vitality; that he is losing strength; that he is losing capacity for work; and that even his brain must of necessity become weaker, if it is not nourished. Loss of flesh means that the whole body is going to wreck. It is fatally easy to run downhill. A man keeps going faster and faster as he goes down. When health begins to leak out, it leaks very fast. The time to stop it is right away. The way to stop it is by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the greatest tonic and invigorator that was ever prepared. It is the discovery of a practicing physician, eminent and successful in his profession, the head of one of the greatest medical institutions in the world, The Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. It is an almost infallible cure for consumption, and for all the minor troubles that lead to consumption, chief among these are emaciation and general, bodily debility. The "Discovery" purifies and enriches the blood, invigorates the nerves, stimulates digestion, brings back a healthy appetite, healthy sleep, and a healthy, natural action of all the organs of the body. Druggists sell it.

Every man, woman and child in the United States ought to have access to a copy of Dr. Pierce's great work, the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." The book consists of 1008 pages, and is a complete medical library in one volume. Every one may have a copy, paper-covered, absolutely free, if he will send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay for the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y. If a handsome, durable French cloth binding is desired, send ten cents additional (thirty-one cents in all).

A THREAT FULFILLED.

George Young Takes the Life of Mrs. Godfrey at Portland.

He Then Fires a Bullet Into His Own Brain.

Double Tragedy In Low Life Which Was Prompted by Jealousy.

Portland, Me., July 29.—George Young shot and instantly killed a woman named Nellie Godfrey, of whom he was jealous, yesterday afternoon. He then placed the revolver against his right temple and killed himself. Mrs. Godfrey has borne an unenviable reputation in this city as the keeper of a house of ill-repute. For a number of years Young has lived with her. He was formerly a hackman, but lately has been out of work, and has been supported by Mrs. Godfrey. On Monday night the police raided Mrs. Godfrey's house, and she promised to leave the city if she was not arrested. She was given an opportunity to leave town. Young told the police at that time that he had been kicked out of the house to give place to a man named Johnson, and he meant to get square with Mrs. Godfrey for it. The woman was evidently afraid of Young, and kept out of his way until yesterday afternoon, when he gained entrance to the house, 164 Federal street, and went to Mrs. Godfrey's room. The neighbors heard loud voices, followed by a woman's scream, "Don't George, for God's sake!" Her cry was followed by two pistol shots in rapid succession, and a moment later there was another shot.

An old woman name Rose White lived in the house with Mrs. Godfrey. She heard the shots, and unbolted the door for a police officer, who rushed in, to find Mrs. Godfrey only partially dressed lying on the floor of her room, with two bullet holes in her head. She was dead. Young lay with his head under a table, and was just breathing when help arrived. A revolver, with three empty chambers clutched in his right hand, was still pressed against his forehead.

Mrs. Godfrey was a very handsome woman, about 30 years old. Young was 10 years older, and has a wife living in Standish, who separated from him several years ago. Mrs. Godfrey's husband is also living, but his whereabouts are unknown. Young is said to have walked the streets all Monday night looking for Johnson, who he had threatened to shoot on sight. Mrs. Godfrey had one child, a girl, about 10 years old, who survives her.

Battelle For Governor.

Montpelier, Vt., July 29.—The Populist state convention was called to order at Capitol hall here yesterday, about 25 delegates being present in mass convention. A. T. Bowen of Dorset was selected as temporary chairman. Chairman Bowen made a short address, scoring people who possessed wealth. Miles E. Baker of Burlington made a few remarks, stating that free silver was necessary to save the country. A. J. Beebe of Swanton took occasion to score all press associations. At this point the organization was made permanent. The chairman made a second speech, denouncing the money barons. Miles E. Baker of Burlington spoke again on the money question. The platform declares for the free coinage of silver, and endorses the St. Louis platform.

The ticket nominated is as follows: Joseph Battelle of Middlebury for governor; William Dexter, Sheffield, lieutenant governor; Daniel Sallies, Montpelier, treasurer; Abel T. Way, Burlington, secretary of state; Columbus L. Clough, Waterbury, auditor; for presidential electors, O. C. Wilder, Waitsfield, W. S. Curtis, Randolph, Samuel McAllister, Stowe; for member of congress, First district, A. L. Bowen, Dorset; Second district, T. J. Aldrich, Wheelock.

It is thought his total stealings amounted to $800. He was allowed to settle, paying $350 saved from stealings and deposited in Norwich, and a gold watch. He came to Norwich with City Sheriff Hills and got the money, which he sent back, he remaining there. Shame was the cause of the suicide. He was unmarried, and lived beyond his small salary.

It was set forth that the husband deserted his wife in New Salem in 1888. The testimony also showed that libellant, by general reports, was worth from $40,000 to $70,000. Will Spend Terms In Prison Without Labor.

Last Chapter of Famous Raid Knocked All Romance Out of It.

London, July 29.—The attendance at the trial of Dr. Jameson and his associates was never so large as yesterday, and the greatest interest was manifested in the proceedings. The opening part of Lord Russell's summing up, however, and his two hours' recapitulation of the evidence was tiresome, and even Dr. Jameson and the other defendants showed at times a lack of interest in the proceedings. Sir Edward Clarke, however, frowned frequently at Lord Russell's emphasis against the prisoner. As for the jury, composed, with two exceptions, of elderly men, there was no doubting that they were fatigued. The ladies, of whom there were a great number in the courtroom, fanned themselves wearily, while trying to catch a glimpse of the defendants. The latter, while the jury was out, retired to the tearoom, where they held a reception.

The jury, after having retired about 4:30, returned about 5:24, and the defendants were summoned to take their places. The judges came in five minutes later, and the jurymen gave an affirmative answer to all the questions which had been propounded to them by the chief justice, but they added a rider to the effect that the disturbances at Johannesburg were provocative.

Lord Russell then directed that their answers were equivalent to a verdict of guilty. The foreman said that they were not unanimous upon the point of the prisoners' guilt, but Lord Russell repeated that the answers of the jurymen to the questions propounded were equivalent to a verdict of guilty against all the defendants. The jury then consulted together for about three minutes, and afterward rendered a verdict of guilty.

Dr. Jameson and his codefendants were apparently unmoved. Edward Clarke asked the court's disposition to move for a new trial. The judges afterward retired for consulation, and during their absence Mr. Clarke and the defendants consulted together. When the judges returned, Mr. Clarke said that, in view of the verdict rendered, the defendants refused to instruct for a new trial, and expressed a desire to settle the case now.

In passing sentence, Lord Russell said that the verdict was given on evidence which no reasonable man would be able to disregard. All the defendants, he added, were men of position and intelligence, holding positions under the queen, and their crime had the gravest consequences, including death to some and injury to others. Continuing, Lord Russell said that although they all took part in the raid, the court must distinguish between them in the punishment awarded for their guilt. He then pronounced sentence upon the prisoners. Dr. Jameson was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment, without labor; Major John Willoughby was sentenced to 10 months' imprisonment; Major R. White, seven months' imprisonment, and Captain Henry F. Coventry (a son of Earl Coventry), Colonel R. Grey and Colonel H. F. White were sentenced to five months' imprisonment.

Dr. Jameson, who had hitherto hung his head, looked up proudly when the sentence had been passed, and the other defendants stared hard at the lord chief justice.

Very soon after the sentence formalities had been completed, the wardens of Holloway prison appeared, and took up positions on each side of the prisoners. This was the bitterest moment of all for the raiders, as up to that time they had been treated with the greatest courtesy, and had in fact been made heroes of, to a certain degree. But, when the elbows of the prison wardens touched those of the aristocratic freebooters, they seemed to realize that the strong arm of the law had knocked all the romance out of the Transvaal fiasco, and that, come what may, in the shape of easy treatment in prison, they were convicts in the eyes of the law and society, to say nothing of the military authorities, who, it is believed, must now take action looking to depriving such of the prisoners as are officers of their commission in the British army.

Then was enacted the last chapter trial of the raiders. The court was ordered to be cleared, and the audience filed slowly out. The prisoners were escorted to Holloway prison, and so ended the trial of the Transvaal raiders.

There was absolutely no demonstration in the courtroom when the prisoners were taken away, or outside of it, when they were escorted to jail.

The sentences imposed upon Dr. Jameson and his companions were very generally discussed in the lobbies of parliament. Contrary to the feeling manifested by the fair spectators, and the sympathizing friends in the courtroom, the sentences were lighter than were expected by men in parliament. It is recognized, however, that the sentences are more serious for the military prisoners than the mere term fixed for their imprisonment, since it is expected that they will be cashiered.

The Missing Girl.

Maggie, alias Annie Higgins the young girl found on Neponset bridge Sunday night by Officer Murray, was accompanied to the home of her friends in South Boston Tuesday afternoon by Inspector McKay. Her relatives were very much surprised to learn of the circumstances of the case, as they supposed that she was at work in Somerville. Her relatives, who appeared to be very pleasant and respectable people, said that they had noticed that Maggie had not appeared just right but thought nothing of it. She was at their house Sunday and when she left in the evening they supposed that she had started for Somerville, where she was at work.

Where to Go for Vacation.

Suggestive of green fields, bright with clover blossoms, are the covers of the handbook of Vermont and Lake Champlain vacation resorts for 1896, just issued by the passenger department of the Central Vermont railroad. As one scans the pages of bright descriptive text within, embellished with beautiful half-tone engravings, he can almost imagine himself in that glorious summer country, drinking in the fragrance of blossoming meadows and the health-giving breezes from the great green hills. Printed on the finest calandered paper, the book is indeed a gem of the printer's and illustrator's art and is an eloquent sermon in behalf of Vermont as the summer paradise of New England. In addition to the matter descriptive of the state and its many charms of scenery and climate the book gives a complete list of hotels and homes open to summer visitors at from $4 to $10 a week, railroad routes and rates and a vast amount of other information that every intending vacationist will find very helpful in deciding the question where to go. "Summer Homes" will be sent for a five-cent stamp on application to S. W. Cummings, G. P. A., Central Vermont railroad, St. Albans, Vt., or T. H. Hanley, 260 Washington street, Boston.

PRIVATE HEARING.

Brookline Would Steal a March Upon Norfolk County Towns.

A Preposterous Claim For Two Representatives.

County Commissioners Should Give a Public Hearing on Apportionment.

Representative citizens of the town of Brookline were before the county commissioners at Dedham, Tuesday, and were heard in the matter of the apportionment of the county's representatives to the General Court. The gentlemen present are said to have been unanimously in favor of the allotting of two representatives to Brookline.

If the County Commissioners were to give a hearing on Representative apportionment, why was it not a public one for all cities and towns in the county and not a private one to a few in the town of Brookline?

Brookline has no claim whatever upon two Representatives to the General Court, and it seems preposterous that she should make any movement.

Norfolk county has 26 towns upon which to apportion 13 representatives, and the division should be somewhat in favor of the small towns that they may occasionally have a resident Representative. Where five towns are now in one district as is the case with Needham, Dover, Medfield, Wellesley and Millis, a Representative seldom gets a reelection or if he does some towns do not get more than one Representative in ten or fifteen years.

The following summary shows the number of legal voters in each town, by districts, for 1885 and 1895. The last apportionment was made upon that of 1885 and the new one will be upon 1895:

	1895.	1885.
DISTRICT ONE.
Dedham,	1,702	1,437
Norwood,	1,133	747
DISTRICT TWO.
Brookline,	3,243	1,820
DISTRICT THREE.
Hyde Park,	2,772	1,824
DISTRICT FOUR.
Milton,	1,171	792
Canton,	1,096	980
DISTRICT FIVE.
Quincy,	4,325	2,673
Weymouth,	3,039	2,930
DISTRICT SIX.
Braintree,	1,331	1,008
Holbrook,	645	649
DISTRICT SEVEN.
Avon,	469	—
Randolph,	1,123	1,074
Sharon,	423	338
Stoughton,	1,333	1,376
Walpole,	715	586
DISTRICT EIGHT.
Bellingham,	323	241
Foxboro,	858	763
Franklin,	1,184	906
Medway,	818	746
Norfolk,	193	178
Wrentham,	700	661
DISTRICT NINE.
Dover,	169	165
Medfield,	447	381
Millis,	231	167
Needham,	763	603
Wellesley,	694	551

By the new apportionment about 2300 voters are required for one Representative. As at present arranged Districts 1, 2, 3 and 5 are too large, Districts, 4 and 9 about right, and Districts 6, 7 and 8 too small, as will be seen:

District No. 1,	2,835
District No. 2,	3,243
District No. 3,	2,772
District No. 4,	2,267
District No. 5,	7,364*
District No. 6,	1,976
District No. 7,	4,063†
District No. 8,	4,076†
District No. 9,	2,304

*Three Representatives.
†Two Representatives.

Quincy with 4,325 legal voters lacks very few of enough for two Representatives. It should have about 4,600. Certainly it is more entitled to two Representatives than is Brookline with 3,243 legal voters.

As stated above if Brookline insists upon being in a district by itself it should be content to have one Representative in justice to the small towns.

To be entitled to two Representatives another town of 1350 voters should be joined to Brookline. How would the rich towns of Milton and Brookline hitch up?

Brookline cannot receive two representatives without injuries to other towns. Quincy proposes to resist the movement in Brookline, which is based on estimates of the future rather than the present.

Welcome to Ancients.

Messrs. Tisdale, Kincaide and Durgin are expected to arrive at 6 A. M. Friday with the Ancients. If the boat is on time there will be a parade in Boston at 11 A. M., followed by a reception at Fanueil hall and a banquet at 1 o'clock. Should the boat be delayed until late Friday afternoon the welcome will be extended on Saturday.

THE TORCH APPLIED.

The Steamer Old Colony Made a Grand Blaze Last Night.

The immense hulk of the steamer Old Colony of the Fall River line went up in smoke at Nut Island, Tuesday night. It was the intention to fire the boat at 10 o'clock, Tuesday, but the wind was blowing toward the shore and it was postponed until shortly after 7 o'clock in the evening, when the match was applied, and for the balance of the evening the sky was brilliantly illuminated, and a magnificent spectacle it was to those at the shore to see the hulk slowly but surely crumble away as the fire crept upwards.

The Old Colony when built in New York in 1865 was the finest steamer of her time. She was 310 feet in length, 42 feet beam, and 14 feet depth of hole, while her tonage register was 1,958, gross 1,714 net.

All of the valuable machinery and fittings were taken out of her at Nut Island and when she was fired nothing but the wooden hulk remained to be burned for the old metal.

White Mountain Resorts.

Picturesque and fascinating scenery and inviting retreats together with numerous other attractions have placed the White Mountains in an eminent position as a summer outing place. The natural embellishments which surround every locality in northern New Hampshire are marvelously beautiful, and the advantages which are at hand for visiting and viewing this display of scenic grandeur are unsurpassed.

The lines of the vast Boston & Maine system encircle the White Mountains in such a complete manner, that every point of interest in the entire section is reached several times each day by the various express trains which leave Boston at convenient hours.

The hotel accommodations at all White Mountain resorts are fully equal to the best Metropolitan Hostelries, and the cusine is of the very best.

During the summer season, the Boston & Maine railroad places on sale at principal stations, excursion tickets to all seashore, lake and mountain resorts, of which you can learn a great deal through the medium of an excursion book which is issued by this company, and which is sent free upon application to its general passenger department, Boston.

BOSTON FIRM AHEAD

Government Carpet Contract Goes to John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

It is worthy of note that an important government contract—that of supplying carpets and carpet lining for the year ending June 30, 1897—has just been awarded to the old and well-known Boston house of John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

The contract involves the delivery to the treasury department of about 53,000 yards.

Messrs. Pray & Co. have had a similar contract with the government with practical continuity since 1885; and this year's award is but a renewed tribute to the sterling old firm's ability not only to furnish standard grades of goods but to name exceptionally low prices.—Boston Herald.

Receiver for Security Live Stock.

The insurance commissioner has brought a bill in equity in the superior court against the Security Live Stock Insurance Company, in which Quincy men are largely interested, and which has been managed by James P. Clare, praying that a receiver be appointed. The complainant alleges that the liabilities are in excess of the assets. The bill is returnable next Tuesday.

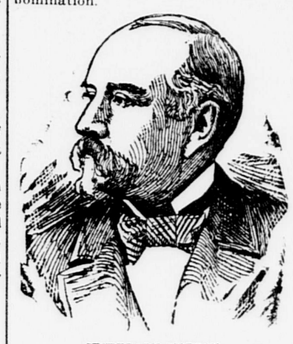
ANOTHER CANDIDATE.

Secretary Morton Said to Be Anxious to Enter Presidential Race.

Lincoln, Neb., July 29.—There is a well defined rumor afloat in this city that Nebraska will present another candidate for president. J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture, has been in Nebraska for a week or more. It had already reported that he was here to check the tendency of some of the Democratic federal office holders to gather about the Bryan free silver standard, but it has been generally reported in this city that he is here to pave a way to a presidential nomination.



SECRETARY MORTON.

As a result of Mr. Morton's visit to the state, the gold standard delegates will meet in conference in this city some day late this week, to fix a date for a state convention.

A Regular Deluge.

Anderson, Ind., July 29.—Successive cloudbursts, which have kept up with frightful regularity, have swollen streams out of their banks and are flooding cities and towns, and the situation in the Indiana gas belt is serious. Three deaths have been the result in this city. Frank Galloway, Andrew Hayworth and Benton Rose were struck by lightning last night, and killed. The dams and dykes along White and other rivers gave way last evening, and the water swept everything before it. People were rescued from second-story windows. The big dyke at Yorktown broke, letting the lake out. It came rushing down White river at a terrific speed, taking everything in its path. The cities of Frankton, Elwood and Alexandria are partly under water. The damage cannot yet be estimated.

Getting Into Union Line.

Pittsburg, July 29.—The Oliver's Tenth street iron mill, which has been non-union since 1892, yesterday signed the Amalgamated Puddlers' and Finishers' scale, and 450 men will be put to work tomorrow. The increase for puddlers will be 50 cents a day, from $4 to $4.50. Finishers will be increased in proportion. The Olivers' signature is considered as a big victory for the workmen. There are now only four remaining mills here not paying union wages. They are all expected to get into line within two weeks.

Wheelmen vs. Express Train.

Syracuse, July 29.—There were two races yesterday between the Sterns sextuplet and the Empire state express. The races were held along New York Central tracks, where a course had been specially prepared by the railroad company. On the outgoing trip the sextuplet led the express in a half-mile dash by three lengths. The express, which arrived in Syracuse at 3:50 p. m., defeated the sextuplet for a half mile, by several lengths. The sextuplet now wants a mile race.

Bermuda Changes Hands.

Philadelphia, July 29.—The famous filibustering schooner Bermuda was sold yesterday to J. W. Millard, a marine architect of New York. Captain John D. Hart, the managing owner of the Bermuda, said he understands that the steamship had been sold for $45,000, but only $10,000 of this amount had been paid down. The negotiations, he said, were in behalf of a syndicate headed by J. W. Millard. This syndicate is buying the Bermuda on the very same plan as the Horsa was bought.

After Outlaws.

Hennessey, O. T., July 29.—A number of deputies are still in pursuit of the outlaws who, on Monday, held up and robbed the stage near Lacre. It is stated that two of the registered letters taken from the mail sack were very valuable.

Burned Two Days.

Kingston, Jam., July 29.—A fire started in Port-au-Prince Wednesday last and burned until Friday. More than 100 houses were destroyed. The loss will reach at least $1,000,000.

HE SAVED HIS CHILD.

Builder Rankin's Thrilling Experience In a Mill Flume.

A dispatch published in the Brooklyn Times tells of the narrow escape from drowning of a little daughter of Mr. Rankin, a builder of Brooklyn, in a mill dam at Huntington, L. I. Mr. Rankin took his wife, daughter and a woman friend out rowing the other afternoon. The dispatch says:

"Unconscious of danger, Mr. Rankin allowed the boat to drift along directly toward the mill race. Mrs. Rankin heard the sound of the rushing water and remarked to her husband that there might be danger near at hand. He quieted her fears and took up the oars to row along faster, when the bow of the boat reached into the current which shot across the opening of the sluiceway. Instantly the boat was whirled about in a way that nearly upset it, and in spite of the efforts of Rankin to hold on to the corner of the stone wall the boat was drawn under the bridge toward the gates. Realizing that nothing could prevent the boat from being turned over when it struck the gates, Rankin told the others to seize hold of the gates and hold on.

"When the boat struck, it was upset and all were thrown into the water. Mr. Rankin and the ladies succeeded in catching hold of the gates, but the child missed and was swept out of sight. She had been carried under the gates.

"The distracted father was preparing to dive into the tideway to look for his child when he struck his foot against a moving object under the gates. He let go and was carried down. He found the girl held under water by her hair, which had caught in the woodwork of the gates. He seized hold of her braid and tore it loose, and the tide swept them out into the mill pond. Rankin is an expert swimmer, and after being carried out into the pond some distance he managed to get out of the tideway and brought the half drowned child to the shore. He then assisted the ladies to the bridge above the gates. They were nearly exhausted and could not have held on much longer."

A LONE HIGHWAYMAN.

A California Follower of the Notorious Black Bart.

A follower of Black Bart seems to be operating on the roads leading into the mining counties, and stage travel bids fair to become demoralized unless the bold highwayman is apprehended. He is starting out well, having successfully stopped two stages within a week.

The lone bandit stopped the stage en route from Sonora, five miles above Knight's Ferry, at about 4 o'clock in the morning. He stepped out from the side of the road, and, pointing a revolver at the driver, ordered him to throw out the mailbags and the Wells-Fargo box.

The driver was Andy Shine, a brother of the Shine who held the reins a week ago when the stage was stopped. The highwayman was bareheaded and disguised in the same manner as last time. Shine noticed similarity to the description of the first robber as he threw out the express box. The box rolled at the feet of the robber, and without taking his pistol off the driver he called for the mailbags, and this request was also complied with.

Shine, however, threw out only the way mail and not the Sonora pouch. It is thought that from the mail the highwayman secured a valuable registered letter from Jamestown. There were a number of registered letters in the Sonora mail. There was one passenger on the stage, and he was not asked to give up any of his valuables.

The bandit had the same black mask and black shirt that he wore on his last venture. When he appeared at the side of the stage, he attempted to imitate the Italian or Portuguese dialect, but it was evidently a disguise. He was not rough in his manner, but was nervous, although evidently determined.—San Francisco Chronicle.

FOUND A LOST CITY.

It Is In a Remote Section of Mexico and Is Well Preserved.

J. R. Reiley, an American archæologist, has been exploring a wild region of the Sierra Madre mountains, west of Jiminez, Mexico, during the past two months.

He has arrived at Jiminez, and claims to have discovered a prehistoric city, which, he states, must have had a population at one time of 200,000.

This ancient city is situated in a narrow valley between two high ranges of mountains. Nearly all the buildings are of brownstone and are in a state of almost perfect preservation.

The houses contain ornaments and utensils of peculiar design. Mr. Reiley brought back a large collection of them, which he will send to the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Mr. Reiley's home is in Boston, for which city he has started, to return in a few weeks with a party of archæologists, fully equipped to continue the explorations of the city and surrounding country.—New York Recorder.

New Sport For Penn.

With the commencement of the fall term of the University of Pennsylvania there will be added a new branch of sport to the already extensive department of athletics at that institution in the organization of a basket ball team. This game is already in vogue in many of the colleges, notably Yale, Princeton, Brown and others, and Pennsylvania in organizing a team will only be following in the line of the others. The project has already taken deep root among the students, many of whom are anxious both to play the game and support such a team, and it is thought that at the next meeting of the athletic association, which will be held on the first Tuesday in September, the appointment of a committee will be made and that the association will take charge of the project and authorize the organization of such a team.

Money Question Only.

Washington, July 29.—It is regarded as quite likely that the Democratic national committee will select Washington for their principal headquarters, and will have a branch in the west Senator Dubois of Idaho, it is expected, will be a member of the national executive committee, and will have charge of the western end of the campaign. It is not the intention of the Democratic managers to recognize any issue except the money question in the campaign. They will endeavor to keep that steadily to the front, and will put an immense force of speakers in the field. All the bolting Republican senators and representatives intend to take the stump.

LEVERING'S POSITION

On the Issues of the Campaign Soon to Be Inaugurated.

Accepts Honor Conferred by the Prohibitionists.

Speaks of Liquor Traffic, Currency and Maintenance of National Credit.

Baltimore, July 29.—The Prohibitionists' state convention met here yesterday, and chose presidential electors. At the Lyceum theater last night the notification committee appointed by the national Prohibition convention formally notified Joshua Levering of his nomination for the presidency. Mr. Levering in reply read his letter of acceptance, which was as follows:

Oliver W. Stewart, Chairman, and Gentlemen of the Committee:

It is with feelings of deep emotion that I stand in this presence this evening to accept the nomination for the presidency of the United States, which you tender me, on behalf of, and by the authority of, the national Prohibition convention, which recently assembled in the city of Pittsburg. I beg to express my sincere appreciation of the honor thus conferred, and to assure you that it is esteemed all the more highly because of the unanimity of action which marked the convention.

Such an honor is worthy the ambition of any citizen of this great nation, but, to my mind, it is to be doubly appreciated when tendered by the only political party which has had the courage to stand openly for the protection of the home, the womanhood and the childhood of our country against the terrible ravages and destruction of the legalized liquor traffic. The Prohibition party, conscious of the integrity of its motives and purposes, and firm in its belief that questions of a moral character should take precedence over those purely economical, has stood firm for a score or more of years against all the attacks of ridicule, misapprehension and abuse made against it; increasing in numbers and gaining gradually the esteem and confidence of those who are not willing, as yet, to be enrolled under its banner of "Protection to the Home."

During all these years it has steadily pursued its way in the educating of the people to the constantly increasing encroachments of the liquor traffic, showing how it is undermining our political and social life, interfering with the free expression of the will of the people at the ballot box; controlling, to a large extent, the legislative bodies of the country; adding heavily to the burdens of the already overburdened taxpayer, and above all, bringing suffering, sorrow, poverty and death to many of our fellow citizens.

Such a record is in itself sufficient compensation for the labors and sacrifices of those heroic men, who, during all these years, have stood true to the principle which gave birth to the party. But, in addition, by their unswerving course, taking fresh courage after every defeat, they have wrung from the press at large, regardless of its political bias, testimonials of the honesty of purpose, purity of motives and exalted ideas which have animated the party, as well as the unselfish spirit of its members.

With such a history, marked by its years of toil and sacrifices, and sealed by the blood of its martyrs, and still believing that public questions embracing moral aspects should have the priority in settlement over those simply economic, however important, the Prohibition party enters once again upon a national campaign, and submits its claims for support to the sober minded, right thinking and unselfish people of this country.

The platform adopted by the convention meets my hearty approval, and though based on the single issue, is in reality sufficiently broad to allow all to stand on it who are opposed to the saloon and its consequent evils, regardless of their views on any of the other public questions of the day.

It is true, and no thinking man, regardless of his surroundings or residence, can for a moment doubt it, that very many of the people of our beloved land, and especially those engaged in industrial and farming pursuits, are suffering from the general depression so widely prevalent at present, and also that there has not been a time since the memorable days just preceding the breaking out of the Civil War, when these difficulties weighed so heavily upon the people, or when there was so much unrest and dire foreboding for the future as exists today.

The products of the soil—the mainstay of the nation's prosperity and wealth—are so low in value in many instances as not to pay the cost of production, leaving nothing for the labor of the toiler or for the capital invested. Many persons hold the opinion that the cause of all this trouble is overproduction. But can such an explanation be true? Is not the thought an impious one? Can anyone who believes in a beneficent creator believe that he bestows bountiful harvest to be a curse, rather than a blessing to mankind? No, no; perish the thought. The reason of all the prevalent trouble in our fair land today is not overproduction, but underconsumption. That being so, where is there a curse which prevents the consumption of the necessaries, to say nothing of the luxuries of life, comparable to the liquor traffic?

We are told by the advocates of one of the political parties that a high tariff is the panacea for all our ills, and yet the average annual receipts from customs for the three years ending June 30, 1894, when the McKinley tariff bill was in operation, were only $171,000,000, less than $2.50 per capita of our population. Others tell us that the free and unlimited coinage of silver will be the cure-all of the evils afflicting our people. It is strange such an idea should be entertained, when the fact is recalled that the total output of silver in this country for last year was only $60,000,000, a sum much less than the annual production of the familiar barnyard fowl. How utterly insignificant are either of these figures compared to $1,200,000,000, which it is reliably estimated is the direct yearly tribute the people of this country pay to the support of the liquor traffic. A stupendous sum, and so large as to be difficult of realization. It is nearly twice as large as the aggregated capital of all our national banks, or to state it more plainly, it is equal to about 75 per cent of the entire money, gold, silver and paper currency of the United States.

Let this vast sum of money which is now spent yearly in this way, and for which no value is received, but, on the contrary, is only adding to the suffering of the people in varied and manifold forms, be turned into the channels of legitimate trade, in the purchase of those things which will bring comfort and happiness to the home and family, then, I believe, the troubles which are now weighing so heavily upon them will be largely things of the past, and until it is done no real relief can be expected.

While thus emphasizing the results of the liquor traffic as it exists today in our midst, and the absolute necessity of its suppression for beverage purposes, if peace and prosperity and the blessings of God are to rest upon and abide with our people, I do not underestimate the fact that there are other questions of grave importance, over which the public mind is seriously agitated, and which are being pressed for speedy settlement. There is the question of a stable, and at the same time an elastic, currency, equal to the demands of business for every section of the country, and yet every dollar of which should be of equal value, and the whole based on a standard equal to the best in the world. The United States cannot afford, without dishonor, to have money bearing its stamp inferior to that of any country on the globe.

The question of the maintenance of the credit of the govrnment, on which its honor is based, and for which every one worthy of the name of an American citizen is, or should be profoundly jealous, is one of vast importance.

Again, a proper adjustment of the tariff, so that labor can have its just protection without, at the same time, giving undue protection to the manufacturing interests at the expense of the great consuming portion of our people, is worthy of profound consideration and early solution.

The question of favoritism in legislation, whereby trusts, monopolies and corporations are fostered and protected to the detriment of the interests of the people at large, is a vital one, and should have earnest and prompt consideration, as a matter of common justice to the oppressed people. Extravagance in expenditures of public funds for purposes other than the public weal, and often not necessary, is a matter of serious moment, especially at this time, when the state of the country demands lower, rather than increased taxation.

The strained relations existing between various foreign countries, as well as between some of them and their dependencies, require the exercise of broad statesmanship in the conduct of our foreign policy, so that while maintaining the honor of our country and affording the amplest protection to every citizen of our republic, there should be manifested that fairness and magnanimity which a stronger nation should ever show toward a weaker power.

These and other matters of importance, affecting the best interests of all the citizens of the country, demand attention, but I submit, what hope can be expected for a satisfactory solution and settlement of them from either of the two dominant parties, under whose alternating administrations the wrongs growing out of them have been fostered and developed, until they have become barnacles, if not festering sores, on the body politic.

On the conterary, the Prohibition party, assured of the sincerity of its purpose, and the spirit of unselfishness, which has been its dominant principle, pledges itself as soon as the power of legislation is given to it, to act on all these matters as the existing circumstances and welfare of the whole people may demand. In view, therefore, of the utter failure of the other parties to promptly legislate on these matters when in power, I hold that the time has arrived when the voters of this country can, and shall trust the reins of government into the hands of the Phohibition party, having the assurance, based on the spirit of disinterestedness that has always animated it, that every pledge will be honestly fulfilled, and every act of legislation will have for its controlling motive the honor of God, the welfare of the people and the good of the country, so dear to us all.

For myself, I can only say, that should the voters of the United States see fit to call me to the duties and responsibilities of the high and exalted position of the chief magistracy of this nation, the greatest on the face of the earth, I can only promise, in the fear of God and in reliance upon the guidance of the holy spirit, to discharge these duties to the best of my ability, with an eye single to his glory, and for the good of the people of every section of our land, without favor or partiality.

I now leave the matter to the decision of my fellow citizens, to be expressed at the ballot box in November next, and to the guidance of him "who is the final arbitrator of all things."

In the Empire State.

New York, July 29.—The Democratic state committee met yesterday and decided to hold the state convention for the nomination of a state ticket and presidential electors on Sept. 16, at Buffalo.

Previous to the meeting of the state committee the corridors of the Hoffman House were crowded with politicians, discussing the probable action of the state committee in reference to the Democratic platform and the ticket adopted at Chicago. Various side issues connected with the main subject were talked over. The conversation was earnest, but not excited. Chairman Hinkley of the committee had a suit of rooms in the hotel, and received a number of the members of the committee, where conferences were held.

Senator Hill was not seen about the Hoffman House. It was said that he was conferring with some of the members of the committee at his rooms at the Normandie hotel. The absence of John C. Sheehan, chairman of the Tammany Hall executive committee, was also noted. County Clerk Purroy was on hand, and earnestly discussed the situation with various members of the state committee. He tried to convert them to his view of formally adopting resolutions approving the action of the Chicago convention. After half an hour's talk, Mr. Purroy seemed to have been converted himself, and said he would not introduce any resolutions in reference to the Democratic candidates.

It was announced that an agreement had been reached to table any resolutions introduced to endorse the Chicago platform and ticket.

To Post Voters.

Washington, July 29.—So numerous are the questions brought to the treasury by every mail, seeking information relative to financial and currency matters, that the overworked clerical force of the directors of the mint has been totally unable to answer them. The department has hit upon the device of printing a circular containing statements of facts relative to the coinage, bullion production, circulation per capita in various countries and such information as will meet the needs of the many persons who are now seeking facts on which to base conclusions respecting the issues of the campaign. The matter embodied in this circular has the approval of the secretary of the treasury.

Back In the Fold.

Detroit, July 29.—The Democratic state central committee yesterday declined to accept the resignation of its chairman, Elliott G. Stevenson, and called the state nomination convention for Aug. 25. Although Chairman Stevenson still emphatically deprecates what he terms the outrage of unseating some of the Michigan gold standard delegates to the Chicago convention, he accepts the platform and candidates decreed by the national convention, and declares that, being a Democrat, he will do his whole duty in waging a vigorous campaign in Michigan for the success of the party's nominees and its declared policies.

Murder or Suicide?

Wellsville, N. Y., July 29.—The body of a young man, six feet in height, between 25 and 28 years of age, and weighing about 180 pounds, was found yesterday under a railroad bridge, five miles east of here. A post mortem examination revealed that he died from a wound through the heart, inflicted by a small and sharp instrument. On the body was found a slip of paper, on which was written: "Ambrose Ryan, West Fourth street, South Boston." A coroner's jury decided that it was a case of suicide, but there are many who believe that it is a clear case of murder.

Gauduar an Easy Winner.

Halifax, July 29.—The carnival racing began yesterday afternoon, with the contest for the single scull championship of the world and a purse of $500. Ten of the world's great scullers entered, and the contest resulted in a long lead for Jake Gaudaur. The course was three miles and a turn, and Gaudaur made the distance in 20m. 25s.

CATARRH HIS WORST ENEMY DEFEATED

For Three Years He Suffered — Could Hardly Breathe at Night — One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet, and P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, sneezing, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am so years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P. and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

LIKE JESSE POMEROY.

Providence Boy Made a Business of Torturing Little Children.

Finally Wound Up by Slashing a Boy's Throat.

If Wound Had Been a Little Deeper Death Would Have Resulted.

Providence, July 30.—The second police precinct has been the scene of many strange freaks on the part of a boy, who, because of his malicious mischief and torturing of little children, has for some time been known as "Jesse Pomeroy." The lad is Willie B. Davis, and he is but 13 years of age. The police have had numerous complaints concerning him. He has sneaked into houses and stolen pocketbooks and other property. He has pinched little girls, pounded them, and taken keen delight in terrorizing them until they have run home shrieking. He has varied these performances by creeping up behind children of 2 and 3 years of age, and suddenly shoving them off doorsteps to see them fall headlong to the sidewalk, and laughed when they cried from pain and fright.

Last night he almost committed the crime of murder. But for his lack of knowledge of how and where to use his weapon, he would have killed a boy. Just before 9 o'clock he went up West River street, and, standing on the crosswalk, was William Chase, 7 years of age. The Chase boy did not speak to young Davis. Creeping up closely to the little fellow, the young desperado drew a razor, opened it, and made one quick slash at his intended victim.

The keen blade struck the little fellow on the neck, and made a clean cut. The wound was directly across the jugular vein, but it was not quite deep enough to penetrate it.

The Chase lad cried for assistance, and, with blood streaming down his neck, was taken to a physician's office and had his wound dressed.

The Davis boy ran up West River street, through many of the streets of the "old horse burial ground" district, with Officer McGuirl in pursuit. The boy was fleet of foot, and gave the officer a long chase, but was finally run down on McKenna street, and arrested.

When taken to the police station, the bloody razor was found in the lad's pocket. He had probably stolen the weapon. He will be arraigned, and treated as an incorrigible.

Mayor Suggests Changes.

Boston, July 30.—Mayor Quincy has sent a communication to the Boston park commissioners, relative to the Castle island accident and the inquest report of Judge Fallon, which blames both the city and the park commissioners. His honor urges the necessity of divorcing the engineering department from that of the parks, and advises that hereafter the park commissioners directly control their employes and hire their own engineers. He deplored the placing of the park police in the control of the police department, for the same reason.

Police Puzzled.

Taunton, Mass., July 30.—Richard Marley of Norton, for whom the police have been looking for weeks, surrendered himself yesterday. He was locked up upon a warrant which charged him with killing Frederic N. Strange. Now the police have him, they do not know what to do with him. He does not answer the description of Strange's assailant.

Dixon Exonerated.

Waterbury, Conn., July 30.—J. B. Dixon, the Boston lumber salesman, arrested here for non-payment of railroad fare, was discharged in the city court yesterday. The judge said if the ticket he presented was not a good one, it should have been taken up on the train when the original purchaser presented it.

FAST TRAVELING.

Holman Engine, However, Did Not Quite Come Up to Expectations.

Cape May, N. J., July 30.—There was another trial of the Holman friction geared engine, over the tracks of the South Jersey railroad, yesterday afternoon. The speed attained did not reach the expectations of Inventor Holman. He expected that in the middle of the run, a speed of 100 miles an hour, and possibly more, would be reached. He claims that the engine, when perfected, can run two miles a minute. Only 12 miles were covered yesterday. The time elapsing from the moment the lever was opened until the train came to a stop was exactly 11 minutes. In the middle of the run, a speed of 94 7-10 miles an hour was attained. The engine drew a tender and two ordinary passenger coaches. The cars were filled with interested persons and newspaper men. The engine worked smoothly, and started and stopped without shock. Those in charge of the run claimed that the distance covered was too short for the locomotive to get fairly started.

"Count" Commits Suicide.

New York, July 30.—Roman I. Zuboff, who has played the role of Russian count while living in this city, committed suicide in the Jefferson Market prison yesterday. He tied a silk handkerchief around his neck and attached it to the bars of the cell door. He was dead when the body was discovered. Zuboff was arrested yesterday, just as he was about to board the outgoing steamer New York. He was accused by Henry Walters of Hotel Cambridge of having failed to pay his hotel bill, amounting to $500, and also of having offered, in part payment, a worthless draft for $250. On being taken before a magistrate, he was held in $500 bail. Zuboff was at one time the lion of the Back Bay set of Boston, then an author, again a leader in Bohemia's fast set.

What the President "Told Me."

London, July 30.—The Chronicle publishes an account by Hogsson Platt, of his recent visit to the United States, in which he says that he was charmed with the kindness shown him wherever he went, and that he found President Cleveland equally cordial and gracious. "President Cleveland," he says, "expressed himself most warmly on the subject of Anglo-American arbitration, but he told me that he thought it was best not yet to enter upon any larger abstract question of tribunals for all nations."

Harrison For the Senate.

La Porte, Ind., July 30.—A canvass of 20 Republican candidates for the legislature in northern Indiana counties show the existence of a well defined movement to elect General Benjamin Harrison to the United States senate, to succeed Senator Voorhees, in the event that the next legislature is Republican. Mr. Harrison has disavowed senatorial aspirations, but, notwithstanding his repeated declarations, significance is attached to the avowed purpose of legislative candidates to give him their support.

Against "Pernicious Activity."

Washington, July 30.—Postmaster General Wilson has issued an order to all railway clerks, directing them not to take an active interest in the political campaign, such as would be involved in their attending political conventions as delegates, making political speeches or assisting in the management of political campaigns. The postmaster general's circular expressly states that he does not desire to control their opinions on political matters.

Restoration Depends Upon Election.

Hammond, Ind., July 30.—On account of the uncertain condition of business, the G. H. Hammond company, yesterday, announced a cut of 10 per cent in wages of clerks, and 20 per cent in wages of heads of departments, to take effect Aug. 1. The Hammond company operates several immense slaughter houses, and employs nearly 3000 men and boys. Restoration of old prices will depend on the outcome of the fall election.

Attributed to Heat.

Lima, O., July 30.—Joseph Greidler of Minneapolis, a crack bicycle circuit racer, was killed here yesterday. Greidler was probably overcome by the heat, for he left the track, ran straight into the crowd, and was thrown upon a fence, receiving injuries which resulted in his death one hour later. Greidler was in the lead in a half-mile open race at the time the accident occurred.

Tornado In Ohio.

Cincinnati, July 30.—A tornado struck Sydney and vicinity last evening. The hills protected the city, but houses were unroofed and trees were twisted off. It was worse in the country, but not loss of life has thus far been reported. South Charleston was also visited by a most destructive wind and rain storm. Trees were uprooted, fences prostrated, and many bridges swept away. Crops have been made worthless.

Old Warrior Gone.

Richmond, July 30.—General R. E. Coiston, who was an officer in the Confederate army, and at one time commanded the Stonewall brigade, died at the Soldiers' home here yesterday. He was in his 71st year. General Colstor served six years in the Egyptian army, and received the decoration of the Knight Commander of the Turkish Order of Oshmanish for distinguished services.

Raiders Have a Snap.

London, July 30.—Dr. Jameson and his fellow prisoners have been made first class misdemeanants, which allows them to have their meals from outside Holloway jail, to dress in their own clothes, to have their menial work done by the other prisoners, and to have a small allowance of beer or wine.

ON VERGE OF A RIOT.

Lynn Strikers Made Things Warm For Non-Union Lasters.

Hundreds Ready to Pounce Upon Four Men.

Policeman's Timely Arrival and Prompt Action Quieted Excited Strikers.

Lynn, Mass., July 30.—What came near being a serious riot in this city last evening was happily averted by the coolness and bravery of Police Officer Green, who succeeded in rescuing four non-union lasters, employed in the factory of the Thomas G. Plant Shoe company, from an angry gathering of many hundred persons, and placing the men safe in the boarding house at 39 Ireson street.

At 6 o'clock, when the people were leaving the factories, a crowd assembled on Broad and Washington streets, in the vicinity of the Plant factory, to see the non-union lasters come out of the building. The larger portion was engaged in watching the rear entrance of the building, and the non-union men seeing this, made a dash out the main entrance on Washington street.

They were immediately recognized, and it is said that one of the men placed his hand on his hip, as if in the act of drawing a revolver.

At this, the bystanders became infuriated, and made an attempt to crowd around the men, who started up Spring street. One of the non-union men, it is said, was struck by a man in the crowd, after which the others were hustled about and somewhat roughly handled. Coming out on Exchange street, near the Central railway station, the non-union men were in the center of the crowd, members of which called out, "Scab, scab," several times, while cheers and yells could also be heard above the din.

After crossing the railroad tracks, the men turned up Union street toward the east, taking the sidewalk on the south side, and when passing the Fabens block two of their number were knocked down, it is thought by the surging of the crowd, that by this time amounted to over 1000 persons. They managed, however, to regain their feet.

Policeman Green, who was at supper at the time, heard the tumult, and hastened to the unfortunate men's assistance. He was none too soon, and had all he could do to keep the crowd back. The non-union men tried to take refuge in a store, but were not permitted to do so by the crowd, which hustled them along, cheering and yelling the while, despite the protests of the policeman, who maintained a commendable coolness under very trying circumstances.

When near the East Baptist chuch so great was the surge of the angry gathering that some of the non-union men fell over against the wall, but they were again saved from harm by Officer Green. Soon after this the men crossed the street toward their boarding place on Ireson street, where the police officer finally lodged them in safety.

The crowd was much chagrined at losing sight of the men, and surged toward the door of the buliding, when Policeman Green commanded them in the name of the commonwealth to disperse. Then the crowd gave three lusty cheers for Police Officer Green and dispersed quietly.

These non-union men are said to hail from Auburn and Lewiston, Me., and were brought to Lynn, it is claimed, to take the places of the locked out lasters by agents of the company.

The Lasters' union succeeded in getting four of the non-union men at work in the factory to resign yesterday, and their fares were paid to their homes. The Lasters' union officers say they are opposed to these hostile demonstrations against the non-union lasters, for the reason that it does more harm than good.

QUINCY NOW realizes that if Brookline gets two Representatives to the General Court by the new apportionment, that her chances to get two will be "dished." Yet Quincy has 4,325 voters, and Brookline but 3,243. Why should an excess of 873 voters give Brookline another Representative, when 2,370 is the average number required? Brookline will doubtless find that wealth does not count where apportionment is made according to voters.

Twentieth Birthday.

About twenty of Miss Eliza Hutchinson's friends gathered at her pleasant home on Copeland street last evening to celebrate her twentieth birthday. The time was pleasantly passed in singing, games and a general good time.

During the course of the evening Miss Hutchinson was presented on behalf of the company with an elegant ring set with diamond chips and garnets. Although completely taken by surprise she responded in a fitting manner. Ice cream and cake were served. Miss Hutchinson was the recipient of many other beautiful gifts. Among those present were: Miss Ria Menhinick, Miss Mary Milne, Miss Jennie Philips, Miss Bessie McMillan, Miss Jennie Howie, Miss Jennie McDonald, Miss Lizzie Gordan, Miss Marion Chisholm, Mrs. E. Allen, Mrs. James Allen, Mr. George Guston, Mr. A. Henderson, Mr. D. Ross, Mr. John McKay, Mr. A. Howie, Mr. J. Michael, Mr. James Allen, Mr. Edward Allen, Mr. Robert Allen.

Fell Into a Well.

A lady, whose name could not be learned, met with a peculiar accident at Shea's boarding house on Hancock street, this morning, and that she was not seriously injured was remarkable. In the cellar of the house is an old unused well which is covered with boards, and the well is quite deep and there is considerable water at the bottom. This morning the lady went down cellar and while walking about stepped on the covering of the well. The boards, that had become rotten by age, gave way and down she went to the bottom. Fortunately she fell straight and was but little injured beyond getting thoroughly wet. When she recovered from her surprise at her sudden fall she looked about to find some means of getting out, which she did by using the stones in the sides for steps.

Prosperous.

Never before in the history of Memorial church, Atlantic, has there been as large congregations at the preaching services as this summer. Last Sunday morning there was present the largest number of any Sunday this year, with the exception of Easter. The pastor, Rev. Edward Norton, preached a very able discourse from Rev. 21:1, in which the audience was deeply interested.

He also made the announcement during the service that the church had been presented by Mr. Henry H. Faxon with a bell and the church committee was instructed to order one of the very best from the well known Blake Bell Foundry, of Boston. While the tower to contain the bell is being erected, it is the intention of the society to make other improvement and needed repairs.

FIRST OF SERIES.

Quincy Yacht Club Races Successfully Inaugurated.

Legs for the Emma C., Gleaner, Arab, Tautog and Sunbeam.

First and Second Prizes to be Given in Four Classes.

The first of the series of three open regattas, under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club, was sailed Wednesday afternoon off the club house at Houghs Neck. The wind was strong from the south and as that was all that was needed to make things interesting, the result was one of the most successful races of the season.

It was a pretty sight to see the fleet get under way, and they were watched by a large number of ladies from the club house piazza, while many others saw the race from the shore along Mear's beach and Great hill.

Among the many to enjoy the race was Commodore John C. Dawes, of Kingston Yacht club.

The Cleopatra made her appearance for the first time this season in local waters, and many picked her for a winner, but she proved an easy victim.

The preparatory gun sounded at 2 o'clock and fifteen minutes later the first class was sent away.

The Emma C. crossed first with Ida J. a good second, Harbinger third, and Beatrice fourth. The Harbinger got a handicap at the start as her crew were hoisting the mainsail when the gun sounded. The Emma C. led all over the course with the Ida J. a close second. The Harbinger regained some of the ground she lost at the start, but was unable to get a better place at the finish than third.

In the second class the Cleopatra crossed first, with the Moondyne second, the Gleaner third, and Privateer fourth. The Gleaner soon passed the others and took the lead closely followed by the Privateer, and in this position they finished, Rex being third, and Swirl fourth. The Rex ran into the Tacoma in Hingham channel but no damage was done either boat. The Tacoma, however, protested the Rex. The Eulalie became disabled near the finish and withdrew.

In the third class the Wawanda got the gun at the start with the Arab second, Enigma third, and Nancy Hanks fourth. The Arab soon took the lead and rapidly left the others in the rear, and finished with a lead of nearly five minutes elapsed time. The Zoe came in second, and the Nancy Hanks third. Onaway and Wawanda withdrew.

In the fourth class the boats crossed in the following order: Sphinx, Alpine, Sunbeam, and Primrose. During the first time round the Primrose broke her tiller which the crew quickly patched up, and to the surprise of all she led the fleet upon crossing the line the first time round. Just after crossing the line the first time round the Sparrow also broke her tiller and withdrew. On the second leg the mainsail loosened and before it could be made taut the Sunbeam and Fantasy passed her. The Sunbeam retained the lead thus gained throughout the balance of the race and secured first money.

In the knockabout class there were but two starters, Tautog and La Chica and they crossed the line in that order and retained the same positions throughout the race.

The judges were Commodore C. F. Pettengill, Vice Commodore J. W. Sanborn, Secretary J. S. Whiting and City Clerk Harrison A. Keith.

Over the Course.

The prizes will be $7 in the knockabout class, and $7 and $3 in each of the other classes.

The second race of the series is being sailed today and there will be another tomorrow.

The Gleaner and Privateer of the second class beat the Ida J., Harbinger and Beatrice of the first class by corrected time.

The Boston Advertiser called it a Hull club regatta.

The Journal had no story of the race, publishing only the summary.

The Globe was pleased. In its introductory it said, "The first of the open races of the Quincy yacht club was sailed yesterday afternoon off the clubhouse at Houghs Neck, and was a most successful "starter" for the series. The wind was fresh from the southward, a good wholesail breeze with some quite heavy puffs in it, and the sport was therefore of the liveliest kind. Add to this a good field of starters, and the reasons for the success of the race are apparent.

The Quincy Yacht club is extending hospitalities to visiting yachtsmen which they seem to appreciate.

Norfolk County Commissionership.

It is reported in political circles that there is a project on foot to have the county commissioner of Norfolk county whose term expires the present year nominated for re-election, that he may be "vindicated" at the polls. This would be an unfortunate outcome of the exposure that has been had of questionable practices in that board. We do not apprehend that his election would be possible, but those Republican who are interested for the preservation of the good repute of their party should see that it is not led into the indorsement of such a record in office. We understand that certain Republicans of the town of Milton are already moving to prevent this renomination. They propose to present to the county convention the name of Capt. E. D. Wadsworth, for several years the chairman of the selectmen of Milton. Capt. Wadsworth is said to be a sterling officer of the old fashioned stock, and exactly the kind of man to restore the office to its earlier prestige. Milton was honorably identified with the Norfolk county commissionership during many years through the efficient service in it of the late Hon. N. F Safford, one of her citizens.—Herald.

While endorsing all that the Boston daily says, Quincy would present the name of W. Walter Ewell, the recent Commissioner of Public Works of this city. A young man of experience, whose integrity is not questioned, and who is opposed to ring rule. The Old Colony section of the county seems entitled to a representative on the board, and it is proper that one should hail from the only city, which alone has over one-seventh the population of the county, about one-seventh of the voters, and has over one-tenth of the valuation of the county, paying over one-tenth of the county taxes.

Your Watch is No Good.

"That is fighting talk," you say, but wait until we finish the sentence—if it fails to tell you the correct time.

A watch will sometimes run several years without being cleaned, but it is wearing out, and, when it finally stops, some genius who advertises "Clean your Watch for a Dollar," and whose kit of tools comprise a brush, tack hammer and a screw driver, brushes out the dirt, ignorant of the damage the watch has sustained, and your watch, once your faithful friend, can no longer be relied upon.

Think This Over

GROCERS' DAY.

A Local Holiday for the Granite City.

Excursions in the Harbor with Dinner at Nantasket.

With a Little Fishing Off Minot's and Other Diversions.

Today is "Grocers' Day" and should a stranger enter within our gates he would doubtless imagine that it was dead every day in Quincy or that some great calamity had visited the city. Although the observance of the day was originally confined to grocers, it has come to be observed as a kind of holiday by the proprietors of all kinds of stores, the only places remaining open being the drug stores, banks, post office and City Hall. Even the barbers closed up early that their assistants might have a holiday.

Previous to this year the party has enjoyed a tally-ho coach ride to Scituate, where after a game of ball and other athletic sports, a fish dinner was served, and in the early twilight a pleasant ride through a picturesque country was taken home.

This year the committee inaugurated something new, and instead of going to Scituate they will spend the day on the water, landing at Nantasket only long enough to enjoy a fish dinner.

This morning was somewhat of a repetition of last Saturday, when the Granite Manufacturers' Association held its outing It rained early and at 8 o'clock, the hour appointed for the excursionists to gather, it was anything but inviting, yet an hour later the sun came out and it has proved to be a warm, muggy day, pleasant and cloudy by turn.

The threatening weather doubtless kept some from going, yet at 8 20 when the start was made something like half a hundred good natured, fine looking, solid men of Quincy took a special car at City Hall and started for Quincy Point.

Previous to the start a section of the West Quincy Italian band gave a concert to drum up those who might be late, and to let the uninformed public know that "We, the People" were off for a day's outing.

Arriving at Quincy Point the little steamer Surf City was found in waiting and after a few eatables and smokables and a barrel of spring water had been put on board, the signal was given to cast off the bow and stern lines and with a shriek of a whistle and three cheers from the parched throats of the excursionists, the boat was headed out of the harbor.

It is proposed to sail out of Boston harbor through Broad sound toward Minot's light where those who desire will be given an opportunity to try their luck at hooking fish, while others may amuse themselves by feeding the fishes so that they may have more room for the dinner that is to come later.

Somewhere about noon the boat will steam to Nantasket where a landing will be made and a dinner eaten at the Ocean View house.

After dinner, when the party have tired of watching the girls in bathing from the broad piazza, or the sandy beach, and have squandered all the nickels they have in the many catch-penny enterprizes along the beach, the boat will again be taken and the party will again steam about Boston harbor.

Along toward night 'mid the sweet strains of "Home Sweet Home" and "How Dry I Am," sung as only grocers know how to sing, the Surf City will commence her homeward journey.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HOUGHS NECK.

Saturday, Aug. 1, is another moving day and many who have been with us during July will give way to others who will enjoy the seashore during August, which is really the best month of the season.

If all weeks were as lively as this week Houghs Neck would be more attractive. The yacht races of the week have attracted many people from Quincy. Of course the clubhouse is the mecca of the larger number but not everybody can enjoy its verandas.

A yacht club has been formed at Hingham.

There were rival attractions at Hull Wednesday which kept some yachts from the Quincy race. J. J. Souther, W. E. Sheriff, and Mr. Selfridge entered a blind dory race around a buoy, which the first name won handily. Mr. Folsom won the tilting match with Mr. Greely, and Mr. Greely defeated Messrs. Hunt, Selfridge and Folsom in the hobby horse race. There was also a swimming match and tub race, but the great event was the ball game, the Hull and Cohasset yacht clubs being pitted against each other. The former won.

Three Candidates.

The Globe finds three prominent candidates for Congressional honors in this district, the new tenth, and makes the following resume:

"As far as is known Mr. Hibbard's preliminary work has gone no further than the declaration of his candidacy with the usual consultations with the prominent Republicans in the district. He has as yet made no attempt at learning the sentiment of the workers of the district.

"Frederick W. Bliss has assured the men who are with him that he will be a candidate for the nomination until the delegates are chosen, that he does not intend to withdraw whether Mr. Atwood, Mr. Hibbard or anyone else is in the field or not.

"From men who have been making the rounds of the politicians of the district against the interests of Congressman Atwood the information comes that in the Boston wards, as well as in Milton and Quincy, a large number of "the boys" are heartily with Mr. Atwood.

"In attempting to propagate a strong anti-Atwood feeling among the politicians whose favor is valuable about caucus and election times the canvassers say they were surprised at the strong Atwood sentiment that rules in many quarters.

"They found that while a number of the local politicians were lukewarm concerning Atwood, a great many of them declared that they would work for Atwood and for no one else as long as there was any chance of his being a candidate.

"It is further said that there is a much less bitter feeling against him now than there was a year ago, and also that inasmuch as he secured a large appropriation in the river and harbor bill for improvements in which both Quincy and Milton are interested, he has shown himself able to do more for his district than any previous representative has done.

Routes and Rates for Summer Tours.

The Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg R. R. illustrated book, "Routes and Rates for Summer Tours," published for gratuitous distribution, will be mailed to any address, upon receipt of 10 cents for postage, on application to Theo. Butterfield, General Passenger Agent, Syracuse, N. Y.

This book is exceedingly handsome and has many new features this year. It contains 100 new, beautiful half-tone illustrations of the principal scenery in the county described by the book. These pictures are faithful reproductions of actual scenes.

The book has 150 illustrations, seven very valuable maps, a list of 800 hotels and boarding houses, and routes and rates for 600 combination tours. It is the handsomest book of its character published, and describes all the country from Niagara Falls east to the Atlantic Ocean, including the St. Lawrence River, Canada, White Mountains, Green Mountains, Adirondack Mountains, and the sea-coast resorts of Maine and New England. 10t

Entire Family Shocked.

Nashua, N. H., July 30.—The residence of Alvah Gilson, in Dunstable, on Forest hill, was struck by lightning from a shower yesterday, and the family were shocked so they did not recover for two hours to inform their neighbors. Lightning struck the L of the building, shattering it badly.

Shot His Brother.

New Haven, July 30.—John J. Wilkinson, aged 15, was shot by his brother Joseph, aged 13, yesterday. The boy is seriously wounded, and may die. The boys found a revolver in a room at their home, and were playing with it when the shooting occurred.

Arion's Mark Lowered.

Portland, Me., July 30.—The 2:14 trot at Rigby yesterday was the fastest trotting race ever seen in New England. The green horse Wonder, Page, pulled down the record from 2:10¾, made by Arion as a 2-year-old, to 2:09¾.

KILLED BY NEGRO.

Young Woman Was First Outraged by Brute In Human Form.

Washington, July 30.—At Banning's Station, on the Baltimore and Potomac railroad, Tuesday, James Smith, colored, assaulted and murdered a young white woman named Marguerite Drown. Smith was captured yesterday at 310 East Capitol street, the residence of the aunt of the murdered girl. He made a full confession. Miss Marguerite Drown, the victim of Smith, was a native of Bridgeport, Conn., and is described as a handsome and accomplished girl, 22 years of age. Both she and her aunt are said to be well known in Bridgeport.

Mrs. Drown, the foster mother of the dead girl, testified that Marguerite had complained to her last Thursday that Smith had attempted to kiss her. Several of the servants also swore that the girl had called them and had made complaint that Smith was attempting to kiss her. Mrs. Drown, in explanation of Smith's continued employment after this occurrence, said that Smith immediately after it, left the house, but came back the next day, professed to be exceedingly penitent and begged to be reemployed. He had been a good servant for years, and she had finally agreed to let him come back. On the day of the murder, she and Dr. Miller, a boarder, had driven into town, leaving the girl at home with the servants. The latter swore that they heard a noise upstairs in the girl's room loud enough to attract attention, but said they could not tell whether it was a laugh or a cry. A little later Smith came down, and in answer to questions said that the noise they had heard was Miss Marguerite laughing at a story he had told her. He had a small basket on his arm, and at once left the house, saying he was going to a neighbor's for some eggs.

The doctor who performed the autopsy said that his examination of the body showed that the girl first had been knocked down and rendered unconscious by a blow on the forehead, that she had then been outraged, and later killed by the severing of the windpipe and jugular vein.

The jury promptly returned its verdict in accordance with this evidence. The negro servants about the place were held in custody, on suspicion that they knew more of the affair than was disclosed in their testimony.

Irish Land Bill Passed.

London, July 30.—The Irish land bill was taken up on its third reading in the house of commons yesterday. Arthur Smith-Barry, a well known Irish landlord, who defeated the National league in its great tenants' fight, moved that the measure be rejected, owing to the concessions that had been made to the tenants by the government. The vote on the motion to reject the bill was then voted on, and defeated. The measure then passed its third reading without a division being taken. The bill was presented in the house of lords at 5:30 o'clock, and passed its first reading.

A Growl From Germany.

Berlin, July 30.—The Neuste Nachrichten, in attacking the existing regime in Samoa, declares that English and American wirepullers are undermining Germany's influence, and are doing their best to foment discord. Peace and order, says this journal, will never be restored till England and America are induced to renounce their share in the Condominium. The article then appeals to the German government to sweep away the pernicious conditions prevailing in Samoa.

Big Job on Hand.

Hazelton, Pa., July 30.—Cox Bros. & Co. have completed arrangements for driving a tunnel through the Quaquake mountain, to the mines at Beaver Meadow. The tunnel will be one-half mile in length, and will give a natural drainage to all the mines in the basin. It will take two years to complete the work, and from an engineering standpoint, will compare with the famous Jeddo tunnel.

Depositors Scent Fraud.

Dennison, O., July 30.—The Dennison Deposit bank closed its doors yesterday, and assigned to E. M. Bailey. The liabilities will reach $100,000, while the assets will hardly cover $50,000. The feeling against the bank is very bitter, as it is generally known that it accepted deposits Tuesday night, after business hours.

Granted Divorce For Cruelty.

London, July 30.—Mrs. Yarde-Buller, nee Miss Kirkham of San Francisco, has won her cross suit for divorce, on the ground of extreme cruelty. The case against Cadesden as co-respondent, was dismissed, and he was allowed costs.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, July 30.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business yesterday, stood at $106,300,704. Yesterday's withdrawals were $321,600.

Gas Meter Tapped.

Nashua, N. H., July 30.—An attempt was made yesterday to blow up the Parkinson building on Main street, in which is located The Press office. The building was filled with escaping gas, and an investigation showed that the gas meter in the basement had been drilled, allowing the gas to escape. Fortunately no light was used in hunting for the leak, otherwise there would have been a frightful explosion.

Curtailment to Continue.

Fall River, Mass., July 30.—The Wampanoag mills have posted notices that they will continue the shutdown of their factories to Aug. 10, making a total of five weeks. The general sentiment among manufacturers here is in favor of continuing the curtailment longer than the four weeks originally stipulated, as the movement has not yet been followed by any marked improvement in the market.

Boers Surprised.

Pretoria, July 30.—The public here generally are surprised at the leniency of the sentence in the cases of Dr. Jameson and his associates. President Kruger has been interviewed on the subject, but declined to express an opinion.

New Life Saving Station.

Newburyport, Mass., July 30.—Superintendent Kimball and an inspector of the life saving service are making arrangements for locating the new life saving station at Salisbury beach. They took measurements yesterday of some land near the New Hampshire line.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

The Old Flag.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by
And let the heart have its say.
You're man enough for a tear in your eye
That you will not wipe away.

You're man enough for a thrill that goes
To your very finger tips.
Aye, the lump just then in your throat that rose
Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up the boy on your shoulder, high,
And show him the faded shred.
Those stripes would be red as the sunset sky
If death could have dyed them red.

The man that bore it with death has lain
This thirty years and more.
He died that the work should not be vain
Of the men who bore it before.

The man that bears it is bent and old,
And ragged his beard and gray,
But look at his eye fire, young and bold,
At the tune that he hears them play.

The old tune thunders through all the air
And strikes right into the heart.
If ever it calls for you, boy, be there—
Be there and ready to start.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
Uncover the youngster's head!
Teach him to hold it holy and high,
For the sake of its sacred dead.

Figured In Great Bank Scandal.

Rome, July 30.—Signor Tanlongo, formerly governor of the Banca Romana, is dead. Signor Tanlongo was the central figure in the Banca Romana scandals, which was to Italy what the Panama canal scandal was to France, and which caused the overthrow of one ministry, tarnished the fame of many men in public life, and sowed widespread suspicion of corruption and dishonesty throughout Italian public life. Governor Tanlongo was accused of having fraudulently appropriated 23,000,000 francs from the bank, and of having, in order to conceal this misappropriation, altered the books and accounts current, and added fictitious accounts.

BOLTERS NOT WANTED,

Lively War of Words Between Republicans of Centennial State.

Tom Reed Talks Politics to People In Maine.

Says Country Must Be Rescued From Dangers of Free Silver.

Denver, July 30.—By a vote of 48 to 38, the Republican state central committee yesterday adopted the following resolution:

"Believing that the best interests of the United States, as well as the state of Colorado, demand the election of William McKinley as president, and Garrett A. Hobart as vice president, of the United States, as nominated at the St. Louis convention; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that this committee shall take such steps as are necessary to place before the people of Colorado, for their suffrages in November, a straight Republican ticket, headed by Republican electors, who will cast their vote, if opportunity offers, for McKinley and Hobart."

The meeting of the committee was, in many respects, the most exciting that body has ever held. The minority, or Bryan and Sewall faction, was led by A. M. Stevenson, an ex-state senator, and one of the bolting Colorado delegates at St. Louis. J. L. Hodges spoke for the McKinley and Hobart Republicans.

When the resolution was offered, a bitter debate ensued, in which personalities were exchanged by the warring factions, the minority making the open statement that money had been used by the eastern McKinley managers to influence the state committee. It was asserted that proxies had been bought. The minority also attributed much of the McKinley sentiment to Senator Wolcott and National Committeeman Sanders. The majority warmly resented these statements, and it was believed a personal encounter would ensue, when Mr. Stevenson arose and asserted that Mr. Hodges was "an old rascal." Amid much disorder, the resolution was put to a vote and carried by 10 majority.

Another spirited discussion followed, when Irving W. Howbert of Colorado Springs, who had been chairman of the committee for two years, tendered his resignation. Mr. Howbert stated that he did not take the step in view of the present difficulties, but because he would be absent in Europe during the campaign. The friends of Hodges immediately placed his name in nomination for the chairmanship, the minority presenting John W. Lowell of Routt county. Mr. Hodges was elected by a vote of 48 to 27, some dissatisfied members declining to vote. On taking the chair, Mr. Hodges created a sensation by announcing that Republican members of the committee, who were in sympathy with the national Democratic ticket, and who proposed to work for it, had better resign, and that his rulings would be against them. The Bryan and Sewall men refused to leave, and the meeting adjourned in great disorder.

The committee at a night session, decided to hold the state convention in Colorado Springs on Sept. 30. After the meeting of the committeee, the Bryan faction circulated a petition for another meeting. They claim that the majority of the actual members of the actual state central committee is with them, and that the meeting yesterday was packed, alleging that of the 86 delegates represented, 46 were by proxies, in the hands of Denver and Colorado Springs politicians. The Bryan men further allege that it is the plan of the McKinley men to nominate Senator Wolcott for governor.

REED GIVES HIS VIEWS.

Gold Standard, He Says, Is to the Advantage of Wage Earners.

Alfred, Me., July 30.—A York county Republican mass meeting was addressed yesterday afternoon by Curtis S. Guild of Boston, and Speaker Reed.

Mr. Reed's opening words were these: "If I were going to give good advice to the people of the whole United States I should take this time to do it. Just now there is a great deal of froth and foam in the air, and some time is really needful to disclose clearly to every eye how much of it is the result of the temporary breeze which stills at nightfall, and how little there is of that heavy ground swell which shows that great elementary forces are at work. How very suddenly all this rush and stir has set itself into action."

After reviewing the situation, Mr. Reed said:

"If the demonetization of silver is a disease at all, it is a world disease. I defy anybody to find a single argument which proves that the demonetization of silver would be good for the United States, that does not prove that it would be good for the whole world. If it is a world disease, how can it be reached except by a world remedy? International bimetallism I can understand, but this driving out of gold and substitution of silver is only silver monometallism for the United States. It is not bimetallism for the world and a stable currency; but the shifting from gold currency and civilized Europe and going over to silver and Mexico, Japan, India and China. Oh, but China and Japan, India and Mexico are prosperous just now! Yes, but what kind of prosperity? The prosperity of cheap labor, growing cheaper every day. Manufacturers there may be prosperous and traders may be prosperous, but the people are not prosperous at all. Up here in Maine and New Hampshire paper pulp is made cheap. How? Because the manufacturer is close to cheap labor. In silver countries labor is cheap and kept cheap by the silver dollar. For my part I do not want that kind of prosperity. I want a prosperity which, by good wages to all, is shared by all. We want a broader life, broadened every day for all our people.

"I won't discuss the question whether the free coinage of silver will raise it to par or not. Very few people claim that it will, and if they did, I could not believe them. I was told in 1890, by two of the most sincere, as well as the ablest silver men, that the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces a month would raise silver to par, and when they did buy it silver went down like lead. Silver men have not been good prophets in the past. If, then, we are going to have a dollar inferior to what we have today, what will be the effect of it? Higher prices, they say. Not for everything. If you have $100 in the savings bank today you can get 100 gold dollars from the bank. If this wild project succeeds, and you are paid in silver, you will get the $100, but they will be 50 or 60 or 70 cent dollars. If you have a pension, that must be scaled down. If you have a bond, that goes down, too. Will the wage-earner be any better off? What you buy will go up. Will your wages go up, too? There you have experience to guide you. Wages during greenback times, measured in gold, did not go up as other things did. They went part way, but not all the way up, and were very slow about that. But wouldn't business be better for more money? It might be after a terrible crash with bad currency, and then we would have to get back again. Brandy may seem to strengthen, but plain bread and meat are the surest. What we want is not more money, but more capital. Money always comes with capital. We have money now, more than we can use, lying idle. We have just exported a lot of it. Money is the transferrer of capital, as a hayrack and horse is a transferrer of hay. More hayracks will never make more hay, but more hay will require more hayracks, and is sure to get them.

"We have been through all this once before. The Greenbackers of 1878 were not bad men. They were sincere, and had a better case than the silver men of today. In fact, it was much the same case. We must have artificial inflation and cheaper money, they said, or blackest ruin awaits us. It was a hard time. Prices were low and work was scarce; taxes were heavy and debts hard to pay, but we persevered, and resumed specie payments. From that moment the capital of the world was at our disposal. We had a good tariff, which makes us do all our own work, and from 1879 to 1893, 14 years of prosperity, which placed the United States in a great position in the world. If we do the like thing today, like things will follow.

"With revenues equal to our emergencies, undue export of gold will cease. With the certainty that the dollar paid will be equal to the dollar lent will come credit and confidence. With that other certainty that we are to do all our own work will come the earning of wages, steadily increasing, which is the basis of that prosperity which is alone worthy of this great nation, the prosperity of the whole people."

Hanna Has "Nothing to Say."

New York, July 30.—When the easterners invited to meet Mr. Hanna met yesterday at the hotel where he is stopping, they found that it was impossible to get a room large enough to meet in, and they adjourned to the new national headquarters. The gathering of eminent politicians went into session at 3 o'clock, and for over three hours talked over ways and means and the prospects of the campaign. Each state representative spoke briefly as to the outlook in his state. Mr. Gibbs of New York said that active work had already been begun, and there was in his mind little doubt that the state would give the largest Republican majority it had ever offered to any Republican candidate. Mr. Fessenden of Connecticut said that the silver sentiment in his state had no root, and was not considered dangerous in any way. Senator Proctor was confident that Vermont would give a majority for the Republican ticket. Mr. Witheree of New York spoke of making the tariff the paramount issue, but the debate drifted away from any decided expression of opinion on this point. Ex-Governor Cheney of New Hampshire said that the silver sentiment in his state was already growing weaker.

When the meeting adjourned, the members of the executive committee went into session. They were Messrs. Hanna, Quay, Scott and Proctor—just a quorum.

In response to inquiries, Mr. Hanna said: "We selected a Mr. Rodgers to represent Utah, and made Mr. Bliss treasurer. After the rollcall of states, that is all that was done at the meeting." To all other inquiries, his reply was: "I have nothing to say."

Bryan Preparing His Speech.

Lincoln, Neb., July 30.—Upon receipt of intelligence from New York yesterday, that the hall at Madison Square garden could be secured for that date, Mr. Bryan announced that he will receive the notification committee of the Democratic national convention there Aug. 12. He was unable to say just when he will leave this city for the east, over what route he will make the trip or how long he expects to be en route. It is known that Mr. Bryan is now preparing his speech of acceptance of the nomination. He expects to lay, in his New York speech, the groundwork for the campaign, and it is believed that up to the date of its delivery, no man will learn from his lips just what he may be expected to do in relation to the Populist nomination. Possibly he may not even then declare himself, but it is believed that he will then give some intimation of his plans in relation to the Populistic nomination. Further than the above announcement, there was nothing given out from the Bryan home yesterday for publication.

At Waterville, Aug. 6.

Augusta, Me., July 30.—There was a meeting of the Dmocratic state committee last evening, for the purpose of considering if there should be a convention for the nomination of a candidate for governor in place of Mr. Winslow, who recently declined. A few were in favor of having the committee decide on a new candidate, so the only thing to do was to decide on a new convention. Portland and Bangor being the only places presented, it was thought best to take some place between, rather than have any discussion, and Waterville was chosen as he place, Aug. 6. The meeting was private, no newspaper men being allowed.

Silver Exeutive Committee.

Washington, July 30.—Charles G. Lane of California, chairman of the national committee of the National Silver party, yesterday designated Messrs. G. P. Keeney of New York city, G. S. Nixon of Nevada, B. O. Flower of Boston, W. H. (Coin) Harvey of Chicago and C. J. Hillyer of Washington, members of the executive committee. These appointments complete the membership of the committee, as I. N. Stevens of Denver was elected vice chairman; W. P. St. John of New York, treasurer, and R. E. Diffendorfer of Philadelphia, secretary, at the meeting of the committee held in St. Louis last week.

A sick woman cannot expect to have a healthy baby. An unhealthy baby has not the same chance for living as a healthy baby. The mother's condition must of necessity tell on the child's health and happiness. The laws of heredity are inflexible. The mother's weakness will surely show in some way in her child. A mother can make her child's life happy and successful, or miserable and a failure. She can do it by making and keeping herself perfectly strong and healthy during the period of gestation. She can do this by taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most wonderful cure for all forms of female weakness and disease, and perhaps its greatest usefulness is in preparing for the trials and dangers of child-birth. It is a strengthening, purifying tonic. It acts directly on the organs distinctly feminine, drives out all impurities, promotes regularity and restores hearty, vigorous health. It will positively cure any form of female weakness or disease. It is the preparation of a regular, medical practitioner, whose great success as a specialist in the treatment of diseases of women has made him famous all over the world. Dr. Pierce is now, and has been for thirty years, chief consulting physician in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Complete information about the "Favorite Prescription" is to be found in Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser," several chapters of which are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women. A handsome volume of 1008 pages, and over 300 illustrations. It contains more exact information about the human body in health and disease than any other medical book. Hundreds of useful, simple receipts for the cure of many ailments that come to every family. Its statements are to be absolutely relied upon, and if followed will save many a doctor's bill. A new edition of half a million copies of this book is now being distributed free, bound in strong paper covers. Any one may have a copy who will send 21 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. French cloth binding is 31 cents.

BEAT NON-UNION MEN.

Locked Out Lasters at Lynn Indulge In Further Scrimmages.

Plant Company Condemned In Mass Meeting.

Preacher Johnson Sees Even War If Times Do Not Change.

Lynn, Mass., July 31.—The men who went through Wednesday night's experiences were escorted to the Plant factory by union pickets yesterday morning, who used every effort to have the men withdraw from the company's employ. In the cases of two of the men the pickets were successful. One of the non-union men, however, was obdurate, and declined to discuss the matter. Arriving in front of Jones' factory, he was set upon by several men, who punched and kicked him vigorously. He drew a revolver and leveled it at the crowd, at the same time declaring he would shoot the first one who approached. The crowd separated, and the victim, bleeding and covered with mud, made his way to the Plant factory, all the time carrying the revolver exposed in his hand.

At closing time last night agout 6000 persons gathered in the streets near Plant's factory, in anticipation of more trouble. Only three non-union men came out, and they were assaulted by a crowd of union men as soon as they appeared. During the melee, Edward Gallagher, James McNally and John Tufts were arrested. Eight or nine non-union men remained in the factory all night. A large squad of police was sent to guard the factory, and a number of officers remained there all night.

The Lasters' association held an indignation meeting last night, at which about 2000 persons were present.

The sympathy of the Lynn public was manifested to the lasters in the Thomas G. Plant company's factory last evening, at an indignation meeting in Lasters' hall. The meeting was presided over by Walter L. Ramsdell, who made the opening address, saying: "It would be unmanly and cowardly not to protest against this outrage, which has precipitated a conflict between capital and labor in our fair city. Not only are our fellow citizens unjustly deprived of means of employment, but that has been done which inflames passion and exposes the community to the dangers of disturbance, and threatens its peace and prosperity. The wrong which affects private and public welfare is chargeable to one man, a favorite of fortune, and his action is open to condemnation by all just men. The protest should be the protest not only of the wage-earning masses, but of the entire community. A hundred workingmen of Lynn, in the pursuit of an honest livelihood for themselves and families, yielding a full and unstinted returnof industry for what they received as its fruits, are summarily discharged, their privilege to labor snatched away, without consideration or warning."

"The Plant Shoe company's employes were not deprived of work because they were incompetent, lazy or dishonest. Their only sin, if we are to believe the head of the concern, was that they alowed themselves to remain members of the Lasters' union, refusing to cancel their allegiance thereto.

"Now, what is the matter with the Lasters' union that its members should be thus thrust outside the doors of the Plant workshop? Has Mr. Plant been unfairly treated at any time by it during his meteoric career as a shoe manufacturer? Was there anything unfair in the agreement arranged between him and the union last October? He said nothing about it then, if there was, and we have a right to suppose that if the conditions in the agreement went into effect, nothing in the way of new propositions, agitations or dissatisfaction, to make Mr. Plant uneasy.

"The union has been all that was peaceable and amicable, endeavoring to act in harmony with Mr. Plant, if such a thing was possible.

"Mr. Plant has locked out his help because of a desire to beat his business competitors. He has sharpened a knife wherewith to prune the cost of manufacturing, and, like all the rest, he applies it first to the branch of labor.

"The American people will not stand idly by and see this act of despotism culminate in success to the despot. It is the duty of every one of us to take sides in this fight, and there is only one side where a people who believe in free institutions can range themselves."

It had been expected that Rev. Tillman S. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist church, would be present at the meeting, but he was unable to attend, and sent the following letter:

"I am with you in the fight for justice, and it is a fight. Not a fight between nations, nor a fight between men, but a fight between wealth and want. And the struggle is destined to be fiercer and fiercer for some time to come. Your present trouble is but a sign of the times. The injustice you suffer will not die willingly; it must be killed, either by the patience of peace or the emergency of war, and I fear the latter."

Lost a Hand.

Hartford, July 31.—Otto Lehman, a snake fancier of this city, was bitten by a rattlesnake yesterday, while in search of specimens in Glastonbury, and, after having the bite cauterized by a local physician and filling up with whisky, as advised, he was arrested for drunkenness. Later it was found necessary to take him to the city hospital, where the physicians were obliged to amputate his hand, and it is feared the poison has permeated his system.

Pawtucket Pool Rooms Not Lawful.

Providence, July 31.—In the case of the Electric News and Money Transfer company against the police department of Pawtucket, it being the Pawtucket poolroom case, Judge Colt of the United States circuit court yesterday filed an opinion denying the petition of the company for a preliminary injunction to restrain the police from interfering with its business, on the ground that the company had failed to establish the legitimacy of its business.

The Wrong Man.

Taunton, Mass., July 31.—Inspector Morrissey of Bristol, R. I., who had a fierce struggle there with a bicycle bandit, supposed to be the murderer of Frederick N. Strange of this city, two weeks ago, saw Richard Marley here yesterday, and says he is not the same man. Marley surrendered to the police here, on account of suspicion which he heard they entertained against him.

Moore Must Stay In Jail.

Manchester, N. H., July 31.—At a hearing before the bail commissioners in the J. C. Moore case yesterday, the doctor qualified a new bondsman, in the person of Warren G. Chase, in the sum of $9000. An order was given for the release of Dr. Moore from the county jail, but immediately after it was learned that George F. Bosher, on the doctor's bond for $15,000, had surrendered the prisoner, so the doctor was not released.

Knows Important Secrets.

Boston, July 31.—William Finley, a digger, who claims to have been employed on the Herbert Fuller before she started out of Boston on her recent fateful voyage, has been arrested as a witness in the case. Finley states that while at work on board the Herbert Fuller he heard the mate utter remarks concerning the captain, which indicated hard feelings between the mate and Captain Nash, who was murdered.

Recovered His Child.

Haverhill, Mass., July 31.—Mrs. Cyrus F. Mitchell of Kennebunk, Me., has been found by a local detective in this city, where she has been living since her departure from home last February. While her husband was away from home his wife left, taking her 7-year-old daughter. Since then her husband has not seen her until Wednesday, when he came to this city and carried his daughter home.

Located In Pittsburg.

Worcester, Mass., July 31.—William Walker, who disappeared from this city last week, with a complaint for forgery hanging over him, has been heard from in Pittsburg, and a request for his arrest has been telegraphed to that city. He represented himself there as he did here, as a Wyoming ranch owner, who had a desire to do missionary work among the Arapahoe Indians.

Victim of "Knockout Drops."

Providence, July 31.—Harry A. Griffith, owner of a lunch room, lies dangerously sick from the effects of "knockout drops" administered July 22, at a house raided by the police for the second time within a month. Griffith was robbed of $43 while in the house, and turned out into the street, sick and penniless.

A Tough Youngster.

Came In a Torrent.

Steubenville, O., July 31.—A severe storm, like a cloudburst, occurred west of this city yesterday afternoon, and within a period of 30 minutes, a mighty torrent of water had spread desolation along both Parmer's and Fisher's run, in the lower part of this city. No lives were lost, as there were persons along the creeks who saw the water coming down the valley, and who ran from house to house warning the people. Everybody fled. Two hundred people here are homeless, as a result of the flood. The damage will aggregate all of $200,000.

SATOLLI'S SUCCESSOR.

Father Martinelli Will Be the Next Delegate at Washington.

Now Holds Office of Superior General.

Sketch of the Man Who Will Represent the Pope In This Country.

Rome, July 31.—Although the report that Mgr. Diomede Falconio would succeed Mgr. Satolli as papal delegate to the United States, had been hitherto entirely credited at the Vatican, the pope has appointed as Mgr. Satolli's successor Rev. Sebastain Martinelli, prior general of the Augustins Chausues, and a brother of the dead Cardinal Martinelli.

The fact that his nomination had been made has been kept secret, even from the most intimate associates of his holiness, and upon its becoming known occasioned a general feeling of surprise. The pope's choice is regarded as an excellent one. Rev. Sebastain Martinelli is a learned theologian, and is thoroughly versed in the foreign policy of the Vatican.

Washington, July 31.—When the news of the appointment of Father Martinelli as the possible successor to Cardial Satolli was communicated to the papal ablegate, he paid tribute to the great esteem in which the superior general is held, but was inclined to question the pope's having taken action at this time on the matter. The cardinal is without official advices as to the appointment of a successor to himself, and regards it as unlikely that the appointment would be made at present. Father Martinelli has not been mentioned in the gossip that has entered about the successorship to Mgr. Satolli. Rumors have been frequent during the past few weeks as to the possible successor to the cardinalate, and the names of Mgr. Lorenzelli, the internuncio at The Hague, and Mgr. Falconio, titular archbishop of Acerenza, Italy, have been persistently mentioned in this connection, but Father Martenelli, however, is regarded as an available candidate, and is credited with excellent executive ability. He has been connected in various capacities with the order of the Augustinians almost all his life. He was born over 50 years ago, and immediately after his graduation from the scholastic institutions of the Catholic church, in which he was placed, he joined the Augustinians. For a time he was attached in a consulting capacity to one of the congregations at Rome. He rose rapidly in authority, and several years ago was given the appointment to the office he now holds. As superior general he has charge of the interests of the Augustinians throughout the world, and about him is grouped a council which assists in the administration of the affairs of the organization. Father Martinelli has visited this country only once. That was about two years ago. In the course of a stay of several months, he visited the apostolic delegate's residence, and the Augustinian bodies in Washington, Philadelphia and a number of other cities.

Weary of Exile.

Cleveland, July 31.—By a roundabout way, news has been received by friends and relatives in this city of the recent movements of David R. Paige, the most conspicuous American fugitive in South America. Not for a day has there been a cessation of efforts being made to meet the forged paper he put in circulation to bolster up his big New York aqueduct contract. The amount of the paper bearing the forged name of John Huntington was originally $800,000, and, it is said, that only $70,000 is now outstanding. Paige is eager to return to the United States, and has been living mostly in the suburbs of Buenos Ayres. Recently, however, he has been in London, in consultation, it is believed, with Attorney Kellogg of New York, and it is thought also that he has been in Paris and Canada. There are certain thing also which indicate that he was in New York for a few days.

The Ancients Home.

The Servia, with the members of the Ancients and Honorable Artillery Company who took the excursion to England, was sighted at 5.30 this morning from the Hull signal station, and the passengers arrived in Boston on time so that the programme of the day could be carried out.

The excursionists were welcomed down the bay. The usual stop at quarantine was short, and as an enlarged number of custom officers made their inspection of baggage on the boat, no time was lost in reaching the Cunard pier.

The excursionists were met at the wharf by the "stay-at-homes" and a line of march taken through Commercial, State, Washington, School, Beacon streets to the State House, where Gov. Wolcott, in behalf of the Commonwealth, made an address of welcome, to which Col. Henry Walker responded.

On resuming the march the route was through Park street, Tremont, Boylston, Washington, Summer, High, Pearl, Congress, State streets to Merchants Row and thence to Faneuil Hall.

Mayor Josiah Quincy who was accompanied by Alderman Lee, the President of the Board, and President Conry of the Common Council, delivered an address of welcome, and there was an informal luncheon in the old hall, at which remarks by Col. Walker, Rev. E. A. Horton, Rev. A. A. Berle and others were made.

New House.

Mr. Warren S. Parker has the contract to build a handsome two-story house on Gay street for Mrs. E. J. Parmenter, daughter of John W. Moore. The cellar is completed and Mr. Parker has commenced his labors on the house.

The estate formerly owned by Mrs. Belzer was purchased by Mr. Moore several years since, who has recently sold a house-lot to his daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Parmenter, and Mr. and Mrs. Moore, who have recently moved from Chelsea, will occupy the new residence when completed.

Sunday Recreation.

Mrs. Elnah Cheney remarks: "It has always been my test for spending Sunday to see how one gets up on Monday morning. If, on that morning, work seems sweet and you are ready to do it heartily and happily, then you have spent Sunday to some purpose. I don't care whether it is in church or out, in the fields or in your quiet home with a book in your hand, or playing and frolicking with the children. But, however you have spent Sunday, the test of it is that the dawn of Monday seems blessed and good and hopeful."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bicycle Race.

The Wollaston 10-mile handicap road race, which was a fizzle last Saturday on account of the weather and condition of the roads, will be run again Saturday, Aug. 8th at 3 P. M. The entry list has been opened and will close Thursday evening. There will be ten prizes (the first a gold medal) and four time prizes.

THE SECOND RACE.

New Boats to the Front in Every Class.

A Want of Wind Made the Contest Uninteresting.

A Summary of the Two Races Given Side by Side for Comparison.

The second of the series of open regattas of the Quincy Yacht club was sailed off the club house at Houghs Neck on Thursday afternoon. There were a goodly number of boats to sail in the race, and had there been any kind of a breeze, the race would have been equally as interesting as that of Wednesday.

There was a little breeze when the first class got away, but when the gun sounded for the second class there was almost a dead calm, and the boats in the remaining classes did little more than drift over the line. It was thought that the larger boats would be unable to finish within time limit but they did and all others with the exception of the third class where only one boat finished within the limit.

Several of the boats in the second and third classes, which were ready to start when the gun was fired, concluded that there was not wind enough and did not start.

The first class was sent away at 3.15, the Ida J. crossing first being closely followed by the Arbutus, Emma C. and Beatrice. The Emma C. gradually worked ahead until she got the lead which she held until the finish, when she crossed the line with a good lead but lost the race to the Beatrice on time allowance.

In the second class the Cleopatra, with her owner Melbourne McDowell on board and John T. Cavanagh at the stick, went over first, followed by the Eulalie and the balance of the fleet, and she was probably never better handled than she was today by skipper Cavanagh, who piloted her to victory in spite of the efforts of the Swirl and Eulalie to overhaul her. She retained her lead and won the race with a lead of nearly two and a half minutes over the Swirl.

The Eulalie however protested the Cleopatra for fouling her when between Seal and Channel rock buoys.

In the third class it was a bad case of drift at the start and the Nancy Hanks had a good lead over her competitors which she held throughout and was the only boat to finish in this class within the time limit.

In the fourth class the Sparrow was the first to cross the line but was soon overhauled by the Sphinx who drew rapidly away from the balance of the fleet and upon crossing the line the first time around she had a lead of twelve minutes over the Sunbeam the second boat. This lead she increased a little in the last round, so that in the finish she had a lead of nearly fifteen and a half minutes over the Sunbeam, the winners of Wednesday's race in this class.

The courses sailed the same as on Wednesday.

The summary:

HOUGHS NECK.

The Houghs Neck Improvement association held a meeting on Thursday evening and considered several matters of interest to the summer residents. The most important were street lighting, the widening of Sea street, and street railway accommodations. It was the general opinion that the many taxpayers at the beach were now entitled to the convenience of lighted streets, for the summer months if not for the whole year. The meeting was enthusiastic for a boulevard to Quincy and a committee will seek to have Sea street widened for the entire length. The Manet Beach line of electrics is now the only one in Quincy which does not grant transfers, and a committee was appointed to ask that the same privileges be extended on this line. It would then be possible to reach Neponset for 8 cents and Boston for 13 cents. While East Milton, West Quincy, Braintree, North and East Weymouth and Quincy Point people could reach the beach for 8 cents. The association believes in progress and that improvement will only be obtained by persistent asking, and hopes to secure the above.

The Casino building is being painted, a thing it has long needed.

Rev. Mr. Clark of Cliftondale is in the Upright cottage.

The annual concert and social in aid of the church of St. Frances-by-the-Sea, always an enjoyable event, will be held this year on Friday evening, Aug. 21, in the Casino.

The following is given in brief as the theory of the tides most generally entertained by scientists, with a few exceptions, says the New York Sun:

It is assumed that the moon acting alone would not only raise a wave on the side of the earth nearest to it by gravitation, but would also draw the earth itself far enough out of its course to leave behind some of the water on the farther side, which water would then be raised relatively to the earth's surface and constitute the second tidal wave. The sun alone would act similarly, although its tide raising effect is only about two-fifths that of the moon. Now at new moon the sun and moon "pull together" and give higher tides than at the first and third quarters, when the sun draws its right angles to the line of the moon's attraction, and at full moon, when the sun is on the opposite side of the earth from the moon, virtually the same effect is observed as at a new moon, but the double tide raising action of the sun would again be superimposed on that of the moon and give tides on opposite sides as high as those a fortnight before.

WATERING HORSES.—Hundreds of horses are ruined every year because they are not given water when they require it. There may be regular times for watering, but rules can not safely be made to govern the duty. On warm days, when the horses perspire freely, they give off from their bodies large quantities of moisture, and should be watered frequently, even if allowed but a small quantity at a time.

The rails on the Quincy and Boston street railway near the Neponset bridge have spread so that it has become necessary to brace the rail from the curb by pieces of timber. The large cars they are now running over the route make a great strain on the tracks at curves and switches. The large rails laid in a manner like the West End road is doing in Neponset would surely hold them.

AN INFRINGEMENT.

The American Pneumatic Tool Company Gets Judgment.

An important decision, which will affect many of our Quincy granite manufacturers, was made this week. Some time ago the American Pneumatic Tool Co. entered suit against the New England Granite Works, Jas. G. Batterson, President, in the U. S. Circuit Court for the district of Connecticut. This suit was for infringement, damages and profits because of defendant's use of the pneumatic tool marketed by the Pneumatic Tool Co. On the 27th of July Judge Shipman signed a degree giving judgment to the American Pneumatic Tool Co. A master has been appointed to determine the amount of damages and profits. It is a noteworthy fact that the American Pneumatic Tool Co. has never yet lost a point in its litigation.

The Grocers' Excursion.

The Quincy Grocers and their friends arrived back in Quincy centre from their day's outing shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday evening their return being hearalded by inspiring music by the West Quincy band. All of the gentlemen who participated reported a very enjoyable time. There was a cool easterly breeze nearly all day on the water and not an unfortunate incident of any kind occurred to mar the pleasure of the day.

During the morning sail some of the party tried their luck at fishing, but they either lacked experience or the fish were not hungry, for but few fish were pulled on board and these were of a kind that were not worth bringing home.

When the party landed at Nantasket for dinner they marched with the music to the Ocean View House where they enjoyed a rousing good dinner. The afternoon sail was fully as enjoyable as that of the morning and the return to home and work was made all too soon.

Chance for a Question.

The Herald raises a point on the time limit in the third class at the race on Thursday, and at the same time compliments the Quincy yacht club. It says:

"The Nancy Hanks finished with but 1m. 45s. to spare on the time limit. The Opechee was second and the Arab third, but neither of these boats made the race inside the four hours, so their time was not taken. This is a point somewhat in dispute, as to whether one boat finishing does not make a race for the whole class. To show how this would work, an example may be given. The Nancy Hanks allows the Arab almost 3m. 45s. Now, if the Arab had finished within three minutes of the Nancy Hanks—but she did not—she would have beaten her, even if she had finished after the time limit. This point is raised with no idea of criticising the judges of the Quincy race, who are noted for being both efficient and impartial, but simply with the idea of suggesting a problem for the yachtsmen to think about when on the club piazza some evening."

Good Games Promised.

The Tubular Rivet and Stud Company's base ball association are to have a series of ball games, to be played in Merry Mount Park on Saturday afternoons of August and September, beginning this week by a game with the Shoe & Leathers of Boston. As it is quite an expensive pastime, the management would like to have the base ball public who witness the games contribute their mite, (ten cents only, being charged for a ticket,) toward defraying the expenses of the sport. The more money collected, the stronger teams can be secured, as some will not come unless guaranteed quite a large sum. A deal is being made with some of the strongest teams within twenty miles of Boston, and if the patrons of the games support it, some exciting games will be seen during the next two months.

Methodist Church, Atlantic.

Rev. George Stevens, a mission worker in New York city, preached at the Methodist church last Sunday morning, and spoke to the Sunday school and league, and also at the close of the evening service. There was a large attendance at all of the these meetings, six new members being added to the Sunday school.

The donations of flowers for the Methodist church last Sunday were so bountiful that it was well worth a visit to the church to see the decorations if for nothing more.

Those interested in the flower mission took in a large number of bequets to South Boston on Wednesday.

The Prediction.

The conditions now promise fair weather in New England, Saturday, with clear to partly cloudy skies, cooler northwest winds and also fair and clear Sunday without extreme heat, probably but little if any above eighty degrees during the day.

The following cases are marked for trial at the Civil session of the District court next Tuesday:

Campaign Notes.

At the meeting of the Democratic City committee held Thursday evening in Durgin & Merrill's block, the following declaration was unanimously passed:

"The Quincy Democratic City committee, reaffirming its loyalty to the great Democratic party of the nation, hereby pledges its hearty support to the platform adopted at the recent national convention of that party at Chicago, and its best efforts to secure the election of Bryan and Sewall, its chosen candidates, for President and Vice President on the third day of November next."

The matter of a ratification meeting was left optional with the executive committee.

It is reported that the County Commissioners made a survey of Quincy this week, and that they will recommend that Quincy be made a representative district with two representatives and that the city be divided with Wards One, Two and Three in one district, and Wards Four, Five and Six in the other. Representative Thompson has petitioned the Commissioners to grant a public hearing next Tuesday, and it is hoped that his petition may be granted as many Quincy men desire to be heard on this matter.

The disposition to nominate a third candidate, on a gold platform does not meet with much favor among Democrats in this city. This is deemed an inopportune time to pledge support to any candidate for governor, but the majority of the city committee look upon Mr. Williams as the logical candidate and that no consideration should be weighty enough to warrant the selection of another candidate. Mr. Williams has the call here, and his friends are determined that no hostile movement will gain a foothold.

The Democratic State Convention will be held Sept. 24, in Boston.

Sidewalk Necessary.

A plank walk about the new Savings bank seems necessary especially on rainy days. Ever since work was commenced on the new building the sidewalk has not only been blocked up but a good part of the street as well, so that at times all of the space between the building and the street railway tracks has been impassable and has been very inconvenient to pedestrians especially in wet weather. It is understood that the contractor of the new block on Hancock street, and the contractor of the new block on Copeland street, were obliged to build plank walks in front of these buildings where the sidewalk is blocked up and if so there is no reason why one should not be required about the Savings bank block.

A Lively Gale.

Pittsburg, July 31.—This city and vicinity was visited by another severe storm of wind and rain yesterday afternoon. In the immediate vicinity, the damage done was slight, compared with the storm of the 27th, but reports are coming in from the surrounding towns, telling of great damage to property, and up to 9 o'clock the loss of two lives has been announced. The storm in and around Duquesne assumes the nature of a cyclone, doing great damage. The roof of the new National bank building was blown off. The new Swedish church, being erected, was torn down, and the roof of the St. James hotel was taken off. Three houses in the Oliver plant were blown over.

For Cuban Sympathizers to Consider.

Washington, July 31.—The president has issued a proclamation, bearing date of July 27, again commanding citizens to observe neutrality toward Cuba. The proclamation refers to the original proclamation of June 12, 1895, demanding an observance of the neutrality laws in respect to the Cuban insurrection, and gives notice that all violations will be vigorously prosecuted. The president cites the decision of the supreme court in the Wiborg case, construing the statutes relative to military expeditions, conspiracies and the extension of aid by furnishing transportation, in order that citizens may not be misled as to the meaning of the neutrality laws.

Foreign Silver Prohibited.

Panama, July 31.—Costa Rica advices say that the government has passed a law prohibiting the importation of foreign silver. All now in the possession of private parties must be disposed of within 30 days, after which time the government will require that it be sent to the mint and exchanged for Costa Rican currency. The measure has caused a big fall in gold.

Seven Prospectors Lost.

Lima, July 31.—Seven prospectors for gold, of whom two were Americans, were lost 10 days ago in the forests of Carabaya. The party was attacked by a band of Indians, and four of the prospectors were killed. Of those who escaped, two Germans reached Santo Domingo in a terrible condition. They reported the attack, but were unable to give details.

THE BOSTON SEWER.

Tunnel at Squantum Thought to be Unsafe—Bolts Eaten Off.

Superintendent of Streets Wells, Sewer Division Superintendent Cutter and Alderman William J. Donovan have completed their inspection of the Moon Island sewer outlets. They find the tunnel between Cow pasture and Squantum neck has not been cleaned out since 1884, and as its condition is doubtful, immediate steps will be taken to have an inspection.

They also found at Moon Island some iron bolts that had been eaten away beyond the safety point, and judging from this it was the opinion of Foreman Callahan that the iron work must be in an extremely dangerous condition, and should the frame work give away the iron frame would fall to the bottom of the shaft and shut off the tunnel, in which event the sewage would have to be emptied into the bay.

The works were found to be well kept, but it is imperative that some improvements be done this year.

Beside an inspection of the plant at Moon Island the party inspected the city's property at Squantum Neck, and also visited the cairn erected to commemorate the landing of Myles Standish.

AFFAIRS IN A TANGLE.

John Stetson Estate May Not Pan Out as Well as Anticipated.

Boston, July 31.—The will of the late John Stetson was formally admitted to probate yesterday. Under this will the property is given to his wife, Catherine Stokes Stetson, who survived him, but she having died without making a will, all the property willed to her goes to her direct heirs, in other words to her mother, Mrs. Emma Stokes. The contestants have the right to appeal at any time within 30 days, and it is said the next step will be an appeal from the decision of the probate court, where the contestants to the will, John Stetson, Sr., and Adah Richmond Stetson, who claims to be the only legal wife of the deceased testator, John Stetson, Jr., will be heard. This means, in all probability, a fierce and long drawn out contest for possession of the residue of the Stetson estate.

It has not yet been determined what the deceased was actually worth. It has been stated that his property of all kinds was worth $1,000,000, but estimates made by appraisers and others seem to indicate that the first figures were much exaggerated. It is generally thought that much of his real estate was mortgaged up to the full limit. Then, too, some of his recent big ventures did not turn out as profitable as was expected.

Lawyer Melvin O. Adams has said that he doesn't think that after a full settlement is made the residue will exceed $400,000. It is rumored that Mrs. Emma Stokes, mother of Mrs. Stetson, is doing her utmost to have a prompt settlement made. Adah Richmond's lawyers say that they will be content with nothing less than a complete surrender of all the other claims. Some people think now that litigation may eat up the whole estate.

Scuttled In Midocean.

Rome, July 31.—During the prevalence of a thunder storm, lightning struck the coast defense warship Roma, and set fire to her. The flames spread rapidly, and her commander, seeing that they were approaching the powder magazine, gave orders to attach a torpedo to the hull of the vessel, and then for all hands to abandon the ship. When the small boats containing the crew were at a safe distance, the torpedo was discharged, tearing a great hole in the hull, and causing the Roma to quickly sink. Nobody was hurt. The Roma was a central battery, wooden, single screw, bark-rigged vessel of 5370 tons. She was 261 ft. 4 in. long, 57 ft. 4 in. beam, and 24 ft. 1 in. mean draught of water.

Germany Left Behind.

Berlin, July 31.—Dr. Carl Peters, formerly chairman of the German Colonial society, has quitted Germany, probably for good. This will put an end to the inquiry into Herr Bebel's charges against him, which resulted in his resignation as chairman of the German Colonial society. Herr Bebel made the specific charge that Dr. Peters, while he was Imperial commissioner to Africa, in 1891, caused a negro and negress to be hanged without trial, because they had taken a fancy to each other, which Dr. Peters disapproved of, because he was himself intimate with the negress.

Massachusetts Postal Clerk Hire.

Washington, July 31.—Acting First Assistant Postmaster General Lamar yesterday gave out the amounts allowed for clerk hire for the current fiscal year at the following Massachusetts post-offices: Brockton, $7620; Fitchburg, $5270; Lynn, $13,916; Salem, 7996; Springfield, $23,288; Lawrence, $7096; Adams, $890; Chicopee, $1100; Southbridge, $900; Ware, $900; West Medford, $1000.

Four Children Killed.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 31.—At Lake Cttoosee, a summer resort, five miles from this city, a Sunday school picnic was in progress yesterday, and the recently built "Chutes" were doing a good business. As one of the boats came down the chute, having aboard 13 small children, a rowboat crossed its path as it struck the water, and four of the occupants of the rowboat were killed.

Colwell Acquitted.

Washington, July 31.—The court-martial which had been trying Lieutenant J. C. Colwell of the ram Katahdin at the New York navy yard, has acquitted him of the charges brought against him, growing out of his alleged assault on a waiter at New London recently. The findings have been approved and the officer restored to duty.

Not First-Class Prisoners After All.

London, July 31.—Dr. Jameson and his companions have been removed to Wormwood Scrubs prison, where they will be treated as second class misdemeanants. The announcement that they had been made first class misdemeanants at Holloway prison was only a temporary arrangement.

—We are pleased to know that Mr. Ernest H. Morgan has been once more placed in charge of the Dorchester Beacon. His editorial labors, several years since, on this excellent weekly, were much enjoyed by its patrons.

Our Parks.

The work which has been done by the Boston Metropolitan Park Commission in the last few years is remarkable. Boston and its sister cities will have immediately the finest park system in the country. How fine it will be few residents of the district itself fully know. The New England Magazine enters this month upon the publication of a series of articles upon the system. The first of these articles is devoted to the Blue Hills of Milton. It is written by the well known art critics, William Howe Downs and Frank Torrey Robinson, and is a most enthusiastic and intelligent article. It is illustrated as well as as it is written, and the people of Boston and vicinity will turn with unusual relish and delight the pages of the magazine where it finds place. Warren F. A Fishing Party.

A fishing party consisting of Mr. Albert McIntyre and wife, Mr. Frank Baker and wife, Mr. Chas. Anderson and wife, Mr. C. E. Huntington, Miss McIntosh, with Mr. Wilma Jones as captain, took a trip down the harbor on the steam yacht done one day this week. They sailed from Quincy Point at 9 30 A M, returning early in the evening. Mr. McIntyre, the noted fisherman from the West, made the biggest catch. It wasn't a whale but it was too large to bring to land.

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

Of Course.

If you were on the smallest pay
And horrid grind made up your day,
A hard pushed, weary "son of soil,"
Whose master thought you made for toil,
You'd "shun the cup," the "cheering bowl,"
The fellowship of "kindred soul."

You'd never care for comrades gay;
You'd thank God that your life was gray,
Thank him the more if it was black,
And bless him for a weary back,
And close your eyes to all the mirth
And make a sepulcher of earth!

If you were poor, you'd be a saint,
Born with no soul compelling taint;
You'd smile when sorrows thick and fast
Cut round you like a wintry blast;
You'd smile when food and warmth took wings;
You'd "live above such trivial things!"

If you should find the rent was due,
And angry landlord threatened you,
The children sick, the food was such
It could not nourish overmuch,
It cannot be that you would beg!
Ah, no! You'd rather lose a leg!

If you could get no work to do,
And all the world cared naught for you
Except your wife and babies there,
In tenement so poor and bare,
You'd let their blood grow cold, congeal,
Before a scrap of food you'd steal!

Of course, if you were growing old,
And out of work and hungry, cold,
And one who felt philanthropy
Tug at his heart should stop and say,
"Here are five pennies," I can't think
You'd go and spend it all for drink!

Peace Not Yet Restored.

Cleveland, July 31.—Trouble at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machine company is not yet over. Yesterday afternoon F. H. Buckingham, a non-union workman, became frightened while passing a small crowd of strikers who have not returned to work, and, drawing two revolvers, fired at the men, neither of the bullets taking effect. Buckingham has been arrested. B. V. Brown, who returned to work when the strike was settled, was beset by a crowd of strikers and brutally kicked and beaten.

Deed of a Demon.

Austin, July 31.—W. E. Burt, a member of one of the respectable families of the city, murdered his wife and two children, aged 2 and 4 years, last Friday night, and placed the dead bodies in a cistern. His residence adjoined the business portion, and the stench led to an investigation. He left the city Saturday night following the terrible deed. He bound his wife in a blanket, after tying her feet and neck together, and then dropped her body into the cistern. Both children had their brains knocked out.

AWFUL CATASTROPHE.

At Least Forty-Two Persons Killed In a Railway Smashup.

Trains Came Together With a Terrible Crash.

Engineer Died at Post of Duty, With Hand on the Throttle.

Atlantic City, July 31.—A terrible railroad catastrophe took place on the meadows, about two miles out of this city, shortly after 6:30 o'clock last evening, resulting in the deaths of 42 people, so far as can now be learned, and the wounding of 80 others.

A train left here consisting of seven cars over the West Jersey railroad, bearing a special excursion of Red Men and their friends of Bridgeton, and Salem, and had reached the crossing of the Reading railroad when it was struck by the 5:40 down express from Philadelphia, demolishing two cars and telescoping the two following.

The engine of the Reading train became a total wreck, killing the engineer and fatally injuring the fireman, and the car behind it also was thrown from the track, and many of its occupants were killed or injured.

The responsibility of the collision has not yet been placed, but William Thurlow, the operator at the block tower, situated at the crossing, has been placed under arrest by order of the coroner.

Leaving this city, the tracks of the West Jersey road run parallel to those of the Camden and Atlantic until after they cross the drawbridge, when they switch off to the south crossing, the Reading road at an obtuse angle.

John Greiner, the engineer of the West Jersey train, saw the Reading train approaching the crossing at great speed, but as the signals were open for him to proceed on his way, he continued.

His engine had barely cleared the track of the Reading when the locomotive of the latter train, which left Philadelphia at 5:40 p. m., struck the first car full in the center, throwing it far off the track into a nearby ditch, and completely submerging it.

The second car of the West Jersey train was also carried into the ditch, the third and fourth cars being telescoped.

The engine of the Reading train was thrown to the other side of the track, carrying with it the first coach.

A few minutes after the collision, to add to the horror of the situation, the boiler of the Reading locomotive exploded, scalding several to death, and casting its boiling spray over many of the injured passengers.

As soon as the news reached this city it spread rapidly, and thousands of people flocked to the scene.

On the road leading to the place of the collision was a constant procession of hacks, busses and bicycles, and all kinds of vehicles, while thousands of pedestrians hurried along the path to render what assistance they could or to satisfy their curiosity.

Darkness fell quickly, and work of rescuing the injured and recovering the dead bodies was carried out under the glare of huge bonfires.

A gruesome sight was presented to onlookers, as the mangled and burned forms of the dead were carried from the wreckage which bound them, and were laid side by side on the gravel bank near the track, with no other pall than the few old newspapers furnished by the passengers.

The wounded were quickly gathered together, and carried by train and wagon to the Atlantic City hospital, where six of them died shortly after their arrival.

The old excursion house at the foot of Mississippi avenue was converted into a morgue, and thither the dead were taken. At a late hour last evening there were 29 bodies laid out there, none of whom are as yet identified.

This city is terribly excited over the accident, the city in the vicinity of the excursion house and the city hospital as well as the road leading to the scene of the accident being packed with people anxious to learn the latest.

The Bridgeton and Salem excursionists who escaped injury were brought back to this city, and sent home on a special train several hours later in the evening.

John W. Hoyt, secretary of the department of public safety, immediately upon learning of the extent of the catastrophe, telegraphed for the Philadelphia Medical Emergency Corps, 15 of whom responded, and hurried to this city on a special train, which left Philadelphia at 10:45 p. m.

These surgeons materially aided the volunteer corps of this city, which embraced almost every physician at present within its confines. Many of the injured were taken to hotels, as the city hospitals soon became overcrowded.

About 30 of the wounded had their injuries dressed, and were able to proceed on their way

It is expected that fully a dozen of those now lying at the Inn hospital will not survive their injuries.

Mrs. Edward Farr, the wife of the Reading engineer who met death while performing his duty, and was found with one hand on the throttle and the other on the brake, when informed of the accident and her husband's tragic death, was unable to withstand the shock, and fell to the floor dead.

The relief train was in charge of railroad officials and Prosecutor Perry of Atlantic county. It drew up in the darkness a few feet this side of the fatal point. Staggering in and out of ditches and stumbling over masses of broken timber, with only a few fitful lanterns to help their straining eyes, the rescue gang set bravely to work. Axes and shovels were plied with vigor, and almost at every half dozen strokes, a mangled form was brought up and laid tenderly on the waiting pallets. It was a sickening task, and the strongest of men turned aside, faint from a revelation of the work of the spades. A heap of blood-stained timbers, turned aside by one of the rescuers, brought to sight a woman's arm. It had been wrenched off almost by the roots, and nothing remained but a dripping stump, even the hand being gone. It had been clad in a dainty, white linen glove, the sleeve of which still clung to it. Not five minutes later, a chance blow from a pick revealed a still more ghastly remnant, a human heart, that only a few short hours before had been throbbing with life.

WON'T WITHDRAW.

Candidate Sewall Says He Is In the Great Race to Stay.

Bath, Me., July 31.—Arthur Sewall sat on the veranda of his residence, regaling himself with a smoke from a new clay pipe, when a newspaper correspondent approached him and put the old question:

"Is there any truth in the newspaper reports that you are to withdraw from the ticket, Mr. Sewall?"

"I have no knowledge of any such intention," was the emphatic reply.

"But if you will look at this report you will see that a member of the Populist committee states that there is to be but one vice presidential candidate to run with Bryan, and it is intimated that you will withdraw."

"I have no knowledge of what any of these committeemen may think," was the response. "Doubtless they are all working for the triumph of the great cause which we all have in view, however."

"Do you think Mr. Watson will be the one to withdraw?"

"I have no idea of what Mr. Watson's plans may be. He was nominated by his party, and the reports indicate that he is to serve as their candidate. Mr. Watson is a very earnest man."

"But if neither of you withdraw, there will be a rather complicated state of affairs, particularly in the south, will there not?"

"Not necessarily."

"Do you think a union can be made on electors?"

"I can't say what may be done."

"If there cannot be, will you withdraw?"

"I think I have answered that question sufficiently. I was nominated by the Democratic party, of which I have always been a member, and that party has not reconsidered its action. I have since been endorsed by the Silver party. Under these circumstances, I have no right to think of withdrawing. This is a campaign of principles, a campaign of the common people against the oppressive financial policy of this country, which is strangling prosperity. It is a campaign which I have long wished to see made in a cause which I have advocated many years, and I shall not shrink from the trial. And the people are studying the question for themselves. This means that we shall win."

Vermont's Democratic Bolters.

Brattleboro, Vt., July 31.—As the outcome of a plan formulated by the committee on conference after the Chicago convention, W. H. Creamer of Bethel, representing the committeee in Vermont, last night issued the following call: "The Democrats of Vermont, who are in favor of the financial principles of the state platform of the party, as lately adopted, and opposed to those adopted at the late Chicago convention, are urgently requested to meet at Montpelier, on Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 11 o'clock a. m., to take action on the recommendations of the national sound money Democratic conference, asking for the appointment of a provisional national committeeman, with the view to the nomination of sound money Democrats for the offices of President and vice president of the United States. Do not fail to attend, as your presence will be of great moral support to the cause. Arrangements will be made for the usual half fare on all roads."

Silver Party's Plans.

Washington, July 31.—It is said at the headquarters of the national committee of the Silver party that Chairman Lane is in New York raising funds for the vigorous prosecution of the campaign, and that on his return, the national committee of the Silver party will undertake a work which will be peculiarly its own. It will endeavor to bring Republican silver men into the fight for Bryan and Sewall. One member of the party says that of the 634 delegates at the St. Louis Silver convention, 534 were Republicans, and the remainder Democrats and Populists. It is understood that much of the work of the committee will be devoted to organization of the silver forces, in the way of clubs, etc., but that the circulation of silver literature also will be given proper attention.

Sugar Planters' Sentiment.

New Orleans, July 31.—The sugar planters' wing of the Republican party held its convention yesterday at the St. Charles theater. The request of the regular, or black wing of the party for a conference was completely ignored, no attempt at harmony was made, and the convention simply declared itself as the Republican party of the state, for protection, sound money, McKinley and Hobart and fair elections. It was a large and representative gathering, numbering 700 white delegates from all over the state, including many prominent men.

Plans Not Mapped Out.

Lincoln, Neb., July 31.—Owing to the fact that there was a meeting of the Democratic state committee last evening, the number of visitors at the Bryan home yesterday was unprecedentedly large. When asked yesterday regarding the date upon which he is likely to start upon his trip to New York, Mr. Bryan replied: "I cannot tell you, for I have not yet decided. I have not actually had time since learning the date of the meeting to map out my plans, but will do so and advise you at my very earliest convenience."

Nationals Preparing For Business.

Cleveland, July 31.—The executive national committee of the National party was in session here all day yesterday. Plans were laid for a vigorous campaign. The figure of a woman, wearing the cap of Liberty and holding aloft the scales of Justice, was adopted as the party's official emblem. A resolution was adopted, declaring strongly against a compromise with any other party or party faction.

Against Williams.

Boston, July 31.—It has now been developed that Thomas J. Gargan, a well-known lawyer and Democratic politician of this city, has been decided upon as candidate for Democratic nomination for governor by the gold wing of the party of this state, in opposition to the faction which supports George Fred Williams for the same place.

Extending the Olive Branch.

Raleigh, July 31.—The Democratic executive committee, after a protracted session, passed, at 2 o'clock in the morning, a resolution offering the Populists a fair division of the electors on the Bryan electoral ticket.

WOMEN WANT TO KNOW.

To Whom Can They Tell Their Troubles?

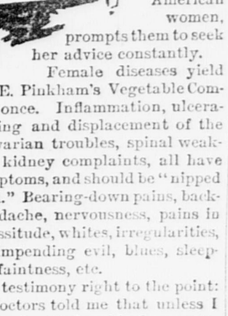
A Woman Answers "To Me"—Anxious Inquirers Intelligently Answered—Thousands of Grateful Letters.

Women regard it as a blessing that they can talk to a woman who fully understands their every ailment, and thus avoid the examinations, experiments and theories of incompetent physicians, whose sex deprives them of knowing by experience. The endless confidence placed in Mrs. Pinkham by American women, prompts them to seek her advice constantly.

Female diseases yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. Inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian troubles, spinal weakness and kidney complaints, all have their symptoms, and should be "nipped in the bud." Bearing-down pains, backache, headache, nervousness, pains in groins, lassitude, whites, irregularities, dread of impending evil, blues, sleeplessness, faintness, etc.

Here is testimony right to the point:

"The doctors told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed, I could not live. I had falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb.



"I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk far or stand long at a time. I was surely a wreck. I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking."—MRS. ANNETTA BICKMEIER, Bellaire, Belmont Co., O.
